Oct. 5,	Letter from Alexander Skinner to General Grant: The St. Lawrence has arrived at St. Augustine; if she had been sooner on the station, one hundred barrels of the King's Powder, taken out of Lofthouse, by a Carolina Pirate, would have been saved,	329
3,	Letter from Captain Mulcaster to General Grant, giving a general view of the state of affairs at the South,	329
2,	Letter from C. Shirreff to General Robertson,	334
2,	Letter from Governour Tonym to Major Donkin,	334
4,	Letter from Spencer Man to General Grant: The political body in Florida is much diseased; the Governour has neither ability to point out, nor interest to procure, any good for the People,	335
4,	Letter from Alexander Ross to Captain Stanton: Captain Fordyce, with his Company and a Detachment, is on board a Vessel, to sail with the first fair wind for Virginia,	335
4,	Letter from John Moultrie to General Grant: St. Augustine is already too weak; no more Troops should be taken from it; it is now the best and only communication between Great Britain and our Red Brothers,	336
3,	Letter from Daniel Chamier, Jun., to Daniel Chamier,	337
4,	Letter from Colonel Stuart to Samuel Kemble,	340
Nov. 18,	Letter from Governour Chester to Governour Tryon: Has received Instructions from the King to afford protection to such of his Loyal Subjects as are compelled to fly from the Colonies in Rebellion, and wish for an asylum in West-Florida,	340
11,	Proclamation by the Governour of West-Florida, offering Lands to such as seek a retreat in that Province,	341
11,	Letter from Allan Cameron to Duncan Cameron: He has accepted a Commission under Lord Dunmore, and is to set out to-morrow morning for Detroit with Major Connolly,	342
14,	Letter from Captain Montagu to Admiral Graves,	343
14,	Letter from W. Griffin to George Giffarina: He is at Jamestown, surrounded by Rebels, and dare not move; a thousand Rebels are on their way for Norfolk, to punish the People there for declaring for Government; two Regiments would restore peace and good order to the Province,	343
17,	Letter from Neil Jamieson to Glassford, Gordon & Co.,	343
21,	Letter from Walter Hatton to Nathaniel Coffin: Those in arms against the Government know that the halter is round their necks, and, if taken, they are liable to be trussed up without delay; many have sworn allegiance to their lawful Sovereign in Norfolk, Portsmouth, Nansemond, &c.: they amount to upwards of three thousand,	346
24,	Letter from Lord Dunmore to Admiral Graves,	347
28,	Letter from Neil Jamieson to James Anderson,	347

	Return of a Detachment of his Majesty's Fourteenth Regiment at Norfolk, Virginia, in October, November, and December,	349
1,	Letter from Captain Fordyce to Captain Urquhart: Two thousand Men would settle everything in Virginia in the course of the Winter; we have had a little brush with the Rebels, who behaved in a most dastardly manner; a Corps of about seven hundred of them has been sent to take Norfolk, but they will not find it quite so easy as they expect,	350
2,	Letter from Captain Squire to Admiral Graves,	351
Dec. 19,	Letter from Dr. Franklin to M. Dumas: We have hitherto applied to no Foreign Power, but we wish to know if any one of them is disposed to step in for the relief of an oppressed People; or, if we break off all connection with Britain, and declare ourselves independent, is there any Power in Europe who will enter into an Alliance with us for the benefit of our commerce,	352

Dec. 19,	Letter from William Livingston to Lord Stirling,	354
19,	Letter from Lord Stirling to the President of Congress: The Order of Captain Parker, prohibiting Vessels from Foreign Countries entering New-York, in direct violation of the Act of Parliament, alarms the moderate, and vexes the Tories of New-York; if this circumstance be well managed, it will turn out very fortunate,	354
19,	New-York Committee—Apply to the Provincial Congress for a Loan of one thousand Pounds, to defray necessary charges in defending our rights and privileges,	355
	Mr. Mercer ordered to produce a Certificate from the Congress of New-Jersey, authorizing him to export Provisions,	356

DOCUMENTARY HISTORY, &c.

CORRESPONDENCE, MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS, PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEES, &c.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Monday, September 11, 1775.

Upon request of Moses Baker and others, in behalf of the Town of Newmarket, agreed to suspend the making out of a Commission for Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Militia in this Colony till the next meeting of Congress, that they may have opportunity to prefer a petition against the person's being commissioned who was by Congress chosen to that office.

Tuesday, September 12, 1775.

To the Committee of Supplies:

You are desired to pay all reasonable accounts of any Town or Parish in this Colony, for supplying the several Companies in Colonel Poor's Regiment with provisions for their march from their respective homes, to join the Army.

By order of the Committee:

M. THORNTON, Chairman.

Ordered the Receiver-General to pay the Committee of Supplies two hundred Pounds, to be by them accounted for.

Agreed, That William Whipple, Esquire, and General Folsom, should wait on General Washington, to inquire of him concerning the Coats promised the Troops, &c.

Saturday, September 16, 1775.

Received a Message from General Washington, requiring the payment of certain wages to those New-Hampshire Troops bound to Canada, under Colonel Arnold.

Appointed Deacon Brooks to pay said Troops.

Wednesday, September 27, 1775.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay William Whipple, Esquire, one hundred and forty-two Pounds six Shillings, lawful money, to pay Captain Salter's Company one month's wages.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Daniel Fowle, Esquire, thirty-six Pounds four Shillings, the balance of his Account, this day examined and adjusted.

George King, Esquire, appointed to pay Salter's Company their first month's wages.

Wrote Colonels Reed, Poor, and Stark, to order their several Captains to take and send Rolls of their respective Companies, from the time of their enlistment to the 4th of August.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, September 27, 1775.

Captain TYTUS SALTER:

You are hereby directed to take the command of the batteries on Pierce's and Sevey's Islands, and keep a constant guard at each, with your Company, taking care to exercise them in the handling and management of cannon, and such other exercises as you shall think necessary to make them capable of doing their duty at said fortifications. You are not to suffer any vessel to pass said fortifications, up the river, without a permit from the Committee of Safety of Portsmouth, except such vessels as you are satisfied are only on a fair trade. And if any armed vessel shall attempt to pass, without such permit, you are to prevent the same, by firing upon and destroying such vessel, if necessary; but in all such cases, where time will admit of taking the advice of the said Committee of Portsmouth, you are to do it, and not fire on any vessel that shall come into the harbour, without their advice and consent, if you have time to obtain the same.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Committee of Supplies three hundred Pounds, to be by them accounted for.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Committee of Supplies three thousand Pounds, to be by them accounted for.

Thursday, September 28, 1775.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Deacon Brooks three hundred and forty-eight Pounds seven Shillings, the amount of the wages paid the New-Hampshire Troops in Colonel Arnold's detachment, and expenses of paying them.

In Committee of Safety, September 28, 1775.

SIR: We desire you to proceed to the Army, and there pay each non-commissioned officer and soldier, of the troops raised by this Colony, twenty-four Shillings each, to be in full for the coats promised them, excepting such as entered on duty since the 4th of August. Also, pay each man, as aforesaid, twelve shillings, who has never received a blanket, and if found by himself, provided the Selectmen of his respective Town did not take an account thereof, which you are strictly to examine into. And to each person his loss, in clothing and soldiers' accoutrements, sustained at Charlestown battle, deducting out, to such as have received a coat, the value thereof; each person producing an account of his loss, and the value thereof, under oath that they have not overrated the same, which oath you are desired to administer. And where any soldier is absent on furlough, or his place supplied by another, that the money be paid the Captain, taking his receipt therefor.

M. THORNTON, Chairman.

Colonel Timothy Walker.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, September 28, 1775.

To the Committee appointed to build Batteries to command the passage in PISCATAQUA River.

GENTLEMEN: It is thought expedient to lay a boom across the river, from Pierce's to Sevey's Island, strong enough to hinder the passage of vessels, if possible. Therefore, you are desired to take such condemned masts as you can find, most proper for the occasion, and fit a boom for the aforesaid purpose, by securing them with iron, in such manner and place as you shall judge best to answer the purpose.

Received a long Letter from General Sullivan, and wrote him a long answer.

Deacon Brooks made a return of his paying off the detachment of New-Hampshire Troops under Colonel Arnold.

Tuesday, October 10, 1775.

Received a Letter from the Committee of Portsmouth, informing of the capture of the Ship Prince George, by a sub-Committee, with a copy of General Washington's Letter to said Committee, about the cargo of said Ship.

Ordered George King, Esquire, to take charge of the cargo of the Ship Prince George, and to deliver to Samuel Cutts, Esquire, one hundred barrels of Flour, at such times and in such quantities as he may need it, to supply the Soldiers at the Batteries in Piscataqua Harbour.

Received a Letter from General Sullivan, enclosing a Petition of the Field-Officers of New-Hampshire Troops at Winter-Hill, requesting that the General may be intrusted with blank Commissions, to fill up vacancies in the Regiments there.

Wrote General Sullivan an answer to his Letter and the said Petition.

Gave Captain Robert Parker orders to enlist a Company of Matrosses, consisting of forty-four men, inclusive of himself, one Lieutenant, and two Sergeants, to guard and defend the Battery on Sevey's Island, for the term of one month, unless it should appear to the Congress, or this Committee, expedient to dismiss them sooner, and engaged them the same pay, for the time they shall be in the service, as Captain Salter's Company are to have; and that he enlist no man but is well accoutred.

Received a Letter from General Sullivan, in answer to ours of 25th ultimo.

Wednesday, October 11, 1775.

Wrote to General Washington, relative to the above-mentioned Ship and Cargo.

Thursday, October 12, 1775.

Wrote to Messrs. Bartlett and Langdon, at the Continental Congress.

Appointed Jonathan Perkins special Express, to carry the above Letters to Timothy Walker, Esquire, at Winter-Hill.

Desired Deacon Brooks, one of the Committee of Supplies, to advance Perkins four Dollars, for his expenses.

This Committee, taking into consideration the necessity of the Regiments of Minute-Men being as speedily raised as possible, having reviewed the votes of Congress relative thereto, and found a vote for the soldiers that enlist in the Minute service to "continue till further orders of the Congress," which vote must have been a mistake of the scribe, or passed over by the Congress, through the hurry and multiplicity of the business they were engaged in when that passed, as it is very evident the design of Congress was to follow the directions of the Continental Congress: Therefore, it is now resolved by this Committee, that the said Minute-Men be enlisted for the term of four months; and that, at the end of said four months, the Officers proceed to enlist their Companies again, in the same manner as at first. And it is earnestly recommended to the persons who shall be appointed to enlist Minute-Men, to use their utmost endeavours to fill up the Companies as soon as possible; and to the Soldiers, at this important crisis, when our all is at stake, to engage in the service; and, as they will be relieved in four months, the duty will be nearly equal among all the Militia. And the following form is to be used for enlistment:

"We, the subscribers, do hereby severally enlist ourselves as Minute-Men, for the term of four months, in the Company under the command of , in the Regiment of Minute-Men, in the Colony of New-Hampshire. And we hereby promise to submit ourselves to the orders and regulations of said Minute-Men, and faithfully to observe and obey such orders as we shall receive, from time to time, from our officers."

Monday, October 16, 1775.

Received a Letter from General Washington, and another from Colonel Timothy Walker, in answer to ours of the 11th instant, by Perkins, the Express; and a Letter of the General to Stephen Moylan, Esquire, at Portsmouth, which was forwarded by Mr. Morrison.

Received a Letter from Colonel Thornton, and answered by the same messenger who brought his.

Tuesday, October 17, 1775.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Committee of Supplies three hundred Pounds, to be by them accounted for.

Ordered Receiver-General to pay Captain Josiah Moulton thirty Pounds, to be by him accounted for.

Wrote to the Committee at Portsmouth, concerning a Vessel addressed to Joshua Wentworth, Esquire, from Antigua, and about the inhabitants of the Isle of Shoals being supplied with the necessaries of life.

Wednesday, October 18, 1775.

Wrote General Washington, in answer to his Letter of the 15th instant.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, October 18, 1775.

SIR: You are desired to sell, at twenty shillings per hundred weight, a quantity of the flour lately put under your care, not exceeding three hundred barrels, to such persons as appear as purchasers, taking care that no person monopolize a large quantity, and, out of the money arising from the sale, pay the seamen of Ship Prince George, Richard Emms, master, the wages that shall appear due to them, agreeable to their original contract, and keep in your custody the remainder of the money, until called for by this Committee, or the Congress of this Colony.

By order of the Committee.

To George King, Esquire.

In Committee of Safety, Exeter, October 13, 1775.

To the several Captains and other Officers of the Militia, in the Regiment in this Colony:

You are desired to notify and call together your several Companies, at such times and places as you, together with , may agree; and you are earnestly desired to use your utmost endeavours to forward the inlisting the complement of Minute-Men, out of your respective Companies. And the Selectmen and Committee of Safety in the several Towns are requested to forward the meeting of the several Companies, and inlisting and drafting the Minute-Men.

Colonel Thornton having represented to this Committee that he had been requested to attend a Conference of sundry members from the Continental Congress and sundry gentlemen from the other New-England Colonies, and that the circumstances of his family were such as he feared would prevent his attendance, and, therefore, desired some persons from this Committee should be appointed to attend the same: Therefore,

Agreed, That Colonel Weare and General Folsom be desired to repair immediately to Cambridge, to attend the said Conference in behalf of this Colony.

Monday, October 23, 1775.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Tuesday, October 31, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

Voted, That Colonel William Whipple, Colonel Timothy Walker, the Rev. Mr. Fletcher, Mr. James McGregor, and John Dudley, Esquire, be a Committee to consider what sum of money will be sufficient to be emitted at this time, to answer the demands on this Colony, and a scheme for the emission thereof, and make a report thereof as soon as may be.

Wednesday, November 1, 1775.

The above Committee made report as follows, viz:

Pursuant to the vote yesterday, we have considered what money will be necessary for the present exigencies of the Colony, and are of opinion that the Receiver-General should issue notes for Twenty Thousand Pounds, lawful money; four thousand Pounds of which to be redeemed on the 20th of December, 1779, six thousand on the 20th of December, 1780, six thousand on the 20th of December, 1781, and four thousand on the 20th of December, 1782; and that eighteen thousand Pounds of the said sum be in notes of the following denominations, viz: forty Shillings, thirty Shillings, fifteen Shillings, ten Shillings, and five Shillounds; and that two thousand Pounds, of the said sum of Twenty Thousand Pounds, be of the following denominations, viz: three Shillings, two Shillings and six Pence, one Shilling and nine Pence, one Shilling and six Pence, nine Pence, and six Pence.

Which Report was received, and voted to be a Resolve of this Congress.

Voted, That Colonel Weare and Captain Josiah Moulton be a Committee, under oath, to get the aforesaid sum of money (according to said scheme) printed, and to deliver the same to the Treasurer, and take his receipt therefor.

Voted, That Samuel Hobart, Esquire, be appointed to sign said Notes with the Treasurer.

Voted, That the said Notes, at the several periods fixed for payment of the same, be paid by a tax on the polls and estates in this Colony, and, when paid into the Treasury, to be burnt to ashes, in presence of the Representatives of the people of this Colony, or a Committee appointed by them.

Thursday, November 2, 1775.

Voted, That the men raised as Minute-Men in this Colony be enlisted for four months only, then to be dismissed, if they desire it, and the same Officers to proceed to inlist anew, as at first.

Upon the representation of John Quigley, Esquire, to this Congress, that he was afraid of being hurt in his person or estate by some people in the County of Hillsborough, under pretence of his being an enemy to his country, and, after some inquiry into the affair, it is resolved by this Congress, that it be recommended to the Committees of Safety in the said County to do their endeavour to protect said Quigley from damage, in any respect, for any past supposed bad disposition towards his country; and the good people in said County are desired not to disturb or molest him on said account, but suffer him in quiet to enjoy his estate and freedom, as other inhabitants of said County.

Upon reading the Petition of a number of the Soldiers in the East Parish of Kingston, relative to the appointment of their Officers in the Militia, Voted, That Colonel Gale and the Petitioners be heard thereon on Monday next, P. M., if the Congress be then sitting, and, if not, on the first day of their sitting afterwards.

A Letter from the Hon. George Jaffrey, Esquire, late Treasurer of this Colony, in answer to a vote and order of this Congress, being read and considered, Voted, That the said Letter is not satisfactory to this Congress, and that a message be immediately sent to the said George Jaffrey, Esquire, from this Congress, requiring him to attend this Congress forthwith, with his Accounts, in order for settlement, otherwise the Congress will take further notice of his contempt; and that the Rev. Mr. Fletcher be the messenger to wait on him for that purpose.

Voted, That George Jaffrey, Esquire, have time till Tuesday next, forenoon, to bring his Treasurer's Accounts to this Congress for settlement.

Voted, That Lieutenant-Colonel John Hale be Colonel of the Regiment lately commanded by Colonel Lutwyche; Robert Reid, Esquire, Lieutenant-Colonel; Samuel Greely, First Major; and William McQuesten, Second Major.

Voted, That Enoch Hale, Esquire, be Colonel of the Regiment lately commanded by Colonel Kidder; Thomas Hale, Lieutenant-Colonel; Captain Robert Wilson, First Major; and Asa Brigham, Second Major.

Voted, That the Sloop in Mr. Joshua Wentworth's care, which lately arrived at Portsmouth, be not permitted to depart out of the Port of Piscataqua, until further orders of the Congress.

Friday, November 3, 1775.

Voted, That the Hon. Matthew Thornton, Esquire, the Hon. Meshech Weare, Esquire, Ebenezer Thompson, Esquire, Mr. Nathaniel Rogers, John Dudley, Wyseman Cloggett, and Benjamin Giles, Esquires, be a Committee to bring in a draft of a Petition from this Congress to the Continental Congress, setting forth the state of this Colony, and praying their direction for some speedy mode of Government and execution of justice in this Colony, and that the Committee lay the said draft before this Congress as soon as may be.

Voted, That the Regiment lately commanded by the Hon. Matthew Thornton, Esquire, be divided into two Regiments, and that the bounds between the two old Towns of Londonderry and Chester be the bounds between said Regiments.

Upon hearing the Petition of Sarah Lutwyche, concerning her Ferry being taken from her by the Committees of Merrimack and Litchfield, and hearing Mr. Jonathan Blanchard, in behalf of said Committees,

Resolved, That the said Ferry ought to be immediately given up to the said Petitioner, and that the person who has improved the same, under the direction of the aforesaid Committees, account to the Petitioner for the profits that have arose since he has held it by order of said Committees.

Saturday, November 4, 1775.

Voted, That the Delegates or Representatives to be chosen to represent this Colony in future shall be chosen by the voices, or votes, of the Electors, and not by the value of their estates.

That every Elector for Representatives in this Colony be possessed of a freehold, or real estate, of the value of twenty Pounds, lawful money, in such Town or place where the election shall be.

That every person, so elected, shall be worth three hundred Pounds, lawful money, in real estate in this Colony; the election to be adjudged of by the Selectmen and the Moderator of the meeting, saving an appeal to the Congress or House of Representatives.

That every Town, Parish, or Precinct, in this Colony, containing one hundred freeholders as aforesaid, may send one Delegate or Representative to the Congress or General Assembly, and that every such Town, Parish, or Precinct, having a greater number of freeholders, may send a Member for every hundred such freeholders.

That Precepts be sent to every Town, Parish, or Precinct, in this Colony, directing them to elect a Member, and send to the Congress to be holden at Exeter, in said Colony, on the — day of — next, if such Town, Parish, or Precinct, contain an hundred such freeholders; and if not, then to couple with one or more other Towns or Parishes, until they make up that number of such freeholders.

Tuesday, November 7, 1775.

Upon the Petition of a number of the training Soldiers in East-Kingston, against Lieutenant-Colonel Gale, for unfair proceedings in the election of Officers in that Company, Voted, That Nathaniel Balch, David Laurence, Esq., Deacon Knowles, Samuel Dudley, Esq., Abel Webster, Captain Caleb Page, Mr. John Cragin, Deacon Benjamin Brown, and Samuel Chase, Esq., be a Committee to examine into the subject-matter of said Petition, and to hear the said Gale and the Petitioners thereon, and make report to this Congress as soon as may be.

Voted, That the Port of Piscataqua, and Fortresses lately built for the defence of it, be supported and maintained by this Colony. That two hundred men be inlisted and employed as Matrosses or Artillery-Men, including those already inlisted and employed for the support and defence of the said Fortresses, for the term or space of two months, unless they, or any number of them, should be discharged sooner, by order of the Congress or Committee of Safety for this Colony.

Voted, That three hundred men, Officers included, be inlisted and employed as Soldiers for the support and defence of said Fortresses, and other posts and passes in and about Piscataqua Harbour, for the term or space of two months, unless they, or any number of them, should be discharged sooner, by order of the Congress or Committee of Safety of this Colony.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety be and hereby are empowered and directed to receive, allow, and pay such Accounts as shall be laid before them, for doctoring, nursing, and boarding sick and wounded Soldiers, in the service of this Colony, as they shall judge to be reasonable and well vouched.

Voted, That the Selectmen of the several Towns, Parishes, and Precincts, in this Colony, who have supplied any of the Soldiers, inlisted in the service of this Colony, with Guns, immediately render their Accounts to the Committee of Safety, particularly distinguishing those which the Soldiers are to allow the value of, from those which are to be returned, and six Shillings allowed for the use of them; also, the names of each person who received said Guns, and what Company each belonged to.

Voted, That the Soldiers in the service of this Colony, in the Continental Army, be allowed nine Pence per day for billeting, from the time of their marching until they arrived at Head-Quarters.

Voted, That each non-Commissioned Officer and Soldier, in the Corps commanded by Colonel Bedel, in the Continental Army commanded by General Schuyler, be paid twenty-four Shillings, in lieu of a Coat promised him.

Voted, That Nicholas Gilman, Esq., Captain Nathaniel Rogers, and Benjamin Giles, Esq., be a Committee to examine and audit the Accounts of the Committee of Supplies, and make report thereon as soon as may be; and also to audit and examine the Accounts of the Committee appointed to procure Fire-Arms, and report thereon as soon as may be.

Voted, That it be recommended to the several Taverners and Retailers in this Colony, to render an account, on oath, if required, (which oath any Selectman is empowered to administer,) of all Liquors sold by them, respectively, for which excise has been usually paid, to the Selectmen of their respective Towns, Parishes, or Precincts, from the first Tuesday in November, 1774, to the first Tuesday in November, 1775, and pay said Selectmen said excise, at the same rate as for several years last past has been paid in this Colony; and the several Selectmen are desired to be careful in collecting and returning the same to the Receiver-General of this Colony, and the Receiver-General is directed to allow said Selectmen five per cent. out of said money, as a reward for their service. And all Selectmen are desired, if any person, or persons, whom they know to have sold Spirituous Liquors refuses to pay his, her, or their excise as aforesaid, to return his, her, or their name, or names, to the Receiver-General.

Voted, That one hundred and sixty Handbills, to contain the above Vote, be forthwith printed and dispersed to the several Towns, Parishes, and Precincts, in this Colony.

Voted, That every Deserter from any Corps, in the Forces raised by this Colony for the Continental Army, be apprehended by the Committees of the respective places where they may be found, and conveyed by them to Headquarters, at Cambridge, as soon as may be.

Wednesday, November 8, 1775.

Voted, That Colonel Wingate, Lieut. Colonel Burnham, and Major Hackett, have the command of the five hundred men raised for the preservation and defence of the Fortresses on Piscataqua River, and that they nominate four Captains to command four Companies to be raised, provided the men be enlisted immediately in consequence of their said nomination; and that Major Weeks be appointed to communicate the votes of this Congress to the said Officers, and make return to this Congress as soon as may be.

Voted, That Captain Pierce Long be appointed Barrackmaster to the Forces raised for the preservation and defence of the Harbour of Piscataqua, and the Fortresses thereon, and that Major George Gains be appointed Quartermaster to the said Forces.

Voted, That the Committee for procuring Fire-Arms lay their Accounts before this Congress, for allowance.

Voted, That Mr. President Thornton, Mr. Secretary

Thompson, Colonel Samuel Hobart, John Dudley, Esq., Colonel Whipple, Benjamin Giles, Esq., General Folsom, Mr. Cragin, Colonel Walker, Mr. Prentice, Colonel David Gilman, Colonel Morey, Deacon Knowles, and Ebenezer Smith, Esq., be a Committee to prepare a plan for Representation of the people of this Colony in future, and lay it before the Congress.

Thursday, November 14, 1775.

Voted, That the Votes of yesterday, respecting the Wages and Pay of the Committee of Supplies and the Committee of Safety, be reconsidered, and made void.

Voted, That Dr. Hall Jackson be paid, out of the public Treasury of this Colony, in full for his good services to this Colony, from the 19th day of June last to the 4th of August last, the sum of fifteen Pounds per month, and that he receive a Commission from this Congress as Chief Surgeon of the New-Hampshire Troops in the Continental Army.

Voted, That a Committee of this House, viz: John Dudley, Esq., Benjamin Giles, Esq., Ichabod Rawlins, Esq., Captain Moulton, and Mr. Sparhawk, be appointed to take under consideration the behaviour of Samuel Dyer, a person complained of as an enemy to this country, and make report thereon to this Congress to-morrow morning.

Voted, To appoint Officers for the Artillery Company at Portsmouth, and that Captain George Turner be Captain of said Company.

Voted, That Captain Shadrach Hodgdon's Account, for Stakes for the Batteries, &c., amounting to four Pounds, be allowed and paid by the Committee of Supplies.

Voted, That Captain Ephraim Weston's Account, for services done for this Colony, in the year 1773, amounting to thirty-three Shillings, be allowed and paid out of the public Treasury.

The Committee appointed to report a method for Representation, beg leave to lay the following plan before the Congress, viz:

That every legal inhabitant, paying taxes, shall be a voter.

That every person elected shall have a real estate, in this Colony, of the value of two hundred Pounds, lawful money.

That no person be allowed a seat in Congress who shall, by themselves or any person at their desire, treat with liquors, &c., any electors, with an apparent view of gaining their votes, or by treating after an election on that account.

That the Towns, Parishes, and places in this Colony, be represented as follows, viz:

Portsmouth, 3; Hampton, 1; Northampton, 1; Exeter, 2; Londonderry, 2; Newcastle, 1; Rye, 1; Kingston* and East-Kingston, 1; Sandown* and Hawke, 1; Greenland, 1; Newington, 1; Stratham, 1; Newmarket, 1; Southampton* and Newtown, 1; Kensington, 1; Plastow* and Atkinson, 1; Hampstead, 1; Salem, 1; Pelham, 1; Chester, 2; Candia, 1; Raymond* and Poplin, 1; Brentwood, 1; Hampton Falls* and Seabrook, 1; Nottingham, 1; Deerfield* and Northwood, 1; Canterbury* and London, 1; Chichester*, Epsom and Allenstown, 1; Pembroke, 1; Wyndham, 1; Bow* and Dumbarton, 1; Concord, 1; Epping, 1—in Rockingham, 38.

That precepts, signed by the President of this Congress, be sent to the Selectmen of each Town named in this list, singly to be represented, to elect and choose a person to represent them in Congress, to meet at Exeter on the 21st day of December next; also, to the Town or Parish marked with this mark (*), where Towns or Parishes are classed together, to notify the several Towns or Parishes, in their respective classes, to meet at the most convenient place in their Town or Parish, to accommodate the whole electors, to choose some person qualified to represent them as aforesaid; and all Selectmen are directed to give the electors fifteen days' notice of the time and occasion of meeting; said members, when met, to sit in Congress as often and so long as they shall judge requisite for acting on the publick business of this Colony, and to be empowered by their constituents to prosecute such measures as they may deem necessary for the publick good, during the term of one year from their first meeting, unless they shall see fit to dissolve themselves sooner.

And in case there should be a recommendation from the Continental Congress for this Colony to assume Government in any way that will require a House of Representatives, that then said Congress for this Colony be empowered to resolve themselves into such a House as may be recommended, and remain such for the aforesaid term of one year.

And it is further recommended, that each Town or Parish, who sends a member to said Congress, pay him for his attendance; and where Towns or Parishes are classed together, in their choice, that they pay their member in the same proportion as they pay Province taxes; all the pay for their travel to be paid out of the Colony Treasury.

Which plan of future representation being read, understood, and considered in Congress, Voted, That the same be accepted, and made a Resolve of this Congress, and entered accordingly.

Wednesday, November 15, 1775.

The President being absent,

Voted, That the Hon. Meshech Weare, Esq., be President pro tempore of this Congress.

Voted, That the Thanks of this Congress be presented to the Hon. Matthew Thornton, Esq., for his faithful and able conduct as President of this Congress.

Voted, That Colonel David Gilman's Account, amounting to twenty-seven Shillings, for services done by order of Congress, be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury.

Voted, That the Rev. Mr. Woodbridge Odlin be paid out of the publick Treasury fifty Shillings, lawful money, for his good services in attending and praying with this Congress.

Voted, That the Carpenters employed by Captain Worthen, in conjunction with the Committee of Portsmouth, be paid wages according to their agreement.

Voted, That the Hon. Matthew Thornton, Esq., be paid out of the publick Treasury six Pounds, lawful money, for his time and trouble in going to Cambridge, and attending the Grand Council there.

Voted and Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Congress, that Samuel Dyer ought to confine himself to his present place of abode in Berwick, and that it will not be prudent for him to be allowed to pass and repass in this Colony at present.

Voted, To add two persons to the Committee for auditing the Accounts of the Committee for procuring Fire-Arms, and that David Gilman and John McClary, Esq's, be of that Committee, and that said Committee make a final settlement of said Accounts.

Voted, That a Committee of three persons be chosen, to carry into execution the Resolve of the honourable Continental Congress at Philadelphia, of Thursday, the 26th of October last, respecting exporting to the foreign West-Indies, Provisions, &c., for the purpose of importing Arms, Ammunition, Sulphur, and Saltpetre; and that Captain Pierce Long, Samuel Cutts, and Samuel Sherburne, Esquires, be the Committee for that purpose; and that a sum not exceeding two thousand Pounds be employed (for cargo) for the said purposes, at the proper risk of this Colony; and that the said Committee have leave to send, if they think expedient, to any foreign port for the said commodities.

Voted, That Colonel Evans, Mr. Sherburne, and Mr. Cutts, be a Committee to wait on General Sullivan, now in Town, and inform him that at his request this Congress is ready to hear him.

Voted, That a Vote of this Congress, of the 10th of June last, respecting Town Officers, be forthwith printed in handbills, and distributed to the several Towns and places in this Colony.

The subject matter of the Petition of Mark Duty being heard and considered by a Committee of this House, viz: Benjamin Brown, Joseph Bartlett, Abraham Page, Zachariah Clough, and David Lawrence, the said Committee made report, that the Cow in question be restored to the Petitioner, and the Committee of Safety of Wyndham had no power to try the case, and therefore it ought to stand dismissed, and no cost be paid on either side.

Which Report being read and considered,

Voted, That the same be accepted, and passed into a Resolve of this House.

The Committee of this House, viz: Nathaniel Balch, David Lawrence, Samuel Dudley, Esq., Abel Webster, James Knowles, Benjamin Brown, John Cragin, Samuel Chase, Esq., and Captain Caleb Page, being appointed to examine into the subject matter of the complaint of a number of the training Soldiers in East-Kingston, against Lieutenant-Colonel Gale, for undue measures taken in the appointment of the Officers in the Militia there, having heard the said parties, report thereon: That the proceedings of Colonel Gale, with respect to the warning, and his proceedings in the choice of their Officers in that Company, were illegal, and not agreeable to the Resolves of the Congress in that respect, and that the said Company ought to have the benefit of a new choice of Officers.

Which Report being read and considered,

Voted, That the same be accepted, and pass into a Resolve of this House.

Voted, That the Thanks of this House be given to his Excellency General Washington, for his early care and notice taken of this Colony, in sending General Sullivan and other assistance to us, when we were in great fear and distress.

Voted, That the Thanks of this House be given to the Hon. General Sullivan, for his great care and pains in assisting us to defend our Harbour and Fortresses, when we were in great fear and distress.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety, or of Correspondence, in each Town or Parish in this Colony, be desired to transmit to the Congress, or to the Committee of Safety for this Colony, the names and places of abode of all such persons as they suspect to be in any ways inimical to this country, with the causes and evidence of such suspicions, and that this vote be printed in handbills, and dispersed through this Colony.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety, appointed by this Congress, be and remain a Committee of Safety for this Colony; and that they, or the major part of them, act in the same manner and with the same authority as heretofore, until the sitting of the next Congress or General Assembly of this Colony.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety attend General Sullivan at Portsmouth, on Tuesday next, to take under their consideration such matters and things as he shall lay before them.

Thursday, November 16, 1775.

Voted, That the Officers and Soldiers in the service of this Colony, in the Continental Army, be paid off up to the 4th day of August last, and Colonel Samuel Hobart and Colonel Timothy Walker be Paymasters for that purpose.

Whereas sundry persons, hereafter named, have, at the motion of General Sullivan, by virtue of orders from his Excellency General Washington, in consequence of the Resolves of the honourable the Continental Congress, been called before a Committee of this Congress, on suspicion of their being inimical to this country and the cause of liberty now contending for; which Committee having made report thereon to this Congress, it is thereupon voted and resolved by this Congress—

1st. That John Parker, Esq., is a friend to this country, and is accordingly set at full liberty.

2d. That Isaac Rindge, Esq., remove himself to some place at least fifteen miles from Portsmouth, and from the sea, and not on any occasion leave the Town or Parish he shall remove to, without leave of the Congress or Committee of Safety.

3d. That Captain William Torrey remain at Newmarket, and not on any occasion leave the said Town or Parish, without leave from the Congress or Committee of Safety.

4th. That Mr. William Hart remove himself fifteen miles from Portsmouth, and from the sea, and not on any occasion leave the Town or Parish he shall remove to, without leave of the Congress or Committee of Safety.

5th. That Captain Nathaniel Rogers confine himself to his own house and farm in Newmarket, or, if he shall choose it, to remove himself twenty miles from Portsmouth, and from the sea, and not on any occasion leave the Town or Parish he shall remove to, without leave of the Congress or Committee of Safety.

6th. That George Jaffrey, Esq., remove himself ten miles at least from Portsmouth, and not on any occasion leave the Town or Parish he shall remove to, without leave of the Congress or Committee of Safety.

7th. That Peter Gilman, Esq., confine himself to the Town of Exeter, and not on any occasion leave the said Town, without leave of the Congress or Committee of Safety.

8th. That Mr. Jacob Sheafe, Jun., be desired to withdraw his Memorial against Edward Sherburne, and that said Sheafe be dismissed.

9th. That those persons, above named, who are enjoined to remove from Portsmouth, have twenty days allowed them to remove.

Voted, That Colonel Samuel Hobart be paid out of the publick Treasury ten Pounds, for twenty-seven days' service in going to Cambridge, and mustering and paying off the Soldiers there, and returning the Muster-Rolls.

Voted, That Major Joseph Welch be paid out of the publick Treasury eight Pounds, for his service in attending Colonel Hobart on the abovesaid services; and also twenty Shillings for his services in going to Portsmouth.

Voted, That Mr. Nathaniel Rogers be paid out of the Treasury twenty Shillings, for his services in settling Accounts as a Committee-man.

Voted, That the Thanks of this House be given to Major Welch, for his care in raising Troops and forwarding them to Portsmouth.

Voted, That Ebenezer Tibbetts be Second Major of Colonel Evans's Regiment.

Voted, That the Commissions for the Majors of the First Regiment of Militia in this Colony be not given out until the next Congress or Convention.

Voted, That Colonel Evans be paid the balance of his Account, amounting to thirty-six Shillings, out of the publick Treasury.

Voted, That Joshua Wiggin be paid his Account as Doorkeeper and Messenger of this House, amounting to five Pounds and two Shillings, out of the publick Treasury.

Voted, That Colonel Samuel Hobart's Account, amounting to eleven Pounds, eighteen Shillings, be allowed and paid him out of the publick Treasury.

Voted, That Colonel Evans be allowed and paid out of the Treasury the balance of his Account for Fire-Arms, amounting to twenty-four Shillings and eight Pence half penny.

Voted, That Colonel Jeremiah Folsom be allowed and paid out of the Treasury the balance of his Account for Fire-Arms, amounting to three Pounds, seven Shillings, two Pence, and one Farthing.

Voted, That Mr. Edward Parsons be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury his Account, amounting to thirty-seven Shillings and six Pence.

Whereas it has been represented to this Congress that doubts have arisen in the minds of some persons respecting those who have been, in the usual and very reasonable method pointed out by the law of this Province, chosen to conduct the affairs of Towns, and, also, connected with it, whether Taxes granted by Towns, or by their representatives in Congress, should be collected and paid as usual, or in what manner Selectmen, Constables, &c., should proceed: The Congress, having taken the above into consideration, do recommend to all Towns, that with regard to all those who have been in the usual reasonable manner chosen into any offices in Towns, they should, as formerly, be considered as the proper officers; also, that Towns, Selectmen, Constables, and other officers, proceed in the usual manner in granting moneys, assessing the inhabitants, and collecting any assessments, and discharging any other matters belonging to them, or any of them, unless where some particular direction of this or the General Congress shall interfere.

We trust the good people of this Colony will readily comply with this recommendation, and particularly that they will cheerfully pay the Constables and Collectors; but if any, inimical to their country, or inattentive to the ruin which must ensue upon a contrary conduct, should refuse, we trust that all the friends of their country will effectually strengthen the hands of the Selectmen, Constables, and Collectors.

[Voted, That the Resolution of the Continental Congress, of November 3, on establishing Government in this Province, be entered on the Minutes.]

"In Congress, Friday, November 3, 1775.

"The Congress taking into consideration the Report of the Committee on the New-Hampshire Instructions,

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the Provincial Convention of New-Hampshire, to call a full and free representation of the people, and that the Representatives, if they think it necessary, establish such a form of Government as, in their judgment, will best produce the happiness of the people, and most effectually secure peace and good order in the Province during the continuance of the present dispute between Great Britain and the Colonies.

Voted, That this Congress be, and hereby is dissolved.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, November 1, 1775.

MUCH RESPECTED GENTLEMEN: I enclose you a letter from Head-Quarters, calling for my presence immediately. Mr. Palfrey tells me he doubts not I may return in two or three days, and, by what he has communicated, I am convinced that I must return in a very short time. I am well satisfied that my presence can by no means be dispensed with at Head-Quarters. I am sorry the call was so sudden as to prevent my seeing the works completed and the Army formed. That you may know how far I have proceeded, I have directed the orderly book to be transmitted to you, with a return of the men in the several departments. I also enclose you a return of the stores in each fort, with what is wanting to make a proper defence, that you may know the state of your forts. I shall leave the artillery officers and men here with the company of Riflemen till my return, which will be as sudden as possible.

Gentlemen, I am, with great esteem, your very humble servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Honourable Provincial Congress.

P. S. I also enclose the Barrackmaster's return.

COLONEL WINGATE TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Fort Sullivan, Sevey's Island, November 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I find it absolutely necessary that a person well acquainted with rivers and tides in the harbour be appointed to take the charge of the ships and fire-rafts; also, that a Surgeon be appointed constantly to reside and take care of the troops on Sevey's Island, in case of accidents, which we are constantly exposed to, independent of what might be feared from the attacks of an enemy. To the first department I have appointed Captain Robert Parke, of Portsmouth, and to the latter Dr. Samuel Wigglesworth, of Durham; in which I beg the acquiescence of the honourable Congress, and that they would be pleased to ratify the same.

JOSHUA WINGATE.

To the Honourable the Congress at Exeter.

FIELD-OFFICERS AT PORTSMOUTH TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, Portsmouth, November 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The works at the entrance of the Piscataqua harbour, which are thought absolutely necessary to defend the same, are so extensive and so exceedingly exposed, by being situated on islands so difficult to re-enforce, that eight hundred men, including the company of Artillery, the men necessary to take care and manage the shipping and fire-rafts, is fully short of what we dare undertake to defend the same with for the first month; after which time a much less number may be necessary, as the season of the year may be such as may render an attack less probable: any military gentlemen that will undertake to defend the post with a less number, to them we will resign our command with pleasure. In the mean time we will remain at our respective posts, with all the men we can persuade to tarry until superseded or re-enforced. We most heartily thank the honourable Congress for the very great honour they have done us in nominating us to the command, and, with a sufficient number of men to make ourselves worthy of the trust the Congress have proposed to honour us with, we should accept with gratitude.

JOSHUA WINGATE,
JONATHAN BURNAM,
JAMES HACKETT.

DOCTOR JACKSON TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, November 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: By order of General Sullivan, I raised a company of Artillery, consisting of forty-two men, officers included. Their particular duty was to take care and exercise the brass field ordnance, and in case of attack to move with said artillery from place to place, as they should be ordered. The term of their enlistment was fifteen days, which will be expired by the 15th instant. The pieces and utensils are of great value, and I have in my possession the following valuable and important stores, viz: sixty rounds of flannel cartridges, with canisters of lead shot—each canister contains forty-eight musket balls; forty rounds of paper cartridges; twenty-four single canisters charged, each four hundred and eighty-two balls; six dozen turned wooden wads; one dozen port-fires; twenty-four vent-tubes, charged with quick match and composition. Many of the stores I received, by a special request, from the laboratory at Cambridge, and are of too much importance to be left without proper persons to take care of them. I beg to know whether some few of the Company may not be retained in the service for the said purpose, and whether I shall keep the stores in my hands until further orders.

I am, with great respect, your humble servant,

HALL JACKSON.

P. S. Further stores: One dozen tubes uncharged; three dozen two and three-quarters iron round-shot; three port-fire stocks; three small bundles slow-fire match.

PORTSMOUTH COMMITTEE TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Committee-Hall, Portsmouth, November 13, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: On the representation of the Delegates for this town, representing the inhabitants in Congress, that a motion being made we should take under consideration a recompense for Dr. Hall Jackson's services as surgeon to the Army at Head-Quarters, do, in consequence thereof, beg leave to inform the Congress, that on the news arriving in this town of the battle at Charlestown, in June last, and being well informed that a gentleman of known abilities in surgery was much wanted, did immediately apply to Dr. Jackson, and entreated his setting off for the camp without delay, to assist any distressed officers or soldiers that might be unfortunately wounded. Whereupon, he expressed a readiness, and observed he would, at our request, proceed without delay, and trust to a future day for reward. We therefore take the liberty to represent, that Dr. Jackson set off the 19th June on the purpose aforesaid, and was continued in that service till the 17th October, excepting about three weeks. At different times he was in this town to visit his family, in which time he was constantly employed in constructing carriages and mounting sundry field-pieces. For which services this Committee, with deference to the honourable Congress, adjudge an allowance of fifteen pounds, lawful money, per month, for all services and expenses during the time aforesaid.

By order of the Committee:

H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

To the Honourable Congress for the Colony of New-Hampshire.

JOSIAH BARTLETT TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, November 13, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed I transmit to you the letter directed to the Speaker of our House of Assembly. I suppose it came from England, sent by the agents who presented the late petition of Congress. By it you will be able to guess what will be the fate of that petition.

I also send you a duplicate of the vote of Congress concerning our civil affairs. The first copy of the vote was sent November 6th. Yesterday Captain Langdon set off on his journey to Canada, so that I am left here alone to act in behalf of our Colony. I don't expect him here any more during this session of the Congress.

When the Congress will rise, can't say; but fear it can't till winter, if it can before spring. The affair of the ships taken at Portsmouth has not been considered by Congress, by reason of urgent business; but I expect soon that that and several other captures will be taken under consideration, and some general rules adopted. When any thing is determined on it, will inform you by the first opportunity.

I am directed by the Congress to send you the enclosed resolves for making saltpetre, and I would earnestly recommend the putting them in practice. It appears, from several experiments in this Colony, that the surface of the earth that has been for some years kept from the rain will produce saltpetre. The floor of a meeting-house being taken up, the earth under it produced one pound from every bushel; under barns, stables, &c., much more. There appears to be no more art in making it than in making potash. When the liquor is properly boiled, and put into pans to cool, it shoots and sticks to the bottom and sides very beautifully. The liquor may then be easily drained off, and either boiled over again or put on another mash. Though probably the Continent will be well supplied with powder in the spring, yet it is best by all means to put it out of the power of our enemies to defeat us of that necessary article, by supplying ourselves, and if we have a double or treble quantity it will be no damage, and in future save our cash from being sent abroad after it.

I am, Gentlemen, your humble servant,

JOSIAH BARTLETT.

The Committee of Safety, New-Hampshire.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

In Committee of Safety, November 18, 1775.

SIR: The very interesting and pleasing account of the surrender of the fort at St. John's is just arrived by express from Colonel Bedel; an event which we esteem highly favourable to the cause of American liberty, as well as honourable to the officers who directed the measures for obtaining that important post.

The troops from this Colony, commanded by Colonel Bedel, were, by advice of General Washington, offered to be joined to your Army, as a part of the number voted by the Continental Congress for that service. This Colony only paid them one month's wages before their march. Colonel Bedel informs us they are very much distressed for the want of clothing in this severe season. We have sent him three hundred pounds, out of an inadequate sum reserved to send beyond the seas to purchase ammunition, which is all we can advance, unless in paper bills, which we understand have no currency in Canada. We therefore desire you will advance, if in your power, out of the Continental chest, what is absolutely necessary for their future subsistence and comfort while in the service; and this Colony will be always ready, with respect to that and all other matters, to acquiesce in and obey the resolutions of the Continental Congress.

In behalf of the Committee, I am, with great esteem, yours, &c.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COL. BEDEL.

In Committee of Safety, November 18, 1775.

SIR: Last evening Mr. Grant arrived here with your letter of the 2d instant, containing the agreeable news of the surrender of St. John's, &c. We are very sensible that your men, without some assistance, must suffer from the cold, in so severe a climate, and are anxious to do every thing in our power for their relief. From the very circumstance of their being ordered to join General Schuyler's Army, we supposed they were to be considered as Continental troops, and therefore no provision has been made for them by the Congress of this Colony. You say paper money will not pass there; no other can be procured here on any terms. There is a small sum of silver and gold in our treasury, reserved for the purpose of procuring ammunition beyond sea, out of which we have put into the hands of Israel Morey, Esq., three hundred pounds, lawful money, to be by him transmitted for the benefit of the troops put under your command by the Congress of this Colony, as he shall judge most safe and convenient; which we hope they will lay out for such clothing as is most necessary for them, and that you will endeavour to prevent their expending it unnecessarily, more especially as it is all of the kind that they can possibly be supplied with from hence. We have wrote to Generals Schuyler and Montgomery on the subject of supplies and pay for your men, and desired them to assist you in every thing necessary to make your companies as comfortable as possible.

Hoping, ere this reaches you, comfortable habitations may be your lot, and that all your efforts for the good of the country may be crowned with happy success; that you may, in due time, safely return to your friends and families with the laurels of victory, and be well rewarded for your services and sufferings by your countrymen, is the desire of your most obedient servants.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, November 21, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Committee of Supplies, and others concerned in supplying and paying our troops, have not, as yet, been able to close their accounts in such a manner as that we could make out the Colony accounts against the Continent, but have proceeded so far as to be sure that supplying and paying our troops to the 4th of August, with what we advanced to those gone in Colonel Arnold's detachment, and those now in Canada under the command of General Schuyler, will amount to upwards of twenty thousand pounds, lawful money. To avoid the necessity of emitting more paper money for our own internal charges, we desire you would request the honourable Congress to make a grant of such a part of the aforesaid sum as they shall see fit, and our accounts shall be transmitted as soon as a settlement can be made with the persons who have transacted the business. The number of the inhabitants in the several towns in this Colony, directed by our Congress to be taken by the several and respective Selectmen, and returned under oath, has cheerfully been complied with, and we send you enclosed the list as returned, except those where only the columns of the sum total are filled up, which not being returned, we have set down by the best information we could obtain, and are confident we have done it very near the true number; however, shall forward those wanting whenever they come to hand, (which we daily expect,) so that the whole may be completed by the Selectmen's returns.

The towns which did not return their numbers were filled up in the list sent the Continental Congress, as follows:

Newcastle , - - -	530	Goffestown , - - -	520
Kensington , - - -	820	Salisbury , - - -	220

CAPTAIN THOMPSON TO PORTSMOUTH (NEW-HAMPSHIRE) COMMITTEE.

November 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I made a return to you some time ago of the fire-rafts which were then finished, and thought some one would be appointed to take care of them. I find no one has been appointed. I therefore repeat it is necessary proper persons should be appointed, as some of them were much damaged in the late storm. I have attended and put them in order again, and now return, fit for immediate use, twelve rafts; likewise return, unfit for service, two from Durham, two from Greenland. The people I employed were caulkers, whose wages are very high. I have therefore thought fit to discharge them. Now, as those rafts are thought things of some consequence, it is necessary to give them in charge of the proper officers, in order to clear the Committee and myself of any hurt that may come to them hereafter. A sentry ought to be placed over them, as evil minded persons might easily destroy them. I put a roof over one, but have been obliged to take it off again, as it overset the raft, and twisted it to pieces. I should recommend, if they are not used before winter, to provide a warehouse to unload them all, and house the wood, &c., and lay the rafts in some safe place, as I think it would be much preferable to roofing them. But if you intend they should be covered, it is necessary that it be immediately set about; of that you and the proper officers will judge. I hope the proceedings hereto will meet with your approbation, and I beg from hence the rafts will be considered entirely out of my charge.

I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

T. THOMPSON.

To the Committee of Safety for the Town of Portsmouth.

JOSIAH BARTLETT TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, November 27, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Being in great haste when I sealed my last letter to you, I inadvertently omitted the enclosed letter from the agents, nor was I sensible of the omission till I found it among my papers last Saturday. The enclosed resolves I am directed by Congress to transmit to you.

I should be very glad to be informed of all the circumstances of our publick affairs. I think that a particular knowledge of them would often be of very great advantage. But as I now hope I shall set out for New-Hampshire in a fortnight or three weeks, I expect I shall not be able to hear from you after you receive this till my return, unless, contrary to my present hopes, I shall be detained here for the winter.

I am, Gentlemen, your friend and humble servant,
 JOSIAH BARTLETT.
 To the Committee of Safety for New-Hampshire.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter-Hill, November 29, 1775.

DEAR SIR: General Washington has sent to New-Hampshire for thirty-one companies, to take possession of and defend our lines, in room of the Connecticut forces, who most scandalously refuse to tarry to the 1st of January. I must therefore entreat your utmost exertions to forward the raising these companies, lest the enemy should take advantage of their absence, and force our lines. As the Connecticut forces will, at all events, leave us on or before the 10th of next month, pray call upon every true friend to his country to assist with heart and hand in raising and sending forward those companies as soon as possible.

Gentlemen I am, in extreme haste, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To the Committee of Safety in Exeter.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter-Hill, November 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Since I saw you last, I find that George Jaffrey, Esq., has assisted much in fixing the works to defend our harbour. That being the case, I am clearly of opinion that he ought not in justice to be deemed an enemy to his country, or treated as such. I therefore consent that he remain at his own house in Portsmouth, if agreeable to you; and am, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Honourable Committee of Safety.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter-Hill, November 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have, by command of his Excellency General Washington, to inform you, that the Connecticut forces (deaf to the entreaties of their own as well as all other officers, and regardless of the contempt with which their own Government threatens to treat them upon their return) have absolutely refused to tarry till the 1st day of January, but will quit the lines on the 6th of December. They have deceived us and their officers, by pretending there would be no difficulty with them, till they have got so near the close of their term, and now, to their eternal infamy, demand a bounty to induce them to tarry only the three weeks. This is such an insult to every American, that we are determined to release them, at the expiration of their term, at all hazards, and find ourselves obliged immediately to supply their place with troops from New-Hampshire and Massachusetts-Bay. The number required from you is thirty-one companies of sixty-four men in a company, including a captain, two subalterns, three sergeants, and three corporals, which makes fifty-five privates each. The whole number, officers and men, amounts to one thousand nine hundred and eighty-four. The terms of their enlistment are as follows: Each company to march as soon as full; they are to be provided with arms, ammunition, and each a good blanket. To prevent any difficulty in passing muster here, if they are mustered by such person or persons as you may appoint there will be no necessity of their being mustered here, nor will it be done.

Their pay is to commence on the day they march, and from that time they are to receive the price of their rations in cash. They are therefore to take provisions to last them on the road. In case any or the whole of them could not do this, if the Province or the several towns will supply them, the accounts, together with what you may be at in raising them, will be instantly paid. They are to serve to the 15th of January, if required. Their pay to be as other Continental troops. No field-officers to be sent. The captains and subalterns to be appointed and commissioned by you for the Continental service, and the soldiers to engage in the Continental service, under the command of General Washington, for the term aforesaid, if required. None to be admitted, unless on the spot by the 10th of December, and will be joyfully received as much sooner as possible. They will also be paid for their return home.

The above are the terms, and I earnestly entreat you, for the honour of New-Hampshire, to show the world your attachment to the noble cause. Let the worthless sons of Connecticut know that the other Colonies will not suffer our lines to be given up, or our country destroyed, nor the sons of New-Hampshire (like those parsimonious wretches) want to be bribed into the preservation of their liberties. I hope the eager speed with which the New-Hampshire forces will march to take possession of and defend our lines, will evince to the world their love of liberty and regard to their country. As you find the business requires much infinite haste, I must entreat you not to give sleep to your eyes, nor slumber to your eyelids, till the troops are on their march. I have sent Mr. Sherburn, who will wait your commands, and forward such orders as you may think proper to give. In case ammunition cannot be had for all, we must contrive to supply those who are destitute here.

Gentlemen, I am your humble servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Honourable Committee of Safety.

P. S. The troops you send are to be under my immediate command, and joined to my brigade. I mentioned to the General the encouragement you gave upon the questions I proposed to you by his order, and informed him that you offered to send those men already raised, in case they were needed, which gave him great pleasure. And as there is no preparation making to attack you, and the season is so far advanced, I can see no difficulty in dismissing them. I should have been much rejoiced to have had Colonels Wingate, Burnham, and Hackett at their head, as field-officers, but the Committee from the Massachusetts General Court and the Council of General Officers have determined the contrary. It would, however, give me the greatest pleasure to see those gentlemen preferring the interests of their country to the title or rank of office, and each of them lead a company on to the lines. This would so much add to the exalted opinion I already have of them, that I should, during their stay here, treat and respect them as officers of the highest rank.

I recommend that all the arms in the store at Portsmouth be delivered out, and if Captain Turner inclines to come, that his company be augmented to the number proposed, and they be furnished with them. As this is merely a Continental matter, you need not wait for a full committee; the voice of two or three will be sufficient, though the assistance of the whole may possibly be necessary. I promise, in behalf of General Washington, that the act of any number will be deemed valid, and the officers and soldiers received and paid accordingly.

N. B. The soldiers are to be paid off the moment they are discharged, before they quit the ground. J. S.

Copy of Enlistment recommended.

"We hereby enlist ourselves as soldiers to serve in the Continental Army, under the command of his Excellency General Washington, until the 15th day of January next, unless sooner discharged, with Captain . . . being the captain appointed over us. We promise obedience to all our superior officers, and to be subject to the rules and regulations of the Continental Army, until the time above-mentioned, and to be paid at the rate of forty shillings per month from the time of our march to the time of our return."

At the first session of the second Provincial Congress of South-Carolina, begun and holden at the State-House in Charlestown, on Wednesday, the 1st of November, 1775.

The Hon. William Henry Drayton was chosen President, and Peter Timothy, Secretary.

On motion, Resolved, That the thanks of this Congress be returned to Colonel Henry Laurens, President of the late Congress, for his unwearied diligence, application, and merit in the discharge of the duties of that office.

Thanks were accordingly returned from the chair.

The names of the Delegates were then called over.

The inhabitants of the Parish of St. Thomas and St. Dennis having chosen Isaac Harleston, Esq., one of their Representatives, subsequent to the general election, in the room of the Rev. Robert Smith, who had been chosen at the said general election, and had declined serving; and it appearing that the said election of Mr. Harleston was publicly and fairly conducted, the Congress approved thereof, and Mr. Harleston took his seat.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens for the Parish of St. Paul be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish, to meet on Monday next, at the usual place of election, then and there to elect a Representative to serve in the present Congress, in the room of William Skirving, Esq., who, having been elected in the Parishes of St. Bartholomew and St. Paul, made his election for the former.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. John, Berkley County, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish, to meet on Monday next, at the usual place of election, then and there to proceed to choose a Representative to serve in the present Congress, in the room of Edward Harleston, Esq., deceased.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. John, Colleton County, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish, to meet on Monday next, at the usual place of election, then and there to proceed to the choice of a Representative to serve in the present Congress, in the room of Thomas Legaré, Jun., Esq., who has declined serving.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. James, Santee, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish to meet at the usual place of election, on Wednesday, the 15th instant, (November), then and there to elect a Representative to serve in the present Congress, in the room of Edward Jerman and Jacob Motte, Esqrs., who were returned as having equal votes.

Ordered, That the Secretary do deliver copies of the four preceding Resolves to the Deputies of the several Parishes therein respectively mentioned, that the elections thereby ordered may be proceeded in without delay.

Information being given to the Congress, that Captain Robert Cunningham, charged with high crimes and misdemeanors against the liberties of America, had been taken into custody and brought to town by Captain Benjamin Tutt, Ordered, That Captain Tutt be desired to attend the Congress, at five o'clock, this evening.

Colonel Laurens, President of the late Congress, delivered all the Association Papers which had been signed and deposited in his hands, into those of the Hon. William Henry Drayton, his successor.

Adjourned to five o'clock, in the afternoon.

In Congress, Wednesday, November 1, 1775, P. M.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

Captain Tutt attended according to order, and related the cause and manner of his having taken and brought Robert Cunningham to Charlestown.

An Affidavit of Captain John Caldwell, taken before Richard Rapley, Esq., at Ninety-Six, October 23, 1775, which justified the measure, was produced and read.

Ordered, That the thanks of this Congress be returned to Captain Tutt for his service; and also to the several persons who accompanied him.

Resolved, That all the expenses of bringing the said Robert Cunningham to town be defrayed by the publick.

Ordered, That Captain Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Captain William Catlett, and Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., be a Committee to collect the charges against Captain Robert Cunningham; and to draw up a state of his offences against the peace and liberties of America.

Ordered, That Captain Robert Cunningham be forthwith brought before this Congress.

And being brought before the Congress accordingly, and questioned by the President, he replied: "That he could not deny, that he had made use of expressions somewhat like those mentioned in Captain Caldwell's affidavit, which had just been read to him; that he believed Captain Caldwell had not perjured himself; and that, though he did not consider himself as bound by the late treaty at Ninety-Six, yet he since had constantly behaved himself as peaceably as any man, and although he had opinions, he had not expressed them but when asked."

Ordered, That Mr. President do immediately issue his Warrant, for committing the said Cunningham to safe custody, in the common Jail of Charlestown.

And the following Warrant was accordingly issued:

In Provincial Congress, South-Carolina.

To the Sheriff of Charlestown District, or his Deputy; or to the Keeper of the Common Jail in Charlestown.

You are hereby commanded and required to receive into your custody in the common jail, and there safely keep until further order, the body of Robert Cunningham, here-with sent to you, charged with high crimes and misdemeanors against the liberties of this Colony; and for so doing this is your warrant.

Given under my hand and seal, at Charlestown, this 1st day of November, 1775.

By order of the Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Ordered, That Thomas Grimbail, Esq., the Sheriff of Charlestown District, be summoned to attend this Congress immediately.

Mr. Sheriff Grimball attended accordingly.

Ordered, That the Sheriff be directed to afford the said Robert Cunningham every reasonable and necessary accommodation, at the publick charge; but that he do not suffer the said Cunningham to converse or correspond with any person whatever, or to have the use of pen, ink, or paper, unless by express leave from the Congress, or authority derived from them.

Read a Letter from the Committee at Little River, dated 23d October, 1775.

Ordered, That the said Letter be referred to a Committee of the following gentlemen, viz: Mr. William Parker, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Elias Horry, Mr. Trapier, Mr. Allston, and Mr. Young.

Ordered, That the Members of the late Council of Safety be a Committee to adjust and settle all outstanding accounts against the publick; and that they report thereon to this Congress.

Ordered, That Colonel Pinckney, Colonel Laurens, Colonel Richardson, Mr. Arthur Middleton, Mr. Ferguson, Colonel Bull, Captain C. C. Pinckney, Mr. Harrington, Mr. Kershaw, and Mr. Cannon, be a Committee to report upon the state of the Colony; and the proper measures which ought to be pursued for putting the same into the best posture of defence; and that the said Committee do sit without loss of time.

Ordered, That the Commissioners of the Treasury do report to this Congress a state of the Colony Treasury.

On motion, Resolved, That every Member who attends the service of the publick in the present Congress, be entitled to receive, during such attendance, forty Shillings currency, per diem, upon his application to the Treasurers, during the present sitting, or within three days thereafter.

Ordered, That the Colony Treasurers be served with a copy of the above Resolution, by the Secretary.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Thursday, November 2, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journals of yesterday were read.

Colonel Laurens delivered up to his successor in the chair all the Letters, Papers, &c., which had come into his hands, as President of the Council of Safety, and Chairman of the General Committee.

Colonel Laurens also delivered in a Letter from Captain Edward Thornbrough, Commander of His Majesty's Sloop Tamer, which he found at his house last night, addressed to himself, and therefore opened, but found to be of a publick nature.

Resolved, That the Members of Congress be required to give the most diligent attendance on the publick business during the present sitting; and that no Member do depart without leave from the Chair.

Resolved, That the Order of the late Congress, that no Member speak more than twice in any debate upon one point, without leave, be strictly observed.

Read the Letter from Capt. Thornbrough, dated "from on board His Majesty's Sloop Tamer, 1st November, 1775."

"From on board His Majesty's Sloop Tamer,
November 1, 1775."

"SIR: The many unprovoked insults the King's servants in this Province have received, from those Assemblies who have had the hardness to assume the reins of Government, are too numerous and too well known to make it necessary for me to mention them. I will confine myself entirely to what relates to my own department and the trust reposed in me.

"I therefore address you, sir, as a principal actor in the measures now adopted, and desire you will acquaint your associates, and all others whom it may concern, that if His Majesty's agents in Charlestown are not permitted, regularly and without molestation, to supply the King's ships Tamer and Cherokee, under my command, with such provisions as I think necessary to demand, I am determined, from this day, not to suffer any vessel to enter into, or depart from Charlestown, that it is in my power to prevent. The bearer of this, is owner of a vessel, who has unloaded materials at the King's fort, which is now held in contempt and defiance of His Majesty's authority; and whatever pretexes this man may use to colour his disloyalty, I never will suffer his vessel to depart, till Walker, the gunner of the King's fort, now a prisoner at the barracks, and who I look upon as under my protection, is sent on board the Tamer. Savages ought to blush at the return the King's servants have received for their humanity to one of the most infamous and most ungrateful of villains, in whose service this poor man has served.

"I am, Sir, your obedient and most humble servant,

"EDWARD THORNBROUGH.

"To Henry Laurens, Esquire.

"N. B. I desire an immediate and explicit answer."

Ordered, That Captain Wanton be summoned to attend this Congress immediately.

He attended accordingly; and gave a very circumstantial account of his detention by the man-of-war, his being sent away for St. Augustine, the putting of George Walker, late Gunner of Fort Johnson, (a prisoner, and on his parole to Colonel Moultrie), on board his vessel, and the landing of the said Walker in Georgia.

The Secretary delivered in a Return from Thomas Grim- ball, Esq., Sheriff of Charlestown District; and also a Letter from Edward Martin, Esq., Sheriff of Georgetown District; which he had received, in consequence of the circular Letter by him written to all the Sheriffs, on the 25th ult., by order of the General Committee.

Mr. Kershaw from the Committee to state to this Congress a proper recompense to be given to Capt. Tutt, &c., reported. Whereupon, it was Resolved, That the sum of eight hundred and twenty-five Pounds currency be paid to the said Captain Tutt, to be distributed, as follows, viz: three hundred Pounds to himself (out of which all expenses incurred to be defrayed,) one hundred and fifty Pounds to Lieutenant Robert Bryant; and seventy-five Pounds to each of the following Privates, viz: James Coursey, Joseph Reed, Ezekiel Williams, Richard Tutt, and Richard Duggett; and that a handsome scymitar be also purchased and presented to Captain Tutt.

An order was accordingly drawn upon the Treasury for the payment of the said sum of eight hundred and twenty-five Pounds to Captain Tutt; and he was at the same time presented with a scymitar.

Upon an application in behalf of Mr. Cunningham, that he might be permitted to write a Letter, and that he might obtain certain necessities, the following Order was drawn, viz:

To the Sheriff of Charlestown District, or his Deputy, or to the Keeper of the Common Jail in Charlestown.

You are hereby commanded to admit Captain Tutt and Mr. Gervais to converse with the prisoner Robert Cunningham; in order that the said Cunningham may write a letter, to brought to me by Mr. Tutt and Mr. Gervais. You are also required to permit Mr. Gervais to furnish Mr. Robert Cunningham with such linen and cash as Mr. Gervais shall think proper.

By order of the Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

In Congress, South-Carolina,
Charlestown, November 2, 1775.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to prepare an answer to Captain Thornbrough's Letter, and lay the same before the Congress to-morrow morning.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Friday, November 3, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journals of yesterday were read.

Mr. George Douglas, who had been elected a Provisional Representative for the District eastward of Wateree, in case Captain Robert Patton should not serve for that District, attended the Congress; and Captain Patton being sick, Mr. Douglas was ordered to take his seat in the room of said Patton.

On motion, Resolved, That during the present sitting of this Congress the doors be kept shut.

A new Return of Delegates for the New-Acquisition was this day made, whereby Captain William Byers, Mr. William McCulloch, Lieutenant Samuel Watson, Mr. James Carson, Mr. John Howe, Captain Francis Ross, Captain Robert McAfee, Francis Adams, Esq., Mr. Thomas Jones, and Captain Ezekiel Polk, were declared duly elected; and it appearing, upon inquiry, that the gentlemen formerly returned for that District had been chosen by an inferior number of inhabitants, and not by a general ballot, the Congress, to prevent any complaints which might arise from a different determination, in the present instance, Resolved, That all the Members named in both Returns for the New-Acquisition, may take their seats in the present Congress.

But, in order to prevent future irregularities of this sort, they, at the same time,

Ordered, That Mr. Arthur Middleton, the Reverend Mr. Tennent, Captain William Cattell, Mr. Bee, and Captain Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, be a Committee to prepare a Resolution to be laid before this Congress, for regulating all future elections of Members of Congress, and Parochial and District Committees.

Mr. Neufville, one of the Commissioners of the Colony

Treasury, laid before the Congress the following account of Moneys which they had paid, viz:

" For the Regiments of Foot, -	£123,041	11s.	7d.
" For the Regiment of Rangers, -	32,677	0	10
" For Contingencies, - - -	42,669	5	7

" 2078 barrels Rice, £32,012	19	0
" 330 barrels Flour, 3,754	2	4
" Indian affairs, 680	16	4
	36,747 17 8

"Nov. 3, 1775."

Ordered, That the Rev. William Tennent, Capt. William Cattell, and Mr. Salvador, be a Committee to inquire into the conduct of John Dunn, Esq., since his enlargement on his parole.

Mr. President reported the draught of an answer, which he had been desired to prepare, to Captain Thornbrough's Letter of the 1st instant.

And the said draught being taken into immediate consideration, was amended, and agreed to, as follows:

In Congress, Charlestown, South-Carolina, }
November 3, 1775.

SIR: Colonel Laurens, the late President, yesterday laid before us your letter of the 1st instant. Before we make any answer to it, we must intimate to you, that as, by your verbal answer to a publick messenger, who carried you a letter, dated 28th ultimo, from Colonel Laurens, as President, you promised a written answer to that letter, relative to an information received, that a runaway negro, the property of John Allen Walter, Esq., was harboured on board the sloop-of-war under your command; so your unexpected silence on this head, at once is a breach of the rules of propriety, and a negative confession, that the negro, if not on board the Tamer, is actually harbored on board the Cherokee, the residence of Lord William Campbell, or some other vessel under your command.

The publick, sir, are too well acquainted with the arbitrary and irritating style peculiar to Lord William Campbell's secretary, for us to have the least room to imagine, that you are the framer of the letter you sent to Colonel Laurens, dated 1st instant. However, we cannot but declare, that we know of no "unprovoked insults" the King's servants have received from any assembly by authority of the people; and we wish we could say that the conduct of the King's principal servant hath not made him an object of the just resentment of the publick. Having declared these things, it may not be improper that we just hint to you, that we are not destitute of means enabling us to take vengeance for any violence you may think proper to perpetrate against the shipping bound to, or out from this port.

You ought, sir, for very obvious reasons, to have been well assured, that Walker, the late gunner, is a prisoner at the barracks, before you in absolute terms declared that he is "now a prisoner" there, and threatened to detain a coasting vessel until he should be thence discharged and sent on board the Tamer. We declare that Walker is not in confinement at the barracks, and has not been in confinement there since his discharge from thence on his parole several weeks ago. We do not know where he is; but from the strictest inquiry we have been able to make, we have no reason to think he is within this Colony. On the contrary, we learn that Lord William Campbell despatched him (and that you are privy to his departure) to St. Augustine, with a letter, as Walker himself has declared, to desire that a military force might be sent against the good people of this Colony. Walker was landed at Savannah, and we have not heard of him since.

By the last sentence in your letter we find you have been deceived into a belief that Lord William Campbell showed great humanity to Captain Wanton, of Rhode-Island, who unfortunately fell into his hands, and that it was bona fide Captain Wanton's interest to employ Walker on board his vessel. We have strictly inquired of Captain Wanton touching these points, and from this examination we are able to say, that if Lord William Campbell's declaration to Captain Wanton, that his vessel was seized under a late act of Parliament, and his sending the Captain, his crew and vessel to proceed to St. Augustine, under an armed force on board, in order there to be condemned, are acts of humanity; it was certainly "ungrateful" in the Captain and crew, on the passage, to overpower the armed force, and to rescue the vessel from an arbitrary seizure; but as Walker was, by Lord William Campbell, armed, and contrary to the interest of Captain Wanton, put on board his vessel to command, and to conduct her to St. Augustine, and for the purpose of condemnation too, we cannot understand, that in the execution of such a business, he was in the service of Captain Wanton; or that Captain Wanton was guilty of any impropriety in getting rid of him as soon as he could by landing him at Savannah.

These things, sir, having the greatest appearance of being facts, the most positive declarations to the contrary, short of absolute proof, from on board the Cherokee, will not alter our determination, or the opinion of the publick on those points.

By order of the Congress.

To Edward Thornbrough, Commander of the Tamer Sloop-of-War.

Ordered, That the said Letter be immediately engrossed; and that Mr. President do sign the same, and send it by the Messenger, to Captain Thornbrough.

And the said Letter was accordingly engrossed, signed, and sent.

Resolved, That the Committee on the state of the Colony have power to send for persons, papers and records; and that Colonel Moultrie, and Thomas Heyward, Jun., Esq., be added to the said Committee.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, Charlestown, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said town to meet in St. Michael's Church, on Wednesday next, the 8th inst., then and there to elect two Representatives, to serve in the present Congress, in the room of George Gabriel Powell, Esq., who has made his election for the Parish of St. David, and of Sir Edmund Head, Bart., who has declined serving.

Ordered, That the Secretary do serve the said Church-wardens with a copy of the above order.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Saturday, November 4, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Mr. President reported, that the Letter which was written yesterday evening to Captain Thornbrough had been delivered by the messenger between eleven and twelve o'clock last night; and that Captain Thornbrough said "it was too late to send an answer; but he would send one when he had a proper opportunity."

On motion, That the Congress be informed why they were called on so early a day:

Read a Letter to our Delegates at the Continental Congress, by the Council of Safety, dated September 18, 1775.

Mr. Dart, Paymaster to the First Regiment of Foot, and Mr. Evance, Paymaster to the Second Regiment, applying, the former for Three Thousand Five Hundred Pounds, and the latter for Three Thousand Pounds to pay the Troops; Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrants for the payment of the said sums.

And Warrants were issued accordingly.

Captain Polk, having informed the Congress that his Company of Militia Rangers had, according to order, repaired to Dorchester, likewise applied for Pay, and for further orders.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for the payment of Five Hundred Pounds to Captain Polk, for the use of the said Company.

A Warrant was accordingly issued for that sum.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to write to the officer commanding at Dorchester, to take the command of Captain Polk's Company of Militia Rangers; and that they do duty there until the further order of the Congress therein.

Whereupon the following Letter was written:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 4, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby ordered to take under your command Captain Polk's Company of Militia Rangers, until further orders therein.

By order of the Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To the Commanding Officer at Dorchester.

Resolved, That the late Committee of Observation be revived, and continued during the sitting of the Congress: And that the Chairman thereof be authorized to give permits, when applied to for that purpose, for Boats and Vessels to pass Fort Johnson, in all cases where it may be done without prejudice to the Colony.

Ordered, That the Commander at Fort Johnson be served with a copy of the above Resolve.

Ordered, That the following Letters, and verbal message be printed and made publick: a Letter from the Council of Safety of the 28th ult., to Captain Thornbrough; Captain Thornbrough's verbal answer, by Mr. John Calvert; Captain Thornbrough's Letter of the 3d instant, to Henry Laurens, Esq.; and a Letter from this Congress of the 3d instant, to Captain Thornbrough.

Resolved, That the two Pilot Boats lately taken into the publick service by the Council of Safety, be continued in the service, armed and manned as heretofore; and that they be employed in cruising along the coast, to the northward of the Bar, to warn vessels against coming into the harbour of Charlestown, and to advise them to go into other ports or inlets in this Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to write the necessary Letters upon this occasion, to Colonel Moultrie, and to the Commander of the said Boats.

The following Letters were accordingly written:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 4, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby ordered to send a detachment of nine privates and a sergeant on board the pilot boat commanded by Captain Joseph Vesey, and one other detachment of nine privates and a sergeant, on board the pilot boat commanded by Captain Thomas Smith, with their necessary arms and accoutrements. You will inform the troops employed in this service that during their continuance in it they will be entitled to receive double pay.

By order of the Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Colonel Moultrie.

In Congress, Charlestown, November 4, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby requested to proceed with the pilot boat under your command, having on board a detachment of the troops, and cruise for ten days on the coast, to the northward of Charlestown bar, in order to speak with and warn all vessels bound for Charlestown, not to come over that bar, as the man-of-war is resolved to detain all such vessels as shall come within her reach; but that they do proceed to some other port or inlet in this Colony.

By order of the Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Captain Joseph Vesey.

A like Letter was also written to Captain Thomas Smith, commander of the other pilot boat.

On motion, That the Journals of the Council of Safety and General Committee, since the adjournment of the late Congress, be now read,

A debate arose; and the question being put, it was Resolved, in the affirmative.

The said Journals were accordingly read, beginning at the 16th of June last, and proceeded in so far as to the 23d, page 13.

Adjourned to six o'clock in the evening.

In Congress, Saturday evening, November 4, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

A Letter from Captain Thornbrough, of this date, was laid before the Congress, and read.

Ordered, That Captain Thornbrough's Letter of this date, together with the extract therein referred to, be printed and made publick, with the other correspondence already ordered.

"Tamer, Rebellion Road, November 4, 1775.

"SIR: Without the aid of any secretary, armed as I am with truth, I can enter the lists even with Mr. William Henry Drayton, when his weapons are sophistry, falsehood, and the grossest misrepresentation. On after consideration, I did not think Mr. Laurens's letter worthy a written answer, as I never directly or indirectly harbored the runaway slave of any person, and I will answer for the gentleman who commands the Cherokee, that his conduct has been exactly similar to mine in these matters. It is not my business to enter into any detail of the treatment the King's representative and the other servants of Government have met with from those assemblies which you have dignified with the name of the publick; but I have prevailed on His Excellency to favour me with an extract of his letter to Governor Tonyn, at St. Augustine, which I now enclose, as it will enable the people of this Province to form a judgment of Captain Wanton's worth and gratitude, as well as of your candor and veracity. As I have some reason to think the original is in your custody, or in that of some of your emissaries, you will hardly dispute its authenticity. But to the main purport of my letter. While I command the King's ships here, I will procure provisions by every means in my power. If the methods I am under a necessity of taking for that purpose should subject His Majesty's faithful and loyal people in this Province to any inconvenience, I shall be extremely sorry; but they are to impute it entirely to those who have plunged this late happy country into misery and distress, and not to me, who have always protected it to the utmost of my power.

"I am to acknowledge Walker was not your prisoner on the late occasion: he is returned; in that point I was misinformed. I shall only add, that I am here determined to drop this correspondence, which is a very disagreeable one to me, and I shall only expect a speedy and explicit answer. I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

"EDWARD THORNBROUGH.

"To William Henry Drayton, Esq."

Extract of a Letter from His Excellency the Right Hon. Lord WILLIAM CAMPBELL, to Governor TONYN, of St. AUGUSTINE.

" The bearer of this is a man who says he was bound from Newport, in Rhode-Island, to Nantucket, in a small sloop which he had freighted, but in a hard gale of wind was drove to the southward, without either chart or quadrant, and with only two landmen and a boy on board; by a kind of miracle he made this harbour yesterday, and pushed in at a venture. The poor man's dreadful situation fully proved the truth of his story, although he had no clearance from Newport; and the unfeigned joy he expressed when he found himself in safety, left no doubt of the reality of the distresses he had suffered. By the late acts of Parliament he might be considered as a legal prize, but Captain Thornbrough, of the Tamer, and Mr. Ferguson, (who commands the Cherokee,) had too much humanity to think of that, though we were all a good deal difficult what to do with him. Return he could not, and it would have been highly improper, as well as impolitic, to have suffered him to go to Charlestown, in the present situation of affairs there, as he had been only nine days from Newport, and not above a month ago was in the Rebels' camp near Boston. I therefore proposed sending him to St. Augustine, which Captains Thornbrough and Ferguson readily agreed to, at the same time generously offering to supply his little wants, and the man most cheerfully and with great thankfulness acquiesced. This arrangement gave me the more satisfaction, as it enabled me to furnish your Excellency with many particulars you will be anxious to know of the state of affairs to the northward, by means of this skipper, who you will find sensible and intelligent. His cargo consists of cider, apples, and cheese, and I shall be happy if it proves a seasonable supply of those articles to your Province, at this juncture. Captain Innes has given him a few lines to a friend of his in the mercantile way, to assist him in making the most of it, and procuring some employment for his bark till the summer, before which time he cannot venture to return home. To assist in navigating this vessel, and at the same time to prevent any attempt to run her into any of the little harbours on this coast, I have directed the gunner of Fort Johnson, one Walker, (an old seaman, and a poor man who has been cruelly treated by the Charlestown people,) to go in her to Augustine, and your Excellency will be so obliging as to send him back by the first opportunity."

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to take Captain Wanton's Affidavit upon the subject mentioned in the extract, and also to prepare a Resolution, on the present correspondence with Captain Thornbrough; and the Affidavit to be taken, to be laid before the Congress.

Read a Letter from Captain Blake of this date.

Resolved, That Captain Joseph Vesey and Captain Thomas Smith be allowed Pay, at the rate of fifty Pounds per (lunar) month, while they are employed in the publick service as commanders of the two armed Pilot Boats.

Read a Letter from the Committee of the New-Acquisition, dated October 4, 1775.

Ordered, That the Secretary do now proceed in reading to the Congress the Journals of the Council of Safety.

And they were read accordingly, from June 26, page 14, to July 12, page 33.

Adjourned to Monday morning, nine o'clock.

In Congress, Monday, November 6, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Ordered, That Mr. President be requested to direct Lieutenant-Colonel Thompson, of the Rangers, to send Isaac Jordan, a private in his Regiment, charged with horse stealing and breaking jail at Cheraws, and cause him to be delivered to the Sheriff of Cheraws District, or his Deputy, or to the keeper of the common jail.

Mr. President, agreeable to the request of the Congress, laid before them an Affidavit of Captain John Wanton, taken before Peter Bounetheau, J. P., November 6, 1775.

Which being read, is as follows:

"SOUTH-CAROLINA, Charlestown District.

"This day personally appeared before me, John Wanton, Captain of a sloop from Rhode-Island, who being duly sworn, sayeth: That on or about the twelfth of October last, he arrived in Rebellion Road, near Charlestown, in the Colony aforesaid, when Captain Thornbrough, of the Tamer sloop-of-war, caused his vessel to anchor under his stern, and caused him, the said deponent, to go on board the Cherokee, to speak with Lord William Campbell. That after the said Lord William Campbell had inquired into the deponent's case, he told him, that by the late acts of Parliament his sloop was liable to be seized, and that he should, in discharge of his duty, send him to St. Augustine; this deponent apprehending in order to be condemned: And afterwards his mate informed him, that an officer from on board the Tamer privately acquainted him, the said mate, that Lord William Campbell had determined to send the deponent's vessel to St. Augustine, in order to be condemned.

"That the said Lord William Campbell, against the consent of the said deponent, caused an armed force to be put on board his vessel, to conduct her to St. Augustine. That Lord William Campbell did not make him, the deponent, a bearer of any letter to Governor Tonyn. That he, the deponent, never did tell Lord William Campbell that he had two landmen on board, having in reality two good seamen and a boy, who were fully sufficient to guard his vessel. That on the passage towards St. Augustine, one Walker, who, by Lord William Campbell, was put on his, the deponent's vessel, to command her, told him the deponent, that he had a letter from Lord William Campbell, to Governor Tonyn, with strict orders, that if he was in any danger of being taken by the Americans, he should be sure to sink the said letter in the sea, with two swivel bullets, which the said deponent saw, and which the said Walker told him had been delivered to him for that purpose. And the said Walker also told him, the deponent, that Lord William Campbell's secretary had told him, that the letter was to desire that soldiers should be sent to Charlestown from St. Augustine. And further this deponent sayeth not.

JOHN WANTON.

"Sworn before me, this 6th of November, 1775.

"PETER BOUNETHEAU, Justice of Peace."

Mr. President then laid before the Congress a Resolution, as proper to be entered into by this Congress, upon the present correspondence with Captain Thornbrough, and the Affidavit of Captain Wanton.

Which being read was amended and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That Captain Thornbrough's Letter of the 4th instant, directed "To William Henry Drayton, Esq.," in answer to a Letter of the 3d instant, wrote by him as President, contains expressions as unmerited as unbecoming the pen of a gentleman, and therefore unexpected from Capt. Thornbrough. That because Lord William Campbell has favoured Captain Thornbrough "with an extract of his Letter to Governor Tony," it does not thence follow, that the extract was faithfully made; and this Congress not having seen the original Letter, or any other extract from it, ought to remember we have just cause not to credit any thing from Lord William Campbell, which is not supported by absolute proof; neither does the extract prove that Lord William Campbell did not write another Letter to Governor Tony, to desire that Troops should be sent against the good people of this Colony, and that Captain Wanton's Sloop should be condemned at St. Augustine. On the contrary, in the Affidavit this day made by the said Captain Wanton, and laid before this Congress, there is reason to conclude, that Lord William Campbell did actually write to Governor Tony, as well to procure Troops, as to cause Captain Wanton's Sloop to be condemned. And as this important Letter has never appeared to the publick, it is not improbable, either that Governor Tony has received it, or that Walker has destroyed it; and that the extract in question, even if it is a faithful one, is from a Letter written only as a mask to the other, and with intention, if necessary, to be delivered up to the publick.

Ordered, That Captain Wanton's Affidavit, and Resolution thereupon, be printed and made publick, with the other papers already ordered and relative thereto.

The Rev. Mr. Tennent, from the Committee appointed to inquire into Mr. Dunn's conduct since his enlargement upon his parole, delivered in the following Report:

"Report of the Committee, &c.

"That there appeared before them Mr. Lang, a member of this Congress, and a Dr. Redman Burke, as evidences against Mr. Dunn.

"Mr. Lang declared, that on the 31st of October, being at Mr. Hatfield's Tavern, he heard a stranger to him, who he since finds is the Mr. Dunn in question, arguing warmly in favour of Ministerial measures. He cannot remember the whole of the conversation, but recollects particularly, that Mr. Dunn declared, 'we [meaning plainly from the run of his discourse, the Americans] had no right to prescribe to the Prince and Parliament.' And, by way of burlesque, 'that he, Mr. Dunn, was a tory, and had called his stray dog Tory,' and, that through the whole of his discourse, he so spoke as highly offended him, Mr. Lang, although he did not know the restrictions which at that time lay upon Mr. Dunn.

"Dr. Burke witnesses, that Mr. Dunn appeared to him to be much in liquor, and spoke somewhat in favour of the American cause, but at different times did so speak against it, as that nothing but drunkenness could excuse him.

"Upon the whole, your Committee are of opinion, that his imprudent conduct was, in a great degree, the result of intoxication, and recommend it to the Congress, that Mr. Dunn be admonished to be more cautious for the future."

Ordered, That Mr. Dunn be summoned to attend this Congress, at their meeting to-morrow.

The Congress being informed Mr. Nathan Legaré had written a Letter offering to supply the Man-of-War with Provisions and Wood, and that the Letter was in the possession of the Commander at Fort Johnson;

Ordered, That Mr. President be requested to procure the said Letter; and that Mr. Nathan Legaré be summoned to attend this Congress at ten o'clock on Thursday morning.

Read a Letter from Colonel Thomas Neel, dated October 24, 1775.

Ordered, That the Secretary do now proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

The said Journals were accordingly read to July 26, inclusive, page 84.

Adjourned to five o'clock, in the afternoon.

In Congress, Monday afternoon, November 6, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

Mr. President reported, that he had written to Colonel Thomson, to Mr. Legaré, and to the Commander of Fort Johnson, agreeable to the order of Congress this morning.

Ordered, That the Lists of the Members be called over at every meeting of the Congress, and that the absentees be fined, as heretofore ordered.

The Lists was called over accordingly.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

Ordered, That the reading of the Journals of the Council of Safety be postponed.

Information being laid before the Congress, that Patrick Cunningham had seized the publick Gunpowder sent by the late Council of Safety to be distributed among the Cherokee Indians; and that a person is now in Charlestown who saw the seizure aforesaid:

Ordered, That one of the Messengers do immediately endeavour to find out the said person, and cause him to appear before this Congress.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

And the Journals were read accordingly, to the 11th of August, inclusive, page 127.

Ordered, That Mr. President, Colonel Laurens, and Colonel Parsons, be a Committee to inquire into, and examine touching the conduct of Patrick Cunningham, in seizing the publick Gunpowder aforesaid, and to report to this Congress.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Tuesday, November 7, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journals were read.

A return was made from the Parish of St. John, Colleton County, whereby it appears that Ralph Izard, Esq., had, on the 6th instant, been unanimously elected to serve in the present Congress, as a Representative for the said Parish, in the room of Thomas Legaré, Jun., Esq., who declined serving.

Read a Letter from John Moore, Esq., dated 6th inst., declining to serve in the present Congress for the Parish of St. Thomas and St. Dennis.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. Thomas and St. Dennis, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish to meet, on Tuesday next, the 15th instant, in order, by ballot, to choose a Representative of the said Parish, to serve in the present Congress, in the room of John Moore, Esq., who has declined serving.

Ordered, That the Secretary do cause a copy of the above Resolve to be forthwith transmitted to the Church-wardens of said Parish.

Mr. John Dunn, summoned to attend this day, was called in, and reprimanded from the Chair, in words to the following purport:

"MR. DUNN: You was sent to this Colony as a person inimical to the liberties of America; and as so obnoxious a person, you have been for some time held in close confinement in Charlestown, by publick authority. Upon your pressing entreaties to the late General Committee, you was lately enlarged upon your parole, having first voluntarily taken an oath to observe a conduct of strict neutrality, and that you neither would directly or indirectly, in any shape, interfere in the present unhappy dispute between Great Britain and America. You have been charged before this Congress with having violated that oath; and the Committee appointed by this Congress to examine you on that subject and hear your defence, have thereon reported in such terms as induced the Congress to order your attendance to-day, and to direct me to reprehend your past conduct; to admonish you to a more strict observance of your engagement; and to declare to you, that if you transgress again, you will be committed a close prisoner to the common jail."

After which Mr. Dunn was dismissed.

Mr. Jonathan Scott gave an information of a very serious nature, desiring to be authorized by this Congress to prosecute a further inquiry; whereupon it was signified to him that the Congress did authorize him accordingly.

Mr. President laid before the Congress an information upon oath, taken this day before Thomas Bee, Esq., touching a quantity of Ammunition being taken by force of arms, by Patrick Cunningham, from a detachment of Rangers.

Ordered, That Colonel Thomson be summoned to attend.

And he being introduced into the Congress, delivered in an Affidavit made on the 6th instant, by John Joseph Wimer, before John Purves, Esq., relative to the taking the publick Ammunition, by Patrick Cunningham. And,

Colonel Thomson declaring that the Ammunition taken, was sent by the late Council of Safety, to be distributed amongst the Cherokees; and that Lieutenant Charlton commanded the detachment from whom Patrick Cunningham took the Ammunition stated in the information and Affidavits,

Ordered, That Mr. Arthur Middleton, the Rev. Mr. Tennent, Mr. Ferguson, Capt. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, and Mr. Salvador, be a Committee immediately to take into their consideration the above information and Affidavits, and to report thereupon. And Ordered, That Lieutenant Charlton be immediately put under arrest, and brought to Charlestown; and that Mr. President do issue orders accordingly.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to write to Captain Pearis, informing him that the Ammunition sent to be distributed among the Indians has been violently taken by Patrick Cunningham, in contempt of publick authority.

Ordered, That the Committee at Dorchester be directed to supply the Troops there with a proper quantity of Powder and Ball in their Cartouch Boxes; and that the President do issue orders accordingly.

Ordered, That the Secretary do now proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

And the said Journals were read accordingly to the 13th of August, inclusive, page 140.

Ordered, That the further reading of the said Journals be postponed.

Mr. Arthur Middleton, from the Committee to whom was referred the consideration of the two Affidavits relative to the seizure of the publick Ammunition by Patrick Cunningham, reported thereon.

And the said Report being taken into immediate consideration, was amended and agreed to, as follows:

Whereas information, on oath, hath been made and laid before this Congress, that on or about the 3d day of this instant, November, at or near a place called the Ridge, in Ninety-Six District, Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, Henry Green, with sundry other persons, about sixty in number, did, by force of arms, rob a certain wagon in the service of the publick, feloniously taking therefrom a quantity of Lead, and sundry kegs of Gunpowder, containing about one thousand weight, intended as presents for the Cherokee Indians; and that the above persons, having first disarmed a party of Rangers, who escorted the said wagon, did violently carry off the said Powder and Lead, to the great loss and damage of the publick, in violation of the publick peace, and in open contempt of the publick authority; thereby exposing the frontier inhabitants of the Colony to the depredations and horrors of an Indian War. And whereas there is an absolute necessity of crushing such dangerous attempts to destroy the peace of the Colony, by bringing such atrocious offenders to condign punishment:

Resolved, That the bodies of the said Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, Henry Green, and their aiders and abettors, ought forthwith to be apprehended, and under a strong guard conveyed to Charlestown, to be tried for their offences; and that every endeavour ought to be used to recover the Gunpowder and Lead, feloniously, in violation of the publick peace, and contemptuously, taken as aforesaid.

Ordered, That Colonel Richard Richardson do forthwith assemble and march six companies of the Rangers, Captain Ezekiel Polk's company of Volunteers, draughts of Militia from Col. Richardson's, Col. William Thomson's, Colonel John Savage's, Colonel Thomas Neel's, and Colonel John Thomas's regiments of Militia, and with such Troops pursue such instructions as shall from time to time, by order of the Congress, or the Council of Safety for the time being, be signified to him by the President.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to prepare proper instructions for Colonel Richardson, to be laid before the Congress to-morrow morning.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Wednesday, November 8, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Mr. President laid before the Congress the draught he had been desired to prepare of Instructions and Orders proper to be given to Colonel Richardson.

Which being immediately taken under consideration,

A motion was made, That the Pay of the Privates in the Militia, to be employed under Colonel Richardson, be augmented to ten Shillings currency per day,

A debate ensued; and the question being put, the Congress divided.

The yeas went forth; for the question 51, against the question 49.

So that it passed in the affirmative.

Tellers, { For the yeas, Hon. Mr. Lowndes,

Resolved, That the Pay of the Militia Privates, to serve under Colonel Richard Richardson, be augmented to ten Shillings per day, during the time they shall be in actual service.

And the said draught of Instructions and Orders being gone through, and amended, was agreed to in the words following:

By order of Congress.

To Colonel RICHARD RICHARDSON.

SIR: There being a necessity of assembling six companies of the regiment of Rangers, Captain Polk's company of Volunteers, and draughts of Militia, to act in the interior parts of this Colony; and you being the eldest field officer now ordered upon this service, of course the command of the detachments upon this service vests in you. And hereby you are ordered to draught from your regiment of Militia, including Militia volunteers, and to demand of Colonel William Thomson, Colonel John Savage, Colonel Thomas Neel, and Colonel John Thomas, or the commanding officer in each of those regiments (including Militia volunteers) present, respectively, and they, and each of them, are hereby ordered to supply you with such numbers of men, with their officers, to be draughted from those or any of those regiments, in order to act under your command, as you shall judge necessary.

On the 3d day of this instant, November, Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, Henry Green, and sundry other armed persons unknown, did, in Ninety-Six District, cause and raise a dangerous insurrection and commotion, and did, near Mine Creek, in the said District, feloniously take a quantity of ammunition, the property of the publick, and in contempt of the publick authority: Therefore, you are hereby instructed and ordered, with the troops aforesaid, or any part of them, to march, and to act in such manner as you shall deem expedient, to seize and to apprehend, and with those troops or any part of them, you are hereby ordered to endeavour to seize and to apprehend the bodies of Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, Henry Green, Jacob Bowman, alias Jacob Bowman, together with their aiders and abettors in the taking or carrying away, or detaining, or secreting, or using and expending the ammunition aforesaid, or any part of it: And having apprehended the bodies of the said offenders, or the body of any of them, such bodies or body you are ordered, with all convenient expedition to the service, to cause to be under a strong guard conveyed to Charlestown; at all times using your best endeavour to recover the ammunition feloniously and contemptuously taken, as I have already mentioned. And in general, you are to do all such things as in your opinion shall be necessary effectually to suppress the present insurrection, and to intimidate all persons from attempting any insurrection in future.

You are not to allow any of the Militia companies or Militia volunteers, to take the field on horseback; Militia horses, being, by experience, found to be an encumbrance to the men on a military expedition.

The Militia engaged in this service will be entitled to receive, the privates a daily pay of ten shillings currency, and the rations equal to what is received by the regiments of regular Infantry in the publick service; and while the Rangers are encamped with the Militia, the Rangers are entitled to receive daily rations; of all which you are ordered to cause exact accounts to be kept, and also regular muster lists of the Militia.

In case of any disobedience in the Militia, you are to cause every such disobedience to be punished agreeable to the Militia law in time of alarm. You will from time to time send information to the President, of your motions and proceedings. These instructions and orders are to be publickly read to the troops, and you are to obey all such further instructions and orders as shall, under the authority of Congress, or Council of Safety for the time being, be signified to you by the President.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most humble servant.

Ordered, That the above Letter of Instructions and Orders be engrossed, signed by the President, and by him delivered to Colonel Richardson.

Ordered, That Mr. President he desired forthwith to write to Colonel Thomas Fletchall, John Ford, Thomas Green, Evan McLaurin, and Benjamin Wofford, or either of them, in pursuance of the treaty signed at Ninety-Six, on the 16th of September last, making requisition for the surrender and delivery of the bodies of Patrick Cunningham, his associates, aiders, and abettors.

Ordered, That Mr. President do transmit to Major Andrew Williamson the thanks of this Congress for his conduct in causing the body of Robert Cunningham to be apprehended and sent to Charlestown; and also for his conduct in embodying the Militia for opposing the Insurrection caused by Patrick Cunningham and his accomplices.

Upon information, that a brother to O'Neal and a brother to Bochman, who were concerned in the late seizure of Powder by Patrick Cunningham, were in town:

Ordered, That Captain Sumpter, Captain Flood, and Mr. Beard, do make immediate inquiry after the said O'Neal and Bochman, and also Thomas Yates, and cause them to appear before this Congress.

Captain Sumpter being returned, reported, That he with Captain Flood and Mr. Beard, had made diligent inquiry after O'Neal, Bochman, and Yates, from place to place, but could not meet either of them. However, they had been well informed that such persons had actually been in town; that they had purchased some goods, and that although they were said to be gone, there was reason to believe they were still in town. And that it was their opinion Mr. Rugeley might give some further information.

Ordered, That Colonel Laurens and Captain Cattell do forthwith proceed to Mr. Rugeley's, and desire he will permit them to see the entries on his books of yesterday and this day.

Colonel Laurens being returned, reported, that Mr. Rugeley had permitted them to examine his books; that there was a parcel of goods which appeared to belong to one of the persons sought after, but that he declared he knew neither of them, or whether they were still in town.

Ordered, That Colonel Parsons and Mr. Bee be a Committee to prepare the draft of a Letter to the Council of Safety in Georgia, respecting their late distribution of Gunpowder among the Indian Traders, wherein Messrs. Campbell & Son were overlooked.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Thursday, November 9, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Information being laid before the Congress that Thomas Brown passed yesterday through Dorchester, probably to increase the commotion raised in the back country by Patrick Cunningham, Ordered, That Mr. President do immediately issue his Warrant for apprehending the said Patrick Brown.

And the following Warrant was accordingly issued:

In Provincial Congress, November 9, 1775.

SIR: You are ordered, without delay, to use the most effectual means for apprehending and bringing to Charlestown the body of Thomas Brown, charged before this Congress with having violated the treaty of Ninety-Six. And in the performance of this service you are authorized to impress horses from any person or persons, to whom reasonable allowances will be made for all horses so impressed: And for which this shall be your warrant.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Lieutenant-Colonel William Thomson.

A Return was made, declaring John Harleston, Esq., to have been, on the 8th instant, duly elected a Representative of the Parish of St. John, Berkely County, in the room of the late Edward Harleston, Esq.

Read a Letter from the abovenamed John Harleston, Esq., declining to serve.

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. John, Berkely County, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish, to meet at the usual place of election, on Thursday, the 16th inst., there and then by ballot to choose another Representative of the said Parish, to serve in the present Congress in the room of John Harleston, Esq., who has refused to serve.

Ordered, That a copy of the foregoing Resolve be forthwith sent to the Church-wardens of the said Parish.

Mr. President laid before the Congress draughts of several Letters, which he had prepared by their order; which being read, were amended, and approved, in the following words:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Whereas information, on oath, hath been made and laid before the Congress, that on the 3d day of this inst., November, Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, and Henry Green, with sundry armed persons, did, from a detachment of Rangers, take a quantity of Gunpowder and Lead, the property of the publick, and which were then on the road proceeding under the orders of the late Council of Safety; wherefore, in pursuance of the treaty made at the camp, near Ninety-Six, on the 16th day of September last, by order of Congress, I now do hereby make requisition, that the said Patrick Cunningham, Henry O'Neal, Hugh Brown, David Reese, Nathaniel Howard, and Henry Green, together with their aiders and abettors, be, by you or one of you, surrendered and delivered up to the authority of Congress, in order that they may be tried for their offence against their authority.

Robert Cunningham having, ever since the late Congress, constantly declared that he was not included in it; and having under his hand, in a publick letter to me, declared the same, he has been, for his bad practices in endeavouring to raise commotions against the authority of Congress, apprehended, and he is now confined in jail, where he enjoys every convenience and accommodation his situation can admit. This tender treatment he receives from our humanity, and not from his merits.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Col. Thomas Fletchall, and Messrs. John Ford, Thomas Greer, Evan McLaurin, and Benjamin Wofford.

Charlestown, November 8, 1775.

SIR: In consequence of my engagement with the Good Warrior and the Cherokee Indians, that a quantity of gunpowder and lead should be sent to them from Charlestown, the Council of Safety sent a considerable quantity of ammunition, which, when it had been carried on the road to them almost as far as Ninety-Six, was taken by Patrick Cunningham and a considerable number of men, who would not allow the ammunition to proceed to the Cherokees. The Congress have just ordered Colonel Richardson, with the rangers and militia, immediately to proceed to apprehend the King's mad people concerned in this daring act, in order that they being brought to condign punishment, thereby all other men may be effectually deterred from imitating so criminal a conduct.

You will be so good as to cause these particulars to be generally published and made known to the Indians, that they may at once see that the headmen of South-Carolina are faithful to their engagements, and that they will not suffer their lawful authority to be trampled upon with impunity. By order of Congress:

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Captain Richard Pearis.

P. S. You will assure the Indians, that, as soon as the powder and lead, or any part of it, is retaken, it will be forwarded to them without delay.

To Major ANDREW WILLIAMSON.

SIR: I am directed to transmit to you the thanks of this Congress for your conduct in causing the body of Robert Cunningham to be apprehended and sent to Charlestown; and also for your conduct in embodying the militia, and opposing the insurrection caused by Patrick Cunningham and his accomplices.

It is with great pleasure that I transmit these acknowledgments of your services, knowing how justly you deserve them; and I have no doubt but that you will continue to merit the thanks of your country.

I enclose a copy of the instructions and orders to Colonel Richardson, and you will regulate your conduct thereupon. You are hereby ordered, with the militia under your command, to act against the insurgents with the utmost vigour, and that you will be attentive to the security of Fort Charlotte. By order of Congress:

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

P. S. The enclosed to Captain Pearis, informing him of the seizure of the ammunition by Patrick Cunningham, and recommending to him to make the Indians properly acquainted with that transaction, you are desired to forward immediately by express.

On motion, Resolved, That Colonel Richardson be immediately supplied with one thousand pounds weight of Gunpowder, Lead in proportion, two thousand Flints, and two Colours, if he desires them.

The following order was thereupon issued:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Ordered, That Captain Robert Cochran do forthwith deliver to Colonel Richard Richardson's order, one thousand weight of Musket Powder, to be taken from the Magazine at Dorchester; Lead in proportion, and two thousand Flints; with two Colours, and the proper stores thereto belonging, if he shall require the same.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Robert Cochran, Esq., Colony Powder Receiver and Ordnance Storekeeper.

On motion, Resolved, That the sum of Four Thousand Pounds currency be advanced out of the Colony Treasury, and placed in the hands of Colonel Richard Richardson; to be accounted for, on the expedition under his command.

And the President issued his Warrant for that sum accordingly.

On motion, Resolved, That the present Guard at Dorchester be immediately augmented with two Companies from the Provincial Regiments of Infantry.

The following order was accordingly drawn, and sent to Colonel Moultrie:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

SIR: You are to detach two companies from the Provincial regiments of foot, under such command as you shall judge most proper for the service, to march immediately for Dorchester, for re-enforcing the troops already there, and for effectually guarding the cannon, gunpowder, stores and publick records, at that place, till further orders from this Congress, or authority derived therefrom.

You are to give orders that a sufficient number of negroes now in the publick service be obtained from the Committee of Dorchester, to remove the cannon now lying near the water side, to a spot most safe and convenient near the fort or barracks, with special orders to the sentinels to prevent any person's handling or going near them, without proper authority.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Robert William Powell, and Alexander Gillon, Esqrs., were returned, as duly elected on the 8th instant, to serve as Representatives in the present Congress for the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, Charlestown, in the room of George Gabriel Powell, Esq., and Sir Edmund Head, Bart., the former serving for St. David's Parish, and the latter having declined to serve.

On motion, Resolved, That Colonel Moultrie be ordered to detach and post a Guard at the most proper place beyond Mr. Rugeley's store, to examine strictly all suspected wagons coming into or going out of Charlestown, and also every person suspected of proceedings prejudicial to the welfare of the Colony, or of the common cause.

On motion, Peter Bountheau, Esq., was appointed assistant to the Secretary of this Congress.

Colonel Parsons reported the draught of a Letter, which he and Mr. Bee had yesterday been desired to prepare, to the Council of Safety in Georgia, relative to Mr. Campbell's application to this Congress for Gunpowder.

The said Draught being read, was amended, and agreed to as follows:

Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Campbell has applied to the Provincial Congress now sitting here, acquainting them, "that though you have allowed certain quantities of powder to several other houses concerned in the Indian trade at Augusta, yet you had omitted to let his house have any, because all his powder, three thousand two hundred pounds weight, was brought into this Colony, and that by your making such a distinction, he is likely to be a great sufferer." The Congress, therefore, have desired me to signify to you, gentlemen, that it is their wish that you would spare Mr. Campbell five hundred pounds weight of the powder in your possession, and that they cannot entertain a doubt of your doing so, as it will be consistent with the promises made by you, particularly by Captain Elbert and Mr. Habersham, to Captains Joiner and Barnwell, that all the traders should be put upon a footing. Rather than all the traders should not be upon an equal footing, we would, if practicable, have supplied Mr. Campbell out of what is in this Colony, but we are now rendered less able, as we have just received intelligence that one thousand pounds weight of powder, which we were sending to the Cherokees, has been, near Ninety-Six, seized and taken away by one Patrick Cunningham (whose brother Robert we have here in custody) and some other malcontents there, against whom we are, at a considerable expense, sending an army that we hope will bring them to reason.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient servant.

By order of Congress.

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Honourable Council of Safety, at Savannah.

On motion, Resolved, That no Member depart this Congress without leave.

Ordered, That all such absent Members as can be conveniently sent to, be summoned to give immediate attendance on the service of the Colony in Congress; and that such summonses be despatched by express.

Adjourned to six o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Thursday evening, November 9, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And Peter Bountheau, Esq., was sworn in Assistant Secretary to the Congress, and entered upon the duty of that office.

Read a Letter from Captain Edward Blake, dated this day, relative to an armed Schooner having arrived at St. Augustine from Boston, in order to cruize upon this coast.

Ordered, That the following Letter be immediately sent to Captain Tufts:

Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Sir: You are hereby ordered immediately to repair with the schooner Defence, under your command, to the mouth of Wappoo Creek, where you are expected to arrive by daylight, and to give your personal attendance on the President directly after your arrival.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Captain Simon Tufts, of the Colony Schooner Defence.

Ordered, That a Schooner be provided to enable the Colony Schooner Defence to pass through Wappoo Cut; and that the Defence be, with all possible despatch, properly victualled and supplied with all necessary stores.

Ordered, That Colonel Moultrie do forthwith detach a Captain with thirty-five able Privates on board the Schooner Defence, and that Mr. President do issue orders for that purpose.

The following order was accordingly drawn:

Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Sir: You are hereby ordered to detach a Captain and thirty-five able men of the regiments under your command, who are to act as marines, and are to embark to-morrow, on board the Colony Schooner Defence, commanded by Captain Simon Tufts, until further orders.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most humble servant.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Colonel Moultrie.

On motion, That orders be issued to the Commanding Officer at Fort Johnson, by every military operation, to endeavour to oppose the passage of any British Naval Armament that may attempt to pass that post,

A debate arose, and the question being put, resolved in the affirmative.

Whereupon the following order was immediately issued, signed by the President:

Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Sir: You are hereby commanded with the troops under your orders, by every military operation, to endeavour to oppose the passage of any British naval armament that may attempt to pass Fort Johnson, until further orders by Congress or Council of Safety.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most humble servant.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Colonel William Moultrie, or the Commanding Officer at Fort Johnson.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to write to Captain Thornbrough, signifying to him the Resolution the Congress have entered into this night, respecting ships of war passing Fort Johnson.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Friday, November 10, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journals were read.

Mr. President laid before the Congress the draught of a Letter which he had, by their order, prepared to be wrote to Captain Thornbrough.

And the same being read and amended, was agreed to, as follows:

Charlestown, November 9, 1775.

Sir: The late cruel cannonade of Bristol by the British ships of war, to enforce an arbitrary demand of sheep; the general depredations on the American coasts by ministerial authority; the late advices from England of large military armaments by land and sea, for the hostile invasion of the Colonies upon this Continent; and the proclamation of the 23d of August last, at the Court of St. James's, by which the good people of America are unjustly described as in avowed rebellion; superadded to the former American grievances, and to your late unjustly seizing the persons, vessels and property of the inhabitants of this country; together with Lord William Campbell's threats of hostilities against us, have sunk deep in the minds of a people who, seeing themselves by the royal act in effect put out of the regal protection, are at length driven to the disagreeable necessity of ordering a military opposition to the arms of the British Ministry. But the people of South-Carolina, remembering that those who point the British arms at their breasts, and against their invaluable liberties, are their dear countrymen, and once were their friends, unwilling, yet determined, vigorously to oppose any approach of threatening danger to their safety, have directed me to intimate to you, sir, as Commander-in-chief of the British armament on this station, that orders are issued to the commanding officer at Fort Johnson, by every military operation, to endeavour to prevent any ministerial armament from passing that post.

We thus think it proper to warn you from an approach that must be productive of the shedding of blood, which, in other circumstances, we would endeavour to preserve.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your most humble servant.

By order of Congress:

To Edward Thornbrough, Esq., Commander of the Tamer Sloop-of-War.

Ordered, That the said Letter be forthwith engrossed, signed by Mr. President, and sent to Captain Thornbrough.

The Committee to whom several unpaid Accounts for Debts contracted before the meeting of the Congress were referred, reported.

Ordered, That the President do issue his Warrants for the payment of the sums mentioned in the said Report.

Captain Polk delivered in an Account for the service of his Company from the 18th of August last, by which a balance of one thousand six hundred and eighty-seven Pounds appeared to be due to them.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for the payment of said balance.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

Ordered, That Mr. President do sign and issue Commissions appointing Ezekiel Polk, Esq., to be Captain, and Samuel Watson and William Polk, to be Lieutenants, of a Company of Volunteer Rangers.

Commissions were accordingly made out for the said Officers, signed, and dated the 3d instant, in the form following:

SOUTH-CAROLINA.—In Provincial Congress.

To EDWARD BLAKE, Esq.:

You are hereby nominated and appointed Captain of a company of volunteer Rangers, in the service of this Colony, subject to the orders of Congress, and, in their recess, to the Council of Safety. This commission to continue during pleasure. Dated in Congress, November 3, 1775.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Ordered, That Captain Polk and Lieutenant Watson have leave of absence.

Mr. Nathan Legaré, attended, according to order of the 6th inst.; and his Letter, which had given offence, having been read to him, he declared, that it had been written merely as a cloke, to be shown occasionally, if the men of war should stop his lime-boats, that he being thereby supposed friendly to them, the said boats might be suffered to pass the more freely; and that it was never his intention to supply the men of war with any thing.

Upon this declaration, confined by some other circumstances, Mr. Legaré's conduct appearing less criminal than it was at first thought, he was, by order, reprimanded from the Chair, for the indiscreet manner in which he expressed himself in the letter, and charged to have no intercourse or communication whatever in future with the men of war.

The Secretary, as Chairman of the Committee of Observation, reported, that in consequence of the late correspondence between the Congress and Captain Thornbrough, of His Majesty's Sloop Tamer, and some information laid before the Congress by Jonathan Scott, Esq., he had thought it his duty, and did, last Tuesday evening, cause all the fishing boats to be stopped from proceeding beyond Fort Johnson; as he observed, that instead of avoiding, they mostly went in the way of the men of war, and were frequently along side; and that he had also avoided, until the further order of the Congress, giving permits for the passage of coasters, and persons desirous of going into the Road, lest in one case, a seizure of the schooners should ensue, according to Captain Thornbrough's threat; and in the other, an improper correspondence might be carried on, prejudicial to the Colony, in the present critical situation of its affairs.

On motion, Resolved, That a Commissary of Stores be appointed, to provide and supply the Naval Armaments of this Colony with every requisite for that service, agreeable to order of Congress, or Council of Safety; and to give his necessary attendance upon the business of the said Congress or Council.

Ordered, That Colonel Motte, Dr. Oliphant, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Gibbes, and Captain Joiner, be a Committee to take a view of Charlestown; and to report, as soon as may be, what further works of defence are immediately necessary for its most effectual security against hostile attacks by ships of war.

Ordered, That Captain Stone and Mr. Rivers be desired to hire a sufficient number of negroes, to give all possible despatch to the completing the Redoubt erecting upon James Island, to the westward of Fort Johnson.

Ordered, That the Commissioners of the Colony Treasury do pay to the Commissioners appointed by the late Council of Safety for cutting lines of intrenchment across Charlestown Neck, any sum or sums, not exceeding in the whole the sum of five thousand Pounds, current money, for carrying the works, for which they were appointed, into execution.

Adjourned to five o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Friday evening, November 10, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The Committee to whom the Letter from the Committee at Little River was referred, reported.

Ordered, That the following answer be written to the said Committee:

In Congress, Charlestown, November 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 15th of September, directed to the Committee of Intelligence, was produced to the General Committee the 23d of that month; and enclosed are the minutes from the journals thereon, by which you will perceive that James Hamilton became a subscriber to the Association previous to your complaints against Daniel Robins being laid before the General Committee; therefore that part of your allegation could no longer subsist, on the principle we would wish to observe, of making forgiveness the consequence of repentance: other part of your charge against Robins seems not to have been much attended to, the General Committee viewing the matter as we now do, to have been wholly cognizable by your Committee.

And in answer to your last, of the 23d ult., directed to the General Committee, we mention, that observing your readiness to serve your country in other respects, and as it calls on you to be a District Committee, your resignation cannot be admitted. And we would now hint to you, if Robins behaves contumaciously, he is still in your power, clothed with authority, as you are, equal to other District or Parochial Committees.

The necessary attention will be paid to your application for a supply of gunpowder, and what money you have advanced for the publick will be repaid on application of either of your members.

Ordered, That the said Letter be engrossed, signed by Mr. President, and sent to the Little River Committee.

Ordered, That the Little River Committee be supplied with fifty pounds weight of Gunpowder, and a proportionable quantity of Lead.

Ordered, That the following Commission be issued to Captain Blake.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

To EDWARD BLAKE, Esq.

You are hereby nominated and appointed Commissary of Stores for the Naval Department in this Colony; and you are to execute all orders you may receive from time to time from the Congress, or Council of Safety for the time being.

This commission to continue during pleasure. Dated the 10th of November, 1775.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

On motion, Resolved, That all the Boats and Canoes employed in fishing, be obliged to pass Fort Johnson, and call at said Fort.

On motion, Resolved, That the Commander at Fort Johnson be, and he is hereby ordered, strictly to examine all Fishing and other Boats passing the said Fort, as well those who shall have permits as those of Fishermen, in order that no improper correspondence be carried on, which might prove injurious to the Colony in its present state.

On motion, Resolved, That John Morris, Esq., Comptroller of the Customs, on account of his present ill state of health, upon his parole not to go on board or have any intercourse with any of the King's Vessels, have leave to pass and repass to his Island, by permits, during the pleasure of this Congress, or authority derived from them.

Resolved, That the indulgence granted to Mr. Morris, shall not be drawn into precedent.

The Messenger who had in charge to deliver the Letter to Captain Thornbrough, reported the delivery thereof; and that Captain Thornbrough only said, "it is very well."

Resolved, That Mr. President be authorized and empowered to order such motions of the Troops as he shall think necessary to enable Captain Blake to sink certain Schooners in Hog Island channel.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

The said Journals were accordingly read to the 21st of August, inclusive, page 154.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Saturday, November 11, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Ordered, That the Ordnance Storekeeper and Powder Receiver, do forthwith deliver five hundred pounds weight of Gunpowder, and proper Cannon Ball in proportion, to the order of Captain Joseph Darrel, for the use of Lyttelton's bastion.

Ordered, That the same officer do likewise deliver to Captain Ezekiel Polk, thirteen pounds weight of Gunpowder, Lead in proportion, and three dozen Flints, for the use of his company of Volunteer Rangers.

On motion, Resolved, That Captain Edward Blake, Commissary of Stores for the Naval Department, be authorized and empowered, if he shall think it necessary, to purchase eight thousand pounds weight of Bread, for the use of the Naval Armament of this Colony. And that this Congress will make provision for the payment thereof.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed in reading the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

Upon receipt of a Letter from Captain John Purves, of the Rangers, dated Dorchester, November 10, 1775.

Ordered, That the reading of the Journals of the Council of Safety be postponed.

And Captain Purves's Letter being read,

Ordered, That the same be referred to a Committee of the following gentlemen, viz: Colonel Laurens, Colonel Bull, Col. Gervais, Dr. Oliphant, and Capt. John Huger.

Ordered, That the Committee on the state of the Colony do forthwith sit, and report their progress to-morrow.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Sunday, November 12, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

The Rev. Mr. Turquand, by desire of the Congress, performed divine service before them.

Captain Tufts, of the Colony Schooner Defence, who had been ordered to cover and protect the sinking of a number of Hulks, prepared for that purpose, on the bar of Hog Island Creek, so as to obstruct the passage of ships of war through the said creek, reported;

That having yesterday, about two o'clock in the afternoon, proceeded with four hulks, in order to sink them upon the bar of that Creek, being about gunshot from the King's Ships Tamer of sixteen, and Cherokee of six guns; as he approached the place of his destination, the Tamer fired six shots at him, which he, just coming to an anchor, returned with two; that the Tamer continuing the cannonade, he contented himself with returning only one shot more, and then proceeded to sink the hulks. That he accordingly sunk three of them, but the fourth not coming up early enough in the tide, he continued the night on his station, in order to sink her also, at a proper time of tide. That about a quarter after four this morning, the Tamer and Cherokee, having warped nearer to his vessel in the night, discharged their broadsides at him, and continued the cannonade until about seven o'clock; when having, notwithstanding so heavy a fire, carried her to her proper station, and having scuttled her in various places, left her sinking, and then, having no further duty to perform, he retreated. That however, as the hulk, being loaded with sand, was a considerable time in sinking, and as he was considerably retreated, the Tamer sent an armed boat, which fired the hulk, towing her into shallower water, where she shortly after sunk. That in his retreat he ineffectually fired a shot at this armed boat, but finding his shot would not be of any service, he refrained from such an expenditure of ammunition. That notwithstanding so long and severe a cannonade from the Tamer and Cherokee, he received no other damage but one shot under his counter, one in his broadside, and a third which cut his fore starboard shroud. That he had not one man wounded. That in general the shot passed between his rigging and struck the main land. And that amidst this imminent danger the officers and men on board, although in general new in the service, displayed the greatest cheerfulness, tranquillity and coolness.

Ordered, That the thanks of the Congress be returned to Captain Tufts, for his spirited and prudent conduct upon this occasion; and also to Captain William Scott, who acted as a volunteer in the command of the Marines on board the Schooner Defence; and that those gentlemen be requested to return the thanks of this Congress to all the officers and men who acted under their respective commands.

Colonel Laurens, from the Committee to whom was referred the complaint of the Officers of the Regiment of Rangers, respecting rank and precedence, delivered in their Report.

And the said Report being taken into immediate consideration, the Congress came to the following Resolution thereupon:

Resolved, That the Regiment of Rangers be considered as the Third Regiment in the service of the Colony; that the degrees of First and Second Lieutenants be considered as giving rank regimentally in the Regiments respectively, and not otherwise; and that upon detachments and courts martial, officers of horse and foot of equal degree shall take rank according to the date of commissions.

Ordered, That so many Stores in the Town of Dorchester as have been hired by the Committee of that Parish for the publick service, as will be sufficient to lodge the Troops that are or may be stationed at that post, be forthwith fitted up for that service.

Ordered, That Mr. Edwards, Captain Joiner, Captain Shubrick, Mr. Neufville, and Mr. Verree, be a Committee to consider the expediency and expense of immediately fitting, arming, and manning the Ship Prosper in the service of the Colony, for the purpose of taking or sinking the men of war now in Rebellion Road. And that the said Committee do immediately sit, and report thereon without loss of time.

Mr. Gibbes, from the Committee appointed to take a view of Charlestown, and report what further works are immediately necessary for its most effectual defence against hostile attacks by ships of war, delivered in their Report.

And the said Report being immediately taken under consideration, the Congress came to the following Resolution thereupon:

Resolved, That a Battery of six heavy pieces of Cannon be immediately erected on or near Colonel Gadsden's land. That some proper Cannon be mounted on the wharves, near the centre of the bay. That Granville's bastion be put into a better posture of defence. That the platform in the north face of Lyttelton's bastion be extended. That a battery of three or four guns be erected near Cummins's Point; and another battery of two or three guns in some proper spot at Wappoo, to prevent vessels of force lying in Ashley River.

Mr. Edwards, from the Committee to consider the expediency and expense of immediately fitting, arming, and manning the Ship Prosper in the service of the Colony, delivered in their Report.

Which being read,

Ordered, That the same be taken into consideration this afternoon.

Adjourned to five o'clock, this afternoon.

In Congress, Sunday evening, November 12, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The Secretary delivered in two Returns, one from the Sheriff of Beaufort, and the other from the Sheriff of Camden, of Prisoners in their respective Jails, in consequence of the Letters which the late General Committee had directed him to write to them.

On motion, Resolved, That five thousand pounds weight of Gunpowder, of the present stock in the Colony, be reserved for the interior defence thereof.

On motion, Resolved, That Mr. President be desired forthwith to write to the Council of Safety in Georgia, stating the late hostilities, and soliciting their utmost immediate aid and assistance, by a supply of all the Gunpowder, Arms, and other Military Stores that can be spared.

Ordered, That Mr. De Saussure and Mr. Robert William Powell, as a deputation from this Congress, do proceed with Mr. President's Letter to Georgia.

The Report of the Committee to consider the expediency and expense of fitting, arming, and manning the Ship Prosper in the immediate service of this Colony, for the purpose of taking or sinking the men of war now in Rebellion Road, being taken into consideration,

Resolved, That the Ship Prosper be immediately impressed and taken into the service of the Colony, and fitted and armed as a frigate of war, with the utmost expedition.

Ordered, That Mr. Edwards, Captain Shubrick, Captain Joiner, Mr. Neufville, and Mr. Verree, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners, under whose direction Captain Blake and Captain Cochran are to proceed to fit, arm, and man the Ship Prosper, with all possible expedition.

Whereupon, Mr. President was requested to write to Colonel Moultrie, as follows:

Charlestown, November 12, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby ordered to post a detachment of fifty able men from the regiments under your command, with such officer as you shall judge proper for the service, at whatever wharf in Charlestown the ship Prosper, impressed into the service of the Colony, shall lie; and to guard and protect the said ship against any attempt that may be made to injure or remove her, until further orders.

By order of Congress:

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Colonel Moultrie.

Ordered, That Dr. Oliphant, Mr. Gibbes, and Colonel Moultrie, be Commissioners for carrying into execution the Resolution of this morning, respecting the erecting of additional batteries for the defence of Charlestown.

On motion, Resolved, That Mr. President, Colonel Pinckney, and Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., be authorized to order and do whatever they shall think necessary for the publick safety, until the meeting of the Congress to-morrow.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Monday, November 13, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Ordered, That Mr. Powell, and Mr. De Saussure, the gentlemen who were yesterday deputed from this Congress to go to Georgia, be authorized and desired to engage all and every able and effective seaman they may meet with there, who shall be willing to enter into the service of this Colony; and that they be also authorized to purchase all the Sulphur, Saltpetre and Lead that can be got there. That one thousand Pounds currency be immediately placed into the hands of the said Messrs. Powell and De Sausure for the purposes abovementioned; and that this Congress will cause their drafts for any further sums that may be wanted, to be paid.

John McQueen, Esq., was returned as duly elected a Representative of the Parish of St. Paul, to serve in the present Congress in the room of William Skirving, Esq., who serves for St. Bartholomew's.

And took his seat accordingly.

Ordered, That Colonel Moultrie be desired to order a Sergeant and twelve men to go on board the Schooner Defence every evening, at five o'clock, and to remain on board until seven in the morning, until the further order of the Congress therein.

Mr. President laid before the Congress the draft which he had been requested to prepare, of a Letter to the Council of Safety in Georgia, stating the late hostilities by the British arms.

And the same being read, was amended, and is as follows:

By order of Congress.

South-Carolina, Charlestown, November 12, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The actual commencement of hostilities by the British arms in this Colony against the inhabitants, is an event of the highest moment to the southern part of the United Colonies on this Continent; therefore, lest so important an event should be misrepresented, I am directed to inform you of the particulars of it, and of a subsequent action.

As it was found necessary to obstruct the channel of Hog Island Creek, being one approach to this town from Rebellion Road, Captain Tufts, commander of the Colony schooner Defence, mounted with two nine-pounders, six six-pounders, and two four-pounders, having on board seventy seamen and marines, proceeded yesterday, about two in the afternoon, with four hulks, in order to sink them upon the bar of that creek, being about gunshot from the King's ships Tamer of sixteen, and the Cherokee of six guns. As Captain Tufts approached the place of his destination, the Tamer fired six shot at him, which Captain Tufts, just coming to an anchor, returned with two; and the Tamer continuing the cannonade, Captain Tufts contented himself with returning only one shot more, and then proceeded to sink the hulks. He accordingly sunk three large schooner hulks, but the fourth not coming up early enough on the tide, he continued the night on his station, in order to sink her also, at a proper time of tide. About a quarter after four in the morning, the Tamer and Cherokee, having warped nearer to Captain Tufts in the night, discharged their broadsides at him, and continued the cannonade until about seven o'clock, when Captain Tufts having, notwithstanding so heavy a fire, carried the hulk to her proper station, and having scuttled her in various places, left her sinking, and then, having no further duty to perform, he retreated. However, as the hulk, being loaded with sand, was a considerable time in sinking, and as Captain Tufts was considerably retreated, the Tamer sent an armed boat which fired the hulk, towing her into shallower water, where she shortly after sunk. Captain Tufts in his retreat, ineffectually fired a shot at this armed boat, but finding his firing would not be of any service, he very prudently refrained from such an expenditure of ammunition. Notwithstanding so long and severe a cannonade from the Tamer and Cherokee, on board of which last Lord William Campbell has for some time past fixed his residence, Captain Tufts received no other damage but one shot under his counter, one in his broadside, and a third which cut his fore starboard shroud; not a man was wounded. In general the shot passed between his rigging, and struck the main land; and amidst this imminent danger, the officers and men on board, although in general new in the service, displayed the greatest cheerfulness, tranquillity and coolness, during this heavy fire. Fort Johnson discharged some twenty-six pounders at the Tamer and Cherokee, but the cannon requiring an elevation of ten degrees to reach them, rather than continue to discharge such random shot the firing from that post was discontinued.

The inhabitants of this metropolis were in general spectators of the latter part of the cannonade. The drums beat to arms, and the militia in a body assembled under their officers with such alertness, and so properly armed, as gave the highest pleasure and confidence to the publick.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety, at Savannah, in Georgia.

Resolved, That the two Pilot Boats, lately taken into the service of the Colony, be ordered to continue cruising till the further order of this Congress.

Ordered, That the Commissary of Stores, for the Naval Department, do continue to supply the said Boats with Provisions and other necessaries.

Colonel Pinckney, from the Committee on the state of the Colony, and the means for immediately putting the same into the most defensible state, reported in part, according to order.

And the said partial Report being taken under immediate consideration, the Congress came to the following Resolutions thereupon:

Resolved, That, as there is a great want of men to manage and fire the Artillery in Fort Johnson, and the other fortifications now erected, and such batteries as it may hereafter be thought necessary to erect, a Regiment of Artillery be forthwith raised and embodied, to serve either in garrisons or otherwise, by land or water, as the service of the Colony may require, to consist of three Companies of one hundred men each, including non-commissioned Officers and Gunners.

Resolved, That the said Regiment be officered, and allowed daily pay, as follows; and rations at three Shillings a day:

A Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, five Pounds currency per day.

A Major, four Pounds and ten Shillings.

Three Captains, three Pounds each.

Three First Lieutenants, one Pound and fifteen Shillings each.

Three Second Lieutenants, one Pound and fifteen Shillings each.

Six Lieutenants Fire Workers, one Pound twelve Shillings and six Pence each.

A Quartermaster, one Pound and fifteen Shillings.

An Adjutant, two Pounds and five Shillings.

A Surgeon, two Pounds.

A Surgeon's Mate, one Pound and ten Shillings.

A Sergeant Workman, to attend the Laboratory, fifteen Shillings.

Twelve Sergeants, twelve Shillings each.

Twelve Corporals, eleven Shillings each.

Thirty Gunners, ten Shillings each.

Two hundred and fifty-eight Matrosses, seven Shillings and six Pence each.

Three Drums, eleven Shillings each.

Three Fifes, eleven Shillings each.

An Armourer, twenty Shillings.

An Assistant Armourer, ten Shillings.

A Paymaster, two Pounds.

Resolved, That twenty-five Pounds currency, bounty money, be allowed and paid to every able bodied and effective man who shall voluntarily enlist in the said Regiment; to be paid in such proportions, and at such periods, as in the opinion of the officer shall have the best tendency to promote the service.

Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five Pounds per man for the Privates, and thirty-five Pounds for the Sergeants and Corporals, be allowed for clothing the said Regiment of Artillery.

Resolved, That all the men to be raised for the said Regiment, and also all the men henceforward to be enlisted in the service of the Colony, be engaged for six months certain, and not exceeding the term of two years, if they shall then desire to be discharged.

That Mr. Ralph Izard, Mr. Thomas Middleton, (son of Henry), and Mr. John McQueen, be a Committee, to receive the names of such gentlemen as may offer themselves to serve as officers in the Regiment of Artillery, to be forthwith raised; and that they do sit in the Assembly Room at the State House for that purpose, from seven to eight o'clock this evening, and from eight to nine to-morrow morning.

Ordered, That the Secretary do immediately cause publick notice hereof to be given, in printed handbills, and by beat of drum.

Adjourned to five o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Monday evening, November 13, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed to read the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That the consideration of the second paragraph thereof be postponed.

Ordered, That the Secretary do proceed to read the Journals of the late Council of Safety.

Ordered, That the reading of said Journal be postponed.

Ordered, That the third paragraph of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony, be now taken under consideration. And after some debate thereon, Ordered, That the same be postponed.

On information that Moses Kirkland had been seen in town this evening,

Ordered, That Colonel Laurens, and any other two members, do make immediate inquiry of, and take such steps as they shall find necessary for apprehending the said Moses Kirkland, if returned to this Colony.

Ordered, That Colonel Laurens and Mr. Jacob Motte be added to the Commissioners for erecting several new batteries for the more effectual defence of Charlestown.

Resolved, That Mr. President, Colonel Pinckney, and Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., be authorized to order and do whatever may be found necessary for the publick safety, till the meeting of the Congress to-morrow.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Tuesday, November 14, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

On motion, Resolved, That the Honourable William Henry Drayton, the Reverend Mr. Tennent, Arthur Middleton, Esq., Captain Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Col. Gervais, Captain Roger Smith, Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., and Mr. Ralph Izard, be, and they are hereby appointed a Committee of Intelligence, to correspond with, and communicate to, the inhabitants of the interior parts of this Colony, every kind of necessary information; with power to hire horses and send expresses upon all occasions that they shall think proper; and, until a Council of Safety shall be appointed, to seize, or cause to be seized and secured, and take the examinations of all such persons, who, being at large, may endanger the publick safety, or prove injurious to the common cause of America.

Ordered, That the consideration of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony be now proceeded in.

On motion, That the Congress do agree with the Committee, "That the two Regiments of Infantry, and the Regiment of Horse, now in the pay of the Colony, be completed to their first establishment, viz: of seven hundred and fifty men to the foot, and four hundred and fifty to the horse."

A debate arose; and the question being put,

It was carried in the negative.

A motion was then made, and seconded, "That the Council of Safety, for the time being, shall issue orders to complete the original establishment of the Army voted by the last Congress, in proportion as arms and clothing shall be procured; and that the said Council shall use the most effectual means for procuring arms and clothing, with all possible expedition."

A debate ensued; and the question being put,

The Congress divided.

The yeas went forth: Yeas 49; nays 48.

Teller for the yeas, Hon. Mr. Lowndes.

Teller for the nays, Colonel Pinckney.

And it was accordingly resolved in the affirmative.

On motion, Resolved, That Clement Lempriere, Esq., be appointed Captain and Commander of the Ship Prosper, now fitting and arming in the Colony service. That Captain Thomas Sherman be appointed First Lieutenant of the said Ship; and that the officering, manning, and the wages of the Officers and Seamen, be at the same rates as of the Schooner Defence.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue commissions accordingly, for officering the said Ship.

Ordered, That Captain Thomas Savage, Mr. George Abbot Hall, Mr. Kalteisen, and Captain Leger, be added to the Commissioners for fitting out and arming the ship Prosper, taken into the service of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, the Major, the three Captains, the Surgeon, and the Paymaster, to the Regiment of Artillery to be forthwith raised, be chosen by ballot, by the Members of Congress; and that the subordinate officers of the said corps be chosen by the Captains so elected, with the approbation of the Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant.

Adjourned to six o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Tuesday evening, November 14, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The following Officers to the Regiment of Artillery to be formed, were then balloted for by the Members; and at the close of the poll, by Mr. President declared duly elected:

Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, Owen Roberts, Esq. Major, Hon. Barnard Elliott.

Captains, Barnard Beekman, Charles Drayton, Sims White, Esqs.

Paymaster, Paul Townshend, Esq.

Surgeon, John Budd, Esq.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue Commissions accordingly.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Wednesday, November 15, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue Commissions for all the Officers of the Regiment of Artillery forthwith to be raised; and also for the promotion of Officers in the Regiments of Infantry.

Colonel Laurens, from the Committee for auditing the publick Accounts, reported the following as proper to be paid, viz:

To Major Golsan, - - £ 94 10 0

Capt. Gasper Brown's, 288 0 0

Capt. Flood's, - - - 163 2 6

Capt. Gasper Ott's, - 318 15 0

Capt. Aaron Little's, - 231 15 0

To the Committee of Prince Frederick's

Parish, - - - - 24 10 0

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrants for the payment of said sums.

And Warrants were accordingly issued.

Information being laid before the Congress, that Robert McKeown, a waiter in the service of the customs, had yesterday proceeded on board the Tamer sloop-of-war, Ordered, That the said McKeown be summoned to attend immediately.

And the said Robert McKeown attending accordingly, he was examined touching the information aforesaid; and declared, that being ignorant of his having been restrained from going out of the limits of Charlestown, he did go on board the Tamer only to carry down a son of the Collector of the Customs, who is a Midshipman in the Navy.

Ordered, That the said Robert McKeown, be enjoined and required, in future, strictly to confine himself in the limits of Charlestown; and to have no further communication with the men of war.

Resolved, That the Commissioners appointed to fit out the Ship Prosper, be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to take such measures as to them shall appear most effectual, to prevent all indirect communication and correspondence with the ships of war in Rebellion Road.

Ordered, That the Secretary, as Chairman of the Committee of Observation, be empowered to employ a proper person or persons to see the delivery of Provisions permitted to be sent for the use of the men of war, in such manner as is most likely to prevent an improper correspondence being carried on, and the quantity of Provisions permitted being exceeded.

Ordered, That the consideration of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony be proceeded in.

And being accordingly taken under consideration, the Congress came to the following Resolutions thereupon :

Resolved, That a sum not exceeding one hundred and twenty thousand Pounds currency, be forthwith stamped and issued, for the pay of the Regiment of Artillery to be raised, and incidental charges attending the same, of the following denominations, viz :

In Congress, Friday, November 17, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

The list of Members was called over.

Jacob Motte, Esq., was returned duly elected a Representative for the Parish of St. James, Santee, where he and Mr. Jerman before had equal votes.

And he took his seat accordingly.

Ordered, That Colonel Laurens, Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., and Mr. Bee, be a Committee to examine and correct the journals of the present session of Congress, in order that such parts thereof as may be proper to be made publick, be printed with all possible despatch.

Ordered, That the Secretary do cause such parts of the said Journals as shall be put into his hands for that purpose, to be printed with all possible expedition.

Captain William Cattell desired leave, and read a Letter to him from Lieutenant-Colonel Roberts, requesting that his most grateful thanks might be returned to the Congress for the honour they had conferred upon him, by appointing him to the command of the Regiment of Artillery; and giving assurances that were proper on such an occasion.

Ordered, That Colonel Laurens, Colonel Pinckney, Major Pinckney, Captain Harrington, the Rev. Mr. Tennent, Mr. Thomas Heyward, Jun., and Mr. Arthur Middleton, be a Committee, to consider of, state, and bring into one view, the powers and authorities proper to be vested in and exercised by the Council of Safety.

Read a Letter from Messrs. Dunn and Boote, respecting their maintenance, dated yesterday.

Resolved, That John Dunn, and Benjamin Booth Boote, Esquires, be allowed the sum of forty Shillings currency each, for their daily support and maintenance.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant on the Treasury for the payment of the last month's lodging and board of the said Messrs. Dunn and Boote, amounting to one hundred and twelve Pounds currency.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

On motion, Resolved, That the Militia of Charlestown who do nightly duty be allowed and provided with Firewood and Candles at the publick expense.

Ordered, That Mr. John Calvert do furnish the Militia Guards with Firewood and Candles accordingly.

On motion, Resolved, That all Officers, Gunners, Matrosses, or any other persons receiving pay or hire in the service of the Artillery of this Colony, shall be governed by the same rules and articles, and be subject to be tried by Courts Martial, in like manner with the Officers and Soldiers of the other Troops in the service of this Colony.

Resolved, That for differences arising among themselves, or in matters relating solely to their own corps, the Courts Martial may be composed of their own Officers; but where a sufficient number of such Officers cannot be assembled, or in matters wherein other corps are interested, the Officers of Artillery shall sit in Courts Martial with the Officers of the other corps in the service of the Colony, taking their rank according to the dates of their respective commissions, and no otherwise.

Resolved, That the Regiment of Artillery now to be raised and embodied, be the fourth Regiment in the service of the Colony; and that Officers of equal rank in the four Regiments in the Colony service, shall take precedence according to the dates of their respective commissions.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Saturday, November 18, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.
And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Messrs. Peronneau and Dart, joint Publick Treasurers, attended, and delivered in the following:

Upon application from the Vestry of St. Philip's Parish, Charlestown,

Resolved, That a loan of Ten Thousand Pounds currency be furnished, from the Colony Treasury, to the Vestry of the Parish of St. Philip, on the credit of the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, for the maintenance of the publick poor; for which sum the said Vestry are hereafter to account with the publick.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant accordingly.

Resolved, That the Inhabitants of the Parishes of St. Philip and St. Michael, Charlestown, ought forthwith to pay into the hands of the Vestry the Poor's Rates assessed and to be assessed on them respectively, according to law; and that processess ought to be issued by the Vestry and Church-wardens, against such persons as shall refuse or neglect to pay his or their Poor's Rates, so assessed.

Ordered, That Captain Calhoun and Captain Winn be added to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Colonel Pinckney, from the Committee on the state of the Colony, delivered in a further Report respecting the regulation of the Militia.

Ordered, That the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony, respecting the Militia, be now taken under consideration.

Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Green, and Mr. Newton, from the back country, attended, and were severally admitted, who gave very alarming accounts of the state of affairs in those parts.

Ordered, That two thousand pounds weight of the publick Gunpowder, lately deposited in the Magazine at Dorchester, be removed from thence to Charlestown, with all possible expedition.

Colonel Wofford delivered in a Memorial from the Committee of the District between Enoree and Broad Rivers, dated the 8th instant, which was read.

Colonel Laurens delivered in the following appraisement or valuation of the Ship Prosper:

"Charlestown, November 18, 1775.

"In obedience to the order of the Provincial Congress, we, the subscribers, have valued the ship Prosper, of Bristol, lately taken into the service of the Colony; and it is our opinion, that two thousand pounds sterling, or the value thereof in current money, ought to be allowed to the owner or owners of the said ship; and we recommend that such sum of two thousand pounds sterling, or the value thereof, as aforesaid, be tendered to Captain — Smith, late master of the said ship, on behalf of his owners; and that the register of the said ship, and a proper assignment, be at the same time demanded from the said Captain Smith.

"HENRY LAURENS,
"ROGER SMITH,
"EDWARD BLAKE."

On motion, Resolved, That the Recruiting Officers of the Regiment of Artillery to be raised for the service of this Colony, be allowed three Pounds and five Shillings per head, for every effective man they shall enlist for that corps, brought to head-quarters, attested, and approved of by the Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant; and that a suit of artillery and tenting be allowed and provided for the said Regiment.

Ordered, That the Bounty Money for raising the said Regiment be issued as it may be wanted; and that Money be also issued for the purchase of such Clothing, Tenting and Small Arms, as can be procured from Georgia or elsewhere; and that drafts on the Congress or Council of Safety for the time being, for the purchase of those articles, or any part of them, be duly paid.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to prepare the draft of a Declaration, calculated to remove the prejudices entertained in some parts of the Colony, against the measure of the late Council of Safety, in sending a small quantity of Ammunition to the Cherokee Indians.

The consideration of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony being proceeded in,

A debate arose on that part thereof requiring that every Company of Militia throughout the Colony should be assembled, mustered, trained and exercised once a fortnight.

And a question being put thereon,
The Congress divided; the yeas went forth:
For the question 43; against it 29.

So that it was resolved in the affirmative.

A debate also arose on that part of the said Report subjecting Privates, not appearing completely armed at the places and on the days appointed, to a fine of three Pounds, and Officers to a fine of twenty-five Pounds, for every default.

And the question being put,
It was resolved in the affirmative.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Sunday, November 19, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.
And yesterday's Journal was read.

The Rev. Mr. Paul Turquand, by desire of Congress, performed Divine Service before them.

Mr. President delivered in a draft of the Declaration which he had been directed to prepare, to quiet the minds of the misguided people in the back country.

And the said draft being taken into immediate consideration, was amended, and agreed to in the words following:

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

By authority of Congress.—A DECLARATION.

It has ever been the policy of America in general, and of this Colony in particular, to endeavour to cultivate a good correspondence with the neighbouring Indians; and especially so, since the commencement of the present unhappy disputes with the British Administration. This policy originated from a view of preserving, at the cheapest rate, our borders from savage inroads, pushed on by French or Spanish management, or Indian avidity or ferocity. Of late this policy has been persevered in; and our endeavours have been redoubled, in order to oppose and to frustrate the design of the British Administration, by the hands of Indians, to deluge our frontiers with the blood of our fellow-citizens. Experience has taught us, that occasional presents to the Indians has been the great means of acquiring their friendship. In this necessary service, Government every year has expended large sums of money; and the Continental Congress having divided the management of the Indian affairs into three departments, have allotted for the expenses of this Southern Department the sum of ten thousand dollars, in order to preserve the friendship of the Indians on the back of our settlements.

The late Council of Safety spared no pains to confirm them in their pacific inclinations; but, from the repeated, constant and uniform accounts they received from the Council of Safety in Georgia, the Indian traders in that and in this Colony, and among the Creeks and Cherokees, and the persons there employed by the two Colonies to superintend the Indian affairs, it clearly and unfortunately appeared, that a general Indian war was inevitable, unless the Indians were furnished with some small supplies of ammunition, to enable them to procure deer skins for their support and maintenance.

Rather than draw on an Indian war, by an ill-timed frugality in withholding ammunition, our friends in Georgia resolved to supply the Creeks with such a quantity as might, in some degree, satisfy their urgent wants, but could not incite by enabling them to commit hostilities. They sent on that service two thousand weight of powder, and a proportionable weight of lead; they also strongly pressed the late Council of Safety to supply the Cherokees. About the end of September, the Hon. William Henry Drayton, a member of the late Council of Safety, met several of the Cherokee head men at the Congarees. Nothing could in the least degree satisfy them but a promise of some ammunition. At length the late Council, in October last, issued a supply of ammunition, consisting of only one thousand weight of powder, and two thousand pounds weight of lead, for the use of the Cherokees, as the only probable means of preserving the frontiers from the inroads of the Indians; and the Council the more readily agreed to this measure, because, as they almost daily expected that the British arms would attack the Colony in front on the sea coast, they thought they would be inexcusable, if they did not, as much as in them lay, remove every cause to apprehend an attack at the same time from the Indians upon the back settlements.

But this measure, entered into by the Council upon principles of the soundest policy, of christianity, breathing equal benevolence to the associators and non-associators in this Colony, and arising only from necessity, unfortunately has been, by some non-associators, made an instrument for the most diabolical purposes.

These wicked men, to the astonishment of common sense, have made many of their deluded followers believe that this ammunition was sent to the Indians, with orders for them to fall upon the frontiers and to massacre the non-associators; and taking advantage from the scarcity of ammunition among individuals, arising from the necessity of filling the public magazines, they have invidiously represented that ammunition ought not to be sent to the Indians, while the inhabitants of the Colony, individually, are in a great degree destitute of that article; industriously endeavouring to inculcate this doctrine even in the minds of the associators.

Wherefore, in compassion to those who are deluded by such representations, the Congress have taken these things into their consideration, which otherwise would have been below their notice; and they desire their deceived fellow-colonists to reflect, that the story of the ammunition being sent to the Indians with orders for them to massacre the non-associators, is absurd in its very nature:

First, Because the whole tenor of the conduct of the Council of Safety demonstrates, that they were incapable of such inhumanity as a body; the character of each individual shields him against a charge of so cruel a nature; and Mr. Drayton's conduct at Ninety-Six, at the head of the army, fully showed, that the blood of the non-associators was not the object of his policy.

Secondly, Because, also, if men will but call reason to their aid, they must plainly see, that if the Indians were let loose upon the frontiers, they must indiscriminately massacre associators and non-associators, since there is no mark to distinguish either to the Indians; and therefore no associator, of but common sense, could think of promoting the interest of his party, by executing a measure which must equally ruin friend and foe.

However, in order to clear up all difficulties on this head, and for the ease of the minds of our deceived friends, the Congress in a body, and also individually, declare, in the most solemn manner, before almighty God, that they do not believe any order was ever issued, or any idea was ever entertained, by the late Council of Safety, or any member of it, or by any person under authority of Congress, to cause the Indians to commence hostilities upon the frontiers, or any part thereof. On the contrary, they do believe, that they, and each of them, have used every endeavour to inculcate in the Indians sentiments friendly to the inhabitants without any distinction.

It is greatly to be regretted, that our fellow-colonists, individually, are not so well supplied with ammunition as would be adequate to their private convenience. But is not the situation of public affairs, which renders it absolutely necessary to guide the channels through which ammunition is brought to the Colony into the public magazines, before any part of them can be permitted to reach the publick individually, also to be lamented? Ought not, nay, this unhappy situation of public affairs does justify the filling the publick magazines; thereby securing the welfare, and forming the defence of the state, at the risk of the convenience or safety of individuals. And if out of the publick stock a quantity of ammunition is given to the Indians, which may be sufficient to keep them quiet, by in some degree supplying their urgent occasions, yet not sufficient to enable them to make war; ought our people, nay, they cannot have any reasonable ground, to arraign that policy by which they are and may be preserved from savage hostility; or to complain, that because the whole Colony, the publick and individuals, cannot be supplied with ammunition, therefore a small quantity ought not to be sent to the Indians. Men should reflect that this small quantity is given in order to render it unnecessary to supply the publick individually on the score of a defence against Indians, a service that would consume very large quantities of an article that experience teaches will be diminished when individually distributed. Men should also reflect, that while the publick magazines are well stored, supplies can be instantly, plentifully, and regularly poured upon those parts where the publick service may require them. And the publick are hereby informed, that although, when the present disturbances began, there were not in the Colony more than five hundred pounds weight of publick powder, yet by the vigilance of the late Council of Safety, the publick stock has been so much increased, as to induce the present Congress, to make an allotment of five thousand pounds weight for the defence of the interior parts of the Colony, besides several considerable quantities already disposed of on that service.

Men ought likewise to take into their consideration, that as the Council of Safety, by various, and a multitude of means, procure a constant, speedy, and authentic information of the state of all parts of the Colony, and of the Indians; so, by being much better informed upon those points than the publick individually, therefore the Council are the most competent judges where ammunition ought to be sent; whether a small quantity to the Indians, with a view and probability of keeping them quiet, or a large quantity to the inhabitants necessarily to arm them against the Indians.

Common sense and common honesty dictate that if there is a probability that by a present of a small quantity of ammunition the Indians can be kept in peace that present ought not to be withheld at the hazard of inducing an Indian war, thereby of expending not only a much larger quantity of ammunition, but of involving the Colony in an immense expense, breaking up whole settlements, and unnecessarily sacrificing a number of lives.

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Charlestown, November 19, 1775.

Ordered, That the Secretary do cause a sufficient number of copies of the foregoing Declaration to be forthwith printed, in order to be distributed among the inhabitants of the back country.

Ordered, That the consideration of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony, respecting the Militia, be now proceeded in.

And some progress was made therein.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to instruct Colonel Richardson to apply to Colonel Thomas Polk, of North-Carolina, for the assistance of the six Companies under his command, to be in the pay of this Colony, if he shall judge such assistance necessary.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Monday, November 20, 1775,

The Congress met according to adjournment.
And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Colonel Laurens, from the Committee for auditing the publick Accounts, reported an account for the late service of Captain Richard Richardson's Troop of Light Horse, amounting to four hundred and ninety-seven Pounds, as proper to be paid.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant on the Treasury for the payment thereof.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

Ordered, That Mr. William Parker have leave of absence, forthwith to proceed to his plantation, and order down all such timber and plank as has been prepared there for the publick service; and that he also forthwith do order all such hands to town as are at present employed at the lines upon Charlestown Neck, to the publick works erecting in and about Charlestown.

On motion, Resolved, That the whole Militia of Charlestown be forthwith embodied and ordered upon duty, as well by day as by night, in such divisions and at such posts as the Commanding Officer shall think proper; and that the officers and men, while in actual service, may demand, and shall be entitled to the same daily pay, as is allowed to the officers and men now employed in the Colony service, under the command of Colonel Richard Richardson.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue the following orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Roberts:

By order of Congress.

Charlestown, November 20, 1775.

To Lieutenant-Colonel OWEN ROBERTS:

SIR: You are hereby directed to issue recruiting orders to your several officers, in order to complete the regiment of artillery with all possible expedition; and that you and your officers do forthwith take post at the several batteries, at Fort Johnson, the new battery to the westward of it, and about Charlestown (except Broughton's battery.) Such sums of money as you may have occasion for, shall be issued, and you shall be furnished with the various orders of Congress relative to the regiment of artillery, as soon as they can be copied from the journal.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

On motion, Resolved, That the Colonels of the several Regiments of Militia throughout the Colony have leave to enroll such a number of able male slaves, to be employed as pioneers and labourers, as publick exigencies may require; and that a daily pay of seven Shillings and six Pence be allowed for the service of each such slave, while actually employed.

On motion, Resolved, That this Congress will make provision for the support of all persons who may be maimed and disabled in the publick service of the Colony, by sea or land, and also of the families of such as may be killed in the said service.

Ordered, That Colonel Gervais, Captain Hammond, and Mr. Raplay, have leave to visit Captain Robert Cunningham, in his confinement in Charlestown Jail.

Ordered, That the Colonel of the Charlestown Militia do forthwith carry into execution the Resolution respecting the embodying the same.

On motion, Resolved, That five hundred pounds weight of Gunpowder, with six pieces of proper Cannon, and a proportionable quantity of Cannon Ball, be allotted for the use and defence of Georgetown, and that the same be delivered to the Committee of that town.

Ordered, That Colonel Stephen Bull do forthwith draft one hundred and fifty men of the Granville County Regiment of Militia, and order them upon duty at Fort Lyttelton, Port Royal, to be relieved from time to time, till further orders.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Tuesday, November 21, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.
And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Ordered, That the consideration of the Report of the Committee on the state of the Colony, respecting the Militia, be resumed and proceeded in.

And the same being gone through, the Congress came to the several Resolutions following:

Resolved, That the Commissioned Officers of the Colony Regular Troops take precedence of Officers of equal degree in the Militia, without regard to prior dates of commissions in the latter, Provided, nevertheless, That a Second Lieutenant in the Regulars shall be subordinate to a First Lieutenant in the Militia, and so on in gradation in the Regulars and Militia respectively. That the precedence in the regular forces be according to the number and denomination of the Regiments of Infantry and Rangers; and the Regiment of Artillery according to the custom of the British Army. That all corps of Regulars take precedence of all corps of Militia. And that the Regiments of Militia shall take precedence in the following manner: Berkley County, Charlestown, Granville County, Colleton County, Craven County, the lower part, Orangeburgh, Craven County, the upper part, Camden, Ninety-Six north of the Fish-dam Ford and between Enoree, Broad and Saludy Rivers, the New Acquisition south of the Fish-dam Ford, and between Broad and Saludy Rivers north of Enoree, and between Broad and Saludy Rivers.

Resolved, That the Militia be not drawn out to act with the Regulars in the pay of this Colony, but on the most urgent occasions; and whenever that happens, in case any officers should be wanting to fill up the Regiments or Companies of Militia, including the volunteer companies, the same shall be made up by their own officers according to seniority of commissions; subject nevertheless to the control of the Congress or Council of Safety for the time being, in case any officer or officers shall succeed to commissions by seniority, whom they or either of them shall deem improper to be commissioned.

Resolved, That in all cases of default, neglect of duty, or disobedience of orders, the Militia officers and privates shall be tried, adjudged and determined according to the Militia law only, whether they are acting in conjunction with the Regulars or otherwise.

Resolved, That every Captain or other commanding Officer of a Company, shall assemble, muster, train and exercise his Company once in every fortnight, under a penalty of twenty-five Pounds currency for every default.

Resolved, That every person liable to bear arms shall appear completely armed, once in every fortnight, on the day and at the place appointed by his Captain for the exercising his company; the privates under a penalty not exceeding three Pounds current money, and the officers under the penalty of twenty-five Pounds, for every default.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Colonels of the different Regiments of the Militia, where the districts of any of the Companies in their respective Regiments are too large for the Company conveniently to assemble in one place, that they do order the Captains of such Companies to appoint two or three places in their respective districts for the Company to muster at in divisions.

Resolved, That there be no more Volunteer Troops of Horse formed.

Resolved, That in future no person be allowed to enter himself into a Volunteer Company out of the districts of the Regiment to which he belongs.

It was moved and seconded, That an immediate draft of five hundred Militia from the country Regiments be ordered to rendezvous at some place near and convenient to and for the defence of Charlestown, in case that place should be attacked.

A debate ensued; and the question being put,

It was passed in the negative.

Ordered, That Mr. President do write to the several Colonels of the Militia throughout the Colony, that they do forthwith proceed to draft one-third of their respective Regiments, including Volunteer Companies, and hold them in constant readiness to march at a minute's warning, according to the order of Congress or the Council of Safety for the time being; and that they do also, with all possible despatch, return to the said Congress or Council, the names of the persons so drafted and ordered to be held in readiness.

Upon an application for a sum of Money to be employed in the recruiting service for the Regiment of Artillery, Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for three thousand Pounds for that service.

And two Warrants were issued accordingly.

On motion, Ordered, That Captain Lempriere be required forthwith to attend his duty on board the Ship Prosper; that the subordinate officers be immediately nominated and appointed; and that every effectual measure be pursued for the speedy fitting and manning the said ship-of-war.

The following Letter was accordingly written:

By order of Congress.

Charlestown, November 21, 1775.

To CLEMENT LEMPRIERE, Esq.:

SIR: Your presence being absolutely necessary on board the Prosper, in order to expedite her fitting out, you are therefore hereby ordered to repair on board the said ship Prosper, there to discharge the duties of a commander.

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

Ordered, That the Contractor for virtualising the Forces of this Colony already raised, be applied to, also to furnish rations for the Regiment of Artillery to be raised.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue Commissions appointing John Joiner, Esquire, to be commander of Fort Lyttelton, near Beaufort; and also to appoint him to be Captain, and Tunes Tebout and Thomas Hughes, gentlemen, to be Lieutenants of a Company of Artillery.

Ordered, That Captain Benjamin Wofford have leave to trade here, upon his taking an oath to observe the strictest neutrality, agreeable to the late treaty of Ninety-Six.

Ordered, That Hon. Mr. Drayton's Letter to Captain Robert Cunningham, dated the 21st of September last, and Captain Cunningham's answer, dated the 6th of October, be forthwith printed in handbills, to be distributed amongst the inhabitants in the back country.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for two thousand Pounds sterling, or fifteen thousand four hundred Pounds currency, to be paid out of the Treasury, to the Commissioners for fitting out the Ship Prosper, in order to be by them tendered to Captain — Smith, the late master, as payment of the purchase money, or value by appraisement.

And a Warrant was accordingly issued.

Adjourned to eleven o'clock, to-morrow.

In Congress, Wednesday, November 22, 1775.

Mr. President adjourned the meeting of the Congress to six o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Wednesday evening, November 22, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Read a Letter from the Committee of Rowan County, North-Carolina, dated October 23, 1775, recommending that no trade or intercourse be carried on with persons who cannot produce certificates of their being friends to the American cause.

Read also, a Letter from Captain Edward Blake, of this day's date, enclosing a certificate of the value, by appraisement, of six Schooners, sunk on the bars of Hog Island Creek, and the Marsh Channels, to obstruct the passage of ships of war through those channels, amounting to four thousand five hundred Pounds.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for payment of the said sum of four thousand five hundred Pounds, to Captain Blake, in order to pay for said Schooners.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

Read a Letter from Clement Lempriere, Esq., declining to take upon him the command of the ship to which he had been appointed by this Congress.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Thursday, November 23, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Captain Lempriere's Letter, laid before the Congress yesterday, being again read, Ordered, That Mr. President do issue a commission, appointing Captain Simon Tufts to the command of the Ship Prosper, armed in the Colony service.

Ordered, That Capt. Robert Cochran have leave to take stone ballast, for the use of the Colony vessels, from such parts of the Fortifications, where such taking may be least injurious to the works.

Ordered, That the Ordnance Storekeeper do from time to time deliver to the commanding officer of the Regiment of Artillery, from the publick Arsenal, such Stores as the said officer shall require, taking receipts for the same, and making proper endorsements on the general account of publick stores in his custody, so that what remains may be seen at one view.

Colonel Pinckney, from the Committee on the state of the Colony, made a further report respecting the Militia.

Which being immediately taken into consideration, the Congress thereupon

Resolved, That all persons shall do patrol duty in the District wherein they respectively reside, under the command and direction of the Captain of the District, without regard to their having entered into a Volunteer Company.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the commanding officers of the Regiments of Militia, without delay, to oblige all the inhabitants to do duty in some Company or other, so that no one, who by law is obliged to do duty in times of an alarm, shall be excused.

Resolved, That where any person hath regularly entered into a Volunteer Company, he shall not be at liberty to leave the same, without giving his Captain three months notice in writing of his intention to do so, and without first producing to his said Captain a certificate from some other Captain of the Regiment, that he hath enrolled himself in another company; unless the commanding officer of the Regiment shall, on sufficient cause to him shown, make order to the contrary.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Council of Safety, without delay, to divide the several Regiments in the Colony into different Regiments or Battalions, so as not to have less than seven hundred and fifty men in each Regiment or Battalion.

Captain William Cattell reported the situation of the Troops on duty at Dorchester, and some inconveniences which they laboured under.

Read a Letter from Captain Peyer Imhoff, on the same subject, dated Dorchester, November 21, 1775.

Ordered, That the Contractor for supplying the Colony Infantry with Provisions be desired also to supply the Rangers posted at Dorchester, until further orders.

Ordered, That the Secretary do forthwith advertise all persons willing to supply Rations to the Regiment of Artillery in the Colony service, to deliver in their proposals, sealed up, to him, by the 25th instant.

Ordered, That the Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant be desired to cause the said corps to be properly supplied, until a Contractor shall be appointed by this Congress, or the Council of Safety for the time being.

On motion, Resolved, That the Pay of the Commander of the Colony Schooner Defence be three Pounds currency per day.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for the payment of the sum of one thousand Pounds currency, to Captain Simon Tufts, in part of account, for pay due to the Officers and Seamen employed on board the Colony Schooner Defence.

Doctor Gould, Surgeon to the First Regiment of Foot, attended, made a verbal report of the state of the Troops in the Barracks, and represented some grievances.

Ordered, That Doctor Oliphant, Captain Shubrick, and Capt. John Huger, be a Committee to inquire into the state of the Hospitals, with power to supply such articles as they shall appear to stand in immediate need of.

Ordered, That the Committee for the Parish of St. George, Dorchester, be desired to purchase a Flat, for the use of the Troops stationed there.

On motion, Resolved, That the leading marks over Charlestown Bar be forthwith cut down and demolished.

Ordered, That the Commissioners of the Pilotage be desired to carry the above into immediate execution:

Ordered, That so much of the blue Cloth as has been lately imported at the publick expense, as shall be necessary for clothing the First and Second Regiment of Foot, be forthwith issued for that purpose.

A Petition and Remonstrance, signed John Dunn and Benjamin Booth Boote, was presented, and laid on the table.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Friday, November 24, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

Colonel Laurens, from the Committee for auditing the publick Accounts, reported one as proper to be paid, due to Captain Hammond, and amounting to two hundred and twenty-six Pounds and twelve Shillings.

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for payment of said sum.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

Read a Letter from David Monaghan, a Lieutenant in the Regiment of Rangers, dated Dorchester, November 8, 1775, requesting leave to resign, on account of his ill state of health.

Ordered, That Mr. Monaghan's resignation be accepted; and that Mr. President do issue a commission appointing Mr. John Lisle to fill up the vacancy.

Read a Letter from the Provincial Council of North-Carolina, dated Wilmington, November 10, 1775.

James Ravenell, Esq., was returned duly elected a Representative of the Parish of St. John, Berkley County, in the room of John Harleston, Esq., who had declined serving.

Mr. Ravenell at the same time declining to serve,

Resolved, That the Church-wardens of the Parish of St. John, Berkley County, be desired forthwith to summon the inhabitants of the said Parish, to meet at the usual place of election, on Monday, the fourth day of December next, to choose a proper person to represent the said Parish in the present Congress, in the room of James Ravenell, Esq., who has declined to serve.

Ordered, That a copy of the above Resolve be forthwith transmitted to the said Church-wardens.

The Committee on the state of the Colony delivered in a further Report;

Which being taken into immediate consideration,

Resolved, That the Colonels of the Militia in the country do, at least once in three months, muster their Regiments in Battalions, not exceeding six Companies, nor less than three Companies.

Whereas complaint hath been made that divers Merchants and Storekeepers have sold their Goods at an exorbitant price since the non-exportation of Merchandise from Great Britain:

Resolved, That it be recommended to the several District and Parochial Committees, to make inquiry, whether the Merchants and Storekeepers in their several Parishes and Districts have sold their Goods at more than the usual advance; and if any of them should be found exorbitant in that respect, that they be advertised by the Committee as contemners of the Resolves of the Continental and Provincial Congress.

Ordered, That the Parochial Committee of St. George, Dorchester, have power, and they are hereby empowered to hire or impress a Schooner and hands, to carry bricks for the publick works erecting at Dorchester.

Ordered, That the Reverend Mr. Tennent, the Rev. Mr. Harris, Captain Harrington, Captain Calhoun, Captain Hammond, Captain John Huger, and Mr. Ferguson, be a Committee to consider and report what manufactures are proper to be encouraged and established in this Colony, and the best means for encouraging and establishing the same.

Ordered, That Captain Henry Falder be authorized to grain the damaged Gunpowder lying in Fort Charlotte.

Mr. Edwards, from the Committee for fitting out the Ship Prosper, reported, that they had tendered to Captain Smith the appraised value of the said ship, and required an assignment of the said ship and register: That Captain Smith had refused to receive the sum tendered to him, or to execute an assignment; but that he had delivered up the register, (now put into the hands of Mr. President,) and that they had thereupon returned the money into the Treasury.

The said Committee at the same time recommending that, in order to enable Captain Smith to procure necessities and a passage, the sum of two hundred and forty-five Pounds currency be issued from the Treasury, and paid to him, Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for the payment of the said sum to Captain Smith.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

In explanation of the order of Monday last to the Colonel of the Granville County Regiment of Militia, to draft one hundred and fifty men from the said Regiment, to do garrison duty at or near Fort Lyttelton, Port Royal: be it

Resolved, That the said Colonel have power to engage Volunteers for that service, if they can be sooner got, in preference to a draft; and to post them according to his discretion.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Saturday, November 25, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Ordered, That the publick Ordnance Storekeeper do deliver to Mr. Joseph Verree, out of the publick Arsenal, such Spikes and other Iron work as he shall require for the use of the new Battery on James' Island.

William Moore, Esq., a Representative of the District of Ninety-Six, attended, and took his seat in Congress; and gave some information of a skirmish, said to have happened last Monday, between the enemies of this country, led by Patrick Cunningham, Jacob Bowman, and others, and a body of Militia, under the command of Major Andrew Williamson.

Ordered, That Mr. Edward Weyman be desired forthwith to collect together all the Public Gunpowder still outlying in private hands, and to cause the same to be deposited in the publick Magazine.

Ordered, That Lieutenant-Colonel Roberts be required forthwith to go to Dorchester, and give directions for putting the Magazine Fort in such posture as he shall think will best enable it to repel any sudden attack that may be made upon it, and to order the Cannon to such places and in such manner as he shall deem the most proper for its defence; and then to repair to his post at Fort Johnson with all despatch. And that while the Colonel shall be at Dorchester, he shall there reconnoitre the ground, and examine the plans projected for the defence thereof; and if he finds them deficient, that he do make such alterations in them as he shall think proper, or totally reject them, and delineate such a plan as he may think will most conduce to the rendering it a strong armed post.

Ordered, That the Committee of the Parish of St. George, Dorchester, be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to hire or impress Negroes, Horses, Wagons, Carts, and every thing else necessary for giving despatch to the completing of the works of defence proper to be erected at that post.

Ordered, That the said Committee be authorized and required forthwith to procure, and deposit in a proper magazine for that purpose, at that post, a sufficient quantity of Provisions for victualling a body of one thousand men for one month.

On motion, Resolved, That this Colony be now, and it is hereby declared to be, in a state of actual alarm, as fully and effectually as if the same had been proclaimed in the manner and form directed and appointed by the Militia law.

A motion was made, that it be referred to a Committee, to fix on a proper place of rendezvous, for the Militia which may be thought necessary to be drafted.

A debate ensued; and the question being put, it passed in the negative.

On motion, Resolved, That six hundred men from Col. Powell's Regiment, and also six hundred men from Col. Rothmahler's, the upper part, be forthwith detached and marched to rendezvous at Congarees; and that one hundred and fifty men of Colonel Bull's Regiment be likewise detached and marched to the Cherokee Ponds; and that these several detachments do act under the orders of Colonel Richard Richardson.

On motion, Resolved, That the same Pay and Provision be allowed to any Volunteers, Officers and Privates, from Georgia, who may enter into the publick service of this Colony, as is provided for the Militia Officers and Privates of this Colony.

Ordered, That Lieutenant Colonel Roberts be desired to despatch Lieutenant James Mitchell of the Regiment of Artillery under his command, to join the Army under Colonel Richardson.

Ordered, That the publick Ordnance Storekeeper do deliver to Lieutenant James Mitchell, two pieces of Cannon, four or six-pounders, with the necessary Stores thereto belonging, for the use of the Army under Col. Richardson.

Resolved, That the Committee of St. David's Parish be authorized to purchase what Lead they can get, on the publick account.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Sunday, November 26, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Mr. President reported the following copies of Letters, written by him, by their order:

By authority of Congress.

Charlestown, November 25, 1775.

To Colonel POWELL:

SIR: You are hereby ordered, with all possible despatch, to detach six hundred men of your regiment, to rendezvous at the Congarees, to act under the orders of Colonel Richardson.

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

A like Letter was written to Col. Rothmahler, to detach six hundred men from the upper part of his Regiment.

And also a like Letter to Colonel Bull, to detach one hundred and fifty men from his Regiment, to rendezvous at the Cherokee Ponds.

By authority of Congress.

Charlestown, November 25, 1775.

SIR: Colonel Powell and Colonel Rothmahler are each ordered to detach, with all possible expedition, six hundred men of their respective regiments, to rendezvous at the Congarees, to act under your orders; and Colonel Bull is likewise ordered to detach one hundred and fifty men, to rendezvous at the Cherokee Ponds, on the same service. You will, therefore, sir, send your orders for those forces accordingly.

Lieutenant Mitchell, of the regiment of Artillery, is under orders to repair to you, with two pieces of cannon; he will set out, I hope, in two or three days.

We have not yet heard the issue of the late affair at Ninety-Six; we think there is reason to apprehend, that the event is unfavourable to us. At any rate, your conduct ought to be as vigorous as possible, and no less cautious. Therefore, if the enemy are superior in number to your army, you must keep out of their reach, or you must so post yourself as to be able to maintain your station against their attacks, until your force shall put you in a condition to crush them. In short, you are not to venture a general engagement, unless you have such advantages as promise success.

I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM HENRY DRAYTON, President.

To Colonel Richardson.

Major Pinckney, from the Committee to consider of, state, and bring into one view, the powers and authorities proper to be vested in, and exercised by the Council of Safety, delivered in their Report.

Mr. President then reported the names of the Gentlemen who had, on the 16th instant, been duly elected Members of the Council of Safety.

And thereupon, it was Resolved, That Colonel Charles Pinckney, Col. Henry Laurens, the Hon. Henry Middleton, Thomas Ferguson, Arthur Middleton, Thomas Heyward, Jun., Esqrs., the Honourable William Henry Drayton, the Honourable Rawlins Lowndes, Thomas Bee, Benjamin Elliott, James Parsons, David Oliphant, and Thomas Savage, Esqrs., be, and they are hereby declared to be the Council of Safety for this Colony.

The Report of the Committee, on the powers and authorities proper to be vested in, and exercised by the Council of Safety, was then taken under consideration.

And the Congress thereupon resolved and ordained as follows:

First. Whereas it is necessary to vest the Council of Safety of this Colony, for the time being, with powers to enable them to act effectually for the publick safety and defence: Be it Ordained, by the Representatives of the people of South-Carolina, in Congress assembled, and it is hereby Ordained, by the authority of the same, That the Council of Safety, or a quorum consisting of seven members, or a majority of such quorum, shall have, and they are hereby invested with, the direction, regulation, and ordering of the land and sea forces, and of the militia, and all military establishments and arrangements within this Colony, subject always to the control of the Congress.

Second. And be it also Ordained, That the Council, or a majority of them, as aforesaid, shall have full power and authority, to appoint officers, and to fill up vacancies in the land and sea forces, in the militia, and in the treasury of this Colony, and that they be empowered to suspend any officer of the army or navy, when they shall judge it necessary; and shall within a convenient time, not exceeding forty days after such suspension, order a general court-martial to sit for the trial of such officer, whose sentence shall be final, unless it shall be otherwise determined by the Provincial Congress.

Third. And be it further Ordained, by the authority aforesaid, That if, upon any exigency, it shall appear necessary to the Council of Safety, to call forth the Militia, they shall have full power and authority to carry the acts of Assembly for regulating the Militia of this Colony, in all respects, into execution, as in time of alarm.

Fourth. And be it also Ordained, That if any complaint be made against any officer of the Militia, the Council of Safety, after having inquired into the truth of it, and heard the defence of the officer, if he hath any, may remove such officer, if they judge the complaint to be just, and forthwith appoint another in his stead.

Fifth. And be it further Ordained, That the Commissioners of the Treasury shall be under the direction of the said Council of Safety, or a majority of them as aforesaid, and shall be obliged to issue and pay all such orders as shall be drawn by them, for answering the demands of the publick service, and no otherwise.

Sixth. And be it further Ordained, That the Council of Safety, or a majority as aforesaid, be empowered and authorized to do all such matters and things relative to the strengthening, securing, and defending the Colony, as shall by them be judged and deemed expedient and necessary. Provided, nevertheless, That nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to empower and authorize the said Council, or majority as aforesaid, to dispense with, or annul any act, resolution, or order of the Continental or Provincial Congress.

A motion was made to strike out the above proviso, so far:

But upon a question, it passed in the negative.

A motion was then made to disagree to the following words, concluding the said proviso: "or to empower and authorize them to nominate and appoint a General or Generals over the military forces of this Colony."

And the question being put, it passed in the negative.

Seventh. And be it also ordained, That the Provincial Congress will indemnify the Council of Safety in all their acts and proceedings under the authority of the Congress.

Eighth. And be it further ordained, That thirteen members, elected in Congress, as members of a Council of Safety, together with the Delegates of this Colony to the Continental Congress, shall be, and they are hereby declared, the Council of Safety for this Colony. Provided always, That no person holding a military commission in the regular forces of this Colony, or in the Continental Army, shall be capable of possessing a seat, or of having a voice in the said Council.

Ninth. And be it further ordained, That the said Council of Safety shall continue in office, and exercise the powers thereunto annexed, until the end of the next sessions, and under the control of Congress. And in case of any vacancy in the Council of Safety, during the recess of the Congress, by death or departure from the Colony, (except upon publick business,) the General Committee for the time being, after having given six weeks publick notice thereof in the Gazettes, shall, by ballot, fill up every such vacancy.

Read the Resolve of the Continental Congress, of the 6th of October last, recommending to arrest and secure persons dangerous to the safety of the Colony, or the liberties of America.

After some debate thereon, the further consideration thereof was postponed.

And the Congress adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Monday, November 27, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

Major Elliott, of the Regiment of Artillery, having made application for Bounty Money to raise recruits for that corps, and for directions where to place the said recruits as they shall be raised,

Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his warrant on the Treasury, for the payment of fourteen hundred Pounds currency, to Major Barnard Elliott, for the recruiting service in the Regiment of Artillery, to be accounted for. And that the recruits for the said Regiment be posted at the most convenient and near places to the several batteries in Charlestown, under the command of the Artillery; and that such places be fitted up accordingly.

An Account of Captain Robert Cochran, amounting to one hundred and thirty Pounds and five Shillings, being laid before the Congress, Ordered, That Mr. President do issue his Warrant for the payment thereof.

And a Warrant was issued accordingly.

On motion, Resolved, That Colonel Moultrie be directed forthwith to order a detachment of forty Privates, who are best acquainted with maritime affairs, to do duty and serve on board the armed Ship Prosper, for one month, unless sooner discharged by proper authority.

On motion, Resolved, That the Delegates of this Colony in the Continental Congress be immediately applied to, to use their utmost endeavours to procure two hundred able Seamen, to be engaged in the northern Colonies, and sent hither with all possible despatch, for manning the armed Vessels in the Colony service. And that they be requested to cause the encouragement offered by this Colony to be made as publick as possible.

A motion was made, that previous to any attack upon the Men of War in the Road, the intended attack upon such ships shall be notified to Lord William Campbell, if he shall then be on board.

A debate ensued; and the question being put, Resolved in the affirmative.

On motion, Resolved, That the Council of Safety do pay such Accounts as to them shall appear reasonable, for the subsistence in diet, for the ferrage, and for the carriage of the sick, of recruits for the Provincial Forces, from their enlistment to the time of their being brought to head-quarters.

On motion, Resolved, That the powers of the General Committee, the Committee of Observation, and all the Parochial and District Committees throughout the Colony, be, and they are hereby revived and continued.

A motion being made, that the Commissions issued by the late Council of Safety to Captain Allston's Volunteer Company of Foot Rangers or Rovers, in the Craven County Militia, be withdrawn,

A debate arose; and the question being put, it passed in the negative.

A motion was then made, that the late Council of Safety's appointment of the Company of Foot Rangers or Rovers being confirmed, the said Company is hereby declared subject to patrol duty, and liable to be called out upon emergencies, by the Field Officers of the District; also subject to the orders of the Commander-in-Chief of any embodied Troops, with which the said Company shall be called into service.

A debate ensued; and the question being put, It was resolved in the affirmative.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow.

In Congress, Tuesday, November 28, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And yesterday's Journal was read.

On motion, Resolved, That Wappoo Cut be forthwith cleared and deepened, so as to render it navigable for Vessels of greater burden than hitherto have or at present can pass through it.

Ordered, That Messrs. Isaac Rivers, Thomas Rose, and Richard Hutson, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners to cause the above resolve to be carried into immediate execution.

On motion, Resolved, That a Battery of two or three pieces of Cannon be forthwith erected on the wharf of William Gibbes, Esq., by the Commissioners appointed to erect the additional Batteries lately ordered for the defence of the harbour of Charlestown.

Mr. George Abbot Hall, from the Commissioners of the Pilotage, reported, that agreeable to the order of Congress, they had yesterday caused the leading mark over Charlestown Bar to be cut down and destroyed.

On motion, Resolved, That the Returns sent by the several Sheriffs of this Colony to the Secretary, (in consequence of an order of the late General Committee,) of the persons confined in their respective Jails, be referred to a Committee.

Ordered, That the Hon. Mr. Lowndes, Mr. John Rutledge, and Mr. Arthur Middleton, be a Committee to whom the above Returns be referred; and that they do consider and report what measures are proper to be adopted thereon.

On motion, Resolved, That the Council of Safety devise and take such steps, as that the prisoners in the common Jails, whose offences are bailable, be discharged upon proper bail, and for the relief of poor debtors.

Doctor Oliphant, from the Committee appointed to examine into the state of the Hospitals, delivered in their Report.

Which being taken into immediate consideration,

Resolved, That a General Hospital for sick and wounded men of the Provincial Land Forces, for Seamen, and the Militia, be established; and that a Director-General thereof be appointed.

Ordered, That the foregoing Resolve be referred to the Council of Safety, to be by them carried into execution.

On motion, Resolved, That one-third of the Berkley County Regiment of Militia, one-third of the Colleton County Regiment, and two hundred men from the Granville County Regiment, (the sea islands excepted,) be forthwith drafted, and marched to the general rendezvous at Dorchester; that the two remaining thirds of the said Regiments be held in readiness, to relieve those drafts, according to orders; and that the Indian company of Rovers, commanded by Captain John Allston, be ordered to scour the sea coast from Sevee Bay to Haddrell's Point, subject to the orders of the Council of Safety.

On motion, Resolved, That the Committees for the sea islands be, and they are hereby authorized and required forthwith to erect look-outs at the same places, and cause the same signals of alarm and notices to be given as have been usual in time of war; and that this Congress will cause the expense thereof to be paid.

Inasmuch as it is the sense of the Continental Congress that Charlestown ought to be defended to the last extremity against any attack; and this Congress think such defence absolutely necessary; and an attack is apprehended: therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended, and it is hereby recommended, that all such persons who are by law considered as residents in Charlestown, and liable to bear arms, and have departed, do forthwith return to Charlestown; and that all persons, residents as aforesaid, and liable to bear arms, and who are in Charlestown, do not depart therefrom.

A motion being made for the addition of the words, "without permission first had and obtained," to the above resolve,

A debate ensued; and the question being put,
It passed in the negative.

Ordered, That all the Resolves entered into by this Congress, during their present session, respecting the Militia of this Colony, be forthwith printed and published, in handbills, and also in the Gazettes.

Adjourned to six o'clock, in the evening.

In Congress, Tuesday, November 28, 1775, P. M.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

On motion, Resolved, That Lieutenant-Colonel Roberts, or the commanding officer of the Regiment of Artillery in Charlestown, be, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to cause proper forges for heating cannonballs to be forthwith erected and built, at or near such batteries as he shall think them necessary.

Ordered, That Captain Gillon be added to the Commissioners for fitting out, arming, and manning the Ship Prosper.

Ordered, That Commissions be made out to fill up the vacancies in Colonel Powell's Regiment of Militia.

Ordered, That three hundred pounds weight of Gunpowder be delivered, out of the publick stock reserved for the inland defence of this Colony, to the order of the Committee of St. David's Parish, to be distributed amongst such of the men in Colonel Powell's Regiment as are unprovided, to be by them reserved for publick uses only.

Whereas we have intelligence that a certain person has been sent by General Gage, to raise Recruits in this Colony, for an Army whose object is to kill and destroy the innocent inhabitants of these Colonies:

It is therefore declared, by authority of Congress, That this Colony will consider such an attempt, by any man, as the highest crime against the peace, liberty, and safety of its inhabitants; and that any person found so offending, will be treated with all that rigour which the nature of so enormous a crime deserves. The inhabitants of this Colony are therefore warned against the base and cruel attempts of any such emissaries; and all manner of persons are hereby requested to be watchful to detect and seize any and every such person; and all reasonable charges shall be borne by the publick, and a handsome reward allowed for apprehending and securing him or them.

Ordered, That eleven hundred pounds weight of Gunpowder, and a proportionable quantity of Cannon Balls, be delivered to the Hon. Major Elliott, for the use of the several batteries under the direction of the Artillery.

Ordered, That the Journals of the present Session of Congress be printed with all possible despatch; and when printed, delivered to the Committee of Intelligence, in order to be by them despatched three to each Delegate throughout the Colony, who shall properly distribute the same.

The Rev. Mr. Tennent, from the Committee on the state of Manufactories in this Colony, delivered in a further Report.

Which being read, and taken into immediate consideration:

And the whole Report being gone through, the Congress came to the following Resolutions thereupon, viz:

Resolved, That a premium of two hundred Pounds currency, be given to the person erecting a Saltpetre work in this Colony, that shall first produce fifty pounds weight of good and merchantable Saltpetre; also a premium of one hundred and fifty Pounds, to the person erecting the second work, that shall next produce a like quantity of like saltpetre; also a premium of one hundred Pounds currency, to the person erecting a third work, producing the next like quantity and quality of saltpetre; and a premium of fifty Pounds currency, to the person who shall next manufacture a like quantity and quality of saltpetre from a fourth work: Provided, That such parcels of saltpetre as aforesaid, shall have been produced before the Committees of the Parishes or Districts respectively, where the same shall have been manufactured, and shall have been by the parties so producing, declared upon oath, on or before the first day of September next, before the Committees aforesaid, to have been manufactured as aforesaid. And that, upon the said Committees granting certificates, that the saltpetre is good and merchantable, and when produced before them, the premiums to which the said parcels of saltpetre are respectively entitled, shall be paid accordingly. And that the publick will purchase, and allow half a dollar the pound, for all the good and merchantable saltpetre that shall be produced and manufactured in this Colony, before the said first day of September next, over and above the premiums aforesaid.

Resolved, That a premium of two hundred Pounds currency, be given to the person who shall erect a Sulphur work in this Colony, that shall first produce one hundred pounds weight of merchantable sulphur; a premium of one hundred Pounds to the person erecting a like work, producing the next like quantity and quality; and a premium of fifty Pounds for the like quantity and quality of sulphur manufactured at a third work. The proofs to be made, certificates obtained, and premiums to be paid, in like manner as for saltpetre. And that the publick will purchase, and give for all the merchantable sulphur that shall be made in the Colony, before the first day of September next, five Shillings currency the pound, over and above the premiums aforesaid.

Resolved, That a premium of one thousand Pounds currency be given to the person who shall erect a Bloomery in this Colony, that shall first produce, manufactured thereat, one ton of good Bar Iron; a premium of eight hundred Pounds to the person erecting another bloomery, whereat the next like quantity of bar iron shall have been manufactured; and a premium of seven hundred Pounds to the person erecting a third such work, whereat shall have been manufactured a like quantity of like iron. These premiums over and above the common prices of such iron.

Resolved, That a premium of five hundred Pounds currency, shall be given to the person who shall erect a proper work in this Colony, for manufacturing good Bar Steel, upon his producing five hundred pounds weight, made thereat; a like premium to the person who shall produce the next like quantity, made at another like work; and also a premium of five hundred Pounds currency to the person, who, from a third like work, shall produce the like quantity.

Resolved, That a premium of seven hundred Pounds currency be given to the person who shall produce the first one thousand pounds weight of Nail Rods, manufactured at a proper rolling and slitting mill, erected by him in this Colony, over and above the common price.

Resolved, That a premium of one hundred and fifty Pounds currency, over and above the common price, be given to the person who shall first make fifty large and substantial Gun Locks, such as are commonly called bridle locks, and sell at thirty-five to forty-five Shillings each; the manufacturer engaging to proceed in the business.

Resolved, That a premium of three hundred Pounds currency be given to the person who shall erect the first proper works for manufacturing of Salt in this Colony, upon one hundred bushels of good salt having been produced therefrom; and a premium of two hundred Pounds to the person producing from other like works, the next like quantity of good salt.

Resolved, That a premium of five hundred Pounds currency be given to the person who shall first erect and establish a proper Paper Mill in this Colony, upon producing three reams of good writing paper, manufactured thereat.

Resolved, That a premium of five hundred Pounds currency be given to the person who shall first erect a proper work for manufacturing Lead in this Colony, on producing one thousand pounds weight made at said work; a premium of two hundred Pounds to the person who shall next produce one thousand pounds of lead, manufactured at another work in this Colony; and a premium of one hundred Pounds to the person who shall erect a third such work, producing the like quantity of lead.

Resolved, That this Congress will give the same premiums and encouragement for the manufacturing of Linens, Cottons, and other articles, as are allowed and given by an act of the General Assembly of this Colony, passed in the year 1770; and for the manufacturing of Woollens in proportion.

And further, it is Resolved, That application, oath, and certificate, relative to the manufacturing every article, upon which premiums are to be given, shall be made and granted, by the manufacturers respectively, and the Committees, as stated and specified in relation to Saltpetre.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Congress, Wednesday, November 29, 1775.

The Congress met according to adjournment.

And the Journal of yesterday was read.

On motion, Resolved, That all future vacancies, by the decease, refusal to act, or removal from the Colony, of any members of Congress, or of Parochial and District Committees, shall be filled up in the usual way of electing, by the inhabitants of the respective Parishes or Districts where such vacancies shall happen, after a time has been appointed, and sufficient notice thereof given by the respective Parochial or District Committees.

Daniel de Saussure and Robert William Powell, Esqrs., the Delegates sent from this Congress to the Provincial Congress of Georgia, upon the late commencement of hostilities against this place, returned, and reported some pernicious illicit practices which had come under their observation, relative to the disposal and exportation of Indigo from Georgia.

Whereupon the Congress came to the following Resolution:

Whereas the Continental Congress, on the first day of November last, resolved, "That no produce of the United Colonies be exported (except from Colony to Colony, under the direction of the Committees of Inspection and Observation, and except from one part to another of the same Colony) before the first day of March next, without the permission of this Congress; and that no Rice be exported under the exception contained in the fourth article of the Association, from any of the United Colonies, to Great Britain, Ireland, or the Islands of Jersey, Guersey, Sark, Alderney or Man, or any other European Island or settlement within the British Dominions;" Wherefore, to give efficacy to so important an act, it is hereby published and declared, to the end that all persons govern themselves accordingly.

Ordered, That Mr. President be desired to write to Georgia, relative to the exportation of Indigo and Rice, inclosing a copy of the Continental Resolve relative to the latter.

On motion, Resolved, That the Thanks of this Congress be returned to the President and Members of the late Council of Safety, for their great diligence in their attendance on the publick affairs of this Colony.

And Mr. President returned the Thanks of the Congress accordingly, to those gentlemen.

On motion, Resolved, That Messrs. Andrew Frederick, Peter Moorer, and Isham Clayton, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners for repairing and keeping in repair, the publick road between the Charlestown District line, and the line of the Parish of St. Andrew. And that the said intermediate District do elect a District Committee, after having given proper notice of such intended election.

Ordered, That the Committee of Intelligence do, in future, enter into proper books, to be kept for that purpose, minutes of all their transactions; together with copies of all the letters that shall be written by and to them.

And that they do produce the books, containing whatever shall be done or written, by order of the Council of Safety or General Committee, to either of those bodies respectively by whom the same has been ordered, whenever required so to do.

On motion, Resolved, That Colonel Laurens, Colonel Pinckney, the Hon. Mr. Lowndes, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Joseph Kershaw, and Col. Daniel Horry, be, and they are hereby appointed a Committee to make diligent inquiry, during the recess of Congress, and report early at the next meeting thereof, what communications between different Rivers in this Colony, the present or future circumstances of our affairs may render absolutely necessary to be opened, or prove beneficial, particularly between Santee and Cooper Rivers, and Edisto and Ashley Rivers; the manner in which the same may be most effectually and expeditiously carried into execution; and estimates of the expense that will attend the same.

On motion, Resolved, That the Hon. Henry Middleton, Thomas Lynch, Esq., Colonel Christopher Gadsden, John Rutledge, and Edward Rutledge, Esqrs., or any two of them, be, and they are hereby continued, and fully authorized, to represent this Colony in the American Congress now holding at Philadelphia; with the same powers as were vested in those gentlemen at their election by the late Congress of this Colony held in June last.

On motion, Resolved, That the counterfeiting or imitating any of the Certificates issued and passing current, as money, by authority of Congress, or uttering, knowing the same to be counterfeit, be, and is hereby declared a capital offence, and punishable, as such, by authority of Congress.

On motion, Resolved, That this Congress shall be adjourned to the first day of February next. And that those members who do not attend the service of their country at the said adjournment, shall then be sent for, at their own expense, unless good and satisfactory reasons shall then be given for their non-attendance.

On motion, Resolved, That the making a proper compensation to the Secretary for his services, and also to his Assistant during the present Session of Congress, be left to the discretion of the Council of Safety.

On motion, Resolved, That the Thanks of this Congress be returned to the several persons who have been volunteers in, or otherwise engaged in hazardous services, for the benefit of this Colony or the common cause. And that the Council of Safety be authorized and empowered to bestow honorary or other Rewards, upon such as they shall think entitled to either.

Captain John Joiner being present in Congress, Mr. President returned him their Thanks for his late services.

On motion, Resolved, That the Thanks of the Congress are due to the Rev. Mr. Tennent, and also to the Rev. Mr. Oliver Hart, for the important services by them respectively rendered to this Colony, in their late progress into the back country.

And the Rev. Mr. Tennent being present, received the Thanks of the Congress accordingly.

On motion, Resolved, That the Thanks of this Congress be returned to the Hon. William Henry Drayton, President thereof, for the diligence and propriety with which he has discharged the duties of that important station. And that the Hon. Mr. Lowndes do, on the part of the Congress, deliver to Mr. President their Thanks accordingly.

The Hon. Mr. Lowndes then addressed the Chair, in words to the following effect:

"MR. PRESIDENT: The Congress, sensible of your integrity of heart, and ability of mind, placed you in the chair, for the most important purposes. Your unwearied attendance, during this long session, and your conduct, have given the most perfect satisfaction. You are therefore justly entitled to the Thanks of this Congress, who have made me the instrument by which their Thanks are presented to you, and which, in their name, I do present."

On motion, Resolved, That the Thanks of the Congress be also presented to Peter Timothy, their Secretary, for his great diligence, unwearied attention, and accuracy, in the execution of his office.

And Thanks were accordingly returned to him from the chair.

Ordered, That Mr. President be requested to transmit to the Council of Safety at Salisbury in North-Carolina, a copy of the Petition and Remonstrance of Messrs. Dunn and Boote, desiring to know their pleasure thereon.

The Congress was then adjourned to Thursday, the first day of February next.

Paul Carrington, Esq., a Delegate for the County of Charlotte, reminded the Convention of the death of the Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esq., the late worthy Pre-sident, which made it necessary to appoint another, and did recommend Edmund Pendleton, Esq., as a gentleman in every respect qualified to fill that important office. He was seconded by James Mercer, Esq., a Delegate for the County of Hampshire; and upon a question put, the said Edmund Pendleton was elected President, and took the chair accordingly, from whence he made his acknowledgments for this distinguished mark of their favour, in calling him to an office of such honour and importance, as unsolici-tated as unmerited. He entreated their candour and assist-ance to enable him to discharge it with propriety, in which he promised every exertion of his small abilities.

Ordered, That Mr. John Tazewell be appointed Clerk of this Convention.

A Letter from Colonel Woodford, of the Second Regi-ment, was laid before the Convention, and read; repre-senting the situation of the Troops under his command, and of those under Lord Dunmore; that he had received an offer of assistance from the commanding officer of the Troops stationed in North-Carolina, not far distant, which he had hitherto declined to call for, thinking the force he had at present sufficient, but that he would take his mea-sures as circumstances should occur.

Resolved, That the President be required, in a Letter to Colonel Woodford, to be sent by express, to desire he will risk the success of his arms as little as possible, and, if there is not a moral probability of security with the Troops he hath, he will embrace the offer of assistance from those of North-Carolina, by sending immediately for them.

Ordered, That Mr. Francis Eppes be appointed Mes-senger to this Convention.

Resolved, That Mr. Joseph Prentis, who is elected a Delegate to represent the City of Williamsburgh, in the room and during the necessary absence of George Wythe, Esq., one of the Delegates for this Colony in General Congress, be admitted into this Convention as a Delegate for the said city.

The Convention adjourned till Monday next eleven o'clock, then to meet in the City of Williamsburgh.

— Williamsburgh, Monday, December 4, 1775.

The Convention met according to adjournment; but there not being members sufficient to proceed to business, adjourned till to-morrow ten o'clock.

— Tuesday, December 5, 1775.

Resolved, That the Rev. Thomas Price be appointed Chaplain to this Convention, and that he be desired to read prayers every morning, at ten o'clock.

Resolved, That John A. Washington, Esq., having accepted the office of Sheriff of the County of Westmoreland, is incapable of sitting and voting in this Convention as a Delegate for the said County, and that the President issue his Warrant for the election of a Delegate for the said County, and for all other Counties and Corporations as are not represented in this Convention, by the necessary attendance of the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, during their absence.

Ordered, That the Committee of Safety do lay their Proceedings before this Convention.

Several Letters received by the Committee of Safety, from the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City, were presented to the Convention, and ordered to be referred to Mr. Mercer, Mr. Bland, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Treasurer, Joseph Jones, Mr. Holt, Mr. Newton, Mr. King, Mr. Ruffin, and Mr. Read, and they are to report such thereof to this Convention as may concern the publick.

Mr. Bland from the Committee of Safety, according to order, laid before the Convention the Proceedings of the said Committee, which were ordered to lie on the table.

The President laid before the Convention several Letters received from the Delegates of this Colony in General Congress, and others, which were ordered to lie on the table.

Resolved, That this Convention will immediately resolve itself into a Committee to take into their consideration the state of the Colony; and that the Letters laid before this Convention by the President, together with the Proceedings of the Committee of Safety, be referred to the said Committee.

The Committee accordingly resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Treasurer reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be revived, and that they continue to exercise the powers with which they were vested by the several Ordinances until the end of this session.

Ordered, That Mr. Cary, Mr. Adams, Mr. Parker, Mr. Banister, and Mr. William Cabell, be appointed a Committee to examine Charles Robertson, who hath been apprehended as a suspected person, together with the several Papers found in his possession, and make report.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

— Wednesday, December 6, 1775.

A proposition from the Rev. John Dixon was presented to the Convention and read; setting forth, that by several experiments made in the County of Gloucester, he finds he can make considerable quantities of Salt, and desiring the encouragement of the publick in so useful an undertaking.

Ordered, That the said proposition do lie on the table.

Resolved, That the Commanding Officer of the Forces raised for the protection and defence of this Colony do lay before the Convention a state and return of the Forces under his command, and of their several stations.

Resolved, That all intercepted Letters which are supposed to concern the publick be transmitted to the Committee of Safety, unopened.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee appointed to report such of the Letters transmitted to the Committee of Safety from the Committee of the County of Elizabeth City, as concerned the publick, reported several of the said Letters.

Ordered, That the said Letters be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonel Woodford, in answer to one formerly written to him.

Ordered, That the said Letter be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Friday, December 8, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter received from Colonel Woodford, of the Second Regiment.

Ordered, That the said Letter be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

A Proclamation issued by Lord Dunmore, the 7th of November last, declaring martial law to be enforced throughout this Colony, and requiring every person capable of bearing arms to resort to His Majesty's standard by him erected in the Town of Norfolk, or be considered as traitors to His Majesty's crown and Government, and further declaring all negroes and indentured servants capable of bearing arms, and appertaining to rebels, free; also, a certificate of an oath taken by several of the inhabitants of the Counties of Norfolk and Princess Anne, in consequence thereof; were presented to the Convention and read.

Ordered, That the said Proclamation and Certificate be referred to Mr. Treasurer, Mr. Braxton, Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Jones, Mr. Banister, Mr. Parker, Mr. Cary, Mr. Smith, the Rev. Mr. Muhlenburg, and Mr. Page; and they are to draw up a Declaration in answer thereto, and make report.

Ordered, That the said Committee do also select for publication such of the Letters laid before this Convention as they shall think proper.

Resolved, That the venders of Salt, imported not contrary to the Continental Association, be allowed to demand and receive whatever price they can obtain for that necessary article.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony for the time being be required to purchase for the publick use, all the good and merchantable Gunpowder which may be imported into this Colony, or manufactured here, at any time within six months, and allow the price of six Shillings per pound for the same.

Resolved, That Joseph Cabell, Thomas Randolph, and Jerman Bulker, Gentlemen, be appointed Commissioners to receive for and pay to the several claimants, in the Southern District, for services in the late expedition against the Indians, whatever may be due them from the publick, and not called for at the Treasury; and that Francis Peyton, George Rootes, and John Nevill, Gentlemen, be appointed Commissioners for the like purpose in the Northern District.

Mr. Braxton, from the Committee to whom the proposition of the Rev. John Dixon, for the manufactory of Salt, was referred, reported, that the Committee had had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention.

Resolved, That the samples of Salt exhibited by the Rev. Mr. Dixon do not appear to be sufficiently purified, but are of great strength in their taste.

That the said Mr. Dixon, having given assurances of his intention to proceed in this work with expedition and diligence, if supported with a sum of money from the country, not exceeding fifty Pounds, to purchase his kettles, and other necessities, the Committee are of opinion the said sum ought to be advanced to the said Mr. Dixon, upon his giving security to repay the money if his work succeeds within twelve months; and if it does not, to return what articles he bought with the country's money.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Treasurer reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, December 9, 1775.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony do advance the sum of one hundred Pounds to Charles Carter, Esq., as an encouragement to promote the manufactory of Saltpetre, in which he is at present engaged, he entering into bond, with security to repay the same in saltpetre, at the price of three Shillings per pound, within six months.

Resolved, That the like sum of one hundred Pounds be advanced by the Treasurer of this Colony to the Dumfries Saltpetre Company, to promote their manufactory of that article, they entering into bond, with security to repay the same in saltpetre, at the price of three shillings per pound, within six months.

Ordered, That Mr. Carter of Stafford, have leave to be absent from the service of this Convention for the remainder of this session.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Treasurer reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their further consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will, on Monday next, resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till Monday, half after ten o'clock.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into the said Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

The President laid before the Convention a Journal of the Proceedings of the General Congress held at the City of Philadelphia, the tenth day of May last.

Ordered, That the same do lie on the table, for the perusal of the members.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, December 12, 1775.

The Convention, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Carey reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to several Resolutions thereupon, which he was ready to report when the Convention should be pleased to receive them.

Ordered, That the said Report be received to-morrow.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, again resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter received from Colonel Woodford, which being read,

Resolved unanimously, That this Convention do highly approve of Colonel Woodford's conduct, manifested as well in the success of the Troops under his command, as in the humane treatment of, and kind attention to, the unfortunate, though brave Officers and Soldiers, who were made prisoners in the late action near the Great Bridge, and that the President communicate to Colonel Woodford the sense of his country on this occasion.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Wednesday, December 13, 1775.

Mr. Treasurer, from the Committee appointed to draw up a Declaration in answer to Lord Dunmore's Proclamation, reported, that the Committee had accordingly prepared the following Declaration; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and unanimously agreed to:

By the Representatives of the People of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA, assembled in General Convention.

A DECLARATION.

Whereas Lord Dunmore, by his Proclamation, dated on board the Ship William, the 7th day of November, 1775, hath presumed, in direct violation of the Constitution, and the laws of this country, to declare martial law in force, and to be executed throughout this Colony, whereby our lives, our liberty, and property, are arbitrarily subjected to his power and direction; and whereas the said Lord Dunmore, assuming powers which the King himself cannot exercise, to intimidate the good people of this Colony into a compliance with his arbitrary will, hath declared those who do not immediately repair to his standard, and submit in all things to a Government not warranted by the Constitution, to be in actual rebellion, and thereby to have incurred the penalties inflicted by the laws for such offences; and hath offered freedom to the servants and slaves of those he is pleased to term Rebels, arming them against their masters, and destroying the peace and happiness of His Majesty's good and faithful subjects, whose property is rendered insecure, and whose lives are exposed to the dangers of a general insurrection: We, as guardians of the lives and liberty of the people, our constituents, conceive it to be indispensably our duty to protect them against every species of despotism, and to endeavour to remove those fears with which they are so justly alarmed.

If it were possible the understandings of men could be so blinded that every gleam of reason might be lost, the hope his Lordship says he hath ever entertained of an accommodation between Great Britain and this Colony might now pass unnoticed; but truth, justice, and common sense, must ever prevail, when facts can be appealed to in their support. It is the peculiar happiness of this Colony, that his Lordship can be traced as the source of innumerable evils, and one of the principal causes of the misfortunes, under which we now labour. A particular detail of his conduct, since his arrival in this Colony, can be considered only as a repetition, it having been already fully published to the world by the proceedings of the General Assembly, and a former Convention; but the unremitting violence with which his Lordship endeavours to involve this country in the most dreadful calamities, constantly affords new matter for the attention of the publick, and will remove every imputation of ingratitude to his Lordship, or of injustice to his character. His Lordship is pleased to ascribe the unworthy part he hath taken against this Colony, to a necessity arising from the conduct of its inhabitants, whom he hath considered in a rebellious state, but who know nothing of rebellion except the name. Ever zealous in support of tyranny, he hath broken the bonds of society, and trampled justice under his feet. Had his Lordship been desirous of effecting an accommodation of these disputes, he hath had the most ample occasion of exerting both his interest and abilities; but that he never had in view any such salutary end, most evidently appears from the whole tenor of his conduct. The supposed design of the Canada bill having been to draw down upon us a merciless and savage enemy, the present manœuvres amongst the Roman Catholics in Ireland, and the schemes concerted with Doctor Connolly, and other vile instruments of tyranny, which have appeared by the examination of the said Connolly, justify the supposition, and most fully evince, his Lordship's inimical and cruel disposition towards us, and can best determine whether we have been wrong in preparing to resist, even by arms, that system of tyranny adopted by the Ministry and Parliament of Great Britain, of which he is become the rigid executioner in this Colony. The many depredations committed also upon the inhabitants of this Colony, by the tenders and other armed vessels employed by his Lordship for such purposes, the pilfering and plundering the property of the people, and the actual seduction and seizure of their slaves, were truly alarming in their effects, and called aloud for justice and resistance. The persons of many of our peaceable brethren have been seized and dragged to confinement, contrary to the principles of liberty, and the constitution of our country. Yet have we borne this injurious treatment with unexampled patience, unwilling to shed the blood of our fellow-subjects; who, prosecuting the measures of a British Parliament, would sacrifice our lives and property to a relentless fury, and unabating avarice. If a Governor can be authorized, even by majesty itself, to annul the laws of the land, and introduce the most execrable of all systems, the law martial; if, by his single fiat, he can strip us of our property, can give freedom to our servants and slaves, and arm them for our destruction; let us bid adieu to every thing valuable in life, let us at once bend our neck to the galling yoke, and hug the chains prepared for us and our latest posterity.

It is with inexpressible concern we reflect upon the distressed situation of some of our unhappy countrymen who have thought themselves too immediately within the power of Lord Dunmore, and have been induced thereby to remain inactive. We lament the advantage he hath taken of their situation, and at present impute their inactivity in the cause of freedom and the constitution, not to any defection or want of zeal, but to their defenceless state; and whilst we endeavour to afford them succour, and to support their rights, we expect they will contribute every thing in their power to effect their deliverance. Yet, if any of our people, in violation of their faith plighted to this Colony, and the duty they owe to society, shall be found in arms, or continue to give assistance to our enemies, we shall think ourselves justified, by the necessity we are under, in executing upon them the law of retaliation.

Impressed with a just and ardent zeal for the welfare and happiness of our countrymen, we trust they will, on their part, exert themselves in defence of our common cause, and that we shall all acquit ourselves like freemen, being compelled, by a disagreeable, but absolute necessity of repelling force by force, to maintain our just rights and privileges; and we appeal to God, who is the sovereign disposer of all events, for the justice of our cause, trusting to his unerring wisdom to direct our counsels, and give success to our arms.

Resolved, That the Committee appointed to prepare a Declaration in answer to Lord Dunmore's Proclamation, do also draw up and report a Declaration offering pardon to such Slaves as shall return to their duty within ten days after the publication thereof, or be liable to such punishment as shall be directed by the Convention.

Resolved, That a Delegate be chosen by ballot, on Friday next, to attend the Continental Congress, in the room of the late Hon. Peyton Randolph, Esq.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety do write to Colonel Woodford, desiring that he will endeavour to effect an exchange of the Prisoners in his possession for our worthy countrymen now confined by Lord Dunmore; and, if he should not be able to effect such exchange, that he send his Prisoners to the City of Williamsburgh, as soon as it can be conveniently done, and that he also send the Slaves taken to the said City.

Ordered, That the Slaves taken and confined at the Town of Hampton, be sent to the publick Jail in the City of Williamsburgh.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter received from the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, enclosing several Resolutions of that respectable body; which were read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Thursday, December 14, 1775.

A Petition of sundry surviving Captains of Companies on the late expedition against the Indians, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that the said expedition was greatly promoted by their zeal for the service, and that they had advanced considerable sums of money, and extended their credit to the utmost, in order to supply the soldiers under their command with every necessary for the campaign; that they did this from an expectation that the Troops would be paid off in the manner practised heretofore, and that each Captain should receive the pay of his Company, and thereby be enabled to reimburse himself what he might have advanced the Soldiers under him; but that it is with great concern they have lately understood the Commissioners appointed to settle the accounts had come to a resolution not to pay any soldier or packhorse-man unless such person should appear, or give an order in writing for the same, by which they conceive they shall be considerable losers, as many of the Soldiers were now dispersed over the Continent, expecting their pay would be delivered into the hands of their respective Captains, to discharge the money advanced for them; and praying such relief as this Convention should think just and reasonable.

Resolved, That the Commissioners appointed to receive for and pay to the several Claimants in the Southern District, for services in the late expedition against the Indians, whatever may be due to them from the publick, do in the first place settle the Accounts between the Captains and the Men under their command, and pay to the said Captains whatever shall be found due to them on such settlement.

Mr. Cary, according to order, reported, that the Committee of the whole Convention had come to the following Resolutions; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the regular Forces now in the pay of this Colony be recruited to ten Companies of sixty-eight men each, rank and file; and that six other Battalions, each to consist of the like number of men, with their proper Officers, exclusive of the forces already voted for the defence of the Counties of Northampton and Accomack, be raised and embodied for the defence and protection of this Colony, and that these levies be recruited throughout the Colony.

Resolved, That each of the said Battalions be commanded by a Colonel, a Lieutenant Colonel, Major, ten Captains, twenty Lieutenants, ten Ensigns, and thirty Sergeants.

Resolved, That one of the said Battalions be composed of Germans, with German Officers.

That the plan formerly established for the defence of this Colony, by Minute-men and Militia, ought to be continued, with some alterations.

Ordered, That Mr. Cary, Mr. A. Lewis, Mr. Meredith, Mr. Wills, Mr. Jones, Mr. Banister, Mr. Smith, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Harvie, Mr. Kenner, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Holt, and Mr. Travis, be a Committee to prepare and bring in an Ordinance pursuant to the foregoing Resolutions.

Resolved, That the said Committee, or any seven of them, be a sufficient number to proceed to business.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee to whom it was referred to examine Charles Robinson, who had been apprehended as a suspected person, reported, that the Committee had accordingly examined him, and had found no Papers of a publick nature in his possession; but, as he is at present in the employment of a person in arms against this Colony, they are of opinion he ought not to be suffered to return to Norfolk, but be admitted to go at large on his parole.

Resolved, That the Convention doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonel Woodford, enclosing a Petition from the poor Inhabitants of the Town of Norfolk, requesting his protection; also a Petition from sundry distressed Highlanders, lately arrived from Scotland, praying that they might be permitted to go to Cape Fear, in North-Carolina, the place where they intended to settle, together with sundry other papers, which were read.

Resolved, That the President be desired to write to Colonel Woodford, directing him that all such Tories taken by him, who shall, upon an examination before the Field Officers, appear to have borne Arms against this Colony, be sent to the City of Williamsburgh; and that all others who, upon such examination, shall appear inimical to the liberties of America, be detained by him till the further order of the Convention, or Committee of Safety; that he extend all reasonable indulgence to such as appear to have taken the part of Lord Dunmore through necessity; that he take the distressed Highlanders, with their families, under his protection, permit them to pass by land unmolested to Carolina, and supply them with such provisions as they may be in immediate want of.

The President also laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonel Howe, of North-Carolina, informing him that he had joined Colonel Woodford with the Troops under his command, and should be happy to afford him his best assistance.

Resolved, That the President be desired to write to Colonel Howe, acknowledging the receipt of his obliging Letter, and thanking him for his good intentions towards this Colony.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to several Resolutions thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, As the opinion of this Committee, that the Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for this Colony, ought to be amended.

Resolved, As the opinion of this Committee, that persons harbouring Deserters from the forces raised, or to be raised for the defence of this Colony, ought to be punished.

Resolved, That the representation from the County of Accomack, and request therein contained, are reasonable, and that they be assured the Convention will pay a proper attention thereto, and afford them every protection in their power.

Resolved, That Mr. Mercer, Mr. Cary, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Page, Mr. R. Carter, Mr. John Walker, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Harvie, Mr. Gray, Mr. Parkins, Mr. Lankford, and Mr. Poythress, be a Committee to prepare an Ordinance pursuant to the first of the said Resolutions; and that the Committee formerly appointed to prepare and bring in an Ordinance pursuant to the Resolutions for recruiting the regular Forces, now in the pay of this Colony, to ten Companies, and for raising six other Battalions, do receive a clause, or clauses, pursuant to the second Resolution.

Mr. Treasurer, from the Committee appointed to draw up a Declaration, offering pardon to such Slaves as should return to their duty, reported, that the Committee had accordingly prepared the following Declaration; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and unanimously agreed to:

By the Representatives of the People of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA, assembled in General Convention.

A DECLARATION.

Whereas Lord Dunmore, by his Proclamation, dated on board the Ship William, off Norfolk, the 7th day of November, 1775, hath offered freedom to such able-bodied Slaves as are willing to join him, and take up arms against the good people of this Colony, giving thereby encouragement to a general insurrection, which may induce a necessity of inflicting the severest punishments upon those unhappy people, already deluded by his base and insidious arts; and whereas, by an act of the General Assembly now in force in this Colony, it is enacted, that all negro or other slaves, conspiring to rebel or make insurrection, shall suffer death, and be excluded all benefit of clergy: we think it proper to declare, that all slaves who have been, or shall be seduced, by his Lordship's Proclamation, or other arts, to desert their master's service, and take up arms against the inhabitants of this Colony, shall be liable to such punishment as shall hereafter be directed by the General Convention. And to the end that all such who have taken this unlawful and wicked step may return in safety to their duty, and escape the punishment due to their crimes, we hereby promise pardon to them, they surrendering themselves to Colonel William Woodford, or any other commander of our Troops, and not appearing in arms after the publication hereof. And we do further earnestly recommend it to all humane and benevolent persons in this Colony to explain and make known this our offer of mercy to those unfortunate people.

A Memorial from the Vestry of the Parish of Henrico, in the County of Henrico, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they are at a loss to know in what manner their Minister's salary ought to be levied and collected, the same being directed by Act of Assembly to be paid to the Minister in Tobacco, if required by him; and praying the Convention would take the same into consideration, and give such direction therein as shall be thought just and reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for establishing a general Test; and that Mr. Mercer and Mr. Adams do prepare and bring in the same.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Arms and Warlike Accoutrements taken at the late engagement at the Great Bridge, be fairly appraised, and retained for the use of the Colony; and that the value thereof, together with the Money to be produced by the sales of the other articles taken on that occasion, be divided among the Soldiers.

Resolved, That no person be allowed to make reprisal on the property of Lord Dunmore, in this Colony, or their property seized by him, or the Navy, without the order of this Convention.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Commissioners appointed to treat with the different Tribes of Indians, which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Ordered, That the Committee of Safety do cause so many of the captive Slaves, as they shall think necessary, to be employed in working the Lead Mine in the County of Fincastle, for the use of this Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Friday, December 15, 1775.

The Convention, according to the Order of the Day, proceeded to the appointment of a Delegate, to represent this Colony in General Congress, in the room of the late Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esq.; and the Members having prepared tickets, with the name of the Delegate to be appointed, and put the same into the ballot box, Mr. Thomas Ludwell Lee, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Digges, Mr. William Cabell, and Mr. Carter, of Lancaster, were appointed a Committee to examine the ballot box, and report on whom the majority fell; and it appearing, from their Report, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Carter Braxton, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Carter Braxton, Esq., be appointed a Delegate to represent this Colony in General Congress, in the room of the late Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esq.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow proceed to the appointment of a Committee of Safety, to consist of eleven persons, and that the same be made by ballot.

Ordered, That Mr. Terry, Mr. Watkins, and Mr. Bibb, be added to the Committee appointed to prepare an Ordinance for amending the Ordinance of the last Convention for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into the said Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, December 16, 1775.

A Petition of Robert Stephen was presented to the Convention and read; setting forth, that his son William Stephen, being very desirous of serving his country in the late expedition against the Indians, enlisted, by his permission, as a soldier, although only fourteen years of age; that, unfortunately for your Petitioner, he was slain in the action with the Indians, the tenth of October, 1774, by which means your Petitioner, being aged and infirm, is deprived of his only support, and therefore praying that this Convention will take his case into consideration, and grant him such relief as shall be thought reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Commissioners appointed to settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the County of Lunenburg, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they are determined with their lives and fortunes, to defend the liberties of America, and to stand or fall with their country; that they will, at all times, endeavour to promote union and brotherly love among their countrymen, and those from any other parts of the world, who do not show themselves inimical to the rights of mankind; that they are persuaded this Convention had in view these important objects when the Resolution in favour of the Merchants and Factors from Great Britain residing here was entered into, but experience having proved that the good purposes thereby intended are not answered, but on the contrary, jealousies and distinctions, which before might have existed, are greatly increased, and praying the said Resolution may be rescinded, and in lieu thereof a Test established, whereby the friends of America may be distinguished from those who are inimical to the glorious cause in which this country is engaged.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

A Petition of Doctor Archibald Campbell, of the Borough of Norfolk, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that at a meeting of the Magistrates, and other principal Inhabitants of the said Borough, he was deputed, with several others, to wait on Colonel Woodford, commander of the Forces of this Colony, then at the Great Bridge, in Norfolk County, to know his intentions in respect to the treatment the Inhabitants of the said Borough were to expect from the Army under his command, as it had been currently reported that the Town was to be plundered, and then burnt, and also to know what part they were to act to avoid such calamities; that he accordingly made application to Colonel Woodford, who directed him to apply to this Convention, to whom he should submit the matter; that he hath been informed that some unfriendly person had represented to Colonel Woodford, that he had taken an active part, under Lord Dunmore, relative to the late transactions in the said Borough, which charge he denies, so far as it relates to matters inimical to the Colony; and that he never acted under Lord Dunmore further than he was constrained by his Lordship's establishing martial law; and praying the protection of this Convention in behalf of the Inhabitants of the said Borough; and that if any inquiry into his conduct should be thought necessary, a Committee might be appointed for that purpose.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Holt, Mr. Newton, Mr. Meade, Mr. Murdaugh, Mr. Wills, Mr. Adams, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. Meredith, Mr. Rootes, and Mr. Mercer; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That the said Archibald Campbell be confined to his room in the City of Williamsburgh, under a proper Guard, till the further order of the Convention, or Committee of Safety.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of the Committee of Safety; and the Members having prepared tickets, with the names of eleven persons to be of the said Committee and put the same into the ballot box, Mr. Watkins, Mr. Gray, Mr. Syne, and Mr. Drew, were appointed a Committee to examine the same, and report on whom the majority fell; who retired, and after some time returned into Convention, and reported that the numbers stood as follows:

For Dudley Digges , Esq.,	- - -	74
John Page , Esq.,	- - -	73
Paul Carrington , Esq.,	- - -	72
Edmund Pendleton , Esq.,	- - -	65
James Mercer , Esq.,	- - -	64
Thomas Ludwell Lee , Esq.,	- - -	61
William Cabell , Esq.,	- - -	59
Richard Bland , Esq.,	- - -	55
Joseph Jones , Esq.,	- - -	48
John Tabb , Esq.,	- - -	46
Thomas Walker , Esq.,	- - -	31

Resolved therefore, That the said Dudley Digges, John Page, Paul Carrington, Edmund Pendleton, James Mercer, Thomas Ludwell Lee, Wm. Cabell, Richard Bland, Joseph Jones, John Tabb, and Thomas Walker, Esquires, be appointed Members of the said Committee of Safety.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That the Convention will, on Monday next, resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till Monday, half after ten o'clock.

Monday, December 18, 1775.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; and that Mr. Richard Lee and Mr. Henry Lee do prepare and bring in the same.

A Petition of John Chew, John Hewes, and Ambrose Rains, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they had served under Captain John Herndon as volunteers to Williamsburgh in August last, and were, on their return home, taken ill and obliged to employ a Doctor, at an expense too heavy for them to bear; and that as this expense was incurred whilst they were employed in the service of their country, they hope this Convention will order the same to be repaid them.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Norvell, Mr. Travis, Mr. King, and Mr. Langhorne; and that they report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Letter from the Committee of the County of Fairfax, containing instructions to their Delegates in Convention, was presented, and read.

Ordered, That the said Instructions be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony be empowered to employ such persons as he shall think proper to fill up and sign the Treasury Notes emitted pursuant to an Ordinance of the last Session of the Convention.

Ordered, That Colonel Woodford's Letter of the 4th instant, together with the enclosures, be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

A Letter from the Committee for the County of Isle-of-

Wight, enclosing a Resolution of the said Committee, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that Cesar, a negro man slave, belonging to Walter Gwynn, of the County of Glooucester, and pilot to a tender, was placed by the Captain of the said tender on board the Molly, Captain Conyard, with orders to carry her to Norfolk, but that Captain Conyard, had prevailed with him, by offering him a reward, to run the said vessel into Pagan Creek, in the said County of Isle-of-Wight, where she now lies; that they had sent the said negro Cesar to the Committee of Safety, to be dealt with as they shall think proper.

Ordered, That the said Letter and Resolution be referred to Mr. Richard Randolph, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Terry, Mr. Brooke, Mr. Berkeley, and Mr. Rootes; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention being informed that a Vessel, belonging to Messrs. Gibson & Co., was about to sail for Great Britain with Naval Stores,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committee for the County of Nansemond not to permit the said Vessel to proceed to sea, till the further order of this Convention.

A Petition of Joseph Simpson, and John Campbell, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they had supplied the Soldiery under the command of Lord Dunmore, in the late expedition against the Indians, with sundry articles, which were appraised agreeably to law, the amount of which appraisement, the Commissioners appointed to settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service, refused to allow them; that they had advanced to Major John Connolly sums of Money, and other things to a considerable amount, depending wholly upon his pay as an officer, which he had assigned to them before he had attempted to perpetrate his diabolical plot, which the said Commissioners also refused to allow them; that they have claims against the publick, for assignments from sundry officers and men who were in service at Fort Pitt before the 26th of May, 1774, and from sundry artificers for their pay whilst employed in repairing Fort Pitt and building Fort Fineastle, and for sundry materials used in those works, for all which they pray such allowance as shall be found to be just.

Also a Petition of Alexander Ross, setting forth that William Thompson, together with your Petitioner, purchased of the Crown the buildings and materials belonging to Fort Pitt when they were evacuated, and occupied the same till some time in the year 1774, when Major John Connolly, by command of Lord Dunmore, took possession thereof for the use of this Colony, and had the same appraised by proper judges, upon oath, to the sum of 1482l. 17s. 2d., besides sundry articles, the sole property of your Petitioner, appraised to 314l. 1s. 9d., and retained the same till the month of August last, when Captain John Neavill, by direction of this Convention, took possession thereof for the defence of this Colony; and praying the premises may be taken into consideration, and such relief granted them as their case shall be found to deserve.

Ordered, That the said Petitions be referred to Mr. Mercer, Mr. Neavill, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Harvie, Mr. Muhlenburg, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Peyton, Mr. William Cabell, Mr. Thos. Walker, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. Adams, Mr. Cary, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Taylor, and they are to report the same, with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, (as the opinion of this Committee,) That some mode ought to be established for the payment of the Minister's salary, and other Tobacco Debts, throughout this Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. Cary, Mr. Adams, Mr. Dandridge,

Mr. Banister, Mr. Jones, Mr. Richard Randolph, and Mr. Bassett, be a Committee to prepare and bring in an Ordinance pursuant to the said Resolution.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, again resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, December 19, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonel Howe, and also a Letter from Colonel Woodford; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of Edward Hack Mosely, and Edward Hack Moseley, Jun., of the County of Princess Anne, and Matthew Phripp, of the Borough of Norfolk, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that they had been directed by Colonel Woodford to appear before this Convention for an inquiry into their conduct during the unhappy disturbances which have lately prevailed in the Borough of Norfolk; that they understand very unfavourable and injurious reports have prevailed against them, representing them as inimical to their country, of which they hope honourably to acquit themselves, when this Convention shall be pleased to grant them a hearing.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Holt, Mr. Newton, Mr. Meade, Mr. Murdaugh, Mr. Wills, Mr. Adams, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. Meredith, Mr. Rootes, and Mr. Mercer, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That the said Edward Hack Mosely, Edward Hack Mosely, Jun., and Matthew Phripp, be confined to their room in the City of Williamsburgh, under a proper guard, till the further order of the Convention, or Committee of Safety.

A Representation from the Committee for the County of Caroline was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that they had seized sundry effects belonging to Thomas Hepburn, of the Town of Norfolk, who had appeared in arms against this Colony, and should retain the same till they received the orders of this Convention in relation thereto.

Ordered, That the said Representation be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

The President laid before the Convention the Depositions of Morgan Alexander and Richard Partridge, taken by the Committee of Safety on the examination of John Dew, charged with endeavouring to persuade several of the soldiers belonging to the Company of the said Alexander to desert; which were read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to send such force, for the protection of the County of Warwick, as to them shall appear necessary, as soon as the same can be supplied from the forces in the City of Williamsburgh.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read and agreed to as follows:

Whereas a Petition was preferred to the last Convention by sundry Merchants, as well in their own behalf as for others, natives of Great Britain and resident in this Colony, setting forth, amongst other things, that they being chiefly agents, factors, and persons, who from their youth had been bred up to and employed in commerce, and had not interfered with the civil institutions of the country; that they were very sensible the unhappy differences subsisting between the Parent State and her Colonies had given rise to distinctions to their prejudice amongst the natives of the country, and excited jealousies of them, which otherwise had never existed, although, as in the sincerity of their hearts they declared, that they held the people of this Colony in the highest estimation as friends and fellow-subjects; that, in war or peace, they would cheerfully contribute with them to the exigencies of their common state; that in all internal commotions or insurrections they pledged their faith, at the risk of their lives and fortunes, jointly with their fellow-subjects of this Colony, to defend the country; and that, in case of an attack from the troops of Great-Britain, they would not aid in any manner, or communicate intelligence to them by letter or otherwise; that they wished not an exemption from the hardships and burdens in which the people of this country are exposed, from the civil contest subsisting with the Parent State, but were willing and ready to participate in all instances, except taking up arms against the people among whom they were born, and with whom, perhaps, they are connected by the nearest ties of consanguinity; that they entreated the impartial and favourable attention of the Convention to that circumstance, and begged that a line of conduct might be marked out, by which, in this dangerous crisis, they might move as useful members of the community, without being held to the necessity of shedding the blood of their countrymen, an act at which nature recoiled, and which every feeling of humanity forbid. Which Petition the said Convention immediately took under their most serious consideration, and although it appeared unequal that any particular set of men in a society should have the full enjoyment of all the benefits arising therein, and not bear an equal share of the dangers to which it might be exposed, yet the Convention, in hopes of satisfying the Petitioners and quieting their fears, resolved unanimously that the said Petition was reasonable, and recommended it to the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations, and others the good people of this Colony, to treat all such natives of Great Britain resident here, as did not shew themselves enemies to the common cause of America, with lenity and friendship; to protect all persons whatever in the just enjoyment of their civil rights and liberty; to discountenance all national reflections; to preserve, to the utmost of their power, internal peace and good order; and to promote union, harmony, and mutual good-will among all ranks of people.

And whereas, notwithstanding the favourable and kind disposition shown by the Convention and the natives of this Colony, and the extraordinary and unexampled indulgence by them held out to the natives of Great Britain, residing in this Colony, many of these have lately become strict adherents to the Lord Dunmore, and the most active promoters of all his cruel and arbitrary persecutions of the good people of this Colony; not only by violating the Continental Association, to which they had solemnly subscribed, in many the most flagrant instances—not only by giving intelligence to our enemies, and furnishing them with provisions, but by propagating, as well in Great Britain as this Colony, many of the most glaring falsehoods, to the great prejudice and dishonour of this country; and, moreover, many of these natives of Great Britain, instead of giving their assistance in suppressing insurrections, have, contrary to all faith solemnly plighted in their said Petition, excited our slaves to rebellion, and some of them have daringly led them in arms against our inhabitants: The Committee having these things in full proof, and considering their alarming and dangerous tendency, do give it as their opinion, and accordingly resolve, that the foregoing recited Resolution ought, from henceforth, to be totally abrogated and rescinded; that none of the freemen, inhabitants of this country, wherever born, ought to be exempted from any of the burdens or dangers to which the Colony is exposed, but that, as good citizens, it is incumbent on them to use every exertion of their powers and abilities in the common defence; and should any persons of ability decline or shrink from so necessary a duty to the community, that all such, except those who have taken up arms against our inhabitants, or show themselves inimical to us, may be permitted, under a license of the Committee of Safety, to leave the country.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Thomas Price and Thomas Smith, of the County of Isle-of-Wight; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, again resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Wednesday, December 20, 1775.

Mr. Richard Lee, from the Committee appointed, presented to the Convention, according to order, an Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; and the same was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for appointing Sheriffs, and that Mr. Bland and Mr. Poythress do prepare and bring in the same.

A Petition of sundry Freeholders, of the County of York, was presented to the Convention and read, complaining of an unfair and illegal election of a Sub-Delegate, chosen in the room of Thomas Nelson, Esq., and praying that an inquiry might be made into the same.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Digges, Mr. Treasurer, Mr. Bland, Mr. Cary, Mr. Jones, Mr. Braxton, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Holt, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Page, and Mr. MDowell, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Resolved, That the said Committee, or any seven of them, be a sufficient number to proceed to business.

Mr. Bland, from the Committee appointed, presented to the Convention, according to order, an Ordinance for appointing Sheriffs; which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee appointed, presented to the Convention, according to order, an Ordinance for establishing a general Test; which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

A Petition of John Burroughs, of West Augusta, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that he was appointed, by Colonel Charles Lewis, a Lieutenant under Captain David Scott, in the expedition against the Indians, under Lord Dunmore, but was deprived of his commission by the said Scott, without any reasonable cause, and therefore praying that he might be allowed the expense he was at in raising men, and for the time he was out of service.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Mercer, Mr. Neavill, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Harvie, Mr. Muhlenburg, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Peyton, Mr. Wm. Cabell, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. Cary, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Taylor, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the County of Augusta, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that on the last expedition against the Indians being resolved upon, it became necessary that a number of Pack-horses should be employed for carrying out provisions and other necessities for the Army; that they very cheerfully entered their horses into the said service, not doubting but they should receive allowances which had been usually made; but that they are sorry to inform the Convention that the Commissioners, appointed to settle the Accounts of the said expedition, have allowed your petitioners a recompense inadequate to the services afforded by them, especially when it is considered how long they have been prevented from receiving any satisfaction whatever for the same; and praying the Convention will take the premises into consideration, and grant them such relief as shall be judged just and reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. MDowell, Mr. Neavill, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Thos. Walker, Mr. Field, Mr. John Walker, Mr. Adams, Mr. Richard Randolph, Mr. Henry Pendleton, Mr. Bowyer, Mr. Barbour, Mr. Harrison, and Mr. Read, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Representation from Lieutenant-Colonel Christian, of the First Regiment, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that a number of Soldiers, at the time of their enlistment, had been promised by their Officers that they should be supplied, at the publick expense, with Hunting-shirts and Leggings; that he has strongly recommended to the Soldiers to provide themselves with uniform clothing, such as Shirts, Leggings, and bound Hats, which they have generally done; and submitting it to the Convention whether the expense thereof should not be paid by the publick.

Resolved, That the Soldiers in the regular service be allowed Hunting-shirts, Leggings, and Bindings for their Hats, by the publick.

The President laid before the Convention the Proceedings of the Commissioners appointed to treat with the several different Tribes of Indians.

Ordered, That the same do lie on the table for the perusal of the Members.

Ordered, That the several County Lieutenants do cause double Patroles to be kept in their several Counties during the ensuing holidays.

Ordered, That Mr. Blackburn be added to the Committee to whom the Petition of Alexander Ross was referred.

Ordered, That Mr. Whiting be added to the Committee to whom the Letter and Resolution of the Committee for the County of Isle-of-Wight was referred.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for amending the Ordinance of the last Convention, directing the elections of Delegates and Committee-men, and that Mr. Holt, Mr. Meade, and Mr. Murdaugh, do prepare and bring in the same.

Ordered, That the Officers and Men directed to be raised by an Ordinance of the last Convention, in the County of Fincastle, and stationed at such posts as might, from time to time, be ordered and directed by the Committee of the said County, be now disbanded.

A Representation of William Finnie was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that he had been appointed by the Committee of Safety Quartermaster-General to the Virginia Regiments; but as no such Officer had been directed by the Ordinances, he was referred to this Convention, as well for a confirmation of the said appointment, as for such allowance as his services should be thought to merit, and praying that he might be confirmed in the said office.

Ordered, That the said Representation do lie on the table.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the commanding Officer at Norfolk be directed to cause inquiry to be made, whether the Salt stopped from the Men-of-War, and mentioned in Colonel Woodford's letter, was imported agreeably to the terms of the Continental Association; and, if it shall appear to have been so, that he contract with the proprietor for the purchase thereof, at a reasonable price, on account of the publick, which will be paid by the Treasurer, upon his order. On the contrary, should it be found to have been imported against the Association, the Colony will pay for the same at two Shillings per bushel, the money to be divided amongst the Officers and Soldiers in that department, in proportion to their pay. And in either case, that he cause the Salt to be stored in a proper place, for the use of the publick, till further orders.

Resolved, That this Convention will, to-morrow, again resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Thursday, December 21, 1775.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee appointed, presented to the Convention, according to order, "An Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient force for the defence and protection of this Colony;'" which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee appointed, presented to the Convention, according to order, "An Ordinance for establishing a mode of making Tobacco payments during the discontinuance of the Tobacco law;" which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

A Petition of John Willoughby, of the County of Norfolk, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that he had been directed by Colonel Woodford to appear before this Convention, for an inquiry into his conduct during the unhappy disturbances which have lately prevailed in the Borough of Norfolk; that he understands very unfavourable and injurious reports have prevailed against him, representing him as inimical to the interests of his country, of which he hopes honourably to acquit himself, when the Convention shall be pleased to grant him a hearing.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of Archibald Campbell is referred, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That Mr. Jones, Mr. Banister, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Smith, Mr. Robert Wormeley Carter, Mr. Blackburn, Mr. Edmondson, Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. John Walker, and Mr. Thornton, be added to the said Committee, and that any seven of the said Committee be a sufficient number to proceed to business.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee appointed, presented, according to order, "An Ordinance for amending an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony;'" which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

A Petition of Archibald Gowan was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that he loaded and cleared out the Sloop Christian and cargo agreeably to the terms of the Association; that she has been prevented proceeding on her voyage by being brought into Hampton by the soldiery stationed there; and as there is no market in this country, at present, but for the Army, he would be glad the cargo, amounting to near two thousand five hundred bushels of wheat, might be taken for the use of the troops, at such a price as shall be thought reasonable; that he has been told this House are in want of some vessels for the service of the country, for which purpose he begs leave to offer his sloop, which is a well-found vessel and fast sailer, and little more than three years old; that, from the candour and justice of this Convention, he hopes, as he has not in any instance infringed the Association, and as the letters wrote by himself, and found on board the said sloop, were fraught with sentiments friendly to this country, no degree of guilt will be imputed to him on account of the many unfriendly letters found in the said vessel.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

A Letter from Col. Henry, of the First Regiment, was read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

An Ordinance, "For raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled, 'An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony;'" was read a second time, and referred to a Committee of the whole Convention.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

Ordered, That Mr. Whiting be added to the Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Freeholders of the County of York was referred.

Ordered, That the Resolution appointing Joseph Cabell, Thomas Randolph, and Jerman Baker, gentlemen, Commissioners, to receive for, and pay to, the several Claimants in the Southern District, for services in the late expedition against the Indians, whatever may be due to them from the publick, and not called for at the Treasury, and Francis Peyton, George Rootes, and Joseph Neavill, gentlemen, for the like purpose, in the Northern District, be rescinded.

A Petition of the Inhabitants of the County of Frederick, and others residing to the westward of the Blue Ridge of mountains, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that being deeply interested, as well in the calamities of the late Indian War, as in the transactions and business consequent thereupon, they cheerfully contributed their assistance, by supplying wagons, horses, arms, and provisions, for the publick use; that the Commissioners appointed by the late Convention, to settle and adjust the expenses of the said expedition, being utterly unacquainted with the customs and manners of the inhabitants, and with the prices at which live stock, flour, meat, and other articles wanting to an army are usually sold, and also with the expense of wagonage, packing, and other modes of conveyance over that rugged and mountainous country, have, in the settlement of the accounts of the petitioners and their brethren, committed many errors and mistakes, to their very great prejudice; and praying that the Convention will take the same into consideration, and grant them such relief as shall seem just.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Rev. Mr. Thruston, Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Drew, Rev. Mr. Muhlenburg, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Rootes, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Neavill, Mr. Field, Mr. Henry Pendleton, Mr. Barbour, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. John Walker, Mr. Edmondson, Mr. Selden, Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. Kenner, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Brooke, Mr. Jones, Mr. Fitzhugh, and Mr. Page; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Howe, and also a letter from Col. Woodford; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

A Petition of Sampson and George Matthews, and also a Petition of William Ingles, were presented to the Convention, and read, setting forth, that some time in the month of July, 1774, they were requested by Col. Andrew Lewis to undertake the business of Commissary-General to the Army, about to be raised by orders from the Governor, for an expedition against the Indians, which request they complied with, and in the course of that business procured for the Army provisions, ammunition, tents, pack-horses, drivers for the horses, and almost every other necessary for their accommodation; and for that purpose had expended considerable sums of their Money; for all which they have passed their bonds, which they have paid, or are still to pay, with interest; that they presume they have, by their prudent management, saved a considerable sum to the country, and praying that the Convention will take their case into their consideration, and allow them such a sum of money for their trouble and expenses as shall appear just and reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Cary, Mr. William Cabell, Mr. Thomas Lewis, Mr. Harvie, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. Joseph Cabell, and Mr. McDowell; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Order of the Day, for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into the said Committee.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Friday, December 22, 1775.

Ordered, That the Committee to whom the Letter and Resolution of the Committee for the County of Isle-of-Wight was referred, be empowered to summon such witnesses as they shall think necessary for their information.

A Petition of Cary Mitchell was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that he understands many reports have prevailed to his prejudice, and that he hath been considered as unfriendly to his country; that he is at a loss to discover what actions of his life could give just grounds for such reports; that he wishes for nothing more than that a full and impartial inquiry may be made into his conduct, upon which he doubts not but he shall be able to clear himself of every suspicion.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of Doctor Archibald Campbell is referred; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That Doctor Archibald Campbell, Edward Hack Moseley, Edward Hack Moseley, jun., Matthew Phripp, John Willoughby, and Cary Mitchell, be admitted to their parole, to continue in the City of Williamsburg, till the further order of this Convention.

Mr. Cary, from the Commissioners appointed to settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service, laid before the Convention the Report of the said Commissioners; which was ordered to be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of Sampson and George Matthews was referred, and that they make a reasonable allowance to the Clerk employed by the said Commissioners.

Mr. Thomas Walker, from the Committee to whom the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Counties of Augusta, Botetourt, Fincastle, Bedford, and Culpepper, was referred, reported that they had accordingly had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That each of the Horses, employed on the said occasion, be paid for after the rate of one Shilling and three Pence per day; and that the Commissioners appointed to settle the accounts do make the said allowance.

Mr. King, from the Committee appointed, reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the Petition of John Chew, John Hews, and Ambrose Rains, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the said Petition is reasonable, and that John Chew ought to be allowed the sum of 4l. 0s. 6d., John Hews the sum of 5l. 11s. 9d., and Ambrose Rains the sum of 2l. 0s. 6d.

Resolved unanimously, That the Thanks of this Convention are justly due to the brave Officers, gentlemen Volunteers, and Soldiers of North-Carolina, as well as our brethren of that Province in general, for their prompt and generous aid in defence of our common rights against the enemies of America and of the British Constitution; and that the President be desired to transmit a copy of this Resolution to Col. Howe.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance "For raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance entitled, An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony;" and, after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made some progress therein, but, not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the said Ordinance.

The Convention, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and, after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City be directed to deliver to Mr. Maximilian Calvert, or his order, the Vessel and Cargo belonging to him, and lately brought into Hampton Creek.

Resolved, That the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City be directed to cause the Salt, and other articles, lately brought into Hampton, to be landed and placed in some secure repository; and that all the vessels, except Mr. Calvert's, be detained till further orders.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That the Reverend Mr. Thurston, Mr. Benjamin Watkins, Mr. Reade, and Mr. Clarke, be added to the Committee to whom the Petition of Alexander Ross is referred.

A Petition of sundry persons of the County of Cumberland, whose names are thereunto subscribed, was presented to the Convention, and read, setting forth, that many disorders were occasioned in their Militia by an improper appointment of Officers, and by the indulgence granted to Foreigners by this Convention at their last meeting, which they pray may be recalled, and in lieu thereof a Test established for all suspected persons.

Ordered, That the said Petition do lie on the table.

A Petition of Alexander Sniggers was presented to the Convention, and read, setting forth, that the Commissioners appointed to settle the accounts of the Militia, lately drawn out into actual service, had refused to allow him more than eight Shillings a day for each Wagon employed by him in the service, although the usual price had always been ten Shillings; and that they had also refused to allow him for sundry other articles, an account whereof he begs to lay before the Convention; and praying that he may be made such further allowance as shall be thought reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the County of Frederick was referred; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, December 23, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention two Letters, just received from the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress; which were read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. Cary Mitchell be permitted to visit his family at Hampton, upon his parole, to appear in the City of Williamsburg on Saturday next.

A Petition of James Wood, of the County of Frederick, was presented to the Convention, and read, setting forth, that he was appointed to the command of a Company in the late expedition against the Shawanese Towns; that, in order to arm his company for the service, he was under the necessity of impressing a number of Guns, for which he passed his receipt to the proprietors, many of which guns were carried away by deserters; and others, by different accidents, were never returned to their owners; for all which the Commissioners have made your Petitioner liable, and have deducted the amount thereof out of his pay; and praying that the premises may be inquired into, and such further allowance made him as shall be thought just and reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee to whom the petition of the Inhabitants of the County of Frederick was referred; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of Stephen Pierce was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth, that he is master of the sloop Industry, lately brought into Hampton, and praying that he may be allowed to proceed to St. Mary's, in Maryland, with the said Vessel and her Cargo, if the same can be done with safety.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Blackburn, Mr. Henry Lee, and Mr. Carrington; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That the Leggings allowed to the Soldiers in the regular service do not exceed the price of four Shillings for each pair.

Ordered, That Mr. Harrison have leave to be absent from the service of this Convention till Thursday next.

for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony;—being read, Ordered, That the same be put off till Monday next.

Resolved unanimously, That the Thanks of this Convention are justly due to Colonel Elliott, and the Officers and Soldiers under his command, to Messrs. James and Richard Barron, and to the Inhabitants of Hampton, for their spirited and successful exertions in defeating the designs of our enemies; and that the President be desired to transmit the same, and to inform them the Convention will take an early opportunity of rewarding their merit.

Adjourned till Monday, half after ten o'clock.

Monday, December 25, 1775.

The Convention met, and adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, December 26, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonel Henry, of the First Regiment, informing the Convention that Col. Elliott, the Commanding Officer at Hampton, had brought into that harbour a Vessel from Rhode-Island, and had enclosed to him the Papers found therein, which he took the liberty to lay before the Convention, and desiring their direction respecting the said Vessel.

Resolved, That the said Vessel be permitted to proceed on her voyage.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to inquire whether the Salt, and other goods, lately taken on board several vessels at Hampton, were imported agreeably to the terms of the Continental Association, and whether the same be the property of friends to America, or of those who have been in arms, or otherwise taken an active part against this Colony; and make a special report respecting each Vessel and Cargo, to this Convention; and that Mr. Cary, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Holt, Mr. Digges, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Langhorne, Mr. Harwood, Mr. King, Mr. Westwood, Mr. Murdaugh, and Mr. Meade, be of the said Committee.

Resolved, That the Commanding Officer at Hampton be directed to retain the Salt lately brought into that place, for the use of the publick; and that the Committee appointed to inquire whether the same was imported agreeably to the terms of the Continental Association do also consider of and report the most proper method for the distribution thereof.

Resolved, That John Bowyer, gentleman, be appointed a Commissioner to receive for, and pay to, the several claimants in the Counties of Pittsylvania, Augusta, Botetourt, Fincastle, and Bedford, whatever may be due to them from the publick, and not called for at the Treasury; and that he enter into bond, with sufficient security, for the due performance thereof, and return an account to the Treasurer within six months from the time he shall have received the money from the Treasury.

Ordered, That Charles Robertson, who hath been detained in this city on his parole, be discharged.

Resolved, That the Committee appointed to inquire whether the Salt, and other goods, lately brought into Hampton, were imported agreeably to the Continental Association, do also inquire into the several cases of the Prisoners now in the publick jail in this city, and report the same, as it shall appear to them, with their opinion, how each person, white or black, ought to be disposed of, to the Convention.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to issue their Warrant to the Treasurer for the payment of such sum of Money as they shall think necessary, to Mr. John Harmanson, to be applied towards recruiting the Soldiers to be raised for the defence of the Counties of Northampton and Accomack; he giving bond and security for the due application thereof.

Ordered, That the Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Freeholders of the County of York was referred, be discharged from proceeding thereon, and that the Petitioners have leave to withdraw the same.

Friday, December 29, 1775.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Howe, enclosing a Letter from Capt. Bellew, of His Majesty's Ship the Liverpool, desiring to be informed if he still persisted in his resolution to restrain His Majesty's Ships from supplies of Provision, with his answer thereto; which being read, were referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into the said Committee; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to the following Resolution; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That Col. Howe be informed, in answer to his Letter of the 25th, that this Convention are fully sensible of the hardships many innocent persons on board His Majesty's Ships may be exposed to, for want of regular supplies of fresh Provisions, which we would not wish to withhold, unless compelled by the duty we owe to the country, loudly calling upon us to use every exertion for the defence of its inhabitants. That Capt. Bellew, who probably is a stranger to us and our situation, should be informed that this country hath ever, till of late, considered the officers and men of His Majesty's Navy as their friends, and have always had great pleasure in showing them every mark of hospitality and civility; but many very recent and unwarrantable instances of the hostile behaviour of some of the Navy towards our inhabitants, justify us in suspicions we would not otherwise entertain. Who are the innocent and helpless whose blood Capt. Bellew would not wish to shed, we cannot, from his expressions, determine; but they carry with them the strongest implication, that the effusion of the blood of some of our countrymen is the object of his voyage to this country. That the Convention have the warmest wishes to find themselves mistaken in these apprehensions; and if Capt. Bellew can condescend to satisfy them, or Col. Howe, that he is come to Virginia on a friendly errand, this Convention will take every opportunity of paying proper respect to a gentleman in his station, and use every means in their power to make his stay here as agreeable as possible; but that, if, on the contrary, Capt. Bellew's design is to further the views of our enemies, and assist in prosecuting those unjustifiable and cruel measures already set on foot in this country, he must excuse the inhabitants of Virginia if they totally decline contributing towards their own destruction.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee appointed, reported, that the Committee appointed for that purpose had proportioned the Salt taken by the cruisers at Hampton in pay of this Colony, amounting to 3,600 bushels, which necessary of life the inhabitants of sundry Counties are in great want of, occasioned by the many illegal seizures of vessels, laden with that article, by His Majesty's Ships of War, and sundry Piratical Vessels fitted out by Lord Dunmore.

Resolved, therefore, That 599 bushels of the said Salt be, with all convenient speed, sent up James River to Richmond, to the care of the Committee of the County of Henrico, for the use of the following Counties, to wit:

For the County of Augusta, -	214 bushels.
For the County of Henrico, -	82 bushels.
For the County of Goochland, -	63 bushels.
For the County of Albemarle, -	144 bushels.
For the County of Amherst, -	96 bushels.

599

And that 1,260 bushels of the said Salt be sent, as aforesaid, to the care of the Committee of the County of Chesterfield, to be landed at Manchester, for the use of the following Counties, to wit:

For the County of Chesterfield, -	140 bushels.
For the County of Cumberland, -	133 bushels.
For the County of Prince Edward, -	81 bushels.
For the County of Pittsylvania, -	162 bushels.
For the County of Bedford, -	162 bushels.
For the County of Fincastle, -	214 bushels.
For the County of Botetourt, -	297 bushels.
For the County of Buckingham, -	71 bushels.

1,260

And that 985 bushels of the said Salt be sent, as aforesaid, to Petersburg, and Jordan's, on Appamattox River, for the use of the following Counties, and to be left to the care of the Committees of the Counties of Prince George and Dinwiddie:

For the County of Amelia, -	162 bushels.
For the County of Mecklenburgh, -	122 bushels.
For the County of Lunenburg, -	63 bushels.
For the County of Charlotte, -	114 bushels.
For the County of Halifax, -	128 bushels.
For the County of Prince George, -	81 bushels.
For the County of Brunswick, -	193 bushels.
For the County of Dinwiddie, -	122 bushels.

985

And that 387 bushels of the said Salt be sent, as aforesaid, to Cumberland Town, and Newcastle, up York River, to the care of the Committees of the Counties of Hanover and New-Kent respectively, for the use of the following Counties, to wit:

For the County of Hanover, -	162 bushels.
For the County of New-Kent, -	81 bushels.
For the County of Louisa, -	56 bushels.
For the County of King William, -	88 bushels.

387

And that 272 bushels of the said Salt be landed at Hampton, under the care of the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City, for the use of the following Counties, to wit:

For the County of Gloucester, -	128 bushels.
For the County of Elizabeth City, -	31 bushels.
For the County of York, -	63 bushels.
For the County of Warwick, -	14 bushels.
For the County of James City, -	36 bushels.

272

And that 63 bushels of the said Salt be sent up James River, and landed at Berkeley, for the use of the County of Charles City, to be under the care of the Committee of said County.

Resolved, That the Committees of the several Counties above named do, with the utmost despatch, cause the said Salt as above allotted to them, to be divided among such of the inhabitants of their several Counties as shall appear to them to be in the greatest need of that article; the persons receiving the same paying to the Chairman, or such person as shall be deputed by the several Committees, the sum of 5s. per bushel for such Salt, and also the expenses which shall accrue in transporting the same; which several sums of money are hereby ordered to be transmitted, by the Chairman of the several Committees, to the Treasurer of this Colony, within three months from this time. And if, on further inquiry, it appears that the Salt taken as above be the property of persons not inimical to this Colony, the Treasurer shall repay to the owners thereof after the rate of 4s. per bushel.

Resolved, That this Convention doth agree with the Committee in the said Report, and that the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City do cause the same to be delivered according to the several proportions therein mentioned.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety, and for appointing Sheriffs;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into the said Committee.

Resolved, That this Convention will, on Monday next, resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, December 30, 1775.

Resolved, That Mr. Banister, Mr. Cary, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. William Cabell, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Thomas Lewis, and Mr. Syme, be a Committee to inquire into the Security offered by John Bowyer, gentleman, agreeably to the Resolution of Tuesday last, and report their opinion thereupon to the Convention.

Ordered, That it be an instruction to the Committee of Safety that they allow William Johnson, Adjutant to the Minute-men of the Prince William Battalion, three shillings per day for his extraordinary services.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for appointing Sheriffs; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the said Ordinance under their consideration, had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention.

Ordered, That the said Ordinance, together with the several amendments, be fairly transcribed, and read the third time.

Ordered, That the Committee on the state of the Colony be discharged from proceeding on the Petition of Archibald Govan, and that the same be referred to Mr. Banister, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. King, Mr. Westwood, Mr. Digges, Mr. Nelson, and Mr. Langhorne; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will on Monday next again resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance for appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; and to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till Monday next.

Mr. Richard Lee, from the Commissioners appointed to settle the Accounts of the Militia lately drawn out into actual service, laid before the Convention several claims, which were directed to be specially reported.

Ordered, That the said Claims be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of Alexander Ross was referred; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Monday, January 1, 1776.

John Augustine Washington, Esq., having resigned the office of Sheriff for the County of Westmoreland, and being re-elected a Delegate for the said County, was admitted to his seat in Convention.

Resolved, That the Thanks of this Convention be presented to the Reverend Mr. Griffiths, for his truly patriotic and most excellent Sermon preached yesterday, and that he be requested to permit the same to be printed at the publick expense.

Ordered, That Mr. Travis have leave to be absent from the service of this Convention for the remainder of the session.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till Wednesday next.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Howe, and also a Letter from Col. Woodford; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, January 2, 1776.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Howe, and also a Letter from Col. Woodford, informing the Convention they had received Petitions from several of the persons who had joined Lord Dummore, and were on board the Vessels in the harbour at Norfolk, desiring they might have leave to return, as their wives and children were greatly distressed. That they had given for answer, the women and children were at liberty to come on shore, and should receive assistance and protection, but not to be at liberty to return or give intelligence to our enemies; that the men should have no other violence offered them than to remain prisoners till they could be fairly and impartially tried by their country for taking arms against it. Which being read,

Resolved, That this Convention will immediately resolve itself into a Committee on the said Letter.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into the said Committee, and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Mercer reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the Letter from Col. Howe and Col. Woodford, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That this Convention do highly approve of the offer made by Colonel Howe and his Officers to the distressed women and children now on board the vessels in the harbour at Norfolk, and the terms offered to those who have taken up arms against this country; and that Col. Howe be requested to repeat the same, in the name of the Delegates and Representatives of this Colony.

Ordered, That the Members for Berkeley be added to the Committee to whom the Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony was committed.

A Memorial from Sampson Matthews, in behalf of himself and George Matthews, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they are apprehensive of being laid under great difficulties and disadvantages in consequence of the appointment of John Bowyer, gentleman, to receive for and pay to the several claimants in the Southern District whatever may be due them on the account of the late expedition against the Indians, and praying that the Convention will again consider of the said appointment, and, if the same shall be found not to answer the purposes thereby intended, that it may be superseded.

Ordered, That the said Memorial be referred to Mr. Banister, Mr. Cary, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mr. William Cabell, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Thomas Lewis, and Mr. Syme; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of Richard Hopper was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that in consequence of a Letter from Christopher Scott and Company, dated Hull, May 27th, 1775, Gibson, Donaldson, and Hamilton, of Suffolk, Merchants, did purchase a cargo of Naval Stores on account and risk of the said Christopher Scott and Company, and had it ready provided, when the Ship Buckingham, of which he is Master, arrived in this Colony, on the 28th of August last; that the said Ship was ready on the first of September to receive the cargo, great part of which was then afloat in crafts, and part on board the said Ship, when, by a violent storm, which happened on the 2d of September, the said Ship was driven on shore; that, as he was prevented by the hand of Providence from sailing before the time limited by the Continental Association, and as other Vessels in the same situation were allowed to load after the 10th day of September, your Petitioner applied to the Committee of Nonsemond County, who were of opinion he might load; that he has been at very considerable expense in refitting the said Vessel for sea, and that, as neither himself nor his owners have acted in the smallest degree unfriendly to America, he humbly prays that he may be permitted to proceed on his voyage.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Banister, Mr. Parker, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Cary, and Mr. Watkins; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That Mr. Henry Lee, and Mr. Adams, do wait on the Reverend Mr. Griffiths, with the Resolution of yesterday, and present him the Thanks of this Convention agreeably thereto.

A Petition of Robert Karr was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that he served as an Ensign in the Company commanded by Captain James Wood, in the late expedition against the Indians, and that he has only received the pay of a common soldier, and praying such further allowance as shall be thought reasonable.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Neavill, Mr. Henry Lee, and Mr. Clapham; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of John Mohan and James Ross was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they had been employed and served as Spies in the late expedition against the Indians, and praying that they may be allowed a satisfaction for the same.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee to whom the Petition of Alexander Ross was referred; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Mr. Thomas Walker, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Joseph Simon and John Campbell was referred, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Petition, and that it appeared to them that John Connolly, on the 8th day of June last, executed a bond to the Petitioners for the sum of 397l. 11s. 0d. Pennsylvania currency, the 1st of July, 1776, and that the said Connolly, on the 2d day of August last, did assign unto the Petitioners his pay as a Captain or Major in the service of this Colony, and for sundry articles furnished the soldiers during that time, and also to settle such accounts with the Commissioners, and receive what should be found due to him, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the said Petition is reasonable, and that the sum of 657l. 10s. 1d. ought to be allowed and paid to the said Petitioners by the publick; and that there appears to be due to the Petitioners on account of the pay of the said John Connolly, as an officer, and for other services, the sum of 256l. 13s. 9d., which ought to be allowed and paid to the said Petitioners, after deducting what may be due to the country from the said Connolly.

The Reverend Mr. Thruston, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Edward Snickers was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That so much of the said Petition as prays a further allowance of two Shillings per day for thirty-five Wagons, thirteen hundred and seventy-one days, and his expenses as a Commissary, is reasonable, and that the sum of 158l. 19s. 9d. halfpenny ought to be allowed and paid to the Petitioner by the publick.

Resolved, That so much of the said Petition as prays an allowance for expenses in attending the Commissioners, and employing a Clerk, be rejected.

The Reverend Mr. Thruston, from the Committee to whom the Petition of James Wood, was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the said Petition under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the said Petition is reasonable, and that the Petitioner ought to be allowed the sum of 28l. 11s. 0d. by the publick.

The Reverend Mr. Thruston, from the Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the Counties of Frederick and West Augusta was referred, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the said Petition is reasonable.

The Order of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

An Ordinance for appointing Sheriffs were read a third time.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass.

Ordered, That Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. John Walker, and Mr. Drew, be added to the Committee appointed to inquire into the services of Mr. James Wood.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

— Wednesday, January 3, 1776.

Walter Jones, Esq., having been re-elected a Delegate for the County of Richmond, in the room of Francis Light-foot Lee, Esq., took his seat in Convention, as a Delegate for the said County.

A Petition of Mary Durley, of the County of Isle-of-Wight, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that, some time in the month of October last, in order to support herself and family, she employed a certain Joseph Wren to navigate a small Vessel belonging to her, which was employed in carrying oysters, shells, and other things, up James River; that, upon his return from up the said river, when opposite to Burwell's Ferry, he was fired on by the Kingfisher man-of-war, and was obliged to go on board her; upon which, some Riflemen, part of our Troops stationed at Burwell's Ferry, seized the Vessel, which in the late bad weather was driven on shore, and rendered useless to your Petitioner; and praying that this Convention will make her some compensation for the loss of the said Vessel, upon which her subsistence chiefly depended.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Parker, Mr. Norvell, Mr. Westwood, Mr. Langhorne, and Mr. Wills; and that they report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Mr. Holt, from the Committee to whom the Petitions of Archibald Campbell, John Willoughby, and Cary Mitchell, were referred, reported, that the Committee had accordingly had the same under their consideration, and that it appeared to them, from the Depositions of Lewis Hansford, Maximilian Calvert, and Cornelius Calvert, and the testimony of Matthew Phripp, that the said Archibald Campbell hath frequently denied the right of the British Parliament to tax America; that the said Archibald Campbell was against violent measures on either side, thinking a strict adherence to the commercial opposition would produce a redress of grievances, and refused to join in soliciting Lord Dunmore down to Norfolk; that the said Campbell took the oath prescribed by him, but was determined to stand neuter; that the said Campbell had sent his family to Bermuda, and intended shortly to follow them; and that he does not appear to have assisted Lord Dunmore, either with money or provisions.

That it appeared to them that the said John Willoughby had acted a very friendly part to his country until Lord Dunmore had gained too great an ascendancy about Norfolk; that the said Willoughby was Chairman of the Committee of the County of Norfolk, and constantly attended their meetings; that, on the 17th of November, the said Willoughby was called upon to appear before Lord Dunmore, and take his oath; that he expostulated with his Lordship, and desired time, until the next day, to consider of it; that, immediately after, Captain Leslie declared those who would not sign should be taken into custody and deemed Rebels; that the said Willoughby did then take the oath, but has never borne arms on the side of Lord Dunmore, or encouraged others to do so, but has generally behaved as a friend to America; that it further appears, that the said Willoughby, as County Lieutenant of Norfolk, wrote to the Captains of the Militia of that County to assemble their Companies, but that he was then under the immediate influence of Lord Dunmore, and his conduct proceeded from compulsion, and not inclination.

That they had wrote to Colonel Woodford to send up from Norfolk, where the said Cary Mitchell lately resided, any testimony he might be able to procure, either for or against him, and had given a reasonable time for obtaining the same, and that no such proof had been received.

And that the Committee had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the conduct of the said Archibald Campbell does not appear to have been inimical to the rights and liberties of America.

Resolved, That the said John Willoughby acted as a friend to American liberty before Lord Dunmore erected his standard, and whatever he afterwards did to the contrary proceeded from compulsion, being himself, and family, in the power of Lord Dunmore.

Resolved, That the said Cary Mitchell doth not appear to have acted unfriendly to American liberty, nor does it appear that the reports mentioned in the said Petition are true.

Resolved, That the said Archibald Campbell, John Willoughby, and Cary Mitchell, be discharged on their parole not to give intelligence or assistance to the enemies of America.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee to whom the report of the Commissioners appointed to examine, state, and settle the claims against the publick in the Southern District, on account of the late expedition against the Indians, was referred, reported, that they had accordingly examined the same, and come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and ordered to lie on the table:

Resolved, That the Accounts contained in the said Report are fairly and justly stated, and, together with the several allowances therein made, ought to be paid by the publick.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Colonels Howe and Woodford, which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Ordered, That Mr. Joseph Jones, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Thomas Walker, and Mr. John Walker, be added to the Committee to whom the Ordinance for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony, is committed.

A Memorial of Lieutenant-Colonel Christian, of the Second Regiment, in behalf of himself, and William Preston and Arthur Campbell, Esqrs., was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that some time in the month of May, 1774, he was advised by Lord Dunmore to return home from the City of Williamsburgh, and use his endeavours to prevent the inhabitants from leaving their settlements on the approach of the late Indian war; that, in order to determine what had best be done, a council of officers was held on the 25th of June, when it was resolved that your Memorialist, who was then a Lieutenant-Colonel, should march with a body of the Militia to the frontiers of Clinch, which he immediately did, and continued in actual service about three weeks, when it appeared an expedition against the Indian Towns, was resolved on; and although he was not in the field again till the 12th of August, yet, during the intermediate time, he was chiefly employed in promoting the service, so as to neglect his own private affairs; that William Preston, Esq., by order of Lord Dunmore, immediately wrote to his Officers, directing them how to conduct themselves on that alarming occasion; that, from that time to the last of October, he was chiefly employed in the service of the country, and was at considerable expense; that the said William Preston, from the time of the expedition's being set on foot, was employed therein, and afterwards continued to exert himself in promoting the expedition, and often did the duty of a contractor, as well as that of an officer; that Arthur Campbell, Esq., was the oldest Captain on Holston's River and Clinch, which constitutes about one half of the County, and of course spent much of his time in the service, from the breaking out of the war until some time in the month of August; that, from his situation and usefulness as an Officer, he did all these matters with care and ability, until some time in November; and your Memorialist is conscious that his extraordinary exertions produced the most beneficial effects to the country. And desiring, as well on behalf of the said William Preston and Arthur Campbell, as himself, that this Convention will take their services into consideration, and grant them such compensation as they shall be found to deserve.

Ordered, That the consideration of the said Memorial be referred to the next Convention.

Mr. Banister, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Archibald Govan, was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That the said Petition, so far as it relates to the cargo of his Vessel, is reasonable; and that all the Wheat on board the said Vessel, which may be sound and merchantable, be taken on account of the country, at the price of four Shillings per bushel, being the original cost, and manufactured for the use of the Troops stationed at Hampton.

Resolved, That the said Petitioner may dispose of his Vessel as he thinks proper.

Ordered, That Mr. Holt, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Peyton, and Mr. Langhorne, be added to the Committee to whom the Memorial of Sampson Matthews was referred.

Mr. Banister, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Richard Hopper was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention.

Resolved, That the allegations of the said Petition are true, and it is reasonable that the Vessel therein mentioned be permitted to proceed on her voyage, in ballast, and with passengers, but not with her cargo of Naval Stores.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee, to take into their further consideration the said Ordinance.

Mr. Blackburn, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Stephen Pierce was referred, reported, that it appeared to the said Committee, that the Sloop whereof the Petitioner was master, cleared out at the Port of North Potomac, in the Province of Maryland, for Antigua, on the 25th day of September last, with three hundred barrels of Flour, two hundred bushels of Corn, and some live stock; that she arrived at Antigua, the 16th of November following, and on the 28th, cleared out from Turk's Island with eight hundred bushels of Salt, for the County of St. Mary's, in Maryland; that, by means of the late storm, she was driven into Hampton, and taken by Captain Barron; that the said Stephen Pierce alleges, in his justification for exporting the Flour and other articles after the 10th of September, that the gust on the 6th of that month retarded his sailing, and he was permitted to sail at the same time he did; but no evidence of those facts appears to your Committee, nor can any be procured at this time.

And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and then delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That there is probable cause to suspect that the said Stephen Pierce hath, in the first instance, been guilty of a breach of the Continental Association; but, as our friends in Maryland may be in want of the Salt, it is the opinion of this Committee that the said Vessel be permitted to proceed on her voyage, and that the Committee of the said County of St. Mary's ought to be informed of that transaction, that they may take such measures as to them may appear necessary.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Mr. Holt, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Edward Hack Moseley and Edward Hack Moseley, Jun., was referred, reported, that it appeared to the Committee, from the testimony of Lemuel Newton, Matthew Phripp, Alexander Moseley, and John Ramsay, that the said Moseley took the oath prescribed by Lord Dunmore; that Jacob Elligood came to their house with the parchment and oath, which they there took and subscribed; and that they did not repair to the standard erected by Lord Dunmore, nor in any respect aid or assist him with money or provisions, and that they in general endeavoured to keep out of the way of Lord Dunmore and his adherents. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said Edward Hack Moseley and Edward Hack Moseley, Jun., did not appear inimical to American liberty before Lord Dunmore had erected his standard; and that whatever they did afterwards proceeded from their great fear of Lord Dunmore, and his adherents.

Resolved, That the said Edward Hack Moseley and Edward Hack Moseley, Jun., be discharged on their parole not to give intelligence or assistance to the enemies of America.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Thursday, January 4, 1776.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to inquire into the security offered by John Bouryer, gentleman, be discharged from proceeding therein.

Mr. Holt, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Matthew Phripp was referred, reported, that it appeared from the testimony of Daniel Hutchings, that the said Phripp was extremely active in encouraging the people of Norfolk to make themselves acquainted with military discipline, and to prepare for defending their country; that the said Phripp was chosen Colonel of that Borough, and was twice elected Chairman of the Committee; that the said Phripp took up arms against Lord Dunmore, on his taking the type from the printer in Norfolk, but that, on the people refusing to join him, he declined to act any longer as their Colonel; that it appeared, from the depositions of Paul Loyal and Christopher Calvert, that the said Matthew Phripp, during Lord Dunmore's stay in and about Norfolk, demeaned himself as a friend to his country; and it does not appear that the said Phripp hath assisted Lord Dunmore, with either money, provisions, or vessels, or advised or persuaded any person to join him or take his oath; that it appears to them that the said Phripp, being deserted by the people in that part of the country, in danger of being delivered up to, and having much of his property in, the power of Lord Dunmore, was compelled, by his situation, to take the oath prescribed by his Lordship; and that it appeared to them that the said Phripp's visit to Norfolk proceeded from the pressing invitation of his aged and infirm father. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said Matthew Phripp hath uniformly shown himself the firm and steady friend of American liberty, until his unfortunate visit to Norfolk, in consequence of the invitation of his aged parent, at which time, falling into the power of Lord Dunmore, he had only the alternative of submitting or exposing his life and fortune to his Lordship's resentment; that, in his extremity, he yielded and took the oath; but, as the said Matthew Phripp soon after manifested his willingness to support the common cause, we think, upon the whole, he ought to be restored to the confidence of his countrymen.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee to take into their further consideration the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Ordered, That Mr. Holt have leave to be absent from the service of this Convention for the remainder of the session.

Mr. Thomas Walker laid before the Convention an Account of the money expended at the late Treaty with the Indians, by the Commissioners appointed for that purpose; which was ordered to lie on the table, for the perusal of the members.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Friday, January 5, 1776.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee to whom it was referred to inquire whether the Salt, and other goods, lately taken on board several vessels at Hampton, were imported agreeably to the terms of the Continental Association, and whether the same were the property of friends to America, or of those who have been in arms, or have taken an active part against this Colony, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and that it appeared to them that Capt. Wilson, of the Sloop Agatha, sailed from this Colony, some time in the month of August last, for the Granadas, where he took on board 30 hhds. of Rum, the property of Isaac Wilson, of the Town of Portsmouth, two the property of the Captain himself, and two the property of Cornelius Calvert, jun., who was Supercargo of the said Vessel, which appears to be the property of John Shedden, of Norfolk, Robert Shedden, of Portsmouth, and John Syme, of Smithfield; that it further appears that the said Robert Shedden had given orders to his agents in Glasgow to ship large quantities of Goods from thence, in direct violation of the Association, which he had agreed to and subscribed, and had thereby discovered an earnest intention of injuring, as much as possible, the cause of America; and that it appeared that the sum of 53l. 11s. 4d. is now due to the mariners of the said Vessel. That the Sloop Swallow, of which George

Burwell is Master, cleared out in ballast, from Hampton, about the 1st of September last, to the Island of Tortuga, where she arrived, and took in great part of her load of Salt, and then sailed for Turk's Island, and took in 300 bushels more, and arrived in this Colony with the same; that 2,155 bushels thereof appeared to be the property of Hector M^r Allister, of Norfolk, and the residue to belong to the Captain and his Mates; that the said Vessel, except about sixty Pounds in her value, belonged to the said George Burwell. That the Sloop Molly, whereof Samuel Servant is Master, cleared out at Hampton, with a cargo of Grain, and other commodities, on the 10th of September last, and sailed about the twentieth of the same month for Antigua, and that the whole of her Cargo was on board when she cleared out; that she arrived at Nevis, and then sailed for Turk's Island, and took on board 1,232 bushels of Salt; that the said Sloop, together with the Cargo, except fifty bushels of Salt taken on board for the Captain's use, belonged to William Turner, Archibald Brown, and James Woddrop, of Norfolk; and that it appeared, from the testimony of Dr. Archibald Campbell, that the said James Woddrop had been very active under Lord Dunmore, since the commencement of the present disputes, and had received a commission as an officer of the Militia from him, and was one of the party at the Great Bridge, and principally engaged in carrying of the cannon during the action. That the Brig Corlet, whereof John Harris is Master, sailed from Hampton, some time in the month of June last, for Scotland, and from thence, in September, for this Colony, in ballast; that she has on board three pieces of Irish Linen, two pieces of Diaper, and six Macaroni Waistcoats, which were for his own use; one piece of Osnaburghs, two pieces of Irish Linen, three parcels of Pins, a parcel of Needles, and one piece of Green Plaids, sent by one Maclean, of Scotland, to his wife, at Norfolk; and two pieces of Irish Linen, one dozen and ten pair men's Thread Stockings, the property of Andrew Sprowle, of Norfolk. And that they had come to several Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Rum in the Sloop Agatha was not imported contrary to the Continental Association, but that 11 hhds. thereof, together with the said Sloop, being the property of Messrs. Robert and John Shedden, and John Syme, from the inimical conduct of the said Robert, are become justly forfeited to this Colony, and ought to be considered as lawful prize; but as the conduct of the said John Shedden and John Syme, two of the owners thereof, cannot be inquired into, they refer the further examination to the Committee of Safety.

Resolved, That the remainder of the said Cargo be delivered to the several Proprietors thereof.

Resolved, That the said Vessel, and 11 hhds. of Rum, be sold at publick auction; and that the sum of 53l. 11s. 4d., due to the Mariners of the said Vessel, for their wages, be paid to them, and the residue be disposed of as the Convention shall direct.

Resolved, That the Salt in the Sloop Swallow doth not appear to have been imported contrary to the terms of the Continental Association; but that the conduct of Hector M^r Allister, owner of the said Vessel and Cargo, ought to be inquired into by the Committee of Safety.

Resolved, That the Goods imported in the Brig Corlet be forfeited to this Colony, and sold at publick auction.

Ordered, That the said Report do lie upon the table.

Ordered, That the Cargo of the Sloop Agatha aforesaid, except 11 hhds. of Rum, belonging to Robert and John Shedden, and John Syme, be delivered to the several proprietors thereof.

Mr. Bland, from the Committee appointed to inquire into the services of Mr. James Wood, who was sent by the House of Burgesses to invite the several tribes of Indians on the Western Frontiers of this Colony to a Treaty, according to a Resolution of the Council and House of Burgesses in June last, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and that it appeared to them that the said James Wood set out on the 25th of June last, in the execution of his commission; that, in his progress through the several tribes of Indians, he was informed that Governour Carleton's emissaries had exerted their endeavours to persuade them to take up the hatchet against this Colony; that, in consequence thereof, many of the said Indians entertained very hostile intentions; that the said Wood was frequently in danger of his life, particularly from one of those hostile tribes who had formed a scheme for killing him, but that he discovered their design, and made his escape; that, at last, by exerting all his abilities, he happily removed their prejudices, and engaged them, with the other tribes, to attend the said Treaty, which engagement they accordingly performed, whereby peace and safety was restored to this Colony; that the said Wood was near two months employed in the progress of this business, and underwent the greatest fatigues, difficulties, and dangers. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said James Wood ought to be paid by the publick the sum of two hundred and fifty Pounds, for the great service he hath done to this Colony, by his diligent and faithful execution of the Commission with which he was intrusted.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Committee for the County of Northampton; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Henry Lee, from the Committee appointed, informed the Convention that they had waited on the Rev. Mr. Griffiths, and presented to him the Thanks of this Convention for his excellent Sermon, and requested he would permit the same to be printed at the publick expense; and that he returned for answer, that he entertained the most grateful sense of the publick mark of approbation shown his Sermon by this Convention, and would cheerfully comply with their request.

A Petition of sundry Freeholders, of the County of Caroline, was presented to the Convention and read, setting forth that the former Committee for the said County omitted to appoint persons to superintend the election of a Committee in the month of November last, to determine the right of any person to vote who offered a list for that purpose, and who might have prevented many lists being received from persons whom your Petitioners suspect had no right to vote; and that the lists were immediately destroyed, which put it out of the power of your Petitioners to examine them; and praying that the said election may be set aside, and a new one directed, agreeably to the Ordinance of the last Convention.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Digges, Mr. Treasurer, Mr. Bland, Mr. Cary, Mr. Jones, Mr. Braxton, Mr. Fitzhugh, Mr. Carter of Lancaster, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Holt, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Page, and Mr. McDowell, and they are to report the same, with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made a further progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men, in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Mr. Parker laid before the Convention the Proceedings of the Committee of the County of Isle-of-Wight, relative to the conduct of John Goodrich; which were read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the said John Goodrich, concerning the importation of Gunpowder and other articles, for the use of this Colony.

The President laid before the Convention the Proceedings of the Court of Inquiry held on the Prisoners taken at Norfolk, and in the neighbourhood thereof; which were read, and ordered to be referred to Mr. Cary, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Holt, Mr. Digges, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Langhorne, Mr. Harwood, Mr. King, Mr. Westwood, Mr. Murdaugh, Mr. Meade, Mr. Robert Wormley Carter, Mr. Richard Randolph, Mr. Watkins, Mr. Thomas M. Randolph, Mr. Parker, and Mr. Mason, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, January 6, 1776.

Mr. Adams, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Alexander Ross and William Tompson was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and that it appeared to them that, in the year 1760, His Majesty had a garrisoned fort erected at the place called Fort Pitt, which was kept up until the year 1772, after which a Corporal and a few men only were continued in the said fort; that the Petitioners produced to them a bill of sale from Major Charles Edmonstone, commander of the said fort, to them, bearing date the 10th day of October, 1772, reciting that the said Edmonstone, for and in consideration of the sum of fifty Pounds, New-York currency, to him in hand paid by the said Alexander Ross and William Tompson, did bargain and sell, in behalf of the Crown, unto the said Alexander Ross and William Tompson, all the pickets, bricks, stones, timber, and iron, which are now in the buildings or walls of the said fort, and in the redoubts, to be demolished by order of his Excellency General Gage, Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in North-America; and that it also appeared, from the testimony of John Campbell, that he, with many others, signed a Remonstrance, and sent it to General Gage, whereby they complained of a private sale made of the ruins of the fort, by the said Charles Edmonstone, to the Petitioners, and requested that they might be publickly sold; that they received for answer from General Gage, that although the said Charles Edmonstone had proceeded irregularly, yet, as a sale was made, he could not set it aside; that it further appeared, from the deposition of Dorsey Penticost, that he saw a letter from Gen. Gage, dated in the winter of 1772, which seemed to be an answer to a remonstrance of the inhabitants of Fort Pitt, desiring to purchase the ruins of the fort, wherein he informs them that he had received a return from Major Edmonstone of the sale thereof, which was good and by his orders; that there were a corporal and three men left at Fort Pitt, who, he was informed by Edward Hand, surgeon of the said Regiment, were left to take care of the boats, batteaus, &c.; that it also appeared the further sum of fifty Pounds was given as a present, by the Petitioners, to the said Charles Edmonstone, and the sum of twenty-five Pounds to one Bredau, an ensign to the said Regiment, and a witness to the bill of sale; and that the said Edward Hand, another witness to the bill of sale, had empowered him to receive from the said Alexander Ross one-third of the sales of the ruins of the fort, by virtue of a contract subsisting between the said Edward Hand and the Petitioners; that it further appeared that the Petitioners, since the purchase aforesaid, have sold some of the ruins of the said fort, and were in possession of others in the year 1774, when John Connolly, by order of Lord Dunmore, took possession thereof, and had the same appraised and valued by John Gibson and Thomas Smallman, sworn for that purpose, which valuation amounted to 1082l. 7s. 2d., current money of Virginia; that the said Alexander Ross had built, without the said fort, several houses, and enclosed a garden with pickets and a brick wall, and was possessed of two redoubts and eight stacks of chimnies, as his private property, some of which were made use of, and others destroyed, by the said John Connolly, having been previously valued by the said Gibson and Smallman, on oath, to the sum of 314*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*, Virginia currency. And that they had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read and agreed to:

Resolved, That so much of the Petition as relates to the claim of the said Alexander Ross and William Thompson be rejected.

Resolved, That such other part of the Petition as relates to the said Alexander Ross is reasonable, and that the sum of 107*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.* ought to be allowed and paid to the said Ross, by the publick, deducting 55*l.* 10*s.*, which appears at present to be due to the country from the said Ross, for Provisions furnished by John Connolly to four men of the Eighteenth Regiment of Royal Irish, remaining in Fort Pitt, to which the said Ross was Commissary.

Mr. Mercer, from the persons to whom the Ordinance for amending an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony was committed, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had directed him to report the same without any amendments.

Ordered, That the said Ordinance be fairly transcribed and read a third time.

Ordered, That Colonel Woodford, of the Second Regiment, have leave of absence from the service, for such time as shall be agreed on between Colonel Howe and himself.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto, which he was ready to report when the Convention should be pleased to receive the same.

Ordered, That the said Report be received on Tuesday next.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read, Ordered, That the same be put off till Tuesday next.

Adjourned till Monday, half after ten o'clock.

Monday, January 8, 1776.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Committee of Correspondence for the County of Dinwiddie, informing the Convention that Thomas Irving, an inhabitant of the Town of Petersburgh, was a Deputy Postmaster in the said Town, and was then an agent for Neil Jamieson, who had appeared to be inimical to this country; that they wish not to appear officious, or to act without proper authority, but are of opinion it is improper that the said Irving should continue Postmaster, by which means he may have an opportunity of opening letters, and conveying intelligence of the most dangerous nature; and desiring the Convention would be pleased to give such directions as they shall think proper.

Ordered, That the said Letter do lie on the table.

An Ordinance for amending an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony, which had been fairly transcribed, was read a third time.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass.

Ordered, That the Treasurer do advance any sum, not exceeding 1,000*l.*, for the immediate relief of the poor distressed Inhabitants of the Borough of Norfolk, who have been sufferers by the destruction of that Town; and that the Committee of Safety do provide, in the best manner they are able, for their removal to the more interior and more secure parts of the Colony.

The President laid before the Convention, for their opinion, the cases of two Vessels taken by Capt. Richard Barron in Hampton Roads, and carried up York River. The first is the Brig Funny, the property of Joseph Hewes, Esq., of North-Carolina, whereof John Cunningham is master; who, being examined, declares, that he sailed about a year ago with the said Brig from North-Carolina, with instructions from his owner to land her cargo in the Island of Antigua, and there or elsewhere to take any freights that might offer; that, having landed his cargo accordingly, he took a freight to Grenada, and from thence another to Cork in Ireland, where he was offered a freight to Boston, in Government service, which he refused; that he was likewise offered a freight in the same service to Gibraltar, which he would have accepted, but the contractor declined employing him, not caring, as he said, to trust an American; upon which he would have returned to North-Carolina in ballast, but a man-of-war arriving, he was informed that all American Vessels would be stopped, to evade which, he agreed to accept a freight of provisions from Government for the troops at Boston; that he sailed from Cork, the 18th of October, in company with seven sail of Transports, with three regiments of Soldiers destined for Quebec, as he was told, whom he parted with the night after he sailed; that, having sprung his mast, he came into the Capes, intending to Norfolk, to get a new one, and then to proceed to Boston, but was taken on his way to Norfolk by Capt. Barron; that he shipped one Mr. Wogan, a native of Capel, in Ireland, who took his passage for Boston, to collect some money there, and then to proceed to Philadelphia, as he said; that by the bills of lading, dockets, and intercepted letters, it appears the cargo of the said Vessel is as followeth: on Government account, one thousand and fifty barrels of pork, four hundred firkins of butter, four half-barrels of tongues, two hogsheds and four hampers of potatoes, and one barrel of parsnips; and, on private account, and designed as presents for the officers in Boston, several parcels of beef, butter, cheese, tongues, and potatoes.

The other Vessel is the Brig Industry, James Sampson master, an inhabitant of Philadelphia, from whence he had gone to sea many years in the employ of Messrs. James and Drinker, merchants in that city; that, about five years ago, he sailed from thence in the said Brig, whereof himself, his Mate, William Simpson, and Laundrice Cuthbert, of Pennsylvania, are owners, and has been trading in many parts, chiefly in the Mediterranean Sea, till lately, when, inclining to return, he came to the Island of Grenada, with intention to take a freight from thence to Philadelphia; but being told a man-of-war at Newcastle would prevent his passage to that City, and that the Port of Norfolk, in this Colony, was open, he engaged the following freight for Norfolk, to wit: twenty-five punchons of rum for Messrs. Kerr and Company, and ten hogsheds of rum and two hogsheds of sugar for Messrs. Roper and Boyd; and also laded on board sixty-five hogsheds of rum, three barrels of sugar, two casks of Malaga wine, and five or six blankets, the manufacture of Tunis, which are the property of himself and Mate. Upon consideration whereof, the Convention are of opinion, and do resolve, that the cargo on board the Brig Fanny is lawful prize, and justly forfeited to this Colony, and that the same be disposed of under the direction of the Committee of Safety; and that the Brig Industry and her cargo shall not be water-borne below Cumberland Town, where the same now is.

Mr. Banister, from the Committee to whom the Memorial of Sampson and George Matthews was referred, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Memorial, and that it appeared to them that the said Memorialists were concerned in trade, and may therefore be deeply interested in the disposition of the country's money, so far as may relate to the collection of their debts from persons concerned; that it further appeared to them, that the Memorialists were extremely active in the promotion of the service, as commissaries, and that they discharged their duty therein in an advantageous manner to the country; that it also appeared, that Col. John Bowyer, at the first marching of the forces, was averse to the war, and retarded the service; but, upon some attacks of the Savages on Greenbrier, he consented to Capt. Murray's drafting part of his company, in order to repel them; that Col. Bowyer is no otherwise concerned in the disposal of the publick money than as it may be in his power to favour his brothers, who have lately broke up their store, and had many debts to collect. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to by the Convention:

Resolved, That some person, totally disinterested in the commercial way with the claimants, ought to be appointed to pay the publick money to the persons entitled thereto.

Resolved, That the Resolution appointing John Bowyer, gentleman, a Commissioner to receive for and pay to the several claimants in the Counties of Pittsylvania, Augusta, Botetourt, Fincastle, and Bedford, whatever may be due to them from the publick, and not called for at the Treasury, on account of the late expedition against the Indians, be now rescinded; and that Joseph Cabell, gentleman, be appointed a Commissioner in his stead, for the purposes aforesaid, and that he enter into bond, with sufficient security, for the due performance thereof; that he return an account to the Treasurer within six months from the time of receiving the money, and that he be allowed the sum of one hundred and fifty Pounds for his trouble and expenses in discharging the said trust.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half-after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, January 9, 1776.

Mr. Nearvill, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Robert Carr was referred, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration; and that it appeared to them, from the testimony of Mr. James Wood, that the Petitioner acted as ensign in his Company, without a commission, from the 12th of October till the 12th day of November following, by the express direction of Lord Dunmore, the two Lieutenants belonging to the Company being rendered incapable of duty by sickness; and that it also appeared, that the Petitioner had received pay as a private soldier only, during the time aforesaid. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said Petition is reasonable, and that the Petitioner ought to be allowed the sum of 6*l.* 15*s.* 0*d.*, being the difference of pay between that of an ensign and common soldier.

Ordered, That the Account of the money expended at the late Treaty with the Indians be referred to Mr. Carrington, Mr. Cabell, Mr. Cary, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Thomas Mann Randolph, and Mr. Watkins; who are to examine the said Accounts; and report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in an Ordinance for establishing a certain mode of Punishment for the enemies of America; and that Mr. Braxton, Mr. Banister, Mr. Cary, Mr. Dandridge, Mr. Mercer, Mr. Jones, Mr. Smith, Mr. Thruston, Mr. Walter Jones, and Mr. Kenner, do prepare and bring in the same.

A Petition of Richard Hopper, master of the Ship Rockingham, in behalf of Christopher Scott, and Company, merchants in Hull, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that as he was prevented from proceeding to Great Britain with his cargo of Naval Stores, by order of this Convention, and as the same is of a perishable nature, he humbly prays that this Convention will take the same for the use of the publick, and grant him such relief as his case shall be found to deserve.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Banister, Mr. Wills, Mr. Parker, Mr. David Mason, Mr. Gee, Mr. Faulcon, and Mr. Cocke; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee of the whole Convention, reported, according to order, the several Amendments to the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read.

Ordered, That the consideration of the said Amendments be put off till to-morrow.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law; being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Wednesday, January 10, 1776.

A Petition of Joseph Bowman was presented to the Convention and read; setting forth that he commanded a Company of Militia under Lord Dunmore in the late expedition against the Indians, and furnished a number of his men with necessaries, to the amount of 44*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.* three farthings, who afterwards deserted, by which means he lost the sum of 21*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.* three farthings, and praying the same he be repaid him.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Muhlenburg, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Thruston, Mr. Harvie, and Mr. Rootes; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The President laid before the Convention several Letters from the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, and also a Letter from Col. Howe; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

The Convention took into consideration the amendments reported to the Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony; and having gone through the same, and agreed thereto, the said Ordinance, together with the amendments, were ordered to be fairly transcribed, and read a third time.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Council of Safety for the Province of North-Carolina, informing the Convention that they had sent orders to Col. Howe, commander of the Troops at Norfolk, to remain in this Colony with the Carolina Troops, as long as the publick service might require, or until it should be absolutely necessary to recall him for the defence of their Province, and had directed him to receive all his orders respecting his operations, whilst in this Colony, from the Convention or Committee of Safety.

Ordered, That the President be desired to write to the Council of Safety of North-Carolina, acknowledging the receipt of their very polite Letter, and thanking them for the assistance afforded this Colony against the enemies of America.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Ordered, That the Committee of Safety do dispose of the Provisions and other things laid in for the use of the several Battalions of Minute-men, which may not be necessary, for the use of the publick.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to write to the Delegates from this Colony, in answer to their last Letter, enclosing several Resolutions of Congress, to inform them that this Convention, having maturely considered the state of Virginia, its peculiar and exposed situation, as well to domestic as foreign enemies, are of opinion that the Colony cannot remain in any tolerable degree of security without nine Battalions of regular Forces at least; that they have resolved to augment our two Regiments to the Continental establishment, and to raise seven new Regiments, six for the further defence of the Western, and one for the protection of the two Counties on the Eastern-Shore; that, besides these Regiments, they find it necessary to continue the former establishment of Minute Battalions, and to arrange the Militia throughout the Colony in the most effectual manner for its defence, which must greatly increase our publick expenses; that this Convention had hoped the Congress would have supposed them competent judges of the number of Forces necessary to the security of this Colony, and, considering the large proportion of the Continental expenses which it is expected our inhabitants are to pay, that they would, without hesitation, have taken all the regular Forces found necessary for their defence into Continental pay; that the Delegates be desired to submit this matter to the revision and further consideration of the Congress, who, it is hoped, will be of opinion that it is reasonable the Continent in general should bear at least an equal share of the expenses of our present two Regiments, consisting of one thousand and twenty Privates, with their proper Officers, from the time of their entering into the service, which we think it equitable and just to fix about the first of November, allowing for the difference of time when the several Companies were completed; that, should the Congress adhere to their resolution of taking into Continental pay no more than six Battalions, it be earnestly recommended to them to suffer our two present Regiments (to be completed as before mentioned) to stand first in the arrangement, since otherwise the Officers first appointed by this Convention, most of whom have already gone through a laborious and painful service, will be degraded in the ranks, and there is too much reason to apprehend that great confusion will ensue.

A Petition of John Goodrich, was presented to the Convention, and read; praying, among other things, that the Committee of Safety might be directed to pay him the balance of his Account against the publick.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the said John Goodrich, relative to the importation of Gunpowder, and other articles for the use of the Colony.

Resolved, That the Cargo of the Brig Fanny, lately taken by Captain Barron, and carried to Cumberland, be disposed of, as the Committee of Safety shall direct, for the use of this Colony; the said Committee being directed to pay to Captain Barron one-tenth of the value of the said Cargo, another tenth to the mate and sailors, allowing three shares to the mate.

The Convention then took into consideration the Report of the Commissioners appointed to examine, state, and settle the claims against the Indians, and the Resolution thereupon, which was agreed to by the Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Thursday, January 11, 1776.

An Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for amending an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony, which had been fairly transcribed, was read a third time.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass; and that the title be, "An Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence of this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned."

Mr. Digges, from the Committee to whom the Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the County of Caroline was referred, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Petition, and that it appeared that the Committee of the said County did not, previous to their election in November last, appoint any persons to superintend the said election, in order to determine the right of any person to vote who should offer a list, although the Chairman, and several of the members, were present at the said election. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the election of Committee-men for the said County of Caroline, was illegal, and that a new Committee be chosen for the said County.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Third Regiment; and the members having prepared tickets, with the name of the person to be appointed, and put the same into the ballot box, Mr. Digges, Mr. Carrington, Mr. John Walker, and Mr. Dandridge, were appointed a Committee to examine the same, and report on whom the majority fell; and it appearing, from their Report, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Hugh Mercer, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Hugh Mercer be appointed Colonel to the Third Regiment.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

The Convention took into consideration that part of the Report made on Friday last, from the Committee to whom it was referred to inquire whether the Salt, or other Goods lately taken at Hampton, were imported agreeably to the terms of the Continental Association, which related to the Brig Carlett, and Goods imported in her, and came to the following Resolution thereupon:

Resolved, That the said Brig Carlett be delivered to the owners, and that the Goods imported in her be sold for the use of this Colony, and the money paid into the hands of the Treasurer.

Ordered, That the Treasurer do pay to Mr. Sampson Matthews the Account of the Augusta and Batefour Brigade, he entering into bond, with sufficient security, for paying the same to the persons entitled thereto.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Friday, January 12, 1776.

The President informed the Convention, that the Committee of Safety had inquired into the property of the Brig Fanny, and that it appeared to them, from the Register of the said Vessel, that she belonged to Joseph Hewes, Esq., of North Carolina; that, from instructions given John Cunningham, Master of the said Vessel, he was instructed to proceed in the said Brig to Antigua, to unload his cargo, and then take freight to any part of Europe, to return with a load of Salt, as should be thought best by Messrs. Joseph and Samuel Brown, merchants, whose directions he was to follow; that the said Cunningham produced two charter-parties, by which it appeared he took a freight from Antigua and Grenada to Ireland, and another from thence, in Government service, to Boston; that the said Joseph Hewes, Esq., was a member of the General Congress, and a known friend to America, and wholly a stranger to the ill conduct of the Captain in taking the injurious freight from Cork to Boston; and prayed the opinion of the Convention relative to the said Vessel and her Freight. Whereupon the Convention came to the following Resolution:

Resolved, That the said Brig Fanny be delivered to the Proprietor, on payment of the mariners' wages.

✓ Mr. Carrington, from the Committee to whom the Account of the money expended at the late Indian Treaty, was referred, reported, that the Committee had examined the same, and found the said Accounts to be fairly and truly stated, and supported by proper vouchers, and that the sum of 44l. 14s. 5d. is now due to the Commissioners.

Resolved, That this Convention doth agree with the Committee in the said Report.

A Petition of Evan Williams, was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth that he served as Clerk to the Commissioners appointed to examine, state, and settle the expenses of the late Indian expedition, and that they allowed him the sum of 100l. for his services, which he considered as a sufficient compensation at the time the same was made; but, as he was obliged afterwards to transcribe the whole of the said proceedings, he hopes this Convention will think it just to make him some further allowance.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Peyton, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Clapham, Mr. Cary, Mr. Blackburn, Mr. William Cabell, and Mr. Fleming, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Reverend Mr. Muhlenburg, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Joseph Bowman was referred, reported, that the Committee had had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read and agreed to:

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Commissioners to be appointed to revise the settlement of the Accounts of the late Indian expedition; and if it should appear to them the articles furnished the soldiery were necessary for fitting them for service, the said Petition is reasonable.

A Petition of James Trimble was presented to the Convention and read; setting forth, that he cured Captain William Linn, who was wounded in the late expedition; and that he served as Surgeon's Mate to Dr. Charles Wheeler, in the said expedition, from the 30th of September till the 20th of November; and praying that he may have some allowance made him for the said services.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Peyton, Mr. Richard Lee, Mr. Henry Lee, Mr. Clapham, Mr. Cary, Mr. William Cabell, and Mr. Fleming, and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Fourth Regiment; and the members having prepared tickets, with the name of the person to be appointed, and put the same into the ballot-box, Mr. Digges, Mr. Carrington, Mr. John Walker, and Mr. Dandridge, were appointed a Committee to examine the same, and report on whom the majority fell; and it appearing, from their report, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Adam Stephen, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Adam Stephen be appointed Colonel to the Fourth Regiment.

The Convention proceeded, in the same manner, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Fifth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of William Peachey, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said William Peachey be appointed Colonel to the Fifth Regiment.

The Convention proceeded, in the same manner, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Sixth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Mordecai Buckner, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Mordecai Buckner be appointed Colonel to the Sixth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Seventh Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that the greatest number on the ballot was in favour of William Dangerfield, Esq.; on the question being put,

Resolved, That the said William Dangerfield be appointed Colonel to the Seventh Regiment.

Resolved, That Peter Muhlenburg, Esq., be appointed Colonel, Abraham Bowman, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel, and Peter Helphinstone, Esq., Major, to the Eighth or German Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Colonel to the Ninth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Thomas Fleming, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Thomas Fleming be appointed Colonel to the Ninth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Lieutenant-Colonel to the Third Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that the greatest number on the ballot was in favour of George Weedon, Esq.; on the question being put,

Resolved, That the said George Weedon be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Third Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Lieutenant-Colonel to the Fourth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Isaac Reade, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Isaac Reade be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Fourth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Lieutenant-Colonel to the Fifth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that the greatest number on the ballot was in favour of William Crawford, Esquire; but there not being a majority of the whole Convention, on the question being put,

Resolved, That the said William Crawford be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Fifth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Lieutenant-Colonel to the Sixth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Thomas Elliott, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Thomas Elliott be appointed Colonel to the Sixth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Lieutenant-Colonel to the Seventh Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Alexander M. Clahanam, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Alexander M. Clahanam be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Seventh Regiment.

Resolved, That George Matthews, Esq., be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Ninth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Major to the Third Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of Thomas Marshall, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said Thomas Marshall be appointed Major to the Third Regiment.

Resolved, That Robert Lawson, Esquire, be appointed Major to the Fourth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Major to the Fifth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that the greatest number on the ballot was in favour of Josiah Parker, Esq.; but there not being a majority of the whole Convention, on the question being put,

Resolved, That the said Josiah Parker be appointed Major to the Fifth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Major to the Sixth Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that the greatest number on the ballot was in favour of James Hendricks, Esq.; but there not being a majority of the whole Convention, on the question being put,

Resolved, That the said James Hendricks be appointed Major to the Sixth Regiment.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Major to the Seventh Regiment; and it appearing, from the report of the Committee, that there was a majority of the whole Convention in favour of William Nelson, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said William Nelson be appointed Major to the Seventh Regiment.

Resolved, That Matthew Donavon, Esq., be appointed Major to the Ninth Regiment.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Saturday, January 13, 1776.

A Petition of sundry Inhabitants of the Counties of Norfolk and Princess Anne was presented to the Convention and read; setting forth, that from the commencement of the present unhappy disputes between the British Parliament and the Colonies, they have been uniformly active in promoting the measures recommended by the General Congress and Convention, for the preservation and defence of their rights and liberties; that, in consequence of this conduct, many of them had been reduced to the cruel necessity of abandoning their aged parents, their wives and children, and leaving them to the mercy of a lawless, plundering soldiery, and the more savage slave; that their plantations had been ravaged, their wives and children stripped almost to nakedness, their very bed-chambers invaded at the silent hour of midnight by ruffians with drawn daggers; their houses not only robbed of plate, money, and every thing valuable, but wantonly reduced by fire to ashes; their persons treated with every indignity that elated insolence and cruelty could suggest; some of their friends dragged into confinement, and now languishing under the hands of oppression; that they lamented the tardy and equivocal conduct of some of their luke-warm friends, by which Lord Dunmore had been encouraged to begin these depredations, which, with some concealed as well as open and avowed enemies, he continued to commit so long with impunity; that whilst our troops keep possession of Norfolk, they enjoy a state of safety, but the possibility of their being dislodged presents a dreadful prospect of the renewal or the exercise of greater cruelties; that they can but endeavour to guard against such calamities in future; that they apprehend the friends to their country are much inferior to its enemies, among the leaders of the people in the two Counties; that they have every thing to fear from those who have thereby been induced to bear arms against their country, should they have it in their power; that many of their friends have been obliged to abandon their homes, which has put it out of their power to bear testimony against many who had been apprehended and justly deserved punishment; and praying that a strict inquiry might be made into the conduct of those who had appeared inimical to this Country, and that they might be removed to some distant part of the Colony, or so disposed of as to prevent their doing further mischief, and earnestly recommending that the slaves who had borne arms should be transported to the West-India Islands.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to the Committee of Safety.

Ordered, That no member absent himself from the service of this Convention without leave.

Ordered, That the Brig Corlet be detained until the mariners' wages are paid; and, on refusal of the Captain to pay the same, that the Committee for the County of Elizabeth City be empowered and directed to make sale of so much of the sails and apparel of the said Brig as will satisfy the same.

Ordered, That Major Spotswood have leave to be absent from the service for such time as shall be agreed on between Col. Howe and himself.

Ordered, That Mr. Taylor and Mr. Banister have leave to be absent from the service of this Convention, for the remainder of this session.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this Colony pay to Capt. Samuel M^r Dowell the sum of eight hundred Pounds, to be by him applied to the payment of the Wages of the Company that served under him in the late expedition against the Indians, and also a Ranging Company; on his giving bond, with sufficient security, for the due and faithful application of it to the purpose aforesaid, and rendering a just account thereof to Joseph Cabell, Esq., when required.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee to whom the representation of the Committee of the County of Isle-of-Wight was referred, reported, that they had inquired into the conduct of the said John Goodrich therein named, and that it appeared to them that the said John Goodrich had drawn on him, and two of his sons, the resentment of Lord Dunmore, by assisting the country in the importation of Gunpowder, who caused them to be seized and confined; but, upon their engaging to be no further concerned in that business, the said John Goodrich, and his son John, on the parole of the former to appear on board Lord Dunmore's ship every tenth day, or oftener, if required, the said John Goodrich has since resided at his plantation in Nansemond, and has been on board his Lordship's ship four times, agreeably to his engagement, passing in his vessel unmolested by any of the Navy; that the said John Goodrich acknowledged he intended to move some Corn from his plantation, in the County of Isle-of-Wight, to his plantation in Nansemond; but says, the quantity was but a few barrels, which his family was in want of, and that he had no conveniency of carrying it but by water. And that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to.

Resolved, That the said Joseph Goodrich hath been active in favour of this Colony, and hath suffered considerably on that account; that nothing in his conduct appears to be inimical to the common cause; but that no Grain, or other article of provision, should be water-borne in the neighbourhood of the enemy.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Henry, of the First Regiment; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of John Goodrich, William Goodrich, and John Goodrich, Jun., relating to the importation of Powder, and other articles for the use of this Colony, reported, that the Committee had accordingly inquired into the same, and that it appeared to them that the Linens imported into this Colony, on board the Schooner Fanny, were on the joint account of the said John Goodrich, John Goodrich, Jun. and Bartlet Goodrich; that it further appeared from the information of the said John Goodrich, Jun., and an invoice of the said Cargo produced by him, that the said Bartlet, when at Antigua, about the first of October last, purchased British Goods, consisting of checks, cottons, gingham, striped holland, jeans, Scotch thread, printed linens, Irish linens, white lead, and linseed oil, to the amount of 2911. 16s. 10d. Sterling, imported there from Liverpool by a return Ship from Guinea, of which the said Bartlet was fully apprized; that the said Bartlet carried them to St. Eustatia, had them reviewed and packed in rum puncheons, and sent into Potomack River, in this Colony, addressed to John Goodrich and Company, where the said John Goodrich, Jun., took them into his possession, and offered them for sale, knowing them to be of British manufacture; that there further appeared to be several erasures in the invoice of the said Goods, intended to conceal the place from whence they were originally imported, particularly the words Liverpool and Antigua, which are yet legible—the latter having been altered, and St. Eustatia inserted; the words Scotch and Irish erased, and the word Dutch inserted; that the said John Goodrich alledged, to justify this importation, that his brother, Bartlet, being anxious to supply his brother, William Goodrich, with Powder, for the use of this Colony, and meeting with about fifteen hundred weight on board the Liverpool Ship, offered to purchase it, but the Captain refused to sell it, unless he would take the aforesaid British Goods, which the said Bartlet thought it better to purchase, than to lose so much Powder, for the use of this Colony; that, from the testimony of Connaway, Master of the said Vessel, it appears he received the Goods aforesaid, together with the Powder, on board his Vessel, when at St. Eustatia, and delivered the Powder to William Goodrich, and was then informed, by the said Bartlet Goodrich, that he was obliged to purchase the said Goods, or go without the Powder, which cost three Shillings, and two Shillings and nine Pence per pound, at Antigua; that it further appeared that the aforementioned John Goodrich was employed, in the month of July last, to purchase and import Powder for the use of this Colony, and for that purpose was entrusted with bills of exchange to the amount of five thousand Pounds Sterling; that he sent his son William to the West-Indies for the same, and imported into North-Carolina, some time in the month of October last, about four thousand weight; which being discovered by Lord Dunmore, he caused the said William to be seized and detained in custody till some time in December last, when it appeared that, being greatly intimidated, he was prevailed on by Lord Dunmore to make a discovery of the whole transaction, and the agent who assisted him in the West-Indies in this business; whereupon Lord Dunmore sent an armed Vessel, with the said William Goodrich as a witness, to demand the value of the Powder imported, and the money remaining in the said agent's hands; that it further appeared the said William Goodrich is lately returned to Norfolk, and was discharged by Lord Dunmore; but, upon his hearing that the said William intended to Williamsburgh, he was again seized; and is still detained in custody; that they cannot obtain any certain information of what passed between him and the Agents in the West-Indies, but are informed by the said John Goodrich, and John Goodrich, Jun., that the said William had brought neither Powder nor money; that the said William Goodrich, by an account lodged in the Treasury office, upon oath, hath charged four Shillings and six Pence, West-India currency, for the Powder purchased at St. Eustatia; that the said John Goodrich, Jun., accounted for this by saying that Bartlet Goodrich purchased the said Powder for his own use, and afterwards sold it to William Goodrich, at four Shillings and six Pence per pound. And had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said Bartlet Goodrich, and John Goodrich, Jun., have manifestly violated the first article of the Continental Association, in the importation of the said British Goods, and that the same ought to be forfeited to the use of this Colony.

Ordered, That the foregoing Report and Resolution be published in the Virginia Gazette, and that all persons be warned to have no further dealings with the said Bartlet and John Goodrich, Jun.

The Convention being informed that Col. Robert Howe had arrived in this City, from Norfolk, requested his attendance.

Col. Howe accordingly was introduced into the Convention, and examined, concerning the present situation of Norfolk, and the neighbourhood thereof, and then retired.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from Col. Woodford, enclosing the proceedings of a Council of Field Officers, held at Norfolk; which were read, and ordered to be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Adjourned till Monday, half after ten o'clock.

Monday, January 15, 1776.

Mr. Peyton, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Evan Williams was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Petition of the said Evan Williams is reasonable, and that the further sum of fifty Pounds ought to be allowed and paid to him by the publick.

The President laid before the Convention Letters from the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to.

Resolved, That it be recommended to such of the Inhabitants of the counties of Norfolk and Princess Anne as may be exposed to the attacks of the enemy, to remove themselves and their effects, and that the poorer sort be assisted in their removal by the publick.

Ordered, That Mr. Nelson and Mr. Acritt have leave of absence from the service of this Convention, for the remainder of the session.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinances for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Ordered, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee to whom it was referred to inquire into the several cases of the Prisoners in the City of Williamsburgh, reported, that the Committee had had the same under their consideration; and that it appeared to them, that Alexander Gordon hath borne arms against this Colony, and had been active in favour of Lord Dunmore; that Joshua Whitehurst had also been active, and endeavoured to raise men for Lord Dunmore; that Doctor Thomas Hall had been heard to say, that he would only act as a private militia-man, which he supposed Lord Dunmore's party could make him do; that he was an ensign in one of his new raised Regiments; that he had, by Lord Dunmore's order, searched some places for persons supposed to have intended to burn the Town of Norfolk; that he afterwards offered to resign his commission, and, at the desire of Mr. Fleming, attended the wounded regulars for several days. That Mordecai Robinson, James Hamilton, John Crammond, Joseph Garrett, Zachariah Christie, James Cunningham, Francis Powell, Samuel Blews, James Carmichael, Andrew Stephenson, and William Barker, have borne arms under the officers of Lord Dun- more, and were in the battle at the Great Bridge. That John Corlett was taken in a Tender of Lord Dunmore's, of which he was commander; that he had been for some time with Lord Dunmore, and that he had, at some time, signified his intention of quitting the service, into which he said he was impressed by Lord Dunmore's people. That Levin Townshend, Levi Townshend, Elias Townshend, Zedick Townshend, Isaac Costem, Benjamin Selby, Francis Brett, William Dickinson, and Cornelius Adams, had gone to Norfolk to purchase Salt, and were there taken by a party of Lord Dunmore's and forced to march with his troops to the Great Bridge; that they were afterwards sent out in a Tender to the Eastern-Shore, and being driven on shore, near Hampton, were taken; that it appeared the said Levin was desirous of making his escape from the service. That Jesse Clarkson, Arthur Ward, Charles Hanley, John Quick, and Henry Turner, acted as militia-men in the battle at Kemp's Landing against Lord Dunmore, after which they were forced into his service by Col. Elligood, and bore arms at the Great Bridge. That Hugh Granville, Samuel Yateman, Robert Slater, William Jameson, Joseph Cobden, and John Norman, are sailors belonging to the Ships at Norfolk.

Resolved, That the said Alexander Gordon, Joshua Whitehurst, Thomas Hall, Mordecai Robinson, James Hamilton, John Crammond, Joseph Garrett, Zachariah Christie, James Cunningham, Francis Powell, Samuel Blews, James Carmichael, Andrew Stephenson, William Barker, John Corlett, Levin Townshend, Levi Townshend, Elias Townshend, Isaac Costem, Benjamin Selby, Francis Brett, William Dickinson, Cornelius Adams, Jesse Clarkson, Arthur Ward, Charles Henley, John Quick, Henry Turner, Hugh Granville, Samuel Yateman, Robert Slater, William Jameson, Joseph Cobden, and John Norman, ought to be detained as prisoners of war; but that the Committee of Safety be at liberty to discharge such of them as they may think proper.

That it further appeared, that Caleb Whitehurst, Randal Hodges, John Woodside, Richard Brown, and James Leitch, have in some manner aided Lord Dunmore; but that they have not taken arms, or been so active as to be deemed prisoners of war.

Resolved, That the said Caleb Whitehurst, Randal Hodges, John Woodside, Richard Brown, and James Leitch, be discharged, on their parole not to aid Lord Dunmore in future.

That it appeared, that John Kay presented a loaded gun at the wife of one William Carr, swearing that he would kill her if she did not furnish him with thirty Pounds; but, not being able to obtain the money, he took from her five ducks, which were all she had.

Resolved, That the said John Kay be remanded to the Jail of the proper County where the said offence was committed, to be inquired into, there to remain till discharged by due course of law.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Tuesday, January 16, 1776.

Mr. Mercer, from the Committee to whom the Petition of John Goodrich, for himself and partners, was referred, reported, that it appeared to the Committee that the Sloop Dorothy arrived in this Colony from Antigua, and was taken by Captain Barron on her way to Norfolk, and carried into Hampton; that it appeared to them, that the contract made with the Commissary of Stores, for the purchase of sundry goods, hath been complied with on behalf of the Petitioners, and that there is now due to them one thousand and ninety-eight Pounds current money; and that they had come to the following Resolution thereupon, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said sum of one thousand and ninety-eight Pounds ought to be retained until the money furnished the said John Goodrich by this Colony for the purchase of Gunpowder be fairly and fully accounted for; and that the said Sloop Dorothy ought to be delivered to the owners.

Mr. Richard Lee, from the Committee to whom sundry Claims against the publick were referred, reported, that they had examined the same, and come to the following

Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the several Claims, amounting to 398*l*. 1*l*s. 3*d*. halfpenny, ought to be allowed and paid by the publick.

Resolved, That the Claim of John Briscoe ought to be referred to the Commissioners to be appointed to revise and settle sundry Accounts respecting the late expedition against the Indians.

On a motion made,

Resolved, That Edmund Pendleton, Esq., be allowed the annual sum of four hundred Pounds current money, commencing from the 1st of December last, as a recompense for his services as President of the Convention; and that the same be paid to him quarterly, so long as he shall continue in the said office.

Mr. Parker, from the Committee to whom the Petition of Richard Hopper was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Petition of the said Richard Hopper, praying that the publick will purchase his cargo of Naval Stores, is unreasonable, and ought to be rejected.

A Petition of John Goodrich was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that Robert Shelden, of the Town of Portsmouth, merchant, with his wife, the daughter of the Petitioner, and their two young children, are now on board a sloop in the harbour of Norfolk; that although he had appeared inimical, by sending for goods contrary to the Association, yet he had assisted the Petitioner in the importation of Gunpowder, for the use of this Colony; and praying that he may be allowed to come on shore, and reside under the protection of this Colony.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Parker, Mr. Cary, Mr. Thomas Lee, Mr. Smith, Mr. David Mason, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. Whiting, Mr. Walter Jones, and Mr. Newton; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

A Petition of John Goodrich and John Goodrich, Jun., was presented to the Convention, and read; setting forth, that they had exposed themselves to great danger, had suffered many hardships and inconveniences, and had incurred considerable expense, in their endeavours to serve this Colony, and praying that this Convention would take the same into consideration, and make them such reasonable compensation as shall be thought just.

Ordered, That the said Petition be referred to Mr. Parker, Mr. Cary, Mr. Thomas Lee, Mr. Smith, Mr. David Mason, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. Whiting, Mr. Walter Jones, and Mr. Newton; and they are to report the same, together with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinance for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments, during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Ordered, That the Treasurer do pay to the executors of the Hon. Peyton Randolph, Esq., deceased, the late worthy President of this Convention, the Salary settled upon him, by act of General Assembly, as Speaker of the House of Burgesses, to the sixth day of December last.

Resolved, That John Harvie, gentleman, be appointed a Commissioner to receive the Money due to the several Claimants in the Counties of Berkeley, Frederick, Dunmore, Hampshire, and West-Augusta, from the publick, on account of the late expedition against the Indians, and to pay the same to them; and the said John Harvie is required to settle and state all the Accounts of the said expedition that remain unsettled, and to revise those already settled in West-Augusta, and make report thereof to the next Convention. And that Joseph Neaville, gentleman, be appointed to revise and adjust the Accounts for the said expedition in the Counties of Berkeley, Frederick, Dunmore, and Hampshire, and report the same to the next Convention.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Wednesday, January 17, 1776.

Ordered, That the last Letters received from the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in General Congress, be referred to the Committee on the state of the Colony.

Ordered, That the Treasurer do pay to Mr. James Wood his expenses incurred in consequence of his embassy to the different Tribes of Indians, exclusive of the sum of money formerly voted him for his services on that occasion.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to.

Ordered, That the said Ordinance, together with the several amendments, be fairly transcribed, and read a third time.

Colonel Howe laid before the Convention a Letter from Captain Bellevue to him, and his answer thereto; which were read, and ordered to lie on the table.

The President laid before the Convention a Letter from the Committee of the County of Northampton, informing him they had sent over the several Prisoners taken in that County, agreeably to the direction of the Convention.

Ordered, That the examination of the said Prisoners, be referred to the Committee of Safety; and that they, in the mean time, be confined to their room, under a proper guard.

Mr. Braxton, from the Committee appointed, presented, according to order, an Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies of America; which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

Ordered, That Mr. Neaville have leave to be absent from the service of the Convention for the remainder of the session.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Mr. King, from the Committee appointed to inquire into the several cases of the Prisoners confined in the publick Jail, reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had the same under their consideration; and that it appeared to them, that Henry Crouch was a Sergeant in

Captain Saunders's Company. That it further appeared to them, that negro Tom, belonging to the estate of Joseph Selden; and Tewley, belonging to Edward Hack Moseley; Dick, belonging to Edmund Ruffin; Lewis and Bob, belonging to Jacob Keeling; Dick, to James Legate; Harry, to Joel Cornick; George, to Elizabeth Woodhouse; Jemmy, to Thomas Banks; Jasper and Luke, to William Keeling; Tom and Roger, to Mary Jones; Europe, to William Haynes; Romeo, to Lemuel Cornick; Frank, to John Henley; Peter, to William Keeling; Will, to Joel Cornick; Africa, to Charles Sayer; Harry, to Arthur Boush; that George, belonging to Samuel Donaldson; Ishmael, to George Gaskin; Cuff, to Willis Wilkinson; Ned, to William Forsyth; Cato, to Stephen Tankard; Lewis, to Robert Langley; Michael, to Robert Boush; were taken at the Great Bridge. That Derry, belonging to Edward Cooper; and Bob, belonging to John Shedden, have been active, and some of them borne arms under Lord Dunmore. That it appeared to them, that Charles, belonging to John Poole; Cuffy, to Charles Boush; Davy, to Charles Jenkins; Poole, to Willis Hoften; Dennis, to the widow Hodges; were also taken at the Great Bridge. That Billy, belonging to Anthony Robinson; Tom, Will, and Jemmy, belonging to Merit Moore; Anthony, to Henry Howard; Ned and Sam, to Bennet Tompkins; in attempting to run away from their several masters, were by them pursued and taken at Point Comfort. That it does not appear that the said Charles, Cuffy, Davy, Poole, Dennis, Billy, Tom, Will, Jemmy, and Anthony, have ever borne arms, or been active in the service of Lord Dunmore. That it also appeared, that Rachel and Amy, belonging to Bennet Tompkins, have been guilty of a robbery in the County of York; and that Neptune, belonging to George Wythe, Esq., was taken up as a runaway. And that they had come to the following Resolutions thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the said Henry Crouch be detained as a Prisoner.

Resolved, That the said several Slaves who have been active under Lord Dunmore, or have borne arms in his service, be detained in Jail until the Committee of Safety shall procure them to be properly valued, and sent to the foreign West-India Islands, or the Bay of Honduras, there to be sold, and the money arising therefrom, after deducting the charges, be paid to the Treasurer of this Colony, to be repaid to their respective owners, provided they are not unfriendly to American liberty.

Resolved, That such of the said Slaves who have not borne arms, or not been active in the service of Lord Dunmore, be delivered to their respective owners, on their paying the expenses which have accrued, or shall accrue, from the time of their being taken, till the time of their delivery; and that a list of the said negroes, with the names of their several owners, be inserted in the Virginia Gazette. And, if the owners do not apply within two months from the date of the said advertisement, that such thereof as remain may then be sold at publick auction, and the balance, after deducting the expenses aforesaid, be lodged in the hands of the Treasurer of this Colony, to be paid to the owners, when demanded.

Resolved, That the said Rachel and Amy be committed to the Jail of the proper County, there to remain till discharged by due course of law.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Thursday, January 18, 1776.

Resolved, That each member of the Committee of Safety be allowed the sum of ten Shillings for every day of his attendance in the said Committee, exclusive of the sum formerly allowed for their expenses.

Mr. Parker, from the Committee to whom the Petition of John Goodrich was referred, reported, that they had, according to order, had the same under their consideration, and had come to the following Resolution thereupon; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read, and agreed to:

Resolved, That Robert Shedden and family, mentioned in the said Petition, are sufficiently provided for by a Declaration of this Convention, and the repeated promises of Colonels Howe and Woodford, wherein they offered every friendly office which humanity could dictate, to the unhappy women and children on board the Fleet under the command of Lord Dunmore.

On a motion made,

Resolved, That the Colonel of the First Regiment be allowed an Aid-de-camp, until General Officers shall be appointed by the General Congress; and that the said Aid-de-camp be allowed six Shillings per day, from the time he hath been appointed.

Resolved, That the duties on the Rum imported in the several Vessels taken by Captain Barron be paid, or secured to be paid, to the Treasurer of this Colony.

An Ordinance for continuing and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety, having been fairly transcribed, and the blanks therein filled up, was read a third time:

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass; and that the title be, "An Ordinance for reviving and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety."

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Deputy Quartermaster-General; and the members having prepared their tickets with the name of the person to be appointed, Mr. Digges, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Dandridge, and Mr. John Walker, were appointed a Committee to examine the ballot box, and it appearing, from their report, that there was a majority in favour of William Finnie, Esq.;

Resolved, therefore, That the said William Finnie, be appointed Deputy Quartermaster-General.

Resolved, That Thomas Bullitt, Esq., be appointed Adjutant-General.

The Convention then proceeded, by ballot, to the appointment of a Deputy Adjutant-General; and the members having prepared tickets with the name of the person to be appointed, Mr. Digges, Mr. Carrington, Mr. Dandridge, and Mr. John Walker, were appointed a Committee to examine the ballot box, and it appearing, from their report, that there was a majority in favour of John Sears, Esq.,

Resolved, therefore, That the said John Sears be appointed Deputy Adjutant-General.

An Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies of America, was read a second time, and ordered to be committed to a Committee of the whole Convention.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into a Committee on the said Ordinance, and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had made some progress therein, but not having time to go through the same, had directed him to move for leave to sit again.

Resolved, That this Convention will to-morrow again resolve itself a Committee on the said Ordinance.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony, and on the Ordinances for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

Adjourned till to-morrow, half after ten o'clock.

Friday, January 19, 1776.

Ordered, That Mr. Mason, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Gray, Mr. Parker, Mr. Newton, and Mr. Murdaugh, or any four of them, be a Committee to inquire into the conduct of the Officers and Militia in the County of Princess Anne, lately drawn out into actual service, and to report the same to the next Convention.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies of America; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinance, and had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read and agreed to.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance, together with the several amendments, be fairly transcribed and read a third time.

The Orders of the Day—for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee on the Ordinances for establishing a General Test; to amend an Ordinance, entitled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law;—being read,

Resolved, That the same be put off till to-morrow.

The Convention, then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the state of the Colony; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the state of the Colony, and had come to a Resolution thereupon, which he was ready to report when the Convention should be pleased to receive the same.

Ordered, That the said Report be received to-morrow.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock.

Saturday, January 20, 1776.

Ordered, That the Treasurer do pay to Captains George Matthews and Alexander M Clamahan, the money due to their respective Companies, from the publick, on account of the late expedition against the Indians, and reported by the Commissioners.

The Convention then, according to the Order of the Day, resolved itself into a Committee on the Ordinances to amend an Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned; and for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Cary reported, that the Committee had, according to order, had under their consideration the said Ordinances, and had gone through the same, and made several amendments thereto, which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same were again twice read and agreed to.

Resolved, That the said Ordinances, together with the several amendments, be fairly transcribed and read a third time.

Mr. Cary, from the Committee of the whole Convention, reported, according to order, that the Committee had come to the following Resolution; which he read in his place, and afterwards delivered in at the Clerk's table, where the same was again twice read and agreed to:

Whereas the British Ministry have at length engaged in an open and avowed war with the good people of this Colony, and in the prosecution thereof have manifested the most unrelenting fury, by burning and destroying open and defenceless Towns, contrary to the practice of war among civilized nations, by exciting insurrections among our slaves, inviting the savages, and arming them against us:

Resolved, (as the opinion of this Convention,) That we hold it incumbent upon us (a duty which we owe to ourselves, to our country, and to this whole Continent,) to oppose, by every method in our power, such unjust and cruel attempts; that the most likely means of effecting this, and of gaining relief and assistance to ourselves, and of distressing our enemies, would be by opening our Ports to all persons willing to trade with us, Great Britain, Ireland, and the British West-Indies excepted; and that we give it in recommendation to our delegates in General Congress, to use their endeavours to have such a measure adopted, and carried into execution, so soon as it shall be deemed proper by the said General Congress to permit exportation from North-America.

An Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies of America, having been fairly transcribed, was read a third time, and the blanks therein filled up.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass, and that the title thereof be, "An Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies to America in this Colony."

Resolved, That all the publick Money, except His Majesty's Quit-rents, now in the hands of the Collectors, Naval Officers, Sheriffs, and Clerks, and which may hereafter be received by them, be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of this Colony.

An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned," having been fairly transcribed, was read a third time, and the blanks therein filled up.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass.

Resolved, That in case of the sickness or inability of the Treasurer of this Colony to sign and countersign the Treasury Notes, emitted pursuant to an Ordinance of Convention, he be empowered to appoint such other person as he may think proper to do the same in his stead.

Resolved, That the appointment of Captain John Sears to the office of Deputy Adjutant-General, disqualifies him from holding the office of Captain in his Company.

An Ordinance for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law, having been fairly transcribed, and the blanks therein filled up, was read a third time.

Resolved, That the said Ordinance do pass, and that the title thereof be, "An Ordinance for establishing a mode of making Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law, and for other purposes therein mentioned."

Resolved, That the several sums following be allowed to the several Officers of this Convention, for their services during the present session:

To the Rev. Thomas Price, Chaplain, forty Pounds.

To Mr. John Tazewell, Clerk of the Convention, one hundred and seventy-five Pounds.

To Mr. Francis Eppes, Messenger to the Convention, fifty Pounds.

To Edmund Pendleton, Jun., Clerk to several Committees, fifty Pounds.

To William Dandridge, Jun., Clerk to several other Committees, fifty Pounds.

To Robert Hyland, William Hicks, John Creagh, and William Drinkard, Doorkeepers to the Convention, twenty-five Pounds each.

Resolved, That Mr. John Pendleton, Clerk to the Committee of Safety, be allowed twenty Shillings per day for his expenses and services while on duty.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety do allow the Quartermaster and Adjutant to the several Minute-men at Hampton, the Adjutant to the Minute-men in the City of Williamsburgh, and Wagon-master, whatever their several services, in their opinions, shall be thought to deserve.

Adjourned till the second day of April next, then to meet in the City of Williamsburgh, or such other place as may be appointed by the Committee of Safety.

ORDINANCES PASSED BY THE CONVENTION.

1. An Ordinance for raising an additional number of Forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned.

Whereas the Earl of Dunmore, by his many hostile attacks upon the good people of this Colony, and attempts to infringe their rights and liberties, by his Proclamation declaring freedom to our servants and slaves, and arming them against us, by seizing our persons and properties, and declaring those who opposed such his arbitrary measures in a state of rebellion, hath made it necessary that an additional number of Forces be raised for our protection and defence:

Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, now assembled in General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That the two Regiments formerly raised be augmented, by the addition of three hundred and eighty-two men, to be divided into five Companies, consisting of sixty-eight men each, rank and file, under the command of one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, and four Sergeants; each Company to be allowed a Drummer and Fifer, and two of the said Companies to be added to the First, and the remaining three Companies to the Second Regiment.

And be it further ordained, That there be likewise immediately raised, and taken into pay from the time of their enlistment, six other Regiments complete, to be composed of ten Companies of sixty-eight men each, rank and file, (three of which Companies in each Regiment to consist of Riflemen, to act as Light Infantry,) under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Major, ten Captains, twenty Lieutenants, ten Ensigns, forty Sergeants; and to be allowed ten Drummers and ten Fifers; and to each of the said Regiments there shall be moreover allowed a Chaplain, an Adjutant, a Regimental Quartermaster, one Surgeon, two Surgeon's Mates, one Sergeant-Major, one Drum-Major, and Quartermaster's Sergeant.

And be it further ordained, That of six Regiments to be levied as aforesaid, one of them shall be called a German Regiment, to be made up of German and other officers and soldiers, as the Committees of the several Counties of Augusta, West-Augusta, Berkeley, Culpepper, Dunmore, Fincastle, Frederick, and Hampshire, (by which Committees the several Captains and subaltern officers of the said Regiment are to be appointed,) shall judge expedient.

And whereas, by an Ordinance passed at the last meeting of this Convention, intitled "An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony," it is ordained, that a battalion of Minute men be raised in the Counties of Accomack and Northampton, which at present is thought to be inadequate to the defence of that part of this Colony: Be it therefore ordained, That so much of the said Ordinance as relates to the raising the said Battalion be repealed; and that over and above the Regiments aforesaid, there be raised one other Regiment, to be composed of seven Companies, for the protection and defence of the said Counties of Accomack and Northampton; each Company to consist of sixty-eight, rank and file, and to be under the command of a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, a Major, seven Captains, fourteen Lieutenants, seven Ensigns, twenty-eight Sergeants, and each Company to be allowed a Drummer and Fifer. Four of which Companies to be raised in the said Counties of Accomack and Northampton, as herein after directed; the other three (two of which to consist of Riflemen, to be allotted to this Regiment by the Committee of Safety) out of the other levies to be raised by this Ordinance; and the said Regiment shall moreover be allowed a Chaplain, a Paymaster, with a salary of seventy-five Pounds per annum, and the like Staff Officers as are directed for the other Regiments, to be appointed in the same manner.

And be it further ordained, That the whole of the nine Regiments be under the command of one Major-General, and two Brigadiers-General, each of whom shall have an Aid-de-Camp and Secretary of their own appointment; and that there be one Quartermaster-General, one Adjutant-General, and one Deputy Adjutant-General.

And for the more regular, speedy, and equal appointment of Officers, Be it further ordained, That the General Officers shall be appointed by the General Congress, and that the Field Officers shall be nominated and appointed by the General Convention of this Colony, and the Captains and Subalterns by the several County and District Committees, as follows, that is to say: That each of the Committees of the Counties of Albemarle, Augusta, West-Augusta, Berkeley, Bedford, Culpepper, Dunmore, Fauquier, Fincastle, Loudoun, Orange, Prince William, and Spotsylvania, shall nominate and appoint two proper and discreet persons to be Captains, two other such persons to be First Lieutenants, two others to be Second Lieutenants, and two others to be Ensigns, who shall be by them respectively directed to proceed with all expedition in recruiting levies, in order to raise in the whole twenty-six Companies.

Provided, That the Officers of the one hundred men ordered from Fort Pitt, by a late Resolution of this Convention, shall be considered as part of the Officers to be nominated by the Committee of West-Augusta, if the said Officers shall incline to continue in the service of this Colony, agreeably to the said Resolution. That each of the Committees of the Counties of Amelia, Amherst, Botetourt, Brunswick, Buckingham, Caroline, Charlotte, Chesterfield, Cumberland, Charles City, Dinwiddie, Frederick, Fairfax, Goochland, Gloucester, Halifax, Hampshire, Hanover, Henrico, King George, King and Queen, King William, Lunenburg, Louisa, Mecklenburgh, Nansemond, Northumberland, New-Kent, Pittsylvania, Prince Edward, Prince George, Southampton, Stafford, Sussex, and Westmoreland, shall nominate and appoint one such proper person to be Captain, one other to be First Lieutenant, one other to be Second Lieutenant, and one other to be Ensign, who shall be by the Committees respectively directed to proceed immediately in recruiting levies, in order to raise, in the whole, thirty-three Companies. That the several District Committees, hereinafter described, do nominate and appoint the remainder of the officers for raising thirteen Companies, as follows: the District of Acomack and Northampton, four Captains, four First Lieutenants, four Second Lieutenants, and four Ensigns; the District of Essex and Middlesex, one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, and one Ensign; the District of Isle-of-Wight and Surry, two Captains, two First Lieutenants, two Second Lieutenants, and two Ensigns; the District of Landcaster and Richmond, one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, and one Ensign; the District of Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties, one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, and one Ensign; and the District of York, Elizabeth City, Warwick, James City, and the City of Williamsburgh, two Captains, two First Lieutenants, two Second Lieutenants, and two Ensigns. And the several Officers so to be appointed shall be, by the respective District Committees, directed to proceed immediately in recruiting as aforesaid, in order to raise their Companies; which several Recruiting Officers shall be at liberty to raise their levies in any part of the Colony, without being confined to Counties or Districts.

And be it further ordained, That if any Captain and his Subaltern Officers, so to be appointed, shall not recruit the whole number of men for a Company on or before the last day of February next, the Committee of the County or District by whom such officers were appointed may either appoint others, instead of the officer or officers who shall fail to recruit the following number, according to his rank, to wit: a Captain, twenty-eight; a First Lieutenant, twenty-one; a Second Lieutenant, sixteen; and an Ensign, nine; or may continue the former officers, if it shall appear probable to the Committee that the Company may be sooner completed by them than raised by appointing new officers as aforesaid.

Provided always, That if any Company shall not be made complete by the first nominated officers or others, to be chosen in their stead as aforesaid, by the 25th day of March next, the several County and District Committees, wherein such failure should happen, shall make report of the whole matter to the Committee of Safety, who shall take such order therein as to them shall seem most likely to forward the service, and appoint such and so many officers as they may judge proper to recruit at large within this Colony, without regard to the place of residence of such officer.

And be it further ordained, That the several County and District Committees, at the time of appointing the officers as aforesaid, shall fix on some certain convenient place where the Officers of each Company shall rendezvous the men by them enlisted, and also nominate two of their members, residing as near as may be to such place of rendezvous, to review the men to be enlisted in each Company; which members having examined the persons enlisted, and found them to be able-bodied, healthy men, and to have been regularly sworn and attested according to the direction of this Ordinance, shall grant a certificate thereof, which shall be returned to the County or District Committee who appointed the Officers, and be by them respectively returned to the Committee of Safety, who shall grant Commissions to the Officers thereupon, as is hereinafter directed. And in case it shall appear, from such certificates, that two or more Companies have been reviewed on the same day, the Committee of Safety shall settle the priority of rank between the Officers by a fair and equal lot.

And be it further ordained, That the Chaplain and Surgeon to each Regiment be appointed by the Field-Officers and Captains of such Regiment; the Surgeon's Mates, by the Surgeon himself, with the approbation of the Commanding-Officer; the Adjutant, Regimental Quartermaster, Sergeant-Major, Quartermaster-Sergeant, and Drum-Major, by the Commanding-Officer of such Regiment.

And for the more certain and regular appointment of the several District Committees, Be it ordained, That the several Committees of the Counties and Corporations before named shall each depute three of their members to attend at some convenient and central place in each District, to be appointed by the Chairman of the Committee of the County first named in each District; of which appointment such Chairman shall give reasonable notice to the Chairmen of the other Committees within his District; which Deputies, or a majority of them, the whole having such reasonable notice, shall be a District Committee for the purposes of this Ordinance, and proceed to the nomination and appointment of Officers in the same manner as is directed by a former Ordinance of Convention.

And for the more regular embodying the several Regiments, and stationing the Troops for the protection of the several parts of this Colony, Be it ordained, That the Committee of Safety shall allot certain Companies to each Regiment, and appoint the station of such Regiment; of which notice shall be given to the County and District Committees where such Companies are expected to be raised; which Committees, at the time of their granting certificates of the completion of the Companies, shall order each Company to march to the station, and certify the same, and the distance to such station, to the Committee of Safety.

And to prevent unreasonable delay in such march, Be it ordained, That the Officers and Men shall receive no more pay, from the date of such marching orders to the time of their arrival at their station, than after the rate of one day's pay for every fifteen miles, according to the distance, unless delayed by bad weather, or unavoidable accidents, of which the Committee of Safety shall judge and determine before they grant a warrant for the pay of any Company.

And for making a certain provision for Cadets, Be it ordained, That every Cadet who shall enter into the service, with the approbation of the Commanding-Officer of the respective Regiment which he is willing to join, shall be allowed the pay and provision of a Private Soldier, and be found the like tents, allowing one to every four Cadets.

And be it further ordained, That in case any vacancies should happen, by deaths or otherwise, among the Commissioned-Officers, the same shall be supplied, from time to time, by regular succession, in course of seniority; and, in case of a defect of Officers to supply such succession, the Commanding-Officer of the Regiment shall fill up the vacancy out of the Cadets, if any, paying due regard to their seniority; and, if there be no Cadets, out of such others as he may think proper, with the approbation of the Committee of Safety.

And that the Companies may be kept complete, from time to time, Be it further ordained, That if any vacancies should happen among the Private Men, the Commanding-Officer of the Regiment shall supply the same by new recruits, in the best and most expeditious manner he may be able.

And be it further ordained, That the Soldiers to be raised shall be enlisted on the terms following, to wit: That they shall continue in the service so long as may be judged necessary, by the General Congress, or by the General Convention or General Assembly of this Colony, but not be compelled to continue more than two years from the 10th day of April next.

Provided, Any Soldier or Soldiers do give the Commanding-Officer three months previous notice, in writing, of his or their desire to be discharged at the end of such period; and, if it shall be judged expedient to disband the Army before the expiration of the said two years, that then each Soldier discharged within that time shall be entitled to and receive six weeks pay over and above what is actually due to him. That the pay of each Captain, Lieutenant, and Ensign, shall commence on the day of his appointment, by the District or County Committees; of the Chaplain, and all the Subaltern Officers, on the days of their respective appointments; of the common Soldiers, on the days of their enlisting; and that the pay of the several Field and Staff Officers shall commence on the days of their being called into duty by the Committee of Safety.

Provided always, That no Recruiting Officer shall be allowed to enlist into the service any servant whatsoever, except apprentices bound under the laws of this Colony, nor any such apprentice unless the consent of his master be first had in writing; neither any man unless he be five feet four inches high, healthy, strong made, and well limbed, not deaf, or subject to fits.

And be it further ordained, That the Soldiers to be enlisted, and the several Sergeants appointed, or to be appointed, shall, at the expense of the publick, be furnished each with one good musket and bayonet, cartouch box, or pouch, and canteen; and, until such musket can be provided, that they bring with them the best gun of any other sort that they can procure; and that they also bring with them (if to be had) one blanket each; and that such as are to act as riflemen, bring with them one good rifle and tomahawk each, to be approved by their Captain; for the use of which guns they shall be allowed as follows, to wit: For the smooth-bores, or muskets, after the rate of twenty shillings, and for the rifles and tomahawks after the same rate by the year, and for the blanket so much as by the judgment of any Field-Officer of his Regiment the same shall be considered to be worth at the time it is produced. That each common Soldier, not already sufficiently provided, in the opinion of his Commanding-Officer, shall be provided with sufficient clothing, at the expense of the publick, to be deducted out of his pay, and also to be allowed by the publick a hunting-shirt, a pair of leggins, and binding for his hat.

Provided, if any Minute-man who has been already furnished with such articles shall enter into the regular service, he shall have no further allowance.

And be it further ordained, That, over and above the Rifle Companies belonging to the German Regiment, there be raised seventeen Companies of expert Riflemen, in the following Counties, that is to say: In the Counties of Bedford and Loudoun, each two Companies; in the Counties of Albemarle, Amherst, Berkeley, Botetourt, Buckingham, Charlotte, Culpepper, Dunmore, Fauquier, Halifax, Orange, Pittsylvania, and Prince Edward, each one Company; which shall be allotted by the Committee of Safety to the respective Regiments, as before directed.

And be it further ordained, That proper Medicine Chests, and Surgeons' Instruments, be provided, at the expense of the publick.

And be it further ordained, That the Pay of the Officers and Soldiers shall be as follows, to wit: To a Colonel, seventeen Shillings and six Pence; to a Lieutenant-Colonel, twelve Shillings and six Pence; to a Major, ten Shillings; a Deputy Quartermaster-General, ten Shillings; an Adjutant-General, twelve Shillings and six Pence; a Deputy Adjutant-General, ten Shillings; a Captain, six Shillings; a Lieutenant, four Shillings; an Ensign, three Shillings; a Chaplain, ten Shillings; an Adjutant, (holding no other office,) six Shillings; if in other office, three Shillings; to a Regimental Quartermaster, (holding, or not holding, any other office,) the same as to an Adjutant; to a Sergeant-Major, to be appointed from amongst the most expert Sergeants, by the Commanding-Officer of the Regiment, two Shillings and six Pence; to a Quartermaster-Sergeant, two Shillings and six Pence; to a Sergeant, two Shillings; to a Drum-Major, two Shillings; to a Corporal, Drummer, and Fifer, each one Shilling and eight Pence; and to each Private Soldier, one Shilling and four Pence; to a Surgeon, ten Shillings; and to a Surgeon's Mate, five Shillings per day.

And be it further ordained, That one Company of Artillery be forthwith raised, and taken into the pay of this Colony, to consist of one Captain, three Lieutenants, one

Sergeant, four Bombardiers, eight Gunners, and forty-eight Matrosses; the Officers to be appointed and commissioned by the Committee of Safety, and the Non-Commissioned Officers and Gunners to be appointed by the Captain; the pay of whom shall commence on the days of their several appointments and enlistments, and be as follows: To a Captain, eight Shillings; a Lieutenant, six Shillings; a Sergeant, four Shillings; a Bombardier, three Shillings; a Gunner, two Shillings and six Pence; and each Matross, two Shillings per day; which Company, when complete, shall be passed and reviewed by such person as the said Committee of Safety shall appoint, and take the oath and subscribe the articles directed by this Ordinance for the other Forces, and be subject to the like rules and regulations.

And for the greater security of the Inhabitants of this Colony from depredations of the enemy by water, Be it ordained, That the Committee of Safety shall, and they are hereby empowered and required to provide, from time to time, such and so many Armed Vessels as they may judge necessary for the protection of the several Rivers in this Colony, in the best manner the circumstances of the country will admit; and, to that end, to raise and take into pay a sufficient number of officers and men, as well sailors as marines, whose pay shall be settled by the Committee of Safety, not exceeding the following rates, to wit: To a Chief Commander of the whole, as Commodore, fifteen Shillings; to a Master, ten Shillings; a First Mate, seven Shillings and six Pence; a Second Mate, five Shillings; a Boatswain, three Shillings; a Common Sailor, two Shillings per day; a Captain of Marines, six Shillings; a Lieutenant, four Shillings; a Midshipman, three Shillings; a Marine, one Shilling and six Pence.

Provided always, and be it further ordained, That, where the land service will admit of it, and the Officers and Soldiers of the regular forces shall be willing to enter upon any temporary expedition in such Armed Vessels, they may be allowed so to do, and shall receive pay according to the rates aforementioned; which Officers, Sailors, and Marines, may be removed or disbanded by the said Committee of Safety, as they shall judge expedient.

And be it further ordained, That the Colonel of each Regiment, when detached from the main body, on a separate command, shall be allowed a Secretary, to be appointed by himself, who shall be allowed for his services four Shillings a day.

And be it further ordained, That every Commissioned and Staff Officer shall be allowed a Tent; and every two Sergeants shall have the same allowance; and that for every six Private Men there shall be provided a proper and sufficient Tent; and that one Bell Tent for each Company shall also be provided, at the publick expense.

And be it further ordained, That, for the more speedy supply of the Forces with Wagons, Tents, Bedding, Arms, Accoutrements, Clothes, Provisions, and all other necessities, the Committee of Safety shall, and they are hereby required, to appoint some fit person, or persons, to provide Arms and Accoutrements, Clothes, Wagons, Tents, and Bedding, upon the best and cheapest terms, and also to appoint one or more Contractors or Commissaries, who are hereby required to use all possible despatch in purchasing such Provisions as shall be necessary for the Army, and in laying off the same in such convenient place, or places, as may best suit their different stations and marches.

And for the more regular Pay of the Army, It is hereby ordained, That the Committee of Safety shall appoint one Paymaster to the first four of the said Regiments, and one Paymaster to the other four of the said Regiments, with a salary of one hundred and fifty Pounds per annum each, and one Assistant-Paymaster, who shall pay the troops on the frontiers, and shall be allowed such salary as shall be approved by the Committee of Safety for his services; which Paymasters are also to act as Muster-masters. And it shall and may be lawful for the said Committee, from time to time, to issue their warrants to the Treasurer, appointed by or pursuant to an Ordinance of this Convention, for paying the several Recruiting Officers, Commissioners, Commissaries, or Contractors, and Paymasters, by them appointed; and to all expresses, and other persons by them employed, in lesser services, so much money as the said Committee shall judge necessary for their several purposes, taking proper security for the due disbursement and application thereof, and making a proper and reasonable allowance to the several persons so to be appointed, for their trouble and expenses in conducting either branch of business to him or them assigned. And the said Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority to displace and remove from his office any person so by them appointed, either for misconduct or neglect of duty. And the said Treasurer is hereby required to pay all such sums as he may be directed, by such warrants, out of the publick money in his hands.

And be it further ordained, That the said Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority, at such times and places as they may think necessary and convenient, to call all such persons who may receive any publick money for carrying into execution the purposes of this Ordinance, to a strict account; and, upon examining their accounts, and finding them justly stated, certify the same, and, if necessary, to give proper acquittances and discharges.

And whereas it may be necessary, for the publick security, that the Forces to be raised by virtue of this Ordinance should, as occasion may require, be marched to different parts of the United Colonies, and that the Officers should be subject to a proper control: Be it therefore ordained, by the authority aforesaid, That the Officers and Soldiers under their command shall, in all things not otherwise particularly provided for by this Ordinance and the Articles established for their regulation, be under the control, and subject to the order, of the Committee of Safety.

And whereas, in this time of danger, it is probable, from the exposed situation of this Colony, and the many navigable Rivers and Creeks therein, that the attempts of the enemy will be made on different parts thereof: For the better security and defence of the inhabitants: Be it further ordained, That the Regiments to be raised and augmented by virtue of this Ordinance shall be stationed in such parts of the Districts hereinafter mentioned as the Committee of Safety may judge most proper, that is to say: Between the Rivers of Potomack and Rappahannock, two Regiments; between Rappahannock and York River, two Regiments; between York and James River, two Regiments; and on the south side of James River, two Regiments; and the said Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority, from time to time, to call the said Regiments, or such parts thereof as they may think proper, to any place within this Colony, to repel the invasion or attacks of the enemy; provided the Forces so ordered shall return to their respective stations so soon as the emergency shall cease; any thing in this, or any former Ordinance, to the contrary notwithstanding.

And for preserving proper rank, and establishing equal pay, among all the Officers of the Continental Army: Be it ordained, That all commissions already granted, or hereafter to be granted, by the Committee of Safety, in pursuance of this and a former Ordinance of Convention, to any regular Officer, be, and the same are hereby declared void as soon as such Officer, or any other in his stead, shall be appointed or commissioned by the General Congress; and the pay of every such officer shall, from the time of such appointment, and notice thereof to the Committee of Safety of this Colony, be the same as shall be settled by the said General Congress, any thing in this or the said Ordinance to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

And whereas so much of the Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony, as relates to the performance of battalion duty by the Minute-men, is found to be inconvenient: Be it further ordained, That so much of the said Ordinance as requires the said duty, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

And be it further ordained, That, where the Officers of Minute-men heretofore appointed have failed to make up their Companies, and shall not complete the same within thirty days after the passing of this Ordinance, the Committee of the County where any such failure hath happened are required to appoint other Officers to such Companies, in manner following, that is to say: where a Captain has not enlisted the number of twenty-five, a Lieutenant eighteen, and an Ensign twelve, in all such cases, the said Committee shall appoint other Officers in the room of such Officers failing to enlist such number of men; unless the failure of making up any Company has been occasioned by the men of the said Company enlisting into the Regular service; and the several Minute Captains are required, once in every month, to make return of the number of men enlisted into their Companies to the Commanding-Officers of their respective Districts, to be by them transmitted to the Committee of Safety.

And be it further ordained, That, if any Officer of a Minute Company shall enter into the Regular service, the Committee of the County to which his Company belongs shall appoint another Officer to supply such vacancy; also, when any of the Minute-men shall enlist into the Regular service, the Officer to whose Company such Soldier belonged shall forthwith proceed to recruit and enlist others in their room. And if any Minute Company shall be ordered into service before the same is complete, the same, if amounting to eighteen, shall go under the command of the Lieutenant; and if under that number, to be commanded by the Ensign of the said Company.

And be it further ordained, That each Minute-man who shall furnish himself with a good musket, or other gun, to be approved of by his Captain, shall be allowed by the publick ten Shillings per annum, as a consideration for the use thereof, and shall be liable to a fine of twenty Shillings for not appearing with the same when called on duty.

And be it further ordained, That in lieu of the Oath to be taken by the Officers and Soldiers, either of Regulars or Minute-men, as directed by the Ordinance, intituled An Ordinance for the better government of the Forces to be raised and employed in the service of the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, that the following Oath be by them hereafter taken, (except by the people called Quakers and Menonists, who are required to make a solemn Affirmation to the same effect,) to wit: "I, A B, do swear, that I will be faithful and true to the Colony and Dominion of Virginia; that I will serve the same to the utmost of my power, in defence of the just rights of America, against all enemies whatsoever; that I will, to the utmost of my abilities, obey the lawful commands of my superior Officers, agreeably to the Ordinances of the Convention and the Articles of War, to which I have subscribed, and lay down my arms peaceably, when required so to do, either by the General Convention or General Assembly of Virginia. So help me God." Which Oath shall be administered to the General and Field-Officers of the Regulars by the Committee of Safety, and to the other Commissioned-Officers by the District or County Committee by whom such Officers shall be appointed; and shall be administered to the other inferior Officers, and Men, by a Justice of the Peace, or any County or Corporation Committee-man, within twenty-four hours after the time of enlistment.

And whereas, by a new election of Committee-men throughout this Colony, pursuant to an Ordinance of the last Convention, the power of the Deputies elected to form the District Committees is supposed to be at an end: Be it therefore ordained, That the Committees of the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, where the same hath not been already done since their last election, shall appoint such a number of their members respectively, as, in the former Ordinance for raising the Forces, is limited and directed, to meet in District Committees, who shall do and perform what remains to be done by such Committees respectively, for carrying into execution this and the former Ordinance; and so, as often as a dissolution of any Committee, and a new election of others, shall take place, they shall proceed in like manner, to the new election of Deputies, to represent them in District Committee.

Provided always, and be it further ordained, That where it shall be necessary to appoint a new Captain or Subaltern Commissioned-Officer of Minute-men, upon the death or resignation of one formerly nominated, or on his failing to raise the number of men required by this Ordinance, in that case, the appointment of such Officer shall be made by the Committee of the County or Corporation wherein the Company was to be raised; and that all vacancies among the Field-Officers of the Minute-men shall be filled up by the District Committees, having regard to a regular succession of the Officers, according to their rank.

And whereas, by the former Ordinance, the Committee of Safety are restrained from granting Commissions to the Officers in the Minute service until a return is made of the completion of the Battalions throughout the Colony, which is found inconvenient: Be it therefore ordained, That upon a certificate of the review of any Company of Minute-men, as in the said Ordinance is directed, the Committee of Safety shall issue Commissions to the Captain and Subaltern Officers appointed to command such Company, bearing date on the day they were or shall be reviewed; and as soon as four Companies in any District shall appear to have been reviewed, shall grant a Commission to the Major, bearing date the day of the last Company's review; where seven Companies are completed, shall also grant a Commission to the Lieutenant-Colonel, bearing the like date of the review of the last Company; and, when the whole Battalion is completed, shall grant a Commission to the Colonel, to be dated the day of such completion; any thing in the said former Ordinance contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further ordained, That where Minute Companies are called into duty together from several Districts, and no Field-Officer shall attend from either, the Committee of Safety may appoint any Field-Officer in the Minute service to take the command of such detachment, during the time of their continuance in actual service.

And be it further ordained, That hereafter no Dissenting Minister, who is not duly licensed by the General Court, or the Society to which he belongs, shall be exempted from bearing arms in the Militia of this Colony; and that Overseers, heretofore exempted, shall be obliged to furnish themselves with Arms and Ammunition, in the same manner as the Militia-men, and shall be obliged to act as Patrollers when thereto required by the Commanding-Officer of the Militia of the County or Corporation wherein they reside; and if any Militia-man or Overseer shall neglect or refuse so to do, he or they so refusing, shall be liable to a fine of five Shillings for every neglect or refusal, to be recovered and appropriated in the same manner as Militia fines are directed to be recovered and appropriated.

And for the more expeditious, convenient, and speedy drafting into service Detachments of the Militia of this Colony, as occasion may require: Be it further ordained, That, at the general muster of the Militia, to be had in the month of March next, the Commanding Officer of each County or Corporation shall, by fair and equal lot, cause to be drawn out of each Company so many men as will amount to one-tenth part thereof, and cause the names of the persons so allotted to be enrolled, who shall from thenceforth be considered as the first division of Militia for such County or Corporation; and that the Commanding Officer shall in like manner proceed, by lot, to fix, one after the other, the nine other divisions of the said Militia, enrolling their names in the second division, third, and so on, according to such allotment; and thereafter, if the Militia of such County or Corporation shall be called into duty, the same shall be performed by the divisions, in the order they shall so stand enrolled, one after another, so as to preserve the regular rotation of duty amongst them. And every person so enrolled, who shall fail to attend, when required, or find an able-bodied man to serve in his room, shall be subject to the fines imposed for the like offence by the said recited Ordinance, to be by the Commanding-Officer laid out in bounties to such Volunteers as shall be willing to serve in the room of the persons so refusing, if to be had, or otherwise to be appropriated as in the said Ordinance is directed.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding Officer shall appoint proper Officers to command the men so called into duty, according to the number, during the time of their being employed in actual service, having regard to the seniority and rank of the Officers of the County or Corporation in such appointment.

Provided always, That if there shall, at any time, be a sufficient number of men, who will voluntarily enter into the service, to answer the demand made upon the Militia of any County or Corporation for such assistance, in that case, such Volunteers shall be accepted instead of calling on the divisions, as before directed.

And be it further ordained, That the Militia or Volunteers to be employed, if not well armed, shall be furnished with Arms out of such as belong to the County or Corporation, to be returned as soon as they shall be discharged from the service.

And whereas, by a former Ordinance, the Militia and Minute-men are exempted from musters in the month of February, which may be attended with inconvenience to the country, by retarding the discipline of those bodies of men: Be it therefore ordained, That so much of the said recited Ordinance as relates to the said exemption, be, and is hereby repealed; and that the Minute-men and Militia shall do duty in the abovementioned month, in the like manner as is directed for the rest of the year.

And be it further ordained, That the Commanding-Officer of the Militia of any County shall, when called out on duty, receive the same pay as the like Officer in the Minute service.

And for the greater encouragement and promotion of the service, Be it further ordained, That there shall be advanced and paid to the several regular Soldiers hereafter to be enlisted, a bounty of twenty Shillings, upon their enlistment; and that the several regular Soldiers already enlisted shall be allowed the like bounty of twenty Shillings on their re-enlistment, to serve for such time as the Troops hereby to be raised shall be enlisted to serve; and that all regular Soldiers and Non-commissioned Officers shall be exempted from the payment of their personal taxes, during their continuance in the service. And if any of the Regulars, Minute, or Militia-men aforesaid, shall be so maimed or disabled as to be rendered incapable of maintaining themselves, they shall, upon their discharge, be supported at the expense of the publick.

And be it further ordained, That the Court-Martial of each County and Corporation shall, and they are hereby required to appoint a Collector of all fines to be assessed at each sitting of such Court, by virtue of this and a former Ordinance of Convention, who shall enter into bond, with sufficient security, for the due collection and accounting for all fines by them collected in consequence of such appointment, and is hereby required to demand and receive the several fines ordered by the Courts-Martial respectively to be levied; and, in case of non-payment, on or before the tenth day of May, annually, to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods of the person refusing, according to the laws enabling the sale of goods distrained for rent. And if any Collector shall fail to account for and pay what he shall have received, or might have received, of such fines, to the Receiver appointed for that purpose, deducting six per centum for his commission in collecting, it shall be lawful for the Court of the County or Corporation, upon motion of the Receiver, to give judgment for the same, with costs, against such Collector and his securities, his or their executors and administrators, provided they have respectively ten days previous notice of such motion.

And be it further ordained, That the fines inflicted for disobedience to this Ordinance shall be levied and applied as the fines are directed to be levied and applied by the Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient Force for the defence and protection of this Colony."

And to prevent the harbouring of Deserters from the Forces already, or hereby to be raised: Be it further ordained, That whoever shall harbour or conceal any person, being a Deserter, and knowing him to be such, for every such offence shall forfeit and pay the sum of five Pounds, or, on failure thereof, receive ten lashes on his or her bare back.

And be it further ordained, That the Treasurer of this Colony shall and may apply the Money which may be in his hands, pursuant to an Ordinance of the last Convention, for the purposes of that and the other Ordinances and Resolutions of this and a former Convention; and if there shall be a deficiency, and the Continental Congress should not supply it, by taking our Troops, or part of them, into their pay, this Convention will make a further provision for the Troops raised, or to be raised.

And whereas the Paper on which the Treasury Notes were directed to be issued by an Ordinance of the last Convention falls much short of the quantity expected: Be it further ordained, That the Treasurer of this Colony for the time being shall, and he is hereby authorized to procure a sufficient quantity of other proper paper, to make up the deficiency; to be used as directed by the said Ordinance, and for the purposes therein and hereby appointed, and no other.

II. An Ordinance for appointing Sheriffs.

Whereas, by an Act of Assembly made in the 22d year of the reign of his late Majesty King George II, entitled "An Act prescribing the method of appointing Sheriffs, and for limiting the time of their continuance in office, and directing their duty therein," it is, among other things, enacted, that every County Court of this Dominion shall annually, between the last day of June and the last day of August, present to the Governour, or Commander-in-Chief of this Colony for the time being, a list or recommendation of three persons named in the commission of the peace for their County, one of which persons so recommended, shall thereupon be commissioned by the said Governour or Commander-in-Chief to execute the office of Sheriff of that County for the next ensuing year; and whereas John Earl of Dunmore, His Majesty's Lieutenant and Governour-General of this Colony, hath withdrawn himself from the seat of his Government, and commenced hostilities against the good people of this Colony, hath also, by his Proclamation, declared martial law to be in force in this Colony, and refuseth to grant commissions for executing the office of Sheriffs, according to the directions of the said recited act; whereby justice is and may be greatly delayed and hindered:

For remedy whereof, Be it ordained by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony in the present General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That upon the expiration of the office of Sheriff of any County in this Colony, the Court of such County, instead of recommending three persons to the Governour or Commander-in-Chief, to be by him commissioned to the office of Sheriff, shall, and they are hereby empowered and required to nominate and appoint one of the persons named in the commission of the peace for their County to execute the office of Sheriff of their said County for one year; and the person so nominated and appointed shall have all the powers and authorities, and shall perform and execute the said office in as full and ample manner, as if appointed by commission from the Governour or Commander-in-Chief of this Colony, according to the direction of the said recited act. And the person so nominated and appointed, before he enters upon his office, shall take the oath of office, and enter into bonds with sufficient security, agreeably to the laws now in force. And if any person shall refuse to accept the said office, the Court shall proceed to appoint another in the room of the person so refusing, who shall give the like bonds and security, and take the oath of office as aforesaid.

Provided always, That so soon as the executive powers of Government in this Colony are restored to their proper channel, and other Sheriffs shall be appointed pursuant to the said Act of Assembly, that the persons who may be appointed to the office of Sheriff by the County Courts in manner aforesaid shall cease to execute the said office, and the powers hereby given shall be revoked.

III. An Ordinance for amending an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony."

Whereas it is found that an Ordinance of the last Convention, entitled "An Ordinance for providing Arms and Ammunition for the use of this Colony," is insufficient, in this time of imminent danger: Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates and Representatives of the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony and Dominion of Virginia, now in General Convention assembled, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That the Committee of Safety for the time being may, and they are hereby required to contract, upon the best terms they can, with such Gunsmiths, or others, as they may approve, for manufacturing or supplying such quantity of Arms as they shall judge proper for the defence of this Colony.

Provided, That such contract for Rifles shall not be made to continue longer than the first day of July next, and for Muskets longer than twelve months from the passing of this Ordinance.

And for the more speedy and effectual providing of Powder, Be it further ordained by the authority afore- said, That the Committee of Safety may, and they are hereby required to contract with proper persons willing to manufacture the same on the publick account, and to erect, or cause to be erected, one or more Powder Mills, at the publick expense, at such places as the said Committee of Safety may judge to be free from danger, and conveniently situated with respect to the Colony in general.

And be it further ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the Saltpetre and Sulphur purchased, or to be purchased, for the use of this Colony, be subject to the disposition of the Committee of Safety, for the purposes last mentioned.

IV. An Ordinance for reviving and amending an Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety.

Whereas an Ordinance of the last Convention, entitled "An Ordinance appointing a Committee of Safety, for the more effectual carrying into execution the several Rules and Regulations established by this Convention for the protection of this Colony," did expire on the meeting of this Convention, and it is necessary that a new Committee be appointed for the purposes aforesaid: Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates deputed to represent the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, in the present General Convention, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That Dudley Digges, the Hon. John Page, Paul Carrington, Edmund Pendleton, James Mercer, Thomas Ludwell Lee, William Cabell, Richard Bland, Joseph Jones, John Tabb, and Thomas Walker, Esquires, be, and they are hereby appointed and declared a Committee of Safety throughout this Colony; and they, or any six or more of them, shall have and exercise all the powers and authorities given to the Committee of Safety in and by the said recited Ordinance or any other Ordinance or Resolution of Convention, from and after the passing hereof, until the end of the next session of the General Convention, or for one year, in case the Convention should not meet within that time.

And be it further ordained, by the authority aforesaid, That the said Committee of Safety shall have full and ample powers, during the recess of Convention, to direct all such measures and military operations, as, in their judgment, shall be necessary for the publick security.

And be it further ordained, That the said Committee of Safety shall and may appoint one assistant Clerk, whom they shall think the same necessary, who shall have such allowance as shall be thought reasonable by the General Convention.

And whereas the time of continuance of the Officers in the service of this Colony, and the manner of resignation, have been doubted, Be it declared and ordained, That all Officers now or hereafter to be appointed, shall continue in service so long as the Regiments, to which they belong, shall be kept up, and that no Officer hath or shall have right to resign, but with the consent of the Convention or Committee of Safety of this Colony.

Provided, Any Officer willing to resign, may do so at the expiration of the time for which the Private-men are or shall be enlisted, on giving the like previous notice of such intention as is required of such Private-men.

And be it further ordained, That Thomas Everard and James Cocke, Esqrs., shall be and they are hereby appointed Commissioners, to examine, state, and settle such Accounts as shall be referred to them for that purpose by the Committee of Safety; each of which Commissioners shall be allowed such salary as the Convention or Committee of Safety shall determine.

V. An Ordinance for establishing Tobacco Payments during the discontinuance of the Inspection Law, and for other purposes therein mentioned.

Whereas, by reason of the expiration of an Act of General Assembly, for improving the staple of Tobacco, and preventing frauds in His Majesty's Customs, the people in this Colony may be subjected to great difficulties for want of a certain mode of making Tobacco Payments for levies or other debts, and sundry disputes may arise between them and the officers or creditors, which may increase the confusions in the Colony, already too much convulsed by the unhappy disputes with Great Britain :

For remedy whereof, Be it ordained, by the Delegates and Representatives of the people of this Colony, now met in General Convention, and by the authority of the same, That it shall and may be lawful for any person who shall be indebted for levies or other demands, payable in Tobacco, to discharge the same by good, sound, and merchantable Tobacco, leaf or stemmed, tied up in bundles, and clear of trash and dirt ; and if the collector or creditor shall refuse to receive Tobacco tendered in such payment, on account of its not being clean, sound, or merchantable, it shall be referred to two judicious neighbours, to be chosen one by each of them, (or if one shall refuse to nominate, the other may choose them both,) who, being sworn to give an impartial judgment, shall determine the point between the parties ; and if they disagree, they shall choose a third person, who shall be sworn in like manner, and his judgment shall be final ; the payments of levies and rents to be made on the plantation of the debtor, with a reasonable allowance, in cases of rents, for the charge of carrying the same to the next inspection ; in other cases, at the place appointed by the contract.

And be it further ordained, That where the Vestries shall not have compounded with their Ministers for his receiving money in lieu of Tobacco for his salary, according to a late Act of Assembly, in such case the Collector of the Parish Levy shall convey the Tobacco, so to be received for levies, to the house of the Minister, who shall receive the Tobacco, so brought from time to time, until his full salary of sixteen thousand pounds of Tobacco, with the allowance of four per cent. for cask, and four per cent. for shrinkage, with the usual expense for transporting the same to the nearest publick landing, on some navigable river, is fully paid ; and the residue of the Tobacco, so to be received, shall be by the Collector carefully prized up into hogsheds, and sold, according to the directions of the last mentioned act ; but this is not to extend to or affect such Counties or Parishes where by law the inhabitants are allowed to pay their levies at a certain price in money.

And be it further declared and ordained, That the several Vestries shall be empowered to levy for the Collector of their several levies, such additional allowance for his trouble in collecting the Tobacco in manner aforesaid, as to them shall seem reasonable, according to the extent of the Parish ; and shall also allow the Minister two Shillings and six Pence for every thousand pounds of Tobacco by him received for his salary as aforesaid, for prizing up the same.

And whereas five of the members of the Vestry of the Parish of Frederick, in the County of Frederick, have resigned their said offices, and another of the members being dead, there doth not remain a sufficient number to hold a Vestry for the purpose of electing others to fill up the said vacancies, by reason whereof the maintenance of the Poor, and other parochial affairs in the said Parish, are wholly neglected : Be it therefore further ordained, That it be, and is hereby recommended to the several members of the said Vestry, who have so resigned their offices, to resume the same ; and upon their so doing, or so many of them as with the resuming members will make a Vestry, that such resumption be entered in the Vestry-book, and from thenceforth the Vestrymen, so remaining, shall have the same power to act in all things pertaining to the said office, as if they had never resigned the same.

And be it further ordained, That if a sufficient number of the said resigning members, as with the others will make a Vestry, shall not agree to resume their offices within two months from the passing hereof, that then the said Vestry shall be dissolved, and the Freeholders and Housekeepers of the said Parish, at such time and place as shall be appointed by the Sheriff of the said County, shall proceed to elect twelve able and discreet persons, in the usual and accustomed manner, to be Vestrymen of the said Parish ; and the persons so elected, having taken an oath before the County Court well and truly to execute their office as Vestrymen, and subscribed to be conformable to the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England, shall be, to all intents and purposes, the Vestry of the said Parish.

VI. An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned."

Whereas, by the extreme badness of the weather and other unavoidable accidents, the Freeholders, and others qualified to vote at the election of Committees for several Counties and Corporations in this Colony, were prevented from assembling at the times and places directed by an Ordinance, passed at the last Convention, entitled "An Ordinance for regulating the election of Delegates, and ascertaining their allowances, and also for regulating the election of Committee-men in the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned," by means whereof no Committees have been or can now be regularly chosen, to act in such Counties and Corporations until the next general election :

Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates deputed to represent the several Counties and Corporations within this Colony, in the present General Convention, and it is hereby ordained, by the authority of the same, That the Freeholders, and others qualified to vote for Committees in such Counties and Corporations as have not chosen Committees pursuant to the said recited Ordinance, shall, and they are hereby required to meet at the respective places by the said Ordinance appointed, as soon after the passing this Ordinance as publick notice can be given, and delivered in, to the Chairman of the last preceding Committee, or, in case of his absence or refusal to act, to the Clerk of such Committee, or, in case of his absence or refusal to act, to one of the Delegates of such County or Corporation, a list of twenty-one persons, qualified as by the said recited Ordinance is directed, to serve as a Committee for such County or Corporation, until the next general election ; which several lists shall be fairly counted by the person receiving the same, in the presence of so many of the preceding Committee as may choose to attend, and publication shall be made of the several persons having a majority of votes, who are hereby declared to be duly elected a Committee to serve as aforesaid ; and the said Committees shall have the like power and authority, and be governed in their proceedings by the same rules and regulations as directed by the said recited Ordinance ; and in case of the death, resignation, or removal of any member of a County or Corporation Committee, already or hereafter to be elected, such vacancy shall be supplied by the choice of the rest of the Committee.

Provided, and be it further ordained, That in the County of Norfolk, the Court-House being lately destroyed by the enemy, the election of a Committee for that County may be at any other convenient place therein as shall be appointed by the person undertaking the management of such election, any thing in the said recited Ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding.

Whereas the time appointed for the general election of Committees is, from experience, found inconvenient : Be it ordained, That from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the time for making general elections of Committees, in the several Counties and Corporations in this Colony, shall, and the same is hereby declared to be on the Court days of the respective Counties and Corporations, in the month of October, annually.

And it is hereby ordained, That so much of the said recited Ordinance as relates to the fixing the time of electing Committees, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed.

And whereas, by the said recited Ordinance, no provision is made for reimbursing the County and Corporation Committees for any expense they may be put to in employing Messengers to summon persons before them, despatching and forwarding Expresses, and other necessary expenses upon the publick service : Be it ordained, That the Chairman of the respective Committees, incurring such expense, shall certify the same to the Committee of Safety, who are hereby empowered to issue their Warrants, from time to time, to the Treasurer, for the payment thereof ; and that the allowance to the Clerks of the several Committees be paid in like manner by the Treasurer, instead of being levied by the County Court, as formerly directed.

And whereas the election of the present Committee for the County of Caroline was not made agreeably to the afore-recited Ordinance: Be it ordained, That the said Committee of the County of Caroline be, and the same is hereby dissolved.

And be it further ordained, That the former Committee of the said County shall proceed to the choice of three of their members to judge of the qualification of voters; and that the Freeholders of the said County, at such time as shall be appointed by the late Chairman, of which public notice shall be given, shall proceed to the election of another Committee, pursuant to the directions of the first recited and this present Ordinance.

And be it further ordained, That the Chairman, Clerk, or Delegate, shall cause public notice to be given of the time appointed for such election, at every Parish Church in his respective County or Corporation, two several Sundays before the day of such election.

VII. An Ordinance for establishing a mode of punishment for the enemies to America in this Colony.

Whereas the most dangerous attempts have been made, by some persons in this Colony, to subvert the rights and liberties of the inhabitants; and whereas, by a Declaration of this Convention, a humane disposition towards such offenders has fully been manifested, who, notwithstanding, have failed to avail themselves thereof, and return to that duty which they owe both to this country and the rights of mankind; and whereas it is become necessary to declare what are and shall be considered as offences, to the end a regular mode of punishment may be established, and equal right and justice administered to all persons within this Colony:

Be it therefore ordained, by the Delegates of the people assembled in General Convention, and it is hereby ordained, by the authority of the same, That if any white person, or persons, who have been in arms against this Colony, shall fail to surrender himself, or themselves, to the Committee of Safety, within two months from the publication of this Ordinance; and if any white person, or persons, shall hereafter aid or assist the enemy, by instilling Soldiers, giving intelligence, or furnishing them with Arms, Provision, or Naval Stores, or shall bear arms against this Colony; all and every such person, or persons, so having borne arms, or hereafter offending in manner aforesaid, shall, upon being convicted as hereafter mentioned, be liable to be imprisoned, or otherwise confined, in such manner as the Committee of Safety may direct. And proper persons shall be appointed by the Committee of Safety to take possession of their estates, both real and personal, and to cultivate the same to the best advantage, and pay the profits thence arising into the hands of the Treasurer of this Colony for the time being, to be disposed of towards satisfying the just debts of such delinquent, to be ascertained by the Committee of Safety; and the residue for the public use, in such manner as the said Committee shall think most for the advantage of this Colony. And the principal estates shall be subject to the future determination of the Convention.

Provided, nevertheless, The Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority to pardon such as have heretofore been or shall be in arms against this Colony, or shall otherwise offend as aforesaid, upon being satisfied of his or their repentance, and desire to be restored to the confidence of this Colony, and returning to his or their duty; and in all such cases, the said Committee of Safety shall state the case of each offender to the Convention, to enable them to determine what should be done with their estates.

And whereas it is essential to the peace, the happiness, and safety of this Colony, that the Continental Association should be strictly observed, and that all violators of the same should be duly punished:

Be it further ordained, That from and after the passing of this Ordinance, all Merchants, Traders, or other persons who shall import into this Colony any goods, wares, or merchandise, contrary to the said Continental Association, (except in cases allowed by the General Congress, or the General Convention,) shall forfeit the goods, wares, or merchandise, so imported; and if any person, or persons, so offending, shall refuse or fail to deliver up the said goods, wares, or merchandise, when required by the Committee of Safety so to do, he, she, or they, so refusing or failing, shall forfeit and pay the full value thereof in money; and, in either case, shall, moreover, be for ever rendered incapable of trading in this Colony. And if any person, or persons, shall hereafter put on board any vessel, or vessels, for exportation, or shall hereafter export any produce of this Colony contrary to the said Association, except as aforesaid, he, she, or they, so offending, shall forfeit the cargo, or cargoes, so put on board or exported, or the value thereof; and all and every vessel, or vessels, in which any such goods, wares, or merchandise, shall be imported, or in which any such produce shall be exported, shall be, moreover, forfeited to the use of this Colony, and the moneys arising therefrom paid into the Treasury, for the public use.

Provided, nevertheless, That no such vessel or vessels aforesaid shall be forfeited, except the value of the goods, wares, and merchandise, therein imported, or of the produce exported, exceed the sum of twenty Pounds sterling.

And be it further ordained, That if any person, or persons, shall hereafter, by writing, or otherwise, order any goods, wares, or merchandise whatsoever, to be imported into this Colony contrary to the Continental Association, except as aforesaid, all and every such person, or persons, so offending, shall, upon conviction thereof, be for ever rendered incapable of trading in this Colony; and every such offender, so convicted, who shall trade within this Colony contrary to this Ordinance, shall suffer, for every such offence, three months imprisonment, without bail or mainprize.

And whereas it is expedient and necessary, the better to determine all offences within this Ordinance, and for the more speedy carrying into execution the several penalties and forfeitures incurred thereby, that persons should be appointed to take cognizance of the same: Be it therefore ordained, That John Blair, James Holt, and Edmund Randolph, Esquires, or any two of them, be, and they are hereby constituted Judges to try and determine on all matters relating to vessels and their cargoes; which said judges shall have power to appoint an Advocate, Clerk, and such other person as they may think proper to act as Marshal, who shall, from time to time, execute all process of the said Court, to be issued and signed by the Clerk thereof. And all witnesses who shall be summoned, and fail to appear and attend the said Court, on such day as their attendance was required, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty shillings, for which the said Court shall have power to give judgment, and award execution thereupon; and the said fines, when recovered, shall be paid to the Treasurer for the time being, for the use of this Colony.

Provided always, That any witness failing to appear before and attend the said Court, as aforesaid, shall, at any time within three months, be allowed such excuse as the said Court may think reasonable; and every witness attending the said Court shall have the same allowance as a witness attending the General Court.

And be it further ordained, That, in all cases of condemnation made of vessels or cargoes by the said Court, the person, or persons, proprietors thereof, shall, if they incline so to do, have an appeal to the Committee of Safety, on giving bond and security, in the sum of twenty Pounds, for duly prosecuting such appeal within thirty days from the time of granting the same; and the determination of the said Committee of Safety thereupon shall be conclusive. And in all cases where no such appeal shall be desired, the said Court shall appoint the Marshal to sell and dispose of such condemned vessels and cargoes.

And be it further ordained, That the Judges aforesaid shall, before entering upon the execution of their office, take the following Oath, to be administered by the Committee of Safety, to wit: "I . . . do swear, that I will truly and faithfully execute the office of a Judge of Admiralty, according to an Ordinance of Convention; and that I will do equal right and justice to all men, to the best of my judgment, without favour, affection, or partiality. So help me God." And the said Judges, being so sworn, shall administer the following Oath to the Clerk and Marshal, that is to say: "I . . . do swear, that I will well and truly demean myself (as Clerk or Marshal, as the case may be) in the execution of my office; and that I will faithfully and truly, to the best of my power, execute all orders of the Court of Admiralty, without favour, affection, or partiality. So help me God."

And be it further ordained, That the Judges, being so qualified, shall meet at such place within this Colony as they may think most proper for the execution of their said office, and shall have full power and authority to adjourn from day to day, and from time to time, to such other place as to them may appear necessary. And there shall be allowed and paid to each of the said Judges, by the Treasurer for the time being, the sum of twenty-five shillings per day for each day of sitting in, or travelling to or from, the said Court, for their services; and that there shall also be paid to the Advocate, Clerk, and Marshal of the said Court, so much for their services as shall be thought reasonable, in the opinion of the Judges of the said Court, for each respective capture. And the said Judges shall have full power and authority to displace or remove, at any time, such officers of their appointment as to them shall appear necessary.

And be it further ordained, That the Committee of Safety may, and they are hereby required to commission five members of the Committee of each County in this Colony, to be recommended to them by the respective County Committees, to take cognizance of, and determine, all offences contained in this Ordinance which may arise within their respective Counties, except such as relate to vessels and their cargoes; which said Commissioners, so appointed, shall take an oath well and truly to discharge the duty of Commissioners for their respective Counties, agreeably to this Ordinance, which oath shall be first taken by the person first named in the said commission, in the presence of the other Commissioners, and by him afterwards administered to them. And the said Commissioners, or any three of them, shall be and they are hereby constituted a Court for the purposes aforesaid, with full power and authority to meet at the Court-house of their respective Counties, or such other convenient place as they may think proper; and the Clerk of the Committee of the said County, and the Sheriff thereof, having first taken the like oath of office directed to be taken by the officers of the Court of Admiralty, shall attend the said Court, and in all things perform the duties of their respective offices, in like manner as is directed for the officers of the Court of Admiralty, which said officers shall be paid by the Treasurer of this Colony such reasonable allowance for their services as the said Court shall direct.

And be it further ordained, That in all trials pursuant to this Ordinance, the Commissioners aforesaid shall cause a jury to be summoned, and proceed in the same manner as hath been heretofore observed for the trial of civil causes in this Colony; and in case of condemnation, the said Court shall appoint Commissioners for taking care of and managing the estate of the offenders as aforesaid, in such manner as is hereinbefore directed.

Provided, nevertheless, The defendant or defendants shall have liberty to appeal, as aforesaid, to the Committee of Safety, whose judgment shall be final.

And be it further ordained, That if any slave, or slaves, shall be hereafter taken in arms against this Colony, or in the possession of an enemy, through their own choice, the Committee of Safety shall have full power and authority to transport such slave, or slaves, to any of the foreign West-India Islands, there to be disposed of by sale, and the money arising from such sale to be laid out in the purchase of Arms and Ammunition, or otherwise applied to the use of this Colony, as the Committee of Safety shall judge most proper; and in case such slaves, so taken in arms, or in the possession of an enemy, cannot be transported with convenience to this Colony, the same shall be disposed of for the use of this Colony, or returned to the owner or owners of such slaves, or otherwise dealt with according to an act of Assembly for punishing slaves committing capital offences, as the Committee of Safety may judge most proper.

Provided always, and be it further ordained, That the owner or owners of such slave shall be paid, by the Treasurer of this Colony for the time being, the full amount of such sale, or value of such slaves, after deducting the expenses and charge of transportation; which said valuation shall be made by the Commissioners in each County aforesaid, and certified to the Committee of Safety, who shall thereupon grant their warrant, directed to the Treasurer, for payment of the value of such slave as aforesaid.

And be it further ordained, That this Ordinance shall be published at the Court-house of each County, by the Sheriff; and at the several Churches and Meeting-houses in each Parish, by the clerk or reader, immediately after divine service.

ADDRESS OF THE GENTLEMEN, ETC., OF THE CITY OF CARLISLE.

Address of the Gentlemen and principal Inhabitants of the City of Carlisle, presented to His Majesty by Thomas Graham, M. D.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Gentlemen and principal Inhabitants of the City of CARLISLE.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

We humbly beg leave to approach your sacred person, and acknowledge in your presence the deep sense we entertain of your Majesty's unexampled patronage of the supremest of blessings—the liberty of the subject.

Penetrated with your unceasing attention to cherish and advance to luxuriant maturity this birthright of Britons, we behold with horror the base innovations and black ingratitude of rebellious Americans.

Struck with admiration of your Majesty's wise and lenient measures, we beg leave to assure your Majesty that we will exert ourselves to the utmost in supporting the rights of the Crown, and the authority of Parliament; and that nothing, on our part, shall be wanting to counteract the frantic and nefarious machinations of aristocratic or Republican traitors.

ADDRESS OF THE GENTLEMEN, CLERGY, FREEMEN, FREEHOLDERS, ETC., OF DUBLIN.

Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Freemen, Freeholders, Merchants, Traders, Manufacturers, and other Citizens of Dublin, transmitted to the Right Honourable Lord Viscount Weymouth, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and presented to His Majesty.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Freemen, Freeholders, Merchants, Traders, Manufacturers, and other Citizens of DUBLIN.

May it please your Majesty:

We, the Gentlemen, Clergy, Freemen, Freeholders, Merchants, Traders, Manufacturers, and other Citizens of Dublin, the metropolis of your Majesty's kingdom of Ireland, feeling ourselves at this time particularly called upon, embrace with pleasure the opportunity of testifying to your Majesty our steadfast loyalty and zealous attachment to your sacred person, crown, and dignity; for the preservation and honour of which we are, and ever shall be ready, to devote our lives and fortunes; truly sensible of the happiness we enjoy under your Majesty's mild and auspicious Government.

We hear, with equal sorrow and astonishment, that many of your misguided subjects in America have withdrawn themselves from their allegiance to your Majesty. We lament that, influenced by the counsels of wicked and designing men, they have even dared to adopt a system tending to render themselves independent of the parent country; yet, deeply affected by the troubles subsisting in the Colonies, we have the fullest reliance on your Majesty's wisdom and justice, that you will pursue with firmness such measures as may tend effectually to restore the violated rights of the British Empire.

We feel ourselves bound at so important and critical a conjuncture, most humbly and zealously to lay our hearts at the foot of the Throne, and to express our warmest gratitude for your Majesty's paternal goodness to this your Kingdom of Ireland, so recently and so amply shown by several acts of the British Parliament for the encouragement of our commerce, manufactures, and agriculture. And our duty also leads us to acknowledge the grateful sense we entertain of your Majesty's peculiar indulgence, in sending to preside over us so excellent a Chief Governor; to whose faithful representation of our loyalty and attachment we attribute those important advantages which have flowed to us from your royal protection and favour.

Alarmed with apprehensions for what we have heard, and grateful for the blessings we feel and enjoy, we cannot avoid fervently to offer our prayers to the Almighty for the preservation of your Majesty's royal person and family; that your reign over us may be long and happy, and that you may ever triumph over the enemies of our glorious Constitution.

PAUL MICHEAU TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Richmond County, December 1, 1775.

SIR: I received yours of the 24th ult. last night, and expected that our Committee had acquainted the Congress ere this of the state of the County relative to the choosing new Deputies.

When I returned from Congress, I immediately acquainted them that the Congress was dissolved, and had ordered the Committees in each County to convene the people to elect deputies, and desired them to advertise all such persons in the County as had a right to choose representatives in General Assembly. I am now to inform you, that, agreeably to my request, a meeting of the Committee was called to advertise, and not a majority appearing, those that did appear, concluded they were not empowered to act. Since which nothing has been done.

Should be glad the Congress would write the Committee to send their reasons for not convening the people. A list of their names you will see at bottom.

The situation of my family is such, at present, that if the people should think proper to choose me again, I can, by no means, serve.

That the present Congress may endeavour to keep tranquillity and good order in our Province, and make peace with our mother country, is the sincere and fervent wish of, your most sincere friend and humble servant,

PAUL MICHEAU.

P. S. Please to communicate this to the Congress.

To Mr. Robert Benson.

Committee's names:—Captain John Kettletas, Captain Christian Jacobson, Captain Cornelius Disisoway, Henry Perine, David Latourette, Esq., Peter Mersereau, John Poillon, Moses Dupuy, Lambert Merrill, John Tyren, Joseph Christopher, George Barnes, Daniel Corsen.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR TRYON.

By his Excellency, WILLIAM TRYON, Esq., Captain-General and Governour-in-Chief in and over the Province of New-York and the Territories depending thereon, in America, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral of the same.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the General Assembly of this Province stands prorogued to the sixth day of December instant, I have thought fit, for His Majesty's service, to prorogue, and I do by and with the advice of His Majesty's Council, further prorogue the said General Assembly to the first day of January next; of which all His Majesty's subjects concerned therein are required to take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my hand and seal at arms, in the City of New-York, the first day of December, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, in the sixteenth year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Third, by the grace of God, of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and so forth.

WM. TRYON.

By his Excellency's command:

SAM. BAYARD, Jr., Secretary.

GOD save the King.

RECANTATION OF DAVID TAYLOR, JUN.

Danbury, December 1, 1775.

Whereas I have, for some time past, spoken rashly and inadvertently about the Congress, particularly against the present mode of proceeding of the United Colonies, in many of my past conversations, by which I have incurred the displeasure of many of my friends, and my countrymen in particular: I therefore now most sincerely ask forgiveness of my friends and countrymen for those unfriendly speeches, and from real conviction do declare, that I am heartily sorry for my late conduct against my country, and further promise that, for the future, I will not directly or indirectly speak against the Continental, or any other Congress or Assembly struggling for their just liberties; neither will I do any thing to frustrate any of the Colony Associations, but, on the contrary, will do every thing in my power to aid and assist the United Colonies in opposing the wicked and tyrannical measures of the British Ministry, and make known all plots against America, which shall come to my knowledge, and, by my behaviour, hope to be again restored to the favour of my countrymen.

DAVID TAYLOR, JUN.

To the Gentlemen of the Committee of the Town of Danbury.

GENERAL LEE TO GENERAL BURGONYNE.

Camp on Prospect Hill, December 1, 1775.

DEAR SIR: As I am just informed you are ready to embark for England, I cannot refrain from once more trespassing on your patience. An opportunity is now presented of immortalizing yourself as the saviour of your country. The whole British Empire stands tottering on the brink of ruin, and you have it in your power to prevent the fatal catastrophe; but it will admit of no delay. For Heaven's sake avail yourself of the precious moment; put an end to the delusion; exert the voice of a brave, virtuous citizen, and tell the people at home they must immediately rescind all the impolitic, iniquitous, tyrannical, murderous acts; that they must overturn the whole frantic system, or that they are undone. You ask me, in your letter, if it is independence at which the Americans aim? I answer, no; the idea never entered a single American's head until a most intolerable oppression forced it upon them. All they required was to remain masters of their own property, and be governed by the same equitable laws which they had enjoyed from the first formation of the Colonies. The ties of connection which bound them to their parent country were so dear to them, that he who would have ventured to have touched them, would have been considered as the most impious of mortals; but these sacred ties the same men who have violated or baffled the most precious laws and rights of the people at home, dissipated or refused to account for their treasures, tarnished the glory, and annihilated the importance of the nation—these sacred ties, I say, so dear to every American, Bute and his tory administration are now rending asunder.

You ask whether it is the weight of taxes of which they complain? I answer, no; it is the principle they combat; and they would be guilty in the eyes of God and men, of the present world and all posterity, did they not reject it; for if it were admitted, they would have nothing that they could call their own. They would be in a worse condition than the wretched slaves in the West-India Islands, whose little peculium has ever been esteemed inviolate. But wherefore should I dwell on this? Is not the case of Ireland the same with theirs? They are subordinate to the British Empire, they are subordinate to the Parliament of Great Britain, but they tax themselves. Why, as the case is similar, do not you begin with them? But you know, Mr. Burgoyne, audacious as the Ministry are, they dare not attempt it. There is one part of your letter which I confess I do not thoroughly understand. If I recollect right, (for I unfortunately have not the letter by me,) you say that if the privilege of taxing themselves is what the Americans claim, the contest is at an end. You surely cannot allude to the propositions of North. It is impossible that you should not think with me, and all mankind, that these propositions are no more or less than adding to a most abominable oppression a more abominable insult. But to recur to the question of America's aiming at independence. Do any instructions of any one of the Provinces to their Representatives or Delegates, furnish the least ground for this suspicion? On the contrary, do they not all breathe the strongest attachment and filial piety for their parent country? But if she discards all the natural tenderness of a mother, and acts the part of a cruel step-dame, it must naturally be expected that their affections cease; the Ministry leave them no alternative—aut servire, aut alienari jubent. It is in human nature—it is a moral obligation, to adopt the latter. But the fatal separation has not yet taken place, and yourself, your single self, my friend, may perhaps prevent it. Upon the Ministry I am afraid you can make no impression. To repeat a hackneyed quotation,

“They are in blood,
Steep’d in so far, that should they wage no more,
To return would be as tedious as to go o’er.”

But if you will at once break off all connections with these pernicious men—if you will waive all consideration but the salvation of your country, Great Britain may stand as much indebted to General Burgoyne as Rome was to her Camillus. Do not, I entreat you, my dear sir, think this the mad rhapsody of an enthusiast, nor the cant of a factious, designing man, for in these colours I am told I am frequently painted. I swear by all that’s sacred, as I hope for comfort and honour in this world, and to avoid misery in the next, that I most earnestly and devoutly love my native country; that I wish the same happy relation to subsist for ages, betwixt her and her children, which has raised the wide arch of her empire to so stupendous and enviable a height; but at the same time I avow, that if the Parliament and people should be depraved enough to support any longer the present Ministry in their infernal scheme, my zeal and reverence for the rights of humanity are so much greater than my fondness for any particular spot, even the place of my nativity, that had I any influence in the councils of America, I would advise not to hesitate a single instant, but decisively to cut the Gordian knot now besmeared with civil blood.

This, I know, is strong, emphatic language, and might pass with men who are strangers to the flame which the love of liberty is capable of lighting up in the human breast, for a proof of my insanity; but you, sir, you, unless I have mistaken you from the beginning, well conceive that a man in his sober senses may possess such feelings. In my sober senses, therefore, permit me, once more, most earnestly to entreat and conjure you to exert your whole force, energy, and talents, to stop the Ministry in this their headlong career. If you labour in vain, (as I must repeat I think will be the case,) address yourself to the people at large. By adopting this method, I am so sanguine as to assure myself of your success; and your publick character will be as illustrious as your personal qualities are amiable, to all who intimately know you. By your means, the Colonists will long continue the farmers, planters, and shipwrights of Great Britain; but if the present course is persisted in, an eternal divorce must inevitably take place. As to the idea of subduing them into servitude, and indemnifying yourselves for the expense, you must be convinced, long before this, of its absurdity.

I should not, perhaps, be extravagant, if I advanced that all the ships of the world would be too few to transport force sufficient to conquer three millions of people, unanimously determined to sacrifice every thing to liberty. But if it were possible, the victory would be not less ruinous than the defeat. You would only destroy your own strength. No revenue can possibly be extracted out of this country. The army of placemen might be increased, but her circuitous commerce, founded on perfect freedom, which alone can furnish riches to the metropolis, would fall to the ground. But the dignity of Great Britain, it seems, is at stake! Would you, sir, in the heat of passion you had struck a simple drummer of your regiment, and afterwards discovered that you had done it unjustly, think it any forfeiture of your dignity to acknowledge the wrong? No, (I am well acquainted with your disposition,) you would ask him pardon at the head of your regiment.

I shall now conclude (if you will excuse the pedantry) with a sentence of Latin: “Justum est bellum quibus necessarium, et pia arma quibus nulla, nisi in armis, relinquuntur spes.”

I most sincerely wish you a quick and prosperous voyage, and that your happiness and glory may be equal to the idea I have of your merits, as I am, with the greatest truth and affection, yours, &c.,

C. LEE.

To General Burgoyne.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO COLONEL WENTWORTH.

Cambridge, December 1, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 27th came safe to hand, at a time when we were all flushed with the agreeable account of Captain Manly's having taken a prize of the utmost consequence, which made us look over the potatoes and turnips of Captain Adams; but now, being a little cool, I assure you I do not think Adams's bon fortune so despicable. Though of little value to us, it is depriving the enemy of what to them would be of consequence. As to the prisoners, I wish you had kept or discharged them. In future you will please to let the Committee examine such as in these circumstances may fall into your hands, and they will judge of the best method of disposing of them. The money you advance must be a charge against the capture. I doubt not of Captain Adams's frugality and attention; you will therefore supply him with what necessities he calls for. You will please to dispose of the cargo by the Rainbow, and lay up the schooner until further orders; though, if a reasonable price can be got for her, you may dispose of her. This is left to your better judgment. I have supplied Benjamin ten dollars towards defraying his expense back. This must also become a charge upon the capture. I hope Adams will soon take such a prize as Manly has. I really believe the cargo could not cost short of £10,000 sterling. To us it is invaluable.

Adieu, my dear sir. Believe me your assured friend,
S. MOYLAN.

Colonel Joshua Wentworth, Portsmouth.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM WATSON.

Cambridge, December 1, 1775.

SIR: Your favours of the 23d and 29th ultimo are come to hand. Captain Coit's lieutenant has been here, and gives an account of his schooner being so old and crazy as to be unfit for the service he is employed in. If there was a possibility of fitting a better vessel out in six or eight days, and removing the guns, &c., from on board the schooner, his Excellency would be glad it could be done, as there are store-ships and transports expected all this month. But that mutinous spirit which reigns through the marines and sailors, makes the General despair of your being able to effect this to any purpose; so that I believe it is best to give the affair up, and not put the publick to an unnecessary expense. You must be the proper judge in this matter. To you his Excellency leaves it, adverting that if the vessel cannot be fitted, and men willing to go in her in the abovementioned time, you are to lay the schooner up, have the ammunition, stores, and every thing on board carefully secured, a proper inventory taken of them, signed by the proper officers, and transmitted to headquarters by the first good conveyance. Should this be necessary, you will please to inform Captain Coit that it is his Excellency's orders that he make what despatch he can to camp, with the men under his command.

As to Captain Martindale's people, it is his Excellency's orders that all such as are unwilling to proceed to cruise with him, be immediately sent to camp to join their respective regiments, under the care of an officer; and if Captain Martindale can, with your assistance, get people to go with him, they shall receive forty shillings lawful money per month, and one-third of all prizes they may have the good luck to make, divided agreeably to the instructions given to the captain. Indeed, the shares, I believe, will be on a better plan than therein mentioned, as it is now under consideration of Congress to allow one-third of all vessels and cargoes to the captors. Should you and Captain Martindale find it impossible to get men on these terms in a seasonable time, I must only say, that the deficiency of public spirit in this country is much more than I could possibly have an idea of.

His Excellency has been abroad whilst I wrote the foregoing. It is his desire that as the brigantine is so well fitted, that at all events she must be sent out to cruise. She is on the public service, and ceremony must be waived, so that if Captain Martindale cannot get hands to go with him, you must put in Captain Coit, or any one else that can, as her being detained in port now may be of the utmost prejudice to the American cause. Fourteen transports, with military stores, sailed in company with one now taken by Captain Manly, of immense value. His crew will make their fortunes by Manly's activity. I am sorry to think that this is a qualification that Martindale is deficient in; at least he has given reason for the General to think so.

Could not a crew for the brigantine be procured out of both vessels? In fine, get her out, let the expense be what it will, and put what captain and crew you think best for the good of the service on board of her.

I am, &c.,

S. MOYLAN.

William Watson, Esq., Plymouth.

DR. JACKSON TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

GENTLEMEN: It having been insinuated that I have been absent from the army a considerable part of my time since my first entering, I beg leave humbly to inform Congress, that I arrived at the army 19th of June. I tarried until the 29th, when, not having a shift of clothing, I informed Gen. Folsom that I purposed going home. He positively refused it, and insisted on my tarrying, as the small-pox was in the army, and not one of the surgeons had had the disease. However, on my promise to return in a few days, he consented, having first stopped my whole chirurgical apparatus for his son Adams, who (as well as every other surgeon in the New-Hampshire regiments) was at that time even destitute of a needle to ligate a bleeding vessel.

The Congress desired me, when at Exeter, to procure some proper person to mount some field-pieces, which I endeavoured to do, but could not; I therefore took a drawing of every member of a field-carriage. When I arrived at Portsmouth I employed myself every day, from sun-rising to sun-setting, in mounting the brass field-pieces, which are as well executed as any on the continent. On the 13th of July I returned to the army, and have never been absent but eight days, on command to recruit the medicine chest, which I did at Salem and Portsmouth. I have now been home fifteen days; my whole time has been taken up in laying out fortifications at Kittery and New-Castle, in making cartridges, and cannisters, and port-fires, for the field pieces, in raising and exercising the artillery company, in hearing and administering to the innumerable complaints of the soldiers in regard to their health.

The honourable Congress will please to observe, that I first perform my business, and then ask for such a reward as they shall judge reasonable, while others, conscious of their own inabilities, would not venture their performances upon the same issue, but insist on large and remarkable stipends before they enter the service.

If there is the least objection in Congress to grant me the commission asked for, I am so little anxious to continue in the service, that I beg leave to retract the request.

I solemnly declare that I have never received but one shilling and four pence, and have not charged more than twenty shillings since the 17th day of June, though my accounts for seven years past have never been less than three hundred and thirty pounds lawful money.

H. JACKSON.

To the Honourable President and Members of the New-Hampshire Congress.

ADDRESS OF THE MAGISTRATES, ETC., OF THE BOROUGH OF JEDBURGH.

Address of the Magistrates and Town Council of the ancient Borough of Jedburgh, transmitted to the Earl of Suffolk, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and presented to His Majesty.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Magistrates and Town Council of Jedburgh.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

We, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Magistrates and Town Council of your ancient borough of Jedburgh, beg leave, in the present important conjuncture, to express the grateful sense we have of your Majesty's mild and equitable reign; of your constant and tender attention to the happiness and honour of the nation, and the religious and civil liberties of your people.

Inspired with love and admiration of our Constitution, we cannot without alarm hear doctrines maintained subversive of the principles upon which it is established; the supreme power of Parliament, the basis and security of British liberty, denied and opposed by a great number of your American subjects, who, grown insolent from prosperity, and lost to all sense of justice and gratitude, proceeding from tumult to rebellion, obstinately persevere in the rash and desperate purpose of shaking off their constitutional dependence on the mother country.

We feel most sensibly for those of our American brethren whose attachment to order and government continually subjects them to violence and outrage; we feel even for those, who, misled from duty by the insidious protestations of loyalty and patriotism under which ambitious men have been carrying on their interested schemes, are likely to fall victims to their unhappy delusion. Permit us to assure your Majesty, that we view with the highest indignation and abhorrence both their principles and designs; and that we are ready, to the utmost of our power, to vindicate and support the interests of this Kingdom, and the constitutional dependence of all its Colonies.

We confide in the justice and wisdom of your Majesty and your Parliament, for the measures proper to be pursued, and trust that, from a suitable exertion of the powers of Government, and the wisdom of your councils, their daring attempts shall not only be frustrated, but the unnatural intention extinguished, unity restored, and a more permanent tranquillity secured.

That this desirable event may be speedily and happily accomplished, and that your Majesty may long reign in peace and prosperity over a happy and grateful people, is our ardent wish and prayer.

Sealed and signed, for and in our name, and by our order and authority, in Council assembled, this second day of December, 1775, by

ANDREW LOOKUP.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COMMANDER OF PENNSYLVANIA BATTALION.

Congress Chamber, December 2, 1775.

SIR: I am directed by Congress to order you immediately to send, keep, and continue, until further orders, such and so large a guard of the battalion under your command, as you shall think proper for guarding and secure keeping the vessels and stores on the wharves of Messrs. Willing & Morris, and Mr. Cuthbert, in the city of Philadelphia. I am, &c., JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Officer Commanding the Battalion raised in Pennsylvania.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, December 2, 1775.

SIR: Your several letters from the time the Committee left the camp to the 19th of November, inclusive, being duly received, were laid before Congress, on which, as well as on the report of their Committee, they have come to sundry further resolutions, which I have the honour to enclose you. The money ordered is getting ready, and will be forwarded with all possible expedition. The Congress have resolved to make a further emission of three millions of dollars, which I hope will be finished, and such supplies forwarded as will answer your exigencies, and enable you for the future to pay the army monthly, and fulfil your other engagements.

I forward you several commissions for the officers of the armed vessels, also a number of printed articles for the regulation of the army as altered.

For the recommendation of Captain Crafts and Mr. Trott, to be appointed officers in the regiment of artillery, and the steps to be pursued with respect to the release of Colonel Ethan Allen, I beg leave to refer you to the resolutions enclosed.

I herewith send you a commission for Henry Knox, as Colonel of the regiment of artillery.

The enclosed accounts of advances to the rifle companies, you will please to order the Paymaster-General to deduct from their pay, agreeably to the several charges.

I have nothing further in command from the Congress.

Yesterday we received advice by an express from the Committee of Frederick, in Maryland, that Connolly and three associates were taken prisoners, and are now in confinement in that county. By his examination taken, and the papers found with him, the deposition of his servant, which you transmitted to Congress, is fully confirmed.

This day we received advice from Southampton, in Virginia, that Lord Dunmore has erected his standard at Norfolk, proclaimed martial law, invited the negroes to join him, and offered them freedom; for which purposes he has issued a proclamation from on board the ship where he resides; and that two counties have been obliged to submit to him. However, I hope such measures are taking as will speedily and effectually repel his violence, and secure the peace and safety of that Colony.

The committee have just brought in their report on the vessel taken by the people of New-Hampshire. As soon as the Congress have come to a determination thereon, I shall do myself the pleasure to transmit it to you.

In the mean time, with sincere and hearty wishes for your safety, happiness, and prosperity, I have the honour to be, sir, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To General Washington.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Philadelphia, December 2, 1775.

SIR: The Congress having found it necessary to send Commissioners to the northward to consult with General Schuyler, among other things have instructed them to use their best endeavours to induce the men to reenlist for one year from the first of January next, in the Continental service; and for the encouragement of the Connecticut troops, who have not been mustered by the Deputy Master-General, they have given directions that such as reenlist be paid all arrears that may be due to them, according to the rolls to be sent by you.

You will be pleased, therefore, as soon as possible, to transmit to General Schuyler, by express, the rolls of such of your Colony as are employed in that department, ascertaining how long the men have been in the service.

I enclose you the resolutions of Congress respecting the disposition of the officers taken at St. John's; by which you will perceive they are to be stationed in the lower parts of Lebanon and Windham, and to be upon their parole, and under certain restrictions therein mentioned, which you will please to order to be executed, and when effected, transmit me a copy signed by each officer, to be laid before the Congress.

I am directed by Congress to inform you that no bounty is to be allowed the soldiers on reenlistment, but the General is directed to pay such soldiers as will reenlist for the succeeding year, their wages for the months of October, November, and December, and also to advance to them one month's pay; and I am ordered to recommend to you to promote the recruiting service in the present army, as well as in the particular Colony.

I have the honour to be, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, December 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed resolutions I transmit you by order of Congress. Your zeal in the cause renders any further recommendation unnecessary.

Having nothing more in charge to communicate, and being much engaged in despatching expresses, I can't add, but that I am, with much respect, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the President and Members of the Convention of New-Hampshire.

THEODORE VAN WYCK TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, December 2, 1775.

SIR: I have the honour to be elected a member of this Congress, but am sorry the publick did not duly consider my infirmity in respect to my hearing, which renders me a very unfit person to discharge that important trust, as I am not able to distinguish or understand any argument or debate, unless the speakers are very near me, which always gives me extreme pain and uneasiness. I humbly beg, therefore, in case of my non-attendance, that the gentlemen of the Congress, will not impute it to any unwillingness in me to serve; for I can assure them that I am a friend to the rights and liberties of my country, and will cheerfully bear my part of the burden to preserve them inviolate in any thing that I am capable of, or properly qualified for.

I have the honour to be, sir, yours and their very humble servant,

THEODORE VAN WYCK.

To Colonel Woodhull, President of the New-York Provincial Congress.

DECLARATION OF THOMAS COLDEN.

New-York, December 7, 1775.

Thomas Colden, High Sheriff of Ulster County, having received the King's proclamation, with Governour Tryon's subjoined, gave public notice that he intended reading said proclamation at St. Andrew's Church, in Ulster County, on Saturday, the 2d of December, 1775, to all such officers, both civil and military, and all others that chose to attend. Whereupon the Committee of Hanover Precinct (the place of his residence) met and judged it their duty to oppose every measure that would have a tendency to strengthen the hands of ministerial tyranny, and that would, on the other hand, weaken or discourage the promoters and supporters of American freedom, and thereupon applied to the commanding officer of the regiment of militia to which they belong, who immediately ordered four companies of militia to march to the above-mentioned church, where all the officers (Capt. Cadwallader and C. Colden, Jun., excepted,) and most of their men attended, together with three companies of minute-men, at which time and place the following declaration was offered to the Sheriff, and then read to the seven companies then and there present, who unanimously accepted thereof, as full satisfaction for the first publick offence; which declaration he publicly signed at the head of the seven companies then under arms, and in the presence of a great number of spectators assembled on the occasion, who thereupon were dismissed and separated without the least confusion or disorder.

DECLARATION.

"I do hereby acknowledge that I have acted in such a manner as to draw the resentment of all those that have appeared friends to the true interests of the United Colonies, and supporters of the measures of the Continental and Provincial Congress; and that I am sorry for it, and that I will for the future act and behave as a friend to the measures adopted by the United Colonies: And that I will hereafter, whenever required by the Committee where I reside, be aiding and assisting in carrying into execution the resolves of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, on all occasions, as far as in me lies.

"Given under my hand at St. Andrew's Church, in Hanover Precinct, in Ulster County, the 2d day of December, 1775.

"THOMAS COLDEN, Sheriff."

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER IN THE NORTH-EARN ARMY, DATED MONTREAL, DECEMBER 2, 1775.

Last night Gen. Wooster received information, by letters from Boucherville, that a plan was laid for cutting off the communication between Gen. Montgomery's army and our garrison, and at one stroke to destroy all the friends of the United Colonies; that a magazine of arms, &c., was deposited with a captain of the militia; that the scheme was concerted and to be conducted by St. Luke La Corne, who had a strong party in readiness to put it in execution.

On this intelligence Col. Ritzema, with a detachment of one hundred men, among whom was part of my company, was ordered in quest of the principal persons mentioned in the information. About ten o'clock at night embarked in three batteaus, crossed the river, and marched about twelve miles to Boucharville, where we surprised and took St. Luke La Corne, his son-in-law, Major Campbell, and several others, whom we brought to General Wooster, who ordered them to La Prairie, in order to be sent down to one of the United Colonies.

I do not think the information was supported by sufficient evidence, but it was such as made it indispensable for the General to act as he did; and St. Luke La Corne was known to be a very dangerous person in Canada. Our garrison is weak, but General Wooster is taking the most prudent and spirited measures to put in the best order of defence possible. I hope a full conviction of the very great importance of this place, and the necessity of a powerful army to defend the possession, in obtaining which Providence has favoured us in so remarkable a manner, will stimulate the United Colonies to send speedy and ample supplies of men, well fitted with every article necessary to that end; ten thousand men will secure the country against all attempts that may be made to retake it from them.

COMMITTEE OF THE ASSEMBLY TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Hartford, December 2, 1775.

HONoured SIR: The enclosed letter was delivered to the Pay-table last evening, but, as we are not empowered to take the publick moneys into our hands, or proceed to Roxbury as desired, must refer the matter entirely to your Honour's direction. Should it be thought best that somebody go down, it appears to us that it must be such as have been most conversant with the papers and accounts, and that not less than two hands will be sufficient for the purpose of settling and paying, but submit the propriety and direction of the whole to your Honour.

And are, with great regard, your most obedient humble servants,

WM. PITKIN,
T. SEYMOUR,
O. ELLSWORTH.

P. S. We beg leave to observe to your Honour that the Captains of the several companies are now charged with a number of guns and accoutrements bought by the Colony. These they must be accountable for at settlement, unless somebody is empowered to receive the same, whose receipt may discharge the Paymasters.

T. S.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, December 2, 1775.

SIR: The reason of my giving you the trouble of this is the late extraordinary and reprehensible conduct of some of the Connecticut troops. Some time ago, apprehending that some of them might be inclined to go home when their time of enlistment should be up, I applied to the officers of the several regiments to know whether it would be agreeable to the men to continue until the first of January, or until a sufficient number of other forces could be raised to supply their places; who informed me that they believed the whole of them would readily stay till that could be effected. Having discovered last week that they were very uneasy to leave the service, and determined upon it, I thought it expedient to summon the general officers at head-quarters, and invited a delegation of the General Court to be present, that suitable measures might be adopted for the defence and support of our lines. The result was, that three thousand Minute-men and Militia of this Province, and two thousand men from New-Hampshire, should be called in by the 10th instant for that purpose. With this determination the Connecticut troops were made acquainted, and requested and ordered to remain here, as the time of most of them would not be out before the 10th, when they would be relieved. Notwithstanding this, yesterday morning most of them resolved to leave the camp; many went off, and the utmost vigilance and industry were used to apprehend them; several got away with their arms and ammunition. I have enclosed you a list of the names of some of them in General Putnam's regiment, only, who escaped, and submit to your judgment whether some example should not be made of these men, who have basely deserted the cause of their country at this critical juncture, when the enemy are receiving reinforcements.

I have the pleasure to inform you that one of our armed vessels, the Lee, Captain Manly, took and brought in the other day a valuable store-ship, bound to Boston.

I am, &c.,

G. WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Governour, &c.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 2, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I have examined the papers belonging to the sloop Phabe, and, from them and other circumstances, it does not appear that Captain Broughton had good reason for making seizure of her. Added to this, Governour Cooke, of Rhode-Island, has wrote a letter to his Excellency by Mr. James Aborn, who is really the owner of this sloop, though she was, in order to protect her from the enemy, made over to Mr. Enoch Rust, of Nova-Scotia. It is, therefore, his Excellency's orders that you deliver the sloop aforesaid, with her cargo and appurtenances, to Mr. Aborn or Captain Hawkins, who will deliver you this, for which this shall be your sufficient warrant, at the same time taking a receipt for the same.

I am, with great regard, yours, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

William Bartlett, Esq., Beverley.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 2, 1775.

SIR: It being now under consideration of Congress the mode of disposing of such vessels and crews as are taken in supplying the enemy, it is his Excellency's pleasure that Captain Hunter and his crew return to you; that their private adventure be given them, with liberty to dispose thereof as they think proper, and that they be treated with all humanity due to fellow-citizens in distress. If you think proper, you may let them live on board the vessel until further orders. Your attention and activity give much pleasure to the General, which he desires me to inform you of.

I am, with great regard, sir, your most obedient servant,
S. MOYLAN.

To Wm. Bartlett, Esq., Agent for the Brigantine Nancy.

To Captain John Glover, the same.

ELEAZAR WHELOCK TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Dartmouth College, December 2, 1775.

MUCH HONOURED AND RESPECTED SIR: On the 13th ult. the famous Major Rogers came to my house from a tavern in the neighbourhood, where he called for refreshment. I had never before seen him. He was in but ordinary habit for one of his character. He treated me with great respect; said he came from London in July, and had spent twenty days with the Congress, in Philadelphia, and I forget how many at New-York; had been offered and urged to take a commission in favour of the Colonies, but, as he was now in half pay from the Crown, he thought proper not to accept it; that he had fought two battles in Algiers, under the Dey; that he was now on a design to take care of some large grants of land made to him; that he was now going to visit his sister, at Moor's Town, and then return by Merrimack River, to visit his wife, whom he had not yet seen since his return from England; that he had got a pass or license to travel from the Continental Congress; that he came in to offer his service to procure a large interest for this College; that the reputation of it was great in England; that Lord Dartmouth, and many other noblemen, had spoken of it, in his hearing, with expressions of highest esteem and respect; that Capt. Holland, Surveyor-General, now at New-York, was a great friend to me and the College, and would assist me in the affair; and that now was the most favourable time to apply for a large grant of lands for it.

I thanked him for expressions of his kindness, but, after

I had shown some coldness in accepting it, he proposed to write me in his journey and let me know where I might write him, and he should be ready to perform any friendly office in the affair. He said he was in haste to pursue his journey that evening. He went to the aforesaid tavern and tarried all night; the next morning told the landlord he was out of money and could not pay his reckoning—which was three shillings—but would pay him on his return, which would be within about three months, and went on his way to Lyme; since which I have heard nothing from him. But yesterday two soldiers, viz: Palmer, of Orford, (whom they say was Lieutenant under Colonel Bedel), and Kennedy, of Haverhill, on their return from Montreal, informed me that our officers were assured by a Frenchman, a Captain of the artillery, whom they had taken captive, that Major Rogers was second in command under General Carleton; and that he had lately been in Indian habit through our encampments at St. John's, and had given a plan of them to the General; and suppose that he made his escape with the Indians, which were at St. John's.

This account is according to the best of my remembrance. If it shall prove of any service to detect such an enemy I shall be glad; if not, my intention will, I trust, apologise for what I have wrote.

I am, much honoured Sir, with much esteem and respect, your Excellency's most obedient and very humble servant,

ELEAZAR WHEELLOCK.

His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter Hill, December 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I take this opportunity to inform you that the Connecticut forces not only determine to quit our lines at the expiration of their term, but, to their eternal infamy, endeavoured to leave us yesterday, which was five days before their time expired. We can therefore have no hope of their tarrying after the 6th. Half of General Putnam's regiment is now under guard. The people who have escaped from Boston inform us that the enemy are fully acquainted with our situation, and will probably take advantage of it. For heaven's sake despatch your forces as soon as possible.

Gentlemen, I am, with much respect, your most obedient servant.

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Honourable Committee of Safety.

P. S. Captain Odiorne, the bearer hereof, says he thinks he can raise a number of men to march immediately. If so, should recommend him; but this is more properly your province.

J. S.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER AT BOSTON, TO A FRIEND IN EDINBURGH, DATED DEC. 2, 1775.

Our condition is better than it has lately been, but it is still far from being comfortable. We are obliged to have a number of our men employed, night and day, amidst the frost and snow, in guarding our out-posts, and watching the motions of the Rebels. Many of our men are sick, and fresh provisions very dear.* But the Rebels must be in a much worse condition from their want of clothing and proper shelter. I hope one severe winter campaign (and, indeed, it promises to be a very severe one) will cool their enthusiasm. We are much afraid that the Nancy transport, loaded with a great quantity of artillery, ammunition, &c., of which the Rebels were in great want, has fallen into their hands.

* PRICE CURRENT AT BOSTON, DECEMBER 1, 1775.—The head of a sheep, a quarter of a dollar; salt, one dollar a hoghead, by the quantity; Jamaica rum, four shillings; West-India do. 3s. 3d. sterling per gallon; fresh fish, one shilling sterling per pound; geese, two dollars each; turkeys, three do.; ducks, one do.; fowls, three quarters do.; hams, two shillings sterling per pound; a keg of water-bread, fourteen shillings sterling; do. butter-bread, twenty-one do.; fresh beef, fresh pork, mutton, lamb, cheese, and butter, fifteen pence sterling per pound; veal, rice, peas, none in Boston; apples, five dollars a barrel; sheep, eight dollars each; eggs, four shillings sterling a dozen; flour and ship bread, forty shillings sterling cwt.; potatoes, six shillings sterling a bushel; onions, a pistorian a rope; four calves' feet, three shillings sterling; fire-wood, ten dollars a cord; and every other kind of necessaries in proportion.

MAJOR-GENERAL HOWE TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

Boston, December 2, 1775.

MY LORD: For your Lordship's most perfect information of the state of this Army, I have done myself the honour to enclose copies of returns and estimates, with my own occasional remarks, which I have transmitted to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury by this opportunity; also a copy of my letter accompanying them, for their Lordships' consideration; to which I have nothing further to add, than that I am, &c.,

W. Howe.

Earl of Dartmouth.

Return of Provisions in store, at Boston, the 16th November, 1775, and how long the same, with those since deposited, will serve twelve thousand men, at the allowance now issued for want of peas and rice, viz:

In store, belonging to the Crown, 3½ casks suet; 12,880 pounds pork; 23,469lbs. dried cod-fish; 9,557 bushels of wheat; 521,590lbs. flour; 94,044lbs. bread; 20,384 pints oil.

In store, belonging to the Contractors, 764,690lbs. pork; 552,499lbs. flour; 9,633lbs. bread; 48,196lbs. butter; 9,857lbs. rice.

November 28, deposited by do., 982 barrels flour, of the ship Queen of Naples, cargo from London; the rest, being 813 barrels flour, have proved bad and unfit for use—223,896lbs. flour.

Total: 3½ casks suet; 777,570lbs. pork; 23,469lbs. dried cod-fish; 9,857 bushels wheat; 1,297,985lbs. flour; 103,677lbs. bread; 48,196lbs. butter; 20,384 pints oil; 9,857lbs. rice.

The pork and fish will serve twelve thousand men ninety-nine days, ending the 26th February next.

The wheat, flour, and bread, will serve one hundred and sixteen days, ending 24th March next.

And the butter and oil, will serve one hundred and six days, ending the 4th March next.

The suet and rice are reserved for the use of the hospitals.

The cargo of the snow Industry, from Bristol, is not included in the above return; she began to discharge two days ago.

The live stock is likewise not included.

D. CHAMIER, Commissary of Provisions.

To his Excellency the Hon. Sir William Howe, Major-General and Commander-in-Chief, &c. &c.

Boston, November 29, 1775.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE PROVISION RETURN.

By the return herewith enclosed, it appears that there are not provisions for the army, in store, to serve longer than the beginning of March, 1776.

Six months biscuit, for twenty thousand men, of a quality to keep twelve months, may prove of essential service in the course of the ensuing campaign, as the conveniences for baking bread cannot be always had in this country; and if the biscuits be made of about six to the pound, they will pack the better.

It is requested that one-fifth part of the meat designed for the army may be beef.

An additional quantity of the small species, especially oat-meal, rice, suet, and vinegar, will be requisite for the use of the hospitals.

One-third of the whole to be packed up in small casks, which should not exceed one hundred pound gross, for the convenience of carrying two of them upon a horse.

W. Howe.

Return of effective Horses, Cattle, and Sheep, with the quantity of Forage in store, and the number of days it will last.

Departments.

Light Dragoons, 234 horses.

Generals and Officers, 160 horses.

Royal Artillery, 200 horses.

Deputy Quartermaster-General, 80 horses, 100 cattle, 400 sheep.

Total: 674 horses; 100 cattle; 400 sheep.

In Store.

450 tons hay; 12,391 bushels oats; 5,640 bushels Indian corn; 12,861 bushels bran.

The whole will last, { Hay, - - - - 100 days.

Expected.

From Canada: 150 tons hay; 10,000 bushels oats; 5,000 bushels bran.

From Nova-Scotia: 150 tons hay.

Total: 300 tons hay; 10,000 bushels oats; 5,000 bushels bran.

The whole will last, { Hay, - - - - 60 days.

N. B. The ration, at the present allowance, is 13½ pence.

In case of scarcity, the damaged flour now in store, to the amount of three thousand barrels, equal to 600,000 weight, may be made use of by mixing a proportion with oats, corn, &c., which will increase the price of the ration to 1s. 9½d.

W. Howe.

Head-Quarters, Boston, Nov. 27, 1775.

State of the Barrack Bedding, Furniture, and Fuel, in the care of the Barrackmaster.

At Boston.

Bedding: 3,333 bed cases; 4,149 bolster cases; 577 rugs; 2,321 blankets; 4,280 pair sheets; 16 mattresses and pillows.

Furniture: 1,052 iron pots; 705 grates; 296 pair dog-irons; 229 tongs; 231 shovels; 202 axes; 316 candlesticks; 120 iron stoves; 1,020 trammels; 600 pokers; 500 ash-boxes; 425 buckles; 120 mallets; 260 iron wedges; 250 tables; 320 forms; 120 chairs; 36 lanterns.

Fuel and Candles: 668 cords of wood; 899 chaldrons coals; 10,000 pounds candles.

Ordered from ENGLAND, and daily expected.

Bedding: 3,376 bed cases; 2,560 bolster cases; 3,650 rugs; 8,000 blankets; 3,945 pair sheets; 50 tons flocks. Furniture: 50 iron stoves.

Fuel and Candles: 4,000 chaldrons coals; 25,000 pounds candles.

Total.

Bedding: 6,709 bed cases; 6,709 bolster cases; 4,227 rugs; 10,321 blankets; 8,225 pair sheets; 50 tons flocks; 16 mattresses and pillows.

Furniture: 1,052 iron pots; 705 grates; 296 pairs of dog-irons; 229 tongs; 231 shovels; 202 axes; 316 candlesticks; 170 iron stoves; 1,020 trammels; 600 pokers; 500 ash boxes; 425 buckles; 120 mallets; 260 iron wedges; 250 tables; 320 forms; 120 chairs; 36 lanterns.

Fuel and Candles: 668 cords of wood; 4,899 chaldrons coals; 35,000 pounds candles.

N. B. In the first article of bedding at Boston, is included 1,000 sets of bedding got from the transports, equal to half the number of double beds.

The coals and candles are ordered from England by me, independent of that I now learn is ordered by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury. And there is now at Halifax 10,000 cords of wood, ready to be transported hither when transports can be spared to fetch it; 5,000 cords of wood are directed to be cut against the spring; and by that time 6,000 chaldrons of coals, now digging, will be ready to be shipped at Spanish River, in the Island of Cape Breton.

Remarks.

It will be necessary to begin the campaign with six months forage in the magazines, which cannot be procured in this country in its present situation, therefore it must be looked for from Europe.

Rhode-Island, from the best information, can supply fifteen thousand tons of hay in a season, but still great difficulties will arise in procuring it, if the inhabitants of that island are inimical, as you must depend upon them to cut and cure the hay. The same observation will answer with respect to Long-Island and Staten-Island in the Province of New-York. Therefore upon this uncertainty the dependence upon magazines must be upon Europe.

The army being in the field, may furnish itself with green forage from the middle of June to the middle of September.

Canada is able to supply the articles of oats and bran ; but the length and uncertainty of the voyage is such, that it is thought these articles may be brought from England or Ireland full as cheap, and with this advantage, that oats in particular are far superior in quality.

As to horses, wagons, and harness, when the present temper of the Americans is considered, they certainly will drive off every thing of that kind, wherever the army appears ; but on the other hand, should any one of the Provinces return to their duty, it would furnish the army with these articles necessary for carrying on the war.

W. HOWE.

Head-Quarters, Boston, 27th November, 1775.

LORD STIRLING TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Dec. 8th, referred to Mr. Jay, Mr. Wilson, Mr. W. Livingston.]

Head-Quarters, Elizabethtown, New-Jersey, }
 December 3, 1775. }

SIR : On my leaving Philadelphia, the 22d November, I proceeded to Burlington, in order to meet the Committee of Safety of New-Jersey, and to prevail on them to take proper measures for securing arms for the two New-Jersey regiments, and to get the barracks in this Province prepared for the reception of those regiments. Some measures were that evening agreed to, which I hope will forward the service, but I fear will not be quite effectual. I proceeded the next morning to Trenton, and there despatched particular orders to each of the Captains to assemble their companies, (on the days agreed upon with the Paymaster,) for reviewing and paying them off to the first of this month, in order to enable them to leave their counties and go into barracks. On Friday, I went on to Brunswick, in order to get barracks there put in order. On Saturday, I went to my own house at Baskinridge. On Monday, Mr. Lowrie, the paymaster, joined me according to appointment. On Tuesday, at Morristown, we reviewed and paid off the two companies commanded by Captains Morris and Howell. After dismissing two or three men from each company, I think they are the best body of new men I ever saw. On Wednesday, we proceeded to Elizabethtown, in hopes of meeting, according to appointment, the two companies commanded by Captains Myers and Necker, but they being neither complete nor mustered, I was obliged to adjourn their review till the next week. The latter I found very deficient, and poorly officered. I, therefore, posted Ensign Dallas, of Captain Morris's company, to act as second lieutenant to Captain Necker's, on a promise of his recruiting twenty men for it in a week's time, which I have no doubt he will perform. On Thursday, we proceeded to Brunswick, and were that and the next day employed in reviewing and clearing off the two companies commanded by Captains Conway and Polhemus. Captain Piatt brought his company to Rariton Landing, but as he was not mustered, nor had a sufficient number of men present, his muster was adjourned to Monday, and then to march to Elizabethtown. These three companies, after a little purging, are very good recruits.

On Saturday, I returned to this place. Mr. Lowrie proceeded to the westward, and purposes next week to clear off Colonel Maxwell's regiment. Captain Longstreet, of Monmouth County, reported to me at Brunswick that his company is near complete, but scattered at so great distance that it will be impossible to assemble them in less than ten days. I have appointed Friday, the 15th inst., to review and muster them at Amboy, and then to put them in barracks. These Captains all complain very heavily of the usage they meet with from the justices, who issue warrants against the men on the smallest pretence. They have been obliged to pay off a number of trifling and vexa-tious demands; but if this is suffered to go on, and the men put under stoppage for the repayment of it, they must perish in service for want of necessary clothing. I have, therefore, ordered the Captains to make no engagements which can interfere with the necessities of the men. A number of them are now in the different jails for small debts, which is the reason why some of the companies appear so small in the enclosed returns. By a law of this Province, made during the last war, no man enlisted in Provincial service, could be taken from that service for a debt less than 15*l*. (Proc.) to any one person, or 60*l*. in the whole of his debts. If a similar rule be not now adopted, I am afraid much confusion will ensue. What was found necessary then, is now absolutely so for the existence of a Continental army. I have met with a good deal of difficulty about barracks. Assembly, Committee of Safety, County Committee, and Barrackmaster, refer me from one to the other whenever I apply for the possession or repair of any of them; at this place, indeed, the committee have ordered them to be cleared out and repaired. I believe to-morrow we shall have two or three companies in them. At Brunswick, they are occupied by people who thought it not safe to remain in New-York. At Amboy, the barrackmaster is under the absolute direction of the Governour, and no acting Committee there; this barrackmaster is in possession of five hundred good new blankets, desirable objects to us at present.

I did not receive your letter of the 27th, till my arrival at this place, on Wednesday last, and finding from Mr. P. V. B. Livingston, that there was neither Convention nor Committee of Safety in being at New-York, I wrote to Mr. McKesson, Secretary to their late Convention, to know whom it was proper to correspond with on publick matters. His answer and my letter to Colonel Maxwell, you have copies of herewith.

Of the six companies ordered to the fortress on Hudson river, one of those of my regiment will move this week, the other two next week. I hope the three companies of Colonel Maxwell's regiment will move near the same time. In our scattered situation, without great towns, it is difficult to fit out men as they ought to be suddenly. Their stockings are yet at Philadelphia.

I must beg the favour of you to fill up the Quartermaster's commission with the name of Abner Hetfield. A surgeon is absolutely necessary, and if Congress allows one to my regiment, I should be glad that William Barnet, Jun., be appointed to it. Both these gentlemen are well known to Mr. William Livingston, and Mr. Crane. I think they are both well qualified for the respective offices.

We are much in want of an authentick edition of the Continental Articles of War; if they were published, each regiment should be possessed of at least two dozen of them. I should be glad if you would order them to be delivered to Mr. Lourie, who will forward them.

No provision is yet made, that I know of, for ammunition. I shall be glad to be instructed with regard to it, as well as camp equipage, &c. I have do doubt the Congress will put us on the same footing with the other corps in the Continental service. But it is necessary I should know how to regulate these matters.

It was not possible for me to write to you before. I have seized the first leisure hour to make up for it.

I am, sir, with the highest regard, your most obedient and most humble servant,

STIRLING.

JOHN MCKESSON TO LORD STIRLING.

New-York, November 30, 1775.

MY LORD: I am honoured with yours of this day. The Provincial Congress was to have met some days ago. The members from several counties are here attending, and it is expected they will be sufficiently numerous to-morrow, or on Monday, at farthest, to proceed to business. Who will be elected to preside is uncertain; but as Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., was the last who presided, in the absence of Mr. Livingston, the correspondence you mention will most properly be directed to him for the present. Colonel Woodhull lodges so near to me that, if your letters are sent to me, I will see that they are delivered immediately.

There is not any Committee of Safety here at present.

The members elected for a Provincial Congress, and myself, receive and open all correspondence on publick affairs, or from the Continental Congress.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN MCKESSON.

Lord Stirling.

LORD STIRLING TO COLONEL MAXWELL.

Brunswick, December 2, 1775.

DEAR SIR: The Continental Congress are extremely pressing and anxious about the march of the six companies to the North River. One company of my regiment marches next Wednesday; another will soon follow. And I must beg you'll exert yourself to get off the three companies of your regiment. You may choose the routes for them either through Sussex to New-Windsor, or by Morristown or Elizabethtown to Dobbs's Ferry; but you will take care to give me as early notice as possible of their march, that I may have sloops ready at the place they are to embark at.

I am your most humble servant,

STIRLING.

To Colonel Maxwell.

CAPTAIN ROBERT ERSKINE TO THE OFFICERS OF THE FIRST NEW-JERSEY BATTALION.

Ringwood, December 2, 1775.

"In Provincial Congress, Trenton, New-Jersey, August 17, 1775:—This Congress being informed by John Fell, Esq., one of the Deputies for the County of Bergen, that Robert Erskine, Esq., hath, at his own expense, provided Arms, and accounted an Independent Company of Foot Militia in said County, do highly approve of his zeal in the same, and do order that he be commissioned as Captain of said Company.

"A true copy from the Minutes:

"WM. PATERSON, Secretary."

GENTLEMEN: Above is a copy of an order from the Provincial Congress, upon the sanction of which I have raised and disciplined an Independent Company of Foot at the iron-works under my direction.

The Congress, no doubt, in granting this licence, considered that iron, being a staple commodity of the Province, iron-works in general deserved every encouragement; and, in particular, that as those for which I am concerned are of the greatest consequence, it was highly proper the persons belonging to them should be subject to their direction, both in a civil and military capacity, without which the hands could not be kept together, nor the works carried on in times of general commotion; and that therefore they should be in a situation both to defend themselves, and assist their neighbours in cases of urgent necessity. Their company, indeed, could not be called off without stopping them, as, exclusive of officers, whose presence are constantly wanted, it consists of forgemmen, carpenters, blacksmiths, and other hands, whose attendance is daily required. I dare say, however, there is not a man belonging to it but would willingly lend his aid in a case of extremity, when every consideration must give way to the salvation of the country.

Such, gentlemen, are the principles upon which I understood the Congress favoured me with their commission; in consequence of which I have been at a very great expense in arms, uniforms, and discipline. I am therefore persuaded that neither the Congress nor the officers in general of the battalions now raising, would wish to deprive the works of their hands, particularly such as had engaged to serve in this company, and were already trained, unless it were by open requisition; in which case, some, whose absence would be dispensed with, might have turned out volunteers, on whom much more dependence could be placed, than on such as have forfeited their engagements, and been trepanned into another service. As I have no doubt that such clandestine proceedings will meet both with your disapprobation and reprehension, I am sorry to have the occasion of laying a complaint against one of your officers on this score. Lieutenant Yellas Mead has enlisted several of my men without my knowledge or consent; and though I called several times at his quarters, on purpose to speak with him, yet he has left the country without seeing me, though within six miles. Such conduct, gentlemen, lays me under the necessity to give you this trouble, and to inform you that four of the men he enlisted are in my debt. These, at least, I flatter myself you will discharge, and order back to the works, were it only for example sake, which is certainly necessary for the good of the service in general; because soldiers, after receiving encouragement in one place, may move off to another corps or Province, if not checked, as whim, caprice, or a more commodious situation may induce them. The debts these men owe are the mere balances due at our stores. Were I to make a charge of the time allowed them for discipline, for which they were paid as if at work, and to which I am justly entitled, my demands would be much more considerable. However, being loath to discourage the service, I have omitted that charge in their account; and as I choose to have my company composed only of such as I can entirely depend on, I beg leave further to inform you, that three of the fellows, whose debts are considerable, I shall immediately discharge on their appearance here, and return them to the battalion, having no doubt you will order their debts to be stopped out of their pay.

With sincerest wishes of success—to the success of the British constitution and the liberties of America, I beg leave, by Mr. Hays, my first lieutenant, to lay this representation before you, a favourable answer to which will greatly oblige, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

ROBERT ERSKINE.

To the Colonel and Officers of the First Battalion of Continental Forces, New-Jersey.

WALTER LIVINGSTON TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Albany, December 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The present successful campaign drawing to a close, the persons who have been employed by the commanding officers, and those whom I have nominated, by the direction of the Hon. Major-General Schuyler, to act in the commissary's branch at Fort George, the north end of Lake George, Ticonderoga, Crown Point, St. John's, and in the neighbourhood of Montreal, are preparing their accounts for a settlement. Some of them have already applied to me to know what salaries I intended to allow them. I having no authority to pay them any fixed wages; do now apply to Congress to know what each person on the different posts are to receive for their services.

I remain, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your obedient servant,

WALTER LIVINGSTON,
Deputy Commissary-General.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Cambridge, December 3, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to inform you that four deserters have just arrived at head-quarters, giving an account that several persons are to be sent out of Boston, this evening or to-morrow, that have been lately inoculated with the small-pox, with design, probably, to spread the infection, in order to distress us as much as possible. The men are sent for their examination upon oath, who will give you such intelligence as may make it necessary to send down some judicious person to Pudding Point, where those people are to be landed, to examine into the matter, upon whose report proper measures may be taken to frustrate this unheard-of and diabolical scheme. Enclosed you have also a letter from Colonel Baldwin, containing the same account.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

ROBERT H. HARRISON, Aid-de-Camp.

To the Honourable the President of the Council of the Massachusetts-Bay.

COLONEL GLOVER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, December 3, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: I have the pleasure to inform your Excellency that Captain Manly, in your schooner Lee, brought into the mouth of Marblehead harbour, this morning, the ship Concord, James Lowrie, master, from Glasgow. The invoices, and all the papers on board her, have sent forward by Capt. Richard James. The ship, immediately on her coming into Marblehead, ordered her to Beverly. As she was turning in, got aground on the bar, but hope she will receive no damage. Captain Bartlett and I shall take all the care of the ship and cargo possible can be taken.

I am, sir, your Excellency's most humble servant,

JONATHAN GLOVER, Agent at Marblehead.

To his Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter-Hill, December 3, 1775.

MUCH RESPECTED GENTLEMEN: Notwithstanding every method has been taken to keep the Connecticut forces on the ground till relief could be had from the country, the cowardly traitors begin to leave us in companies and regiments, and that even six and seven days before the time is expired. What has possessed these vile poltroons remains yet a secret. We have sent handbills, similar to the one enclosed, before them on the road, and I trust they will have the designed effect.

A gentleman from Boston was here last evening; says the enemy are, by some means or other, fully acquainted with our situation, and he fears much they will take advantage of it.

I entreat you, gentlemen, to spare no pains in forwarding the march of your troops, as much may depend upon their speedy arrival.

Your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety, New-Hampshire.

JOSH. WENTWORTH TO STEPHEN MOYLAN.

Portsmouth, December 3, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you of 27th ultimo, per post, enclosing a package of papers and letters taken with the schooner

Rainbow; am still without your directions respecting said vessel and cargo.

Last evening, two officers passed through this town to head-quarters. I did not see either of them. This morning, twenty-two men, including prisoners, from the armed schooners Franklin and Speedwell, came to town from Winter Harbour, where they inform me they left two prizes—one a schooner of one hundred and thirty tons, with sundry stores and dry goods, from London, for the island of St. John's; the other a brig, and laden with dry fish, packed in hogsheads, bound from Nova-Scotia to the West-Indies. These vessels were taken by the two armed vessels cruising off the mouth of the river St. Lawrence, of which you will be particularly informed by the officers gone forward.

I must advise, from principle of security, that those vessels be ordered to this or some safe port, as soon as may be, not only from the danger of the enemy, but the distance from any place of sale for the cargoes, should they be deemed prizes. Were I warranted, under a slight pretence, should not hesitate at ordering them hither without delay. The risk I apprehend but trifling, the distance only twelve leagues. Fish, at this time, is much wanted here, to complete the cargoes of sundry vessels fitting out for the Continental and Provincial service. It will command thirteen shillings and four pence, per quintal, if it is good.

The bearer, John Lewis, belonging to the schooner Speedwell, applied for a supply to defray his expense here, and help him forward to head-quarters; which I thought justifiable, and have furnished him with three pounds eighteen shillings, lawful money. I shall wait further orders, and, on receipt thereof, immediately attend to them in the most secure and particular mode.

Captain Adams, of the armed schooner Warren, informed me that his number of men are reduced to thirty odd, owing to sickness, and has left a number on shore, two of which have died. If he is to be continued any time cruising, would it not be advisable to make up his complement? He is now out on a cruise.

Nothing further has occurred worthy of notice; which concludes me, respectfully, sir, your most obedient servant,
JOSH. WENTWORTH.

Stephen Moylan, Esq.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COLONEL HOBART.

In Committee of Safety, December 3, 1775.

SIR: The pressing necessity of suddenly raising a number of men to guard our lines, left open by the Connecticut forces, make it necessary for us to desire you (laying all other business aside) to proceed, with all possible despatch, to the County of Hillsborough, and endeavour to raise a number of companies for that service.

We send you a number of inlisting orders, forms for the soldiers to sign, which we desire you to give out to such persons as you judge best for the service, of filling up the blanks when you deliver them.

We entreat your exerting yourself, as your country, and all we have, may depend upon the lines being manned by the 10th of December.

With great respect, in behalf of the Committee, I am your humble servant.
Colonel Hobart.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COLONEL WALKER.

In Committee of Safety, December 3, 1775.

SIR: By express from General Sullivan, we are informed that the Connecticut troops, whose time by inlistment expired the last day of November, are about returning home. General Washington has desired New-Hampshire to send him thirty-one companies, to man the lines until the 15th of January next, and to be at Winter-Hill by the 10th of this month at farthest.

We send you enclosed several orders for inlistment, and forms for the soldiers to sign, and desire you to find persons you judge suitable for inlisting and commanding the companies, and then to fill up the blanks.

We earnestly request your utmost exertions in raising and forwarding the men, as our lines, being left open, may be of fatal consequence. The time is short; pray employ every moment to have some companies marched. The captains are desired to be careful in inlisting none but good men, properly equipped, as they cannot be mustered. They must take provisions from home to last them to the camp, for which the General engages to pay the money.

In behalf of the Committee,

I am, &c.

P. S. Your delaying one week in paying the troops will be no damage. Colonel Hobart has gone home on this business. James Shepherd, of Canterbury, has been recommended as a good man to raise a company.

Colonel Walker.

MAJOR-GENERAL HOWE TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

Boston, December 3, 1775.

MY LORD: By a letter received last night from Lieutenant-Governor Cramahé, which your Lordship has enclosed, there is too much reason to fear that, by a general defection of the Canadians, the whole Province of Quebeck will fall into the hands of the Rebels; and by a private letter from thence, of later date, by one day, I learn Montreal has surrendered; that General Carleton was on his way down the river in an armed vessel, and that there was little reason to believe the capital would be able to withstand the expected attack.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Quebeck, under those circumstances, has been induced to detain five transports sent from hence for forage, by which we not only lose the hay and corn expected, as per return in my separate letter of 2d instant, but are deprived of one thousand four hundred and sixteen tons of shipping, to be added to the quantity specified in the return of tonnage in my despatch of 26th November as wanting for the removal of this garrison, &c., at one embarkation. I hope that the transports to replace these, and to make up the deficiency in the return, may be ordered out early in the spring, and in consideration of the loss we have already sustained by the enemy, that they should come under convoy.

I learn the Nancy brigantine, an ordnance transport, having on board four thousand stand of arms complete, one hundred thousand flints, a thirteen-inch mortar, with other stores in proportion, was taken in the bay last week by the Rebels' privateers, and affords an instance for this necessity. The circumstance is rather unfortunate to us, as they are now furnished with all the requisites for setting the town on fire, having got a large quantity of round carcasses and other stores, with which they could not have been otherwise supplied. The particular manner whereby she was taken is not ascertained; but so many artifices have been practised upon strangers, under the appearance of friendship, false pilots, &c., that those coming out with stores of any kind cannot be put too much upon their guard.

And I submit to your Lordship the necessity there may be of supplying the loss of arms, flints, &c., suffered on this occasion.

I am also to request your Lordship will be pleased to direct twice the quantity of engineer's tools contained in the enclosed return to be sent out in separate ships, for two divisions of the army, both of which may be employed in sieges. The date of this return will point out the time when the requisition was made.

From an apprehension that the advantages gained by the Rebels in Canada, and their good fortune here in possessing themselves of our stores, may encourage them to further attempts, I shall, with all despatch, send to Halifax the part of the Sixty-fifth now here under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Bruce, who will command on his arrival; and with this reinforcement I must conclude that place will be in perfect security.

Upon this unfortunate event in Canada, and your Lordship's encouragement to mention my opinion, I beg leave to say, for the recovery of that Province as a primary object, the army to effect it should not consist of less than twelve thousand fighting men; at the same time I desire I may not be understood to give up the plan as set forth in my letter, No. 2, of the 26th November, as the enemy will feel more immediate distress by being attacked on the most vulnerable side, than from any success to be gained in Canada.

The Admiral has informed me that, by a letter received this day from Captain Wallace, of the Rose ship-of-war, stationed at Rhode-Island, the Rebels give out they are to fortify the heights above the town of Newport; also that they are fitting out an armed ship at Philadelphia, to carry thirty-six guns, and two or three more of a less force, with a design of cruising to the southward, and to take Lord Dunmore in their way.

I am, &c.,

W. Howe.

LOUISA COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held in Louisa, December 4, 1775, present, the Rev. Thomas Hall, Chairman, the Rev. John Todd, Thomas Johnston, (Mayor,) Charles Smith, Robert Armistead, Thomas Johnston, (Sheriff,) Col. Richard Anderson, James Dabney, Charles Barrett, Col. William White, Nathaniel Anderson, Waddy Thomson, Thomas Johnston, (minor,) George Meriwether, Charles Yancy, John Bullock, William Pettus, Garret Minor, John Nelson, William Lipscomb, and William Hughes:

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this Committee be given to the Rev. Thomas Hall and John Todd for their unwearied application of their abilities in the service of their country, as well in checking the wild irregular sallies of those who would aim at too much, as in rousing those lethargick wretches who would tamely submit to a deprivation of their rights and liberties, to a proper sense of their danger and duty.

Resolved, also, on a consideration of the great distress that our brethren in some of the lower Counties are reduced to by the calamity of the times, that this Committee, in the name of the whole County, do make the best provision for them in their power, either by offering a welcome asylum, or in contributing to their relief.

Signed by order of the Committee:

HENRY GARRETT, Clerk.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LIEUTENANT-COLONEL SCOTT TO HIS FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURGH, VA., DATED GREAT BRIDGE, DECEMBER 4, 1775.

Since I wrote you, which was about two days ago, we have have been well informed that we killed sixteen negroes and five white men the first day we got to this place. The next day, Lieutenant Tibbs, who had the command of the boat guard, about five miles from this place, was attacked by a party of the King's troops and several negroes, upon which some of our people gave ground; but Mr. Tibbs, with four of his people, maintained his post until I reinforced him with fifty men under Captain Nicholas, who were obliged to pass through a very heavy fire from the enemy. Before they got to the place, Mr. Tibbs had beat off the enemy and killed seven of their men, amongst whom was the commander of the party.

We still keep up a pretty heavy fire between us, from light to light. We have only lost two men; and about half an hour ago one of our people was shot through the arm, which broke the bone near his hand.

Last night was the first of my pulling off my clothes for twelve nights successively. Believe me, my good friend, I never was so fatigued with duty in my whole life; but I set little value upon my health when put in competition with my duty to my country and the glorious cause we are engaged in.

The Carolina forces are joining us. One company came in yesterday, and we expect eight or nine hundred of them to-morrow, or next day at farthest, with several pieces of artillery, and plenty of ammunition and other warlike stores. A gun fired—I must stop.

P. S. Since I finished my letter, we saw a large pile of buildings at the far end of this town all in flames, between which and the fort we had four sentinels, who can give no account how it happened. As I mentioned above, the fire was discovered when the gun fired; and, by the time the men got paraded, a volley of small arms was fired from the fort, mixed with, now and then, a cannon shot. About eleven at night it ceased for about half an hour, when, to our great surprise, we saw several other houses in a blaze, which are just now consumed. It is now one o'clock. I shall lie down till the next alarm.

JOSIAH BARTLETT TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, December 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Yesterday I received yours of the 21st ultimo, requesting the Congress to grant a sum of money to our Colony, towards what we have advanced on account of the Continent. I took the opportunity this morning to lay the same before Congress, who have voted us the sum of forty thousand dollars, as you will see by the enclosed extract from their minutes.

I fear it will not be ready in less than three or four weeks from this time, as all that has been emitted is expended, and several grants previous to ours made on the next emission, which was ordered by Congress near a month ago; but the Committee has been retarded for want of proper paper; they now say they shall begin in a few days.

If the Congress should not rise before the money is ready, (which is at present uncertain,) I will use my best endeavours to send it as soon as possible by some safe conveyance; perhaps I may send it to Cambridge, and inform you to send for it there. If the Congress shall rise before it can be procured, I will give my orders to have it sent as soon as may be, unless, by tarrying a short time, I can bring it with me.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect, your very humble servant,

JOSIAH BARTLETT.

The Provincial Committee of Safety.

SAMUEL TUCKER AND HENDRICK FISHER TO LORD STIRLING.

Burlington, December 4, 1775.

MY LORD: Your favour of the 2d current we duly received, and, agreeable to your directions in the return sent, we have sent the commissions of Captains Morris, Howell, and Conway, and all their officers, except the ensign's commission for Jonathan Ford Morris, to whose appointment there are many objections, unnecessary to mention by us at this time. We wish some fit person was recommended, or, at least, some person that might be more agreeable for that ensigncy. Mr. Fisher has wrote to New-Brunswick about the barracks: and further, a law this day passed our House appointing Barrackmasters. What success it will meet with by Governour and Council we can't yet tell.

As to the several other matters you recommend to us, be assured we will do all in our power to forward.

We are, with tenders of service, your Lordship's most obedient humble servants,

SAM. TUCKER,
HEND'K FISHER.

LORD STIRLING TO ISAAC BONNEL.

Elizabethtown, December 4, 1775.

SIR: I have received your letter of this day's date by Captain Conway. In answer to which, I must desire that you will deliver into Captain Conway's charge all the blankets now under your care as Barrackmaster of this Province, having them first sorted into different parcels, viz: Such as are as good as new ones, those a little worn, such as are a quarter worn, and so on; and this is to be done in the presence of two or three indifferent persons, to be chosen by yourself and Captain Conway, whose receipt you will take for the same; for my meaning is, that we shall be answerable for the value of these blankets, and to pay that value into the hands of any person the Assembly of this Province shall appoint to receive the same. The usual barrack furniture you will also deliver to Captain Conway, taking his receipt for them, particularly enumerated. And, with regard to the repairs necessary and the providing fire-wood, I should be glad you would have it executed; and it shall be paid for by the Commissary of the Jersey troops in the Continental service at the usual rates.

STIRLING.

To Isaac Bonnel, Esq., Perth-Amboy.

LORD STIRLING TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Elizabethtown, December 4, 1775.

By a letter of the 27th ultimo, from the President of the Continental Congress, I am informed that he has wrote to the Convention of New-York, to furnish the Continental troops under my command, in this Province, with as many fire-arms as they can spare, and that he has desired them to be sent for their use.

I should be very glad to know what number can be spared; and as I am ordered immediately to despatch six companies, of ninety each, to the new fort on Hudson river, in the Highlands, it would facilitate that service very much if three hundred stand of arms could immediately be sent over to me; and in order to avoid any danger there may be in passing by water to this place, I will take care at any appointed time to receive them with a proper guard, at Hoboken, Weehawken, or any other place on Hudson river that shall be thought most proper.

The six companies destined to garrison the beforementioned new fort, I hope will be ready to move during this and the next week. I purpose to march them to Dobbs's Ferry, where it will be necessary that two or three sloops should attend about eight days hence, in order to embark and sail with them as they arrive. As soon as I can fix the day on which the first company can be there, I will inform you of it.

Be pleased to inform me whether the barracks at the new fortress be in readiness to receive the six companies I am ordered to send there, and whether provision, fire-wood, &c., be provided. I shall use my utmost endeavours to furnish the companies I send off with twenty-four rounds of powder and ball. I hope your Congress will provide a further supply of those articles at the fortress.

I am, sir, your most humble servant, STIRLING.

Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., Vice-President of the late New-York Provincial Congress.

GOVERNOUR TRYON TO WHITEHEAD HICKS.

December 4, 1775. }

SIR: I desire you will lay before the Corporation the enclosed paper, containing my sentiments on the present convulsed state of this country, and that you will please to make the same publick.

I am, &c., WILLIAM TRYON.

To Whitehead Hicks, Esq., Mayor of the City of New-York.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE COLONY OF NEW-YORK.

I take this publick manner to signify to the inhabitants of this Province, that His Majesty has been graciously pleased to grant me his royal permission to withdraw from my Government, and at the same time to assure them of my readiness to perform every service in my power to promote the common felicity.

If I am excluded from every hope of being any ways instrumental towards the re-establishment of that harmony, at present interrupted, between Great Britain and her Colonies, I expect soon to be obliged to avail myself of His Majesty's indulgence.

It has given me great pain to view the Colony committed to my care in such a turbulent state as not to have afforded me, since my arrival, any prospect of being able to take the dispassionate and deliberate sense of its inhabitants, in a constitutional manner, upon the resolution of Parliament for composing the present ferment in the Provinces. A resolution that was intended for the basis of an accommodation, and if candidly considered in a way which it will be most probably successful, and treated with that delicacy and decency requisite to the cultivation of a sincere reconciliation and friendship, might yet be improved for the purposes of restoring the general tranquillity and security of the empire. I owe it to my affection to this Colony, to declare my wish that some measure may be speedily adopted for this purpose, as I feel an extreme degree of anxiety in being witness to the growing calamities of this country, without the power to alleviate them; calamities that must increase, while so many of the inhabitants withhold their allegiance from their Sovereign, and their obedience to the parent country, by whose power and patronage they have hitherto been sustained and protected.

WILLIAM TRYON.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY WILLIAM TRYON, ESQ.

New-York, December 6, 1775.

SIR: As you have been pleased to address yourself in a publick manner to the inhabitants of this Province at large, an apology can hardly be necessary for the freedom I use in conveying my sentiments to you on the interesting contents of your letter, in which, as an individual, I feel myself deeply concerned.

The rectitude of your Excellency's conduct, in your official capacity, has deservedly acquired you an eminent degree of popularity and esteem among all orders of men; and, on this account, every step you take is an object of peculiar attention; even what in another might seem offensive and exceptionable, in you is regarded with the most indulgent partiality. I should with regret see you embrace any measure which might tend to alienate the affections of the people, and sully the laurels you have reaped from your former virtuous administration.

With respect to your letter under consideration, permit me to intimate to you, that, unless it be a mere formality, arising from the necessity of your station, it is, at least, a very indiscreet proceeding, and can answer no other end than to lessen you in the general estimation. We have too good an opinion of your understanding to imagine you can seriously believe there is any thing conciliating, or looking towards an accommodation, in the resolution you mention; a resolution, the terms whereof are diametrically opposite to every principle of liberty, and which has been recommended to us by the most indelicate and indecent of all arguments—the point of the bayonet. We must confess to you, that we are as yet in a state of too much simplicity to understand rightly that species of kindness which is evidenced by carnage and devastation.

Our interests we consider as inseparably united with those of our sister Colonies. In union we place our strength; in disunion we see our destruction. We have also the greatest confidence in the judgment and integrity of those who are entrusted with the management of publick affairs; and we can never think of deserting the common cause and breaking the most sacred engagements, by venturing to decide on what is properly a subject of general determination, and by exposing ourselves to the snares and entanglements of a separate treaty. The necessity of union we have been taught by the sagacious Lord North himself, who declared in the House of Commons, in support of the motion, that if one link of the chain could be broken, the whole would inevitably fall to pieces, and that divide et impera (divide and domineer) is a maxim both just and wise in Government. For this instance of plain dealing we are very much indebted to his Lordship; and if we do not profit by it, we shall exhibit to the world a lasting monument of unexampled stupidity.

We would not wish to suppose that you would offer such violence to your "affection for this Colony," or bring such an indelible stain upon your own honour, as to be capable of stooping to the mean task of promoting those flagitious and dark designs avowed by the Minister; and yet, there are unfortunately some appearances, which, in a people less ingenious than we are, might too easily beget a suspicion of the kind.

It is incumbent upon us to thank your Excellency for the genteel and polite language in which you are pleased to charge us with disloyalty and rebellion. To say we have traitorously conspired against His Majesty's crown and dignity, and wantonly trampled upon the laws of the State, according to the stale jargon of the times, would be far more harsh and ill-sounding than the smooth, harmonious expressions you have adopted. Only to tell us we "withhold our allegiance from our Sovereign, and our obedience from the parent country," is civil enough, all things considered. But, at the same time, we beg leave to assure you that you have been deceived as to the fact, and that, though we have been forced to stray from the ordinary forms of decorum, we desire nothing more than to be speedily restored to the good old way in which we trod for almost two centuries, to the mutual satisfaction and advantage of England and America. I know not how you can be unacquainted with this truth, that it is in the power of Administration, in a moment, to re-establish the tranquillity and security of the empire, which they alone have interrupted, by relinquishing those attempts which are subversive of our rights as a free people, and by reinstating us in the same happy situation in which the conclusion of the late war found us. Then shall Britain reap a rich harvest of opulence and power, the fruits of our loyalty and attachment, and we shall again flourish under the fostering wings of a reformed parent.

I wish, however, that your Excellency had thought proper to explain what you meant by allegiance to the King, and obedience to the parent country. If by the former you intend an unconditional obsequiousness to the will of the Prince, or of his Ministers, even though repugnant to the constitution, and by the latter an absolute submission to the laws of Parliament in all cases, we must confess it is our glory to withhold both the one and the other. We acknowledge no obligations which are inconsistent with our rights and privileges as men and freemen.

I am, with all due respect, your Excellency's most humble servant,

A CITIZEN.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED MONTREAL, DECEMBER 4, 1775.

I have just arrived here from Quebeck, from whence I have been driven on account of my refusing to take arms against the American troops. General Montgomery's behaviour in this country will gain him great honour, as he has all along acted with the greatest humanity and integrity. He is now on his way to Quebeck, with about three thousand men, and I suppose will be in possession of that garrison in a few weeks. General Carleton has about twelve hundred fighting men with him; but the extensiveness of the walls, and the different places that his troops must repair to on an alarm, will so divide his force, that to me it appears certain they cannot hold out long. His rigorous treatment of the Americans in Quebeck, from the first entrance of the troops into the country, would take up more time than I can spare; but to crown the whole, he has turned us all out, giving us two days to prepare, but not suffering us to take any thing.

There will certainly be a strong army to retake Canada in the spring. The General has sent home a number of pilots to bring the fleet here early. I suppose the Congress will send men here to defend it; and, indeed, should they garrison it with ten or twelve thousand, it will not be in the power of Britain to retake it.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.
Lebanon, December 4, 1775.

SIR: Enclosed, I send you the certificate, permits, &c., from the Committee of Falmouth to Captain Phineas Fanning, to purchase and transport provisions to the Island of Nantucket, and the subsequent doings of the inhabitants of Suffolk County, on Long-Island, thereon. This I should not have noticed, but as I am informed by Captain Niles, who commands one of the armed vessels belonging to this Colony, called the Spy, of nine other vessels, as large, and some larger permits, some of which have been into this Colony, but have not succeeded here, and are now gone to Long-Island. Surely such large supplies of provisions to the favourites of Administration looks suspicious, and ought to be duly watched. Indeed, it was always my opinion that those inhabitants of that Island who are friendly to this country's cause, ought to remove themselves to the main, and leave the rest to be supported by their good friends the Administration. I give you this intelligence that such measures may be taken, that while we are at war with, we may not at the same time be feeding our enemies.

I am, with the greatest respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the President of the Council of the Massachusetts-Bay.

Falmouth, October 19, 1775.

These may certify any Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, &c., or any other whom it may concern, that we, the Committee of Correspondence of Falmouth, in the County of Barnstable, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, are appointed a Committee of Supplies for the Island of Nantucket, with orders to give permits to any that shall make application to us for provisions for the internal use of said Island, to be supplied through us, from any Colony or Province in North-America; those we give permits to being persons we can confide in.

Falmouth, October 19, 1775.

This is to certify whom it may concern, that the Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Falmouth, in the County of Barnstable, have permitted Phineas Fanning, of Nantucket, to purchase five hundred barrels of flour, three hundred barrels of beef, one hundred firkins of butter, one thousand weight of leather, six hundred weight of tallow, sixteen cords of wood, three hundred pair of shoes, and any other necessary for the internal consumption of the inhabitants of the Island of Nantucket, agreeable to an act of the General Court of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, passed August, 1775.

By order of the Committee:

NATHANIEL SHIVERICK, Clerk.

RET. MOORE, Clerk of the Spy.

At a meeting of the Committee of the County of Suffolk, November 7, 1775:

Ordered, That Mr. Phineas Fanning be permitted to purchase and take on board his vessel, the Ranger, in this county, five hundred barrels of flour, or wheat equivalent, three hundred barrels of beef, one hundred firkins of butter, one thousand weight of leather, six hundred weight of tallow, sixteen cords of wood, three hundred pair of shoes, two hundred weight of flax, two hundred weight of hog's lard, one hundred weight of candles, and twenty barrels of pork; to be transported to Falmouth, in the Massachusetts-Bay; and that he produce a certificate at or before the first of April next, from the Committee of Correspondence of said Falmouth, of the delivery of said goods according to their order, the danger of the seas and seizures excepted, on penalty of being advertised as an enemy to his country; said certificate to be delivered to the Chairman of the Committee of the town of Southold; and that said goods be shipped under the inspection of Colonel Thomas Cushing, James Howell, Sylvester Lester, and James Havens, or either of them.

Per order: WM. SMITH, Chairman.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: S. Smith and Joseph Young were taken prisoners on board a sloop in the Ministerial service, as you will see by a copy of a charter party, found amongst other papers, on board the sloop Polly. The first is the captain, the other the mate.

John Hitch, captain; Thomas Goulding, pilot; James Piper, John Siplin, William Allen, Thomas Anderson, Henry Stampson, mariners. These were taken on board the sloop Success, by some of the inhabitants of Salem. They were armed, and belong to Boston. Sent up by the Committee of Safety.

Pat. Burns, Richard Rabits, Robert Burnet, Thomas Walden, and William Hancock, sailors belonging to the Canceaux man-of-war. John Larkin and Bateman Baker, midshipmen belonging to the Canceaux.

I am, with great respect, sir, your most obedient servant,
STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

To the Hon. James Otis, President of the Council.

P. S. A team will be necessary to carry the baggage.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, December 4, 1775.

SIR: Three men having deserted from one of the armed schooners in the harbour of Newport, on Wednesday evening last, the Captain, with a Midshipman, came ashore after them, and were both taken prisoners. They were brought here yesterday. The Captain, whose name is Stanhope, was a lieutenant on board the Glasgow. It was reported that he was a son of Earl Stanhope. Upon examination he denied it, but confessed a relation and acquaintance with his Lordship, and declined giving any particular account of himself. I am informed that he is nearly related to his Lordship; and that he is nephew to the Dutchess of Chandois. I have no doubt but that he is a person of some consequence. He cannot be safely kept here unless he is confined in close jail, which I should not choose. I request your Excellency's early advice upon this subject; and, in the mean time, shall take every prudent precaution to prevent his escape.

I am greatly concerned at the disinclination of the soldiers to reenlist in the Continental Army; and should be glad to know, as soon as possible, what deficiency there will probably be, that our attention may be turned towards supplying our quota for completing the army. For the doing of which, your Excellency may rely upon my utmost exertions.

I am, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

NICHOLAS COOKE.

To General Washington.

AT A GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL HELD AT ROXBURY, DECEMBER 4, 1775—PRESENT:

Colonel Jonathan Ward, President.

Members: Captains Rowley, Hazeltine, Ball, and Briggs; Lieutenants Bissel, Gray, Pincheon, J. Gray, Jacobs, Redding, and Sheppard.

The Court being duly sworn, proceeded to the trial of John Short, a soldier in Captain Clapp's Company, and Colonel Cotton's Regiment, confined for desertion and theft.

The prisoner appears and pleads not guilty.

On hearing the evidence brought to support the charge, the Court are unanimously of opinion the prisoner is guilty. It likewise appears very clear to the Court, from sundry papers that were found with him, and from his own incoherent stories, that he is guilty of a breach of the 27th and 29th, and also the 3d article of the Rules and Regulations of the Massachusetts Army. According to said rules, the Court adjudge the following sums of money to be paid out of his wages and effects, viz: To Captain Earl Clapp, the sum of 1*l*. 16*s*., for expense of advertising and apprehending him; also, 36*s*., that said Clapp paid, at said Short's desire, for a former theft. To William Cowing, a soldier in Captain Clapp's company, 36*s*. 10*d*., that he carried away with him when he deserted. To Daniel Crawford, in said company, 4*l*. 16*s*., for the damage done him by stealing his clothes. Likewise adjudge him to be whipped thirty-nine stripes on the naked back, and suffer two years imprisonment in Newgate Prison, in Symsbury, and as much longer as the present contest between Great Britain and the American Colonies shall subsist.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

John Smith, a soldier in Captain Harwood's Company, and in Colonel Learned's Regiment, confined for attempting to desert to the enemy.

The prisoner appears, and pleads guilty.

The Court are of opinion he is guilty of a breach of the 8th as well as of the 7th article of the Rules and Regulations of the Massachusetts Army, and therefore adjudge him to pay the sum of eight shillings to Brigadier-General Thomas, to defray the expense of bringing him back to camp, and suffer six months imprisonment in Newgate Prison, in Symsbury.

Owen Resick, a transient person, confined for aiding, advising, and assisting John Smith to desert to the enemy.

The prisoner appears, and pleads not guilty.

On hearing and examining the evidence brought to support the charge, the Court are of opinion the prisoner is guilty of a breach of the 8th and 31st articles of the Rules and Regulations of the Massachusetts Army; and therefore adjudge him to suffer one year's imprisonment in Newgate Prison, in Symsbury, and as much longer as the present disputes between Great Britain and the Colonies shall subsist.

Attest:

J. WARD, President.

The above sentences were confirmed by Major-General Ward.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL M^CDOUGALL.

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: Henry Knox, Esq., having informed me by letter from New-York, of the 27th ultimo, that, upon his application, you had been kind enough to promise your good offices in Congress, to have twelve good iron four-pounders, with a quantity of shells and shot, sent to this camp, and also to spare two brass six-pounders, I have now the pleasure to acquaint you that we are fully supplied with shells and shot from the store-ship which has fortunately fallen into our hands, and there is no necessity that these two articles should be sent. The cannon are much wanted, and I should be much obliged by your having them forwarded as expeditiously as possible.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Colonel Alexander McDougall, New-York.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to inform you that he does not consider the sloop at Cape-Anne, sent in by Captain Broughton, to be a prize, and that he does not wish to have any thing to do with her. There should always be great care taken that cargoes brought in should not be injured or embezzled. It appears that the vessel belongs to General Greene, and he will dispose of her as he shall think proper. I am, sir, your humble servant,

R. H. HARRISON.

William Bartlett, Esq., Beverly.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO WILLIAM PALFREY.

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to inform you that he received your favours of the 1st and 3d instant, and that your activity and conduct merit his approbation. He is much obliged to the people who have afforded their assistance in securing this valuable prize, and for the alertness they have discovered, and zeal for the service of their country. You will be pleased to spare the Committee a few of the cannon shot, taking a receipt for the same, and mentioning the sort, that they may be repaid when they get theirs. As to the cannon, his Excellency is exceedingly sorry that the want of them here is so great that he cannot spare them, or he willingly would. His Excellency thinks that the ship Concord and cargo should be a prize, as the enemy every day are seizing our vessels; but, conceiving himself not authorized to judge a vessel coming from Britain here, with goods for a company or house in Boston, he thinks it expedient to send to Congress for their determination, for which purpose an express will go tomorrow morning, with such letters and papers as may be necessary for them to determine upon.

If this vessel can be run up into some secure place, where the enemy cannot get her again, the goods may and should be kept on board, under a proper guard, to prevent embezzlement. But if this cannot be done, and there will be danger of the enemy's recovering the ship and cargo, the goods must be landed. The bill of lading is sent for that purpose, which will do as well as the invoice. There are several small parcels on board, for which there are no invoices. I am, &c.,

R. H. HARRISON.

P. S. The Committee may keep the two four-pounders you spared them till called for. Take their receipt. To Colonel John Glover, Marblehead, the same.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO JONATHAN GLOVER.

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 3d instant, giving an account of Captain Manly's taking the sloop Concord, from Glasgow, with goods from Boston. His Excellency has no doubts but (as the enemy are seizing and making prizes of our vessels every day) that reprisals should be made; but not thinking himself authorized to declare vessels taken, transporting goods from English or British owners for their agents here, lawful captures, he has thought it expedient to refer the matter to the determination of the Congress, for which an express is to set out with every necessary letter and papers that were found on board Captain Laurie. If the ship can be kept entirely secure from the enemy, and run into any place where there would be no risk of the enemy getting her again, his Excellency would advise the cargo to be kept on board, and an officer and guard to prevent embezzlement or loss. If this cannot be done, she must be unladen, and the goods secured until further orders.

I am yours, &c.,

S. MOYLAN.

To William Bartlett, Esq., the same.

WILLIAM WATSON TO STEPHEN MOYLAN.

Plymouth, December 4, 1775.

SIR: Your much esteemed favour of the 1st instant, per Lieutenant Champion, came to hand at eight o'clock, Saturday evening. I did, without a moment's loss of time, set out, determined, if it were possible, to get the brigantine to sea next day, which, with the assistance of my good friend, Mr. Spooner, I happily effected. After repairing on board the brig Saturday night, inquiring into the cause of the uneasiness among the people, and finding it principally owing to their want of clothing, and after supplying them with what they wanted, the whole crew, to a man, gave three cheers, and declared their readiness to go to sea the next morning. The warm weather at that time, and the news of Captain Manly's good success, had a very happy influence on the minds of the people. The brig sailed Sunday afternoon, and has had fine weather ever since.

Captain Coit is got from Barnstable, has hauled his schooner on the ways, is now graving and refitting her, will be ready in two days, and is determined to take another cruise in her. His people are contented and behave well.

I have the six negroes now in my care, and shall wait his Excellency's directions respecting them.

I have, agreeably to the General's orders of the 16th ultimo, delivered to Jabez Hatch's order his bedding and wearing apparel. I found nothing secreted among them.

I would take this opportunity to inform his Excellency, that instead of seven half-joes delivered Captain Coit by Captain Coffin, it was eight half-joes. I have not had opportunity yet to mention this matter to Captain Coit. If Coit has delivered me one more than he received of Coffin, I shall return it to him.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM WATSON.

Stephen Moylan, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 13, 1775.]

Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

SIR: I had the honour of writing to you the 30th ultimo, enclosing an inventory of the military stores taken on board the brig Nancy, by Captain Manly, of the armed schooner Lee. I have now to inform you, that he has since sent into Beverly a ship named the Concord, James Laurie master, from Greenock, in Scotland, bound to Boston. She has on board dry goods and coals, to the value of 3,606l. 9s. 7d. sterling, shipped by Crawford, Anderson & Co., and consigned to James Anderson, merchant, in Boston. It is mentioned in the letters found on board, that this cargo was for the use of the army; but on strict examination I find it is really the property of the shippers, and the person to whom consigned. Pray what is to be done with this ship and cargo? and what with the brigantine which brought the military stores?

It was agreed in the conference last October, "that all vessels employed merely as transports and unarmed, with their crews, to be set at liberty upon their giving security to return to Europe; but that this indulgence be not extended longer than till the first of April next." In the shippers' letter they mention, "you must procure a certificate from the General and Admiral, of the Concord's being in the Government service, such as the Glasgow packet brought with her, which was of great service, procured a liberty to arm her, which was refused us, also gave her a preference for some recruits that went out in her." In another part of their letter they say, "Captain Laurie will deliver you the contract for the coals: we gave it to him, as it perhaps might be of use as a certificate of his ship being employed in the Government service." Every letter on board breathes nothing but enmity to this country, and a vast number of them there are.

It is some time since I recommended to the Congress that they would institute a court for the trial of prizes made by the Continental armed vessels, which I hope they have ere now taken into their consideration, otherwise I should again take the liberty of urging it in the most pressing manner.

The scandalous conduct of a great number of the Connecticut troops, has laid me under the necessity of calling in a body of the militia much sooner than I apprehended there would be an occasion for such a step. I was afraid some time ago that they would incline to go home when the time of their enlistment expired. I called upon the officers of the several regiments, to know whether they could prevail on the men to remain until the first of January, or till a sufficient number of other forces could be raised to supply their place: I suppose they were deceived themselves; I know they deceived me, by assurances that I need be under no apprehension on that score, for the men would not leave the lines. Last Friday showed how much they were mistaken, as the major part of the troops of that Colony were going away with their arms and ammunition. We have, however, by threats, persuasion, and the activity of the people of the country, who sent back many of them that had set out, prevailed upon the most part to stay; there are about eighty of them missing. I have called in three thousand men from this Province; and General Sullivan, who lately returned from the Province of New-Hampshire, having informed me that a number of men were there ready at the shortest notice, I have demanded two thousand from that Province. These two bodies I expect will be in by the 10th instant, to make up the deficiency of the Connecticut men, whom I have promised to dismiss on that day, as well as the numbers to whom I was obliged to grant furloughs before any would enlist.

As the same defection is much to be apprehended when the time of the Massachusetts-Bay, New-Hampshire, and Rhode-Island forces are expired, I beg the attention of Congress to this important affair. I am informed that it has been the custom of these Provinces, in the last war, for the legislative powers to order every town to provide a certain quota of men for the campaign: this, or some other mode, should be at present adopted, as I am satisfied the men cannot be had without. This the Congress will please to take into their immediate consideration. My suspicions on this head I shall also communicate to the Governours Trumbull and Cooke; also to the New-Hampshire Convention.

The number inlisted in the last week are about thirteen hundred men; by this you see how slow this important work goes on. Enclosed is a letter wrote to me by General Putnam, recommending Colonel Babcock to the Brigadier-Generalship now vacant in this army. I know nothing of this gentleman; but I wish the vacancy was filled, as the want of one is attended with very great inconveniences.

An express has just come in from General Schuyler, with letters from Colonel Arnold and General Montgomery, copies of which I have the honour to enclose you. Upon the whole, I think affairs carry a pleasing aspect in that quarter. The reduction of Quebeck is an object of such great importance, that I doubt not the Congress will give every assistance in their power for the accomplishing it this winter.

By the last accounts from the armed schooners sent to the river St. Lawrence, I fear we have but little to expect from them; they were falling short of provisions, and mention that they would be obliged to return, which at this time is particularly unfortunate, as, if they choose a proper station, all the vessels coming down that river must fall into their hands. The plague, trouble, and vexation I have had with the crews of all the armed vessels, is inexpressible. I do believe there is not on earth a more disorderly set. Every time they come into port we hear of nothing but mutinous complaints. Manly's success has lately, and but lately, quieted his people. The crews of the Washington and Harrison have actually deserted them; so that I have been under the necessity of ordering the agent to lay the latter up, and get hands for the other on the best terms he could.

The House of Representatives, and the honourable Board, have sent me a vote of theirs relative to the harbour of Cape-Cod, which you have herewith. I shall send an officer thither to examine what can be done for its defence; though I do not think I shall be able to give them such assistance as may be requisite, for I have at present neither men, powder, or cannon to spare. The great want of powder is what the attention of Congress should be particularly applied to. I dare not attempt any thing offensive, let the temptation or advantage be ever so great, as I have not more of that most essential article than will be absolutely necessary to defend our lines, should the enemy attempt to attack them.

By recent information from Boston, Gen. Howe is going to send out a number of the inhabitants, in order, it is thought, to make more room for his expected reinforcements. There is one part of the information that I can hardly give credit to: a sailor says that a number of those coming out have been inoculated, with design of spreading the small-pox through this country and camp. I have communicated this to the General Court, and recommended their attention thereto. They are arming one of the transports in Boston, with which they mean to decoy some of our armed vessels. As we are apprised of their design, I hope they will be disappointed.

My best respects wait on the gentlemen in Congress, and I am, sir, your most humble obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. I was misinformed when I mentioned that one regiment had arrived at Boston; a few companies of the seventeenth, and artillery, were all that are yet come. Near three hundred persons are landed on Point Shirley, from Boston.

GENERAL PUTNAM TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp in Cambridge, December 1, 1775.

SIR: I shall esteem it as a particular favour if your Excellency will be so obliging as to recommend my worthy friend, Colonel Henry Babcock, to the honourable Continental Congress, to be appointed to the rank of Brigadier-General in the Continental Army. I have been upon service with him several campaigns the last war, and have seen him in action behave with great spirit and fortitude, when he had the command of a regiment. He has this day been very serviceable in assisting me in quelling a mutiny, and bringing back a number of deserters.

Your Excellency well knows I am in great want of a Brigadier-General in my division, and such a one as I can put confidence in and rely upon. I know of no man who will fill the vacancy with more honour than the gentleman above named.

I have the honour to be, with great truth and regard, your Excellency's most obedient, most humble servant,

ISRAEL PUTNAM, M. G.

His Excellency General Washington.

In the House of Representatives, December 1, 1775.

Upon a motion, Ordered, That Mr. Speaker and Colonel Orme, with such as the Honourable Board shall join, be a Committee to acquaint his Excellency General Washington of the importance of Cape-Cod harbour, and to confer with him on some method to deprive the enemy of the advantage they now receive therefrom.

Sent up for concurrence.

J. WARREN, Speaker.

In Council, December 1, 1775.

Read and concurred. Walter Spooner, Esq., is joined.

PEREZ MORTON, Dep. Sec'y.

ORDERS BY GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 1, 1775.

(Parole, &c., &c.)

(Countersign, Providence.)

The fatal consequences which have at all times, and upon all occasions, befallen armies attacked at unawares, when men are scattered and remote from their posts, or negligent whilst at them, are too well known, and very often too unhappily felt, to stand in need of description; whereas, a handful of men, prepared for an attack, are seldom defeated: It is therefore ordered, in the most express and peremptory terms, that no non-commissioned officer or soldier do presume, under any pretence whatsoever, day or night, to be out of drum-call of his alarm post, without leave of the Captain or commanding officer of the company he belongs to. And it is also as expressly ordered that no non-commissioned officer or soldier do pass from Cambridge, and the lines on this side the river, to Roxbury, or come from thence thither, or go from either to any other place in the neighbourhood, without a written pass from the Captain or commanding officer of the company he belongs to, although he should not mean to stay more than an hour or two.

The officers of each regiment are to be subject to the same restraints, and to obtain leave in the same manner from the Colonel or commanding officer of the regiment they respectively belong to; and it is expected that all officers and soldiers in this army will pay the strictest attention to this order, as they shall answer the consequence. This order is not intended to change the mode of giving furloughs, (already pointed out in past orders,) the sole design being to keep men to their duty, that they may be always ready to meet their enemy upon the shortest notice.

It is again and again expressly ordered, that an officer of each company do once a day examine the arms and ammunition of the company he belongs to, and see that they are fit for use. This and the foregoing orders are to be frequently read to the men, and the usefulness of them fully inculcated upon their minds; they are to be considered as standing orders, till countermanded.

The Colonels or commanding officers of the new established regiments are to take especial care that the new recruits are put under proper drill-sergeants as fast as they join, in order that they may, as quick as possible, be made acquainted with their duty. It is also recommended to these gentlemen to provide their regiments with good drummers and fifers.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 2, 1775.

James McCormick, of Captain Dibble's company, in Colonel Woodbridge's regiment, tried at a General Court-Martial, for "striking General Putnam's horse, and saying, at the same time, damn you! who is there? clear the road! and for repeatedly leaving the camp without orders." The Court are of opinion that the prisoner is guilty of a breach of the 3d, 15th, 16th, and 17th Articles of War, and adjudge him to receive thirty-nine lashes on his bare back.

Sergeant James King, of Colonel Patterson's regiment, tried at the same General Court-Martial, upon an appeal from a Regimental Court-Martial. The Court were of opinion that the prisoner is guilty of being absent from his regiment without leave, and of striking and abusing Sergeant Goodrich when in the execution of his duty, and therefore adjudge the prisoner to be reduced to the ranks and pay a fine of twenty shillings, to be appropriated according to the 51st Article of the Rules and Regulations of the Army.

(Parole, Sawbridge.)

(Countersign, Hartley.)

It is with surprise and astonishment the General learns, that, notwithstanding the information which was communicated to the Connecticut troops, of the relief being ordered to supply their places by the 10th of this month, that many of them have taken their arms with them and gone off, not only without leave, but contrary to express orders. This is, therefore, to inform those who remain, that the General has sent an express to the Governor of Connecticut with the names of such men as have left the camp, in order that they may be dealt with in a manner suited to the ignominy of their behaviour. The General also informs those who remain, that it is necessary for them to obtain a written discharge from the commanding officer of the regiment they belong to, when they are dismissed on the 10th instant, that they may be distinguished from and not treated as deserters.

The Colonels and commanding officers of the Connecticut regiments are to give in the names of all those of their respective regiments, for the purpose above mentioned.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 4, 1775.

(Parole, Cushing.)

(Countersign, Payne.)

Lieutenant-Colonel Enos, tried at a late General Court-Martial, whereof Brigadier-General Sullivan was President, for "leaving his commanding officer without permission or orders, and returning to Cambridge." The Court, after mature consideration of the evidence, are unanimously of opinion that the prisoner was, by absolute necessity, obliged to return with his division, and do therefore acquit him with honour.

The General orders Lieutenant-Colonel Enos to be forthwith released from his arrest.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LIEUTENANT-COLONEL SCOTT TO HIS FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURGH, VA., DATED GREAT-BRIDGE, DECEMBER 4, 1775.

Since my last we have sent a party of one hundred men, under the command of Col. Stevens, of the Minute Battalion, over the river, who fell in last night, about twelve o'clock, with a guard of about thirty men, chiefly negroes. They got close up to the sentinel undiscovered; the sentinel challenged, and was not answered, upon which he fired. Our people being too eager, began the fire immediately, without orders, and kept it up very hot for near fifteen minutes. We killed one, burnt another in the house, and took two prisoners, (all blacks,) with four exceeding fine muskets, and defeated the guard. There is hardly an hour in the day but we exchange a few shot. I am, &c.

CONSTITUTIONAL POST-OFFICE OF ANNAPOLIS.

Annapolis Constitutional Post-Office, }
December 5, 1775. }

Notice is hereby given that the Northward and Southward Mails arrive at this office every Friday at two o'clock, and return the same day at six; and on every Monday a rider leaves this town for Baltimore, and returns on Tuesday for the Northward Mail.

The Constitutional Office having been instituted by the Congress for the security and ready conveyance of letters and all kinds of intelligence through this Continent, and as the same has been attended with a great expense, it is not doubted that all well-wishers to the present laudable opposition in America will promote the same, by sending, and procuring to be sent, all letters, packages, &c., to the Constitutional Post-Office.

WILLIAM WHETCROFT, Postmaster.

LORD STIRLING TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, Elizabethtown, December 5, 1775.

SIR: In answer to the letters I wrote yesterday to Colonel Woodhull at New-York, I have this moment received a letter from him, of which the enclosed is a copy.

The receipt of this letter shall make no alteration in my conduct with regard to preparing the six companies ordered to march to the new fortress on Hudson river, but shall hold them in readiness to march until further order from the Congress. The members of the Continental Congress, who are best acquainted with the country in the neighbourhood of the new fortress, must know the impossibility of quartering men in any place contiguous to it, for there are not five habitable houses within five miles of it. It is my private opinion that we can at any time aid that fortress from hence as well as from any other place I know of, especially if I am allowed a discretionary power of giving such aid, whenever, by my intelligence, I find it is like to be necessary: the men, in the mean time, will be made more fit for service. However, I shall strictly adhere to any instructions I may receive from the Congress.

There are, I am informed, several men, who were recruited in this Province for the New-York regiment in the Continental service, lately returned into this neighbourhood, I believe, without discharges; they spread evil reports of the hardships they pretend to have met with, and greatly discourage the present service. I should be glad to be instructed what I may do with such as I meet with.

With great veneration and esteem, I am your most obedient and most humble servant,

STIRLING.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

NATHANIEL WOODHULL TO LORD STIRLING.

New-York, December 5, 1775.

MY LORD: We were honoured last night with your favour of yesterday, upon the subject of arms for your troops, their marching to the new fort, and the making provision of fire-wood and other necessities for them. In answer to which we inform you, that the Deputy Commissary-General has orders to provide provisions for one thousand men, a considerable part of which is already sent to the fort, and we have directed our Commissioners to purchase fire-wood sufficient for the barracks now built, and to be built, for the winter season. Those already built will not lodge more than three hundred men, and a great part of them are now occupied by the workmen; the remaining part will not quarter more than two complete companies. Two incomplete companies are now there, and a third came from thence a few days ago, to guard the prisoners to Newark. When this company was there, the barracks were much crowded. It is expected that, in the course of the winter, additional barracks will be built, which, with those already built, will lodge about one thousand men. At present, it will be impossible to quarter the six companies you mention in the fort. If they are sent up, they must be quartered in the neighbourhood.

We have it not in our power to supply the fort with any powder or ball. When it is in our power, we shall do it very cheerfully. This Colony has been gleaned of its arms to furnish the troops raised in it. Many have been impressed for this purpose; and this city, in particular, has been stripped of five hundred and fifty of its best arms, so that we are very badly armed as a Colony, and have no arms in our power to spare. Our Colony has already put all its publick arms in the Continental service, and we hope our neighbours of Jersey have spared their's before they called on us, stripped as we are.

Our zeal to promote the publick service has determined us to purchase about one hundred muskets of our citizens, of different bores, with bayonets and steel ramrods, for your troops, for which we are to pay four pounds per musket. To prevent any misunderstanding in settling the publick accounts, we expect these arms are to be on account of your Colony, or the Confederated Colonies. They will be in order in about ten days. When they are finished we shall advise you.

We are, with great truth and regard, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servants.

By order of the members present :

NATHANIEL WOODHULL.

The Right Hon. William, Earl of Stirling.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO COMMISSIONERS AT HIGHLANDS.

New-York, December 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Continental Congress have ordered six companies of ninety men each, besides those already here, to be placed in the fortifications on Hudson river. These six companies are nearly ready, and if barracks can be fit to receive them, may be there in eight days. We earnestly request you to have sufficient barracks completed for a thousand men, if possible, and to lay in immediately a sufficient quantity of fire-wood for the barracks that now are and can be built.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants. By order.

To John Grenell, Samuel Bayard, William Bedlow, and Jonathan Lawrence, Esquires.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the General Committee for the City and County of New-York, on Tuesday evening, December 5, 1775. Present: John Broome, Chairman,

Colonel Hyer,	Mr. Gilbert,	Mr. Norwood,
Mr. Roosevelt,	Captain Dennis,	Mr. Van Voorhies,
Mr. Dunsecomb,	Mr. Ray, Senr.,	Mr. Berrian,
Mr. Brinkerhoff,	Mr. Banker,	Mr. Anthony,
Mr. Johnson,	Mr. Phenix,	Mr. Bull,
Mr. Brower,	Captain Pell,	Mr. Janeway,
Mr. Ramsay,	Mr. Ray, Junr.,	Colonel Lasher,
Mr. Totten,	Mr. Bassett,	Mr. John Anthony,
Mr. Miller,	Mr. Byvanck,	Mr. Roome,
Mr. Moore,	Mr. Abeel,	Colonel Lott,
Mr. Abrahams,	Mr. Sharpe,	Mr. Mulligan,
Mr. Breasted,	Mr. Van Zandt,	Mr. Burling,
Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Sands,	Mr. T. Curteneus.

The case of James Taylor, respecting his having quitted his post at Foster Lewis's, and suffering two prisoners to escape, having been resumed, Ordered, That the Chairman issue his Warrant to apprehend the said James Taylor, and hold him to bail until he be discharged by order of Congress or the Committee.

A draft of a Petition to the honourable the Provincial Congress for the Province of New-York, was read, and is as follows, viz :

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Province of NEW-YORK.

The Petition of the General Committee for the City and County of NEW-YORK, humbly sheweth :

That a body of troops, from a neighbouring Colony, did lately make their publick entry into the city at noon-day, and did seize and carry off the types belonging to one of the publick Printers of this Colony, without any authority from the Continental or this Congress, your Petitioners, or any other body having power to grant such authority. And being apprehensive that such incursions, should they be repeated, will be productive of many great and evil consequences to the inhabitants of such place wherein they may be hereafter made, your Petitioners do therefore conceive it highly necessary, in the present situation of publick affairs, as well for the sake of internal peace and harmony of each Colony, as for the maintenance of the general union of the Continent, now happily subsisting, and so essential at this juncture, that each of the Associated Colonies on the Continent should have the sole management and regulation of its publick matters by its Congress or Committee, unless otherwise directed by the honourable the Continental Congress.

Your Petitioners do therefore most humbly pray, that this honourable House of Delegates would be pleased to take the premises into their consideration, and devise some expedient to prevent, for the future, the inhabitants of any of the neighbouring Colonies coming into this, to direct the publick affairs of it, or to destroy the property or invade the liberty of its inhabitants, without the direction of the Continental or this Congress, or the Committee of Safety, or the Committee of the County into which such inhabitants may come, or of the Continental Generals, unless there should be an invasion into this Colony. And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

By order of the Committee.

Ordered, That the same be fairly copied, and signed by the Chairman of this Committee, and delivered to the Chairman of the Congress.

It having been represented that John Roff, Boatman, loaded for the Provincial account with Provisions and other necessaries, intended to leave this City, for Albany, this night, and a man-of-war's Tender being on a cruise up the North River :

Ordered, That the said John Roff be directed not to depart this City without leave from the Chairman of this Committee.

Information having been brought to the Committee, that an Armed Vessel was gone up the North River, which might intercept the Vessels coming down with Provisions, Ordered, That an Express be despatched to give notice to all the landing places as far up as Constitution Fort, unless he shall have information that the said Vessel is returned to New-York.

It having been represented to the Committee that the appointment of a Town Major is very necessary at this time, and the same being put to vote, William Leary was appointed by a majority of voices.

Ordered, That William Leary be recommended to the Provincial Congress, and request that he may be appointed accordingly; and that he be desired to act until he receives a commission for that purpose.

Whereas it is represented to this Committee that there are vacancies in several of the Beats in this City, for want of which being filled up by their proper Officers the Night-Watch is greatly interrupted :

Ordered, That the commanding officer of every Regiment be authorized to appoint a day of election for every vacant office within his Regiment, excepting Field or Staff Officers, and be empowered to call upon two Committee-men, who are hereby required to attend on the day appointed to fill up the same, according to the direction of the Provincial Congress.

The examination of John Myford, for aiding and assisting in the inlisting of men to send on board the Asia man-of-war : He says he never did supply the man-of-war with oars, but that Mr. Lott has had his boat, but does not know what was carried on board; that Captain Harris and the other two men were not above two or three hours at his house; that they informed him they were going up to Poughkeepsie, and had some money, of which they were afraid of being robbed, and desired the use of the pistols, for which they left him a half-johannes in pledge; that he never supplied the man-of-war with provisions at any time whatever; that he did not make use of any expressions against the Congress; that he was not acquainted with Richard Sprong's going on board of the man-of-war, or inlisting as a soldier.

The Committee having heard the charge against the said John Myford, and his defence, Ordered, That he be discharged from his confinement, with a reprimand from the Chairman.

It having been represented that there was a necessity for certain Regulations for the Night-Watch in this City, Ordered, That a Committee of the following gentlemen be appointed to draw up a set of Regulations, and report them to the next Committee, viz: Colonel Lasher, Colonel Hyer, Major Abeel, Captain Berrian, Major Stoutenburgh, and Captain Gilbert.

Mr. Curtenius moves that Peter P. Van Zandt be appointed Major in the Third Battalion, and Patrick Welsh Adjutant.

The office of Secretary to this Board being vacant by the resignation of Mr. Blagge, Ordered, That the Chairman procure and commission a suitable person to supply his place.

Committee Chamber, Friday evening, }
December 8, 1775. }

Twenty-eight Members met, who not being sufficient to constitute a House, they dismissed.

Committee Chamber, Tuesday evening, }
December 12, 1775. }

The following Members met, viz: John Broome, Chairman,

Mr. Janeway,	Mr. Rooms,	Mr. D. Phenix,
Mr. Bassett,	Captain Peil,	Mr. Dunseomb,
Mr. Johnson,	Mr. C. F. Low,	Mr. Templeton,
Colonel Lasher,	Mr. J. Totten,	Mr. Abeel,
Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Abrahams,	Mr. Ray, Sen.,
Mr. N. Roosevelt,	Captain Dennis,	Mr. Ray, Jun.,
Mr. Norwood,	Mr. L. Burling,	Mr. Bleeker,
Mr. Ramsey,	Mr. W. Denning,

The above Members requested the Chairman to have an order served on the absenting Members, and know from them if they intended serving as Committee-men in future.

MAJOR SKENE TO HUGH GAINÉ.

Asia, December 5, 1775.

Mr. GAINÉ: I was much surprised on reading your paper of the 20th of November last, to find that you was assured "that Major Skene, the younger, who was released from close confinement on his parole of honour, lately made his escape from Connecticut," &c.

This assertion, being entirely groundless, so far as it respects my parole of honour, I think it my duty to inform the publick thereof, in order to remove any impressions which so base an act must have made on them. It is out of my power, at present, to give any further proof of my innocence, than by appealing to the Committee at Hartford, for the truth of what I declare, and which I am positive they will not contradict.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

ANDREW P. SKENE.

DUTCHESS COUNTY COMMITTEE TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Poughkeepsie, December 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Some few days past, three men were committed to jail in consequence of an order from the General Committee of Dutchess County, on a charge of having aided and assisted Peter Harris in inlisting men for the Ministerial Army. The Committee of Poughkeepsie Precinct, having reason to believe that some further discovery might be made of the pernicious scheme carrying on in this County against the friends of American liberty, as well to procure further evidences against said prisoners, the Chairman issued citations for a number of persons to appear before said Committee the 4th instant, on which day most of them appeared; and Mr. Justice Ellis being called in to qualify them, three persons, whom the Committee deemed the most material witnesses, refused to be sworn, and contemned the authority of the Committee, saying, they had taken counsel so to do.

And the Committee being of opinion that there are several very officious Ministerial agents in this County, who have corrupted the minds of many of the ignorant and baser sort of men among us, maliciously telling them, the Whigs are in rebellion, the King would conquer them, and their estates be forfeited; and if they take up arms against them, the King, for their services, will give them the Whigs' possessions: The Committee, taking these matters into consideration, and being of opinion that the denial of their authority is of the last importance, and not being clear that any particular rule is pointed out by Congress, think it expedient to solicit their advice in the premises.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL DODGE, Chairman.

To the Provincial Congress, New-York.

COLONEL KNOX TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort George, December 5, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I arrived here yesterday, and made preparations to go over the lake this morning, but General Schuyler reaching here before day prevents my going over for an hour or two. He has given me a list of stores on the other side, from which I am enabled to send an inventory of those which I intend to forward to camp. The garrison at Ticonderoga is so weak, the conveyance from the fort to the landing is so difficult, the passage across the lake so precarious, that I am afraid it will be ten days at least before I can get them on this side. When they are here, the conveyance from hence will depend entirely on the sledding; if that is good, they shall immediately move forward; without sledding, the roads are so much gullied that it will be impossible to move a step. General Schuyler will do every thing possible to forward this business.

I have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

HENRY KNOX.

His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. General Schuyler assures me, that, although the navigation through Lake-George should be stopped, yet, if there is any sledding, they shall move on another way.

A List of Stores to be conveyed to Camp at Cambridge, from Ticonderoga.

Twelve 18-pounders, iron; one 18-pounder, brass; two 13-inch iron mortars; one 7-inch iron mortar; one 6½-inch iron mortar; two mortars, one 10½-inch, iron; one 10-inch, iron; two howitz, one 8½-inch, iron; one 8-inch, iron; one 8-inch mortar, brass; one cohorn, brass; eleven brass field-pieces, 4-pounders; one brass field-piece, 24-pounder; twenty-five boxes lead, the quantity in each unknown. A small quantity of flints.

The beds for mortars, and the carriages for the cannon, are to be made at camp, except six field-carriages for the brass field-pieces, which are now making at Albany.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Holland-House, near the Heights of Abraham, }
December 5, 1775. }

MY DEAR GENERAL: I have been this evening favoured with yours of the 19th ult., and return you many thanks for your warm congratulations. Nothing shall be wanting on my part to reap the advantage of our good fortune. The season has proved so favourable as to enable me to join Colonel Arnold at Point-aux-Trembles, where I arrived with the vessels Mr. Prescott made us a present of. They carried the few troops, about three hundred, which were equipped for a winter campaign, with the artillery, &c. Colonel Livingston is on his way, with some part of his regiment of Canadians.

Mr. Carleton, who is I suppose ashamed to show himself in England, is now in town, and puts on the show of defence. The works of Quebeck are extremely extensive, and very incapable of being defended.

His garrison consists of Madéan's banditti, the sailors from the frigates and other vessels laid up, together with the citizens obliged to take up arms, most of whom are impatient of the fatigues of a siege, and wish to see matters accommodated amicably. I propose amusing Mr. Carleton with a formal attack, erecting batteries, &c., but mean to assault the works, I believe, towards the lower town, which is the weakest part. I have this day written to Mr. Carleton, and also to the inhabitants, which I hope will have some effect. I shall be very sorry to be reduced to this mode of attack, because I know the melancholy consequences, but the approaching severe season, and the weakness of the garrison, together with the nature of the works, point it out too strong to be passed by.

I find Colonel Arnold's corps an exceeding fine one, injured to fatigue, and well accustomed to cannon shot, (at Cambridge.) There is a style of discipline among them, much superior to what I have been used to see this campaign. He himself is active, intelligent, and enterprising. Fortune often baffles the sanguine expectations of poor mortals. I am not intoxicated with the favours I have received at her hands, but I do think there is a fair prospect of success.

The Governor has been so kind as to send out of town many of our friends who refused to do military duty; among them several very intelligent men, capable of doing me considerable service. One of them, a Mr. Antill, I have appointed chief engineer; Mr. Mott and all his suite having returned home. Be so good as to show Congress the necessity I was under of clothing the troops, to induce them to stay and undertake this service, at such an inclement season. I think had their Committee been with me, they would have seen the propriety of grasping at every circumstance in my power, to induce them to engage again. I was not without my apprehensions of not only being unable to make my appearance here, but even of being obliged to relinquish the ground I had gained. However, I hope the clothing and dollar bounty will not greatly exceed the bounty offered by Congress. Whilst the affair of Chamby was in agitation, Major Brown, as I am well informed, made some promises to the Canadians who engaged in that service, which I believe I must, from motives of policy as well as justice, make good, viz: to share the stores, excepting ammunition and artillery. When matters are settled, I shall pay them in money, being inconvenient to part with the provisions.

Upon another occasion, I have also ventured to go beyond the letter of the law. Colonel Easton's detachment, at the mouth of the Sorel, was employed on the important service of stopping the fleet; they were half naked, and the weather was very severe. I was afraid that not only they might grow impatient and relinquish the business in hand, but I also saw the reluctance the troops at Montreal showed to quit it. By way of stimulant, I offered as a reward all public stores taken in the vessels, to the troops who went forward, except ammunition and provisions. Warner's corps refused to march, or at least declined it. Bedel's went on, and came in for a share of the labour and honour. I hope the Congress will not think this money ill laid out.

With a year's clothing of the 7th and 26th, I have relieved the distresses of Arnold's corps, and forwarded the clothing of some other corps. The greatest part of that clothing is a fair prize, except such as immediately belonged to the prisoners taken on board; they must be paid for theirs, as it was their own property. We shall have more time hereafter to settle this affair. Should there be any reason to apprehend an effort next spring to regain Canada, I would not wish to see less than ten thousand men ordered here. The Canadians will be our friends as long as we are able to maintain our ground, but they must not be depended upon, especially for defensive operations. The great distance from any support or relief renders it in my opinion absolutely necessary to make the most formidable preparations for the security of this important Province. What advantages the country below Quebeck affords for defence I cannot yet assert, but the Rapids of Richlieu, some miles above, may be defended against all the navy and all the military force of Great Britain, by such a body of troops as I have mentioned, provided with sufficient artillery, row-gallies, and proper vessels fitted for fire-ships.

Some time since you desired a return from General Wooster of the men he has discharged between Albany and Ticonderoga. I was afraid there might be something disagreeable to him in the desire, and as it was too critical a time to put any body out of humour, I therefore suppressed it. I shall now make him acquainted with your pleasure on that head.

There are several appointments I have thought necessary to make, which I shall soon make known to you. I hope the Congress will not yield to any solicitations to the prejudice of the troops who have borne the burden of the service here. I have paid particular attention to Colonel Arnold's recommendations. Indeed I must say he has brought with him many pretty young men.

I don't know whether I informed you, that it was in vain to think of engaging the troops for twelve months. The 15th of April, which allows them time to plant their corn upon returning home, was all I dared to ask. I hope the proper measures will be taken for sending fresh troops into the country before that time.

I am, &c.,

RICHARD MONTGOMERY.

COLONEL ARNOLD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Before Quebeck, December 5, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: My last of the 20th ultimo, from Point-aux-Trembles, advising of my retiring from before Quebeck, make no doubt your Excellency has received. I continued at Point-aux-Trembles, until the 3d instant, when to my great joy General Montgomery joined us with artillery, and about three hundred men. Yesterday we arrived here, and are making all possible preparation to attack the city, which has a wretched motley garrison of disaffected seamen, marines and inhabitants; the walls in a ruinous situation, and cannot hold out long. Enclosed is a return of my detachment, amounting to six hundred and seventy-five men, for whom I have received clothing of General Montgomery. I hope there will soon be provision made for paying the soldiers' arrearages, as many of them have families who are in want. A continual hurry has prevented my sending a continuation of my journal.

I am, with very great respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM AN OFFICER IN CANADA, TO ISAIAH THOMAS, DATED HOSPITAL-GENERAL, NEAR QUEBECK, DECEMBER 5, 1775.

The difficulties that our detachment underwent in the woods are beyond description. For forty days I waded more or less, my feet continually wet, except nights; the most of the time freezing weather; we were at an allowance of half a pint of flour a man for a fortnight, and half that time no meat; climbing hills, passing through morasses, cedar swamps, and drowned lands, wading creeks and rivers at the same time; the number that we lost was small, not exceeding three or four, and these with hunger. We marched from Cambridge the 13th of September, and reached the French inhabitants the third of November. I arrived at Point-Levi the 12th, and crossed the St. Lawrence the 13th. We lay before Quebeck five days, then retired to Point-aux-Trembles in order to form a junction with General Montgomery, which was happily effected the first instant, and we returned to the place yesterday, and have laid close siege to the city of Quebeck, and are in hopes soon to bring them to terms. The inhabitants are all in our favour, and are excessive kind.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Lebanon, December 5, 1775.

SIR: I have to acknowledge your two esteemed favours of the 10th and 18th of last month. The events therein announced are very interesting, and arguments of praise to the Supreme Director, and a termination of this affecting controversy between Great Britain and America, much to be wished for. The return of the troops taken at St. John's, sent me, is enclosed. They are, by Congress, called down to Pennsylvania, which is agreeable to us in this Colony.

Wishing you health and future prosperity, I am, with great sincerity and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: I have of late met with abundant reason to be convinced of the impracticability of recruiting this army to the new establishment, in any reasonable time, by voluntary enlistments. The causes of such exceeding lukewarmness I shall not undertake to point out; sufficient it is to know that the fact is so. Many reasons are assigned; one only I shall mention, and that is, that the present soldiery are in expectation of drawing, from the landed interest and farmers a bounty equal to the allowance at the commencement of this army, and that therefore they play off. Be this as it may, I am satisfied that this is not a time for trifling, and that the exigency of our affairs calls aloud for vigorous exertions. By sad experience it is found that the Connecticut regiments have deserted, and are about to desert, the noble cause we are engaged in. Nor have I any reason to believe that the forces of New-Hampshire, this Government, or Rhode-Island, will give stronger proofs of their attachment to it when the period arrives when they may claim a dismissal. For, after every stimulus which I have been able to throw in their way, and near a month's close endeavour, we have enlisted but about five thousand men; fifteen hundred of which are to be absent at a time, on furlough, until all have gone home, in order that they may visit and provide for their families.

Five thousand militia from this Government, and the Colony of New-Hampshire, are ordered to be at this place by the 10th inst., to relieve the Connecticut regiments and supply the deficiency which will be occasioned by their departure and those on furlough. These men, I am told by officers who have been eye-witnesses to their behaviour, are not to be depended upon for more than a few days, as they soon get tired, grow impatient, ungovernable, and of course leave the service. What will be the consequence, then, if the greatest part of the army is to be composed of such men? Upon the new establishment twenty-six regiments were ordered to be raised, besides those of the artillery and riflemen. Of these New-Hampshire has three, Massachusetts sixteen, Rhode-Island two, and Connecticut five. A mode of appointing the officers was recommended, and as strictly adhered to as circumstances would admit of. These officers are now recruiting, with the success I have mentioned.

Thus, sir, have I given you a true and impartial state of our situation, and submit it to your wisdom, and the other three New-England Colonies, whether some vigorous measures, if the powers of the Government are adequate, ought not to be adopted, to facilitate the completion of this army, without offering a bounty from the publick, which the Congress have declared against, thinking the terms, exclusive thereof, greater than ever soldier had. I have by this conveyance laid the matter before Congress, but the critical situation of our affairs will not await their deliberation and recommendation. Something must be done without further delay. I am, sir, your obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. the General Court of the Massachusetts-Bay.

GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS TO GEN. WASHINGTON.

Watertown, December 7, 1775.

SIR: We enclose to your Excellency an attested copy of the resolve passed by the General Court on the first instant; upon the subject-matter of which resolve a Committee of both Houses had yesterday the honour of a conference with your Excellency. We are clearly of opinion that the words of the resolve will not admit of such a construction as was suggested to your Excellency by General Heath; but that they plainly put the officers and soldiers of the militia, now to be raised, upon the same footing, in all respects, as the rest of the American army under your Excellency's command, and that they were so intended by the Court. We could have wished that Gen. Heath had deferred giving the information he did to your Excellency, unless he had been possessed of fuller evidence than he appears to have had. We trust this account of the matter will be fully satisfactory to your Excellency, and prevent any difficulties from arising upon this head.

His Excellency Gen. Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your much esteemed favour of the 22d ult., covering Colonel Arnold's letter, with a copy of one to General Montgomery, and his to you, I received yesterday morning. It gave me the highest satisfaction to hear of Col. Arnold's being at Point-Levi, with his men in great spirits after their long and fatiguing march, attended with almost insuperable difficulties, and the discouraging circumstance of being left by one-third of the troops that went on the expedition. The merit of this gentleman is certainly great, and I heartily wish that fortune may distinguish him as one of her favourites. I am convinced that he will do every thing that his prudence and valour shall suggest, to add to the success of our arms, and for reducing Quebeck to our possession. Should he not be able to accomplish so desirable a work with the forces he has, I flatter myself that it will be effected when General Montgomery joins him, and our conquest of Canada be complete.

I am sorry to find you so much plagued and embarrassed by the disregard of discipline, confusion, and want of order among the troops, as to have occasioned you to mention to Congress an inclination to retire. I know that your complaints are too well founded, but I would willingly hope that nothing will induce you to quit the service, and that in time, order and subordination will take the place of confusion, and command be rendered more agreeable. I have met with difficulties of the same sort, and such as I never expected. But they must be borne with. The cause we are engaged in is so just and righteous, that we must try to rise superior to every obstacle in its support, and therefore I beg that you will not think of resigning, unless you have carried your application to Congress too far to recede.

I am, dear sir, with great esteem and regard, yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COLONEL ARNOLD.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 8th ultimo, with a postscript of the 14th from Point-Levi, I have had the pleasure to receive. It is not in the power of any man to command success; but you have done more—you have deserved it; and before this I hope have met with the laurels which are due to your toils, in the possession of Quebeck. My thanks are due, and sincerely offered to you, for your enterprising and persevering spirit. To your brave followers I likewise present them. I was not unmindful of you or them in the establishment of a new army. One out of twenty-six regiments (lately General Putnam's) you are appointed to the command of, and I have ordered all the officers with you to the one or the other of these regiments, in the rank they now bear, that in case they choose to continue in service, and no appointments take place where they now are, no disappointment may follow.

Nothing very material has happened in this camp since you left it. Finding we are not likely to do much in the land way, I fitted out several privateers, or rather armed vessels, in behalf of the Continent, with which we have taken several prizes, to the amount, it is supposed, of fifteen thousand pounds sterling; one of them a valuable store-ship, (but no powder in it,) containing a fine brass mortar, thirteen-inch, two thousand stand of arms, shot, &c., &c.

I have no doubt but a junction of your detachment of the army, under General Montgomery, is effected before this. If so, you will put yourself under his command, and will, I am persuaded, give him all the assistance in your power to finish the glorious work you have begun. That the Almighty may preserve and prosper you in it, is the prayer of, dear sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Colonel Arnold.

P. S. You could not be more surprised than I was at Enos's return, with the division under his command. I immediately put him under arrest, and had him tried for quitting the detachment without your orders. He is acquitted on the score of provision.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: I have of late met with abundant reason to be convinced of the impracticability of recruiting this army to the new establishment, in any reasonable time, by voluntary enlistments. COLONEL MOYLAN TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF SALEM.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The brig Kingston Packet, Samuel Ingersoll, master, was taken at Barrington, in Nova-Scotia, on suspicion of being engaged in business contrary to the Association of the United Colonies. His Excellency cannot be a competent judge of such matters; if he was, he has no time to attend to them. He therefore commands me to lay the papers which came to his hands before you, and whatever you determine on will meet the General's approbation. It is told his Excellency that the brig was to proceed to Cape François with her cargo; should she be permitted to proceed or not, you must be the judges.

I am, with great respect, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO CAPTAIN FELEG WADSWORTH.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency, Gen. Washington, to desire that you will examine the harbour of Cape-Cod, and see what fortifications may be necessary for the defence of its entrance, which, when you have with attention and accuracy executed, you will please to make a report thereof at Head-quarters.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM WATSON.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: By people who came out of Boston yesterday, we have an account that the enemy are fitting out one of the transports, which is to carry a number of guns and a large number of men; that the guns are to be concealed in such a manner as not to be perceived until a vessel comes so close as it may not be in their power to get away. She is to carry every appearance of a transport, with hay, &c., on her quarters, in order to decoy one or more of our armed vessels into her clutches. If any of the armed vessels are in your port, and are to go out any more, (I mean if Martindale or Coit can get men for their vessels,) you will please to communicate this intelligence to them.

Captain Darby informs me that Captain Coit has unjustly seized on a schooner named the Thomas, from Fayal, bound to Salem. It is his Excellency's commands that she be immediately delivered up to him, and that Capt. Coit pay for any thing that the schooner may be robbed of. It is not the intention of the Continent to interrupt good citizens in their trade. That was not the intent of fitting out these armed vessels at the Continental expense; this Capt. Coit would know well if he consulted the instructions given him.

I am, with great respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

STEPHEN MOYLAN, T. P. S.

To William Watson, Esq., Plymouth.

GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS TO DELEGATES IN CONGRESS.

Watertown, December 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are informed by his Excellency General Washington, that it is his opinion the paying our troops by the lunar month will throw the rest of the army into disorder, as the Continental Congress have resolved that it is the calendar month they mean to pay by, and that the difference between the two must be considered as a Colonial and not a Continental charge.

We are sensible it is unhappy when there is any militation between the doings of any branch in a society and those of the whole, as it hath a tendency to produce a disunion and disorders consequent thereon; but such, we consider, may be the state of things, that, fully to prevent a diversity, consistent with a due regard to the greatest good, may be impossible.

The Congress have resolved that the men shall be paid by the calendar month. It may be unhappy for us, that previously we had taken a resolution diverse therefrom, with regard to our forces. You are sensible, gentlemen, that it hath been the invariable practice of this Colony to pay their troops by the lunar month, and it was with an expectation of this that our men enlisted. For us to have attempted an innovation after the service was performed, which would have been the case had we adhered to the resolution of the American Congress, we supposed would have produced such uneasiness in the minds of the people as could not easily have been quieted, and that it would have destroyed that confidence and esteem which every person in the community ought to have of the justice and equity of their rulers, a confidence never more necessary to be maintained than at the present day, for, without this, it would have been extremely difficult, if not impossible, for us to have continued our forces in the field.

When these circumstances are taken into consideration, and that our establishment for the pay of the men was long before any resolution was formed in the American Congress to pay the troops upon any conditions, therefore cannot be considered as a design in this Colony to involve the United Colonies in an undue expense in paying them. We trust that we shall meet with the approbation of the honourable Congress, and, if any inconveniences shall arise, they will be attributed to the necessity of the case.

With regard to the expense arising by the difference between the lunar and calendar months being Colonial and not Continental, after you have fully represented the matter to Congress, we can safely confide in their determination, being assured that it will be founded in that wisdom and justice which hath ever marked their resolutions.

In the name and by order of the whole Court,

WALTER SPOONER.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Adams, John Adams, and R. T. Paine, Esqs.

WILLIAM WHIPPLE TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

In Committee of Safety, Portsmouth, December 5, 1775.

SIR: Upon Mr. Sherburne's arrival on Friday evening, expresses went, which brought the Committee together on Saturday in the forenoon. They immediately proceeded, with the utmost diligence, to raise the companies requested, sent off expresses to the County of Hillsborough, to Concord, &c., as well as to the neighbouring towns, with a considerable number of inlisting orders and letters to gentlemen of the greatest influence, requesting their vigorous exertions in the affair, but have no returns from the distant parts. We have had many obstacles to encounter which we did not expect, and have spent most of the time, day and night, since we met, in endeavouring to surmount them. None of the troops here would enlist before they were paid for their time here, until the last inlistment. No pay-rolls were made out before. We have had near twenty to examine and pay, and a great part to draw over and calculate, which took up a great deal of time. Many demanded pay for their time since the last inlistment, which we were obliged to comply with. Another great difficulty was, that but three out of four commissioned officers could be admitted into the companies proposed, and many clamored highly because no field-officers were to go, alledging they should be commanded by field-officers from other Colonies, which they would not submit to. Several accounts were current of naval preparations making at Boston, supposed for this port, which caused many to think we should be left naked if our troops were sent hence, and encouraged the officers and soldiers to expect to be continued here if they did not enlist. However, after struggling with all these and many more difficulties, we have so far prevailed as to get several companies filled up. Captains Baker, Copps, Elkins, Clarke, and Webster, from the troops here, we expect will be on their march to-day and to-morrow. Captain Mark Wiggin, of Strotham, we hear, has raised a company, and is ready to march. Several more companies are forwarded. Captain Denbo, of Lee, inlisted near thirty men here, and went home to recruit on Sunday. We think there is a good prospect of near half the companies you asked for being seasonably in, from this part of the Colony. We hope the people on the western part of the Government will exert themselves. A few more than thirty-one orders have been given out, as we thought some would fail.

Strict orders have been given every one to be at the camp by the 10th instant; however, it is probable, as the time was so short, some will be later. If they should, in that case, be sent back, it will hurt the cause greatly. We shall continue our most strenuous efforts to forward the men. Colonel Burnham has, to his great honour, exerted himself greatly in this matter. His influence has increased the inlistment very much. He is now going forward to hasten and muster the companies, and accompany them to the camp. We commend him to your notice as a person very deserving, especially for his extraordinary zeal in this manœuvre.

In behalf of the Committee, I am your obedient humble servant,

W. M. WHIPPLE.

To Brigadier-General Sullivan.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR LEGGE.

By his Excellency FRANCIS LEGGE, Esq., Captain-General and Governour-in-chief in and over His Majesty's Province of NOVA-SCOTIA and its Dependencies, Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c.

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, in prejudice of all order and regularity, a daring and traitorous rebellion against His Majesty's person and Government at present subsists in many of His Majesty's Plantations and Colonies on this Continent:

And whereas, in pursuance of such unnatural and traitorous designs, many of the Rebels from the said Colonies have, at several times, dared to insult and make actual invasion on this Province, to the great detriment of numbers of His Majesty's faithful subjects therein:

And whereas, by such like proceedings as these, the trade of this Province may be endangered, and thereby the accustomed and lawful pursuits of its inhabitants be hindered or prevented; armed vessels fitted out by the Rebels having, at several times, traitorously and illegally seized and made prizes of vessels the property of His Majesty's loyal subjects of this Province, and particularly, of late, two armed vessels have appeared off Canso, where they have daringly seized and taken a schooner belonging to this Port:

To the intent, therefore, that all and such like proceedings may in future be prevented, the persons and properties of His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects within this Province be rendered secure, and that all aiders, abettors, and corresponders with Rebels, in arms against His Majesty's Government, may more effectually and speedily be convicted and brought to condign punishment for such atrocious and treasonable crimes, I have thought fit, and I do hereby, with and by the advice and consent of His Majesty's Council, publish and declare martial law, to be of full force within this Province, requiring all persons to take notice thereof.

And all His Majesty's officers military, are hereby required to assemble in military array, and by force of arms to repel all such invaders and all other His Majesty's enemies. And all His Majesty's civil officers, and other his liege subjects, are hereby required to be aiding and assisting therein, agreeably to the laws of the Province in that case made and provided, and to obey all such orders as they shall receive from me, or other military officers appointed by me for that purpose.

Given under my hand and seal at Halifax, this 5th day of December, 1775, and in the sixteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

FRANCIS LEGGE.

By his Excellency's command,

RICHARD BULKELEY.

God save the King!

ADDRESS OF THE NOBLEMEN, ETC., OF THE COUNTY OF CAITHNESS.

Address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply, of the County of Caithness, in general meeting assembled, transmitted to the Earl of Suffolk, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and presented to His Majesty.

Unto the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply, of the County of CAITHNESS, in general meeting assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

Alarmed by the prospect of seeing the greatest and noblest, because the freest empire that God ever framed, rent in pieces by an unnatural war with America, and an unprovoked faction at home, which has fomented and still foment that spirit of rebellion, we your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of Caithness, at this dangerous crisis, presume to express the sentiments of duty and loyalty which animate the breasts of the inhabitants of this most northerly part of your Majesty's dominions.

We beg leave to assure your Majesty that the hearts of all your people are united in affection and gratitude to your person. That they approve highly of the lenient measures which your Majesty and Parliament have hitherto taken with regard to America; and that they will support with their lives and fortunes, the vigorous exertions which they foresee may soon be necessary to subdue a rebellion premeditated, unprovoked, and that is every day becoming more general.

Untainted by the vices that too often accompany affluence, our people have been inured to industry, sobriety, and, when engaged in your Majesty's service, have been distinguished for an exact obedience to discipline, and a faithful discharge of duty; and we hope, if called forth to action in one combined corps, it will be their highest ambition to merit a favourable report to your Majesty from their superior officers. At the same time, it is our most ardent prayer to Almighty God, that the eyes of our deluded fellow-subjects in America may soon be opened, to see whether it is safe to trust in a Congress unconstitutionally assembled, in a band of officers unconstitutionally appointed, or in a British King and Parliament whose combined powers have indeed often restrained the licentiousness, but never invaded the rational liberties of mankind.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, by our Præses, at Thurso, the 6th day of December, 1775.

Caithness Præses.

ADDRESS OF THE MAGISTRATES, ETC., OF CUPAR IN FIFE.

Address of the Magistrates, Council, and Incorporations of the Royal Burgh of Cupar, in Fife, transmitted to the Earl of Suffolk, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and presented to His Majesty.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

We, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, Council, and Incorporations of your Royal Burgh of Cupar, in Fife, beg leave humbly to testify to your Majesty our unshaken attachment to your person, family, and Government, that, sensible of the many valuable blessings we, with the rest of your Majesty's subjects enjoy, under your mild, legal, and just Government, do, with the utmost abhorrence and detestation, see an unnatural rebellion broke out in your Majesty's American Colonies, influenced by some restless and seditious spirits among themselves, and not a little fomented by a small disappointed faction at home; and we humbly beg leave to assure your Majesty, that (with the almost universal voice of your Majesty's British subjects,) we will concur, with heart and hand, life and goods, in supporting your Majesty in executing those measures you shall judge most effectual for restoring peace, liberty, and a due dependance on your Majesty, and the legislative authority of this empire, in the British American Colonies; where rebellion, tyranny, oppression, and confusion do at present prevail.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by JOHN BAXTER, Provost.

Cupar, December 6, 1775.

MEETING OF SUGAR PLANTERS AND LONDON MERCHANTS.

At a general meeting of the Planters of His Majesty's Sugar Colonies, residing in Great Britain, and of the Merchants of London, trading to the said Colonies, at the London Tavern, December 6, 1775:

BEESTON LONG, Esq., in the Chair.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to attend to the general interest of the West-India Planters and Merchants at this alarming crisis, and to report their proceedings to such general meetings as may be called from time to time.

Resolved, That the Committee consist of forty-three; and that the following gentlemen be named of the Committee: Beeston Long, Richard Oliver, James Phipps, Samuel Turner, George Drake, Charles Spooner, J. L. Aikenhead, Stephen Fuller, John Kennion, John Bourke, Thomas Oliver, John Pennant, Bryan Edwards, John Ellis, Joshua Steele, Richard Atkinson, Edward Morant, John Brathwaite, Alexander Campbell, Sir James Cockburn, Bart., John Hankey, Samuel Eastwick, Godschall Johnson, Rose Fuller, Sir Philip Gibbs, Bart., John Jackson, Michael McNamara, William Holder, William Bond, Thomas Walker, Henry Dawkins, Hon. Thomas Walpole, Richard Neave, George Walker, Thomas Bodington, Thomas Lucas, Arnold Nesbit, James Gordon, Thomas Storer, Wastel Briscoe, Philip Dehany, Chalmer Archdekné, John Trevanion, Esquires.

Resolved, That seven be a quorum to do business.

Resolved, That the said Committee be instructed to give particular attention to the Bill now depending in the House of Commons, interdicting all foreign trade with the associated Colonies, thereby confirming that agreement, of whose ruinous effects a general meeting expressed their apprehensions to both Houses of Parliament the last session, and also to certain Resolutions of the House of Commons, intending important variations in the several Acts of Parliament, which gave the produce of the British Plantations in the West-Indies a preference over the produce of the foreign.

A Petition to the House of Commons being produced by Mr. Eastwick; it is Resolved, That the same be immediately referred to the consideration of the said Committee, who accordingly withdrew, and after some time reported the same with amendments.

Resolved, That the said Petition is proper to be presented to the House of Commons, and that the same be engrossed, and left for signing at the London Tavern till to-morrow at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Resolved, That Mr. Alderman Oliver be desired to present the said Petition, and that the several members interested in the West-India Islands, and the Representatives of London, Bristol, Liverpool, and the great commercial towns, be requested to attend and support the same.

Resolved, That the Thanks of this meeting be given to Mr. Eastwick for the above Petition.

JAMES ALLEN, Secretary.

The Committee having agreed to confine their present Petition merely to the subject of the Bill depending in Parliament, reserving themselves for further application on other matters, so much only of the following Petition was presented to the House of Commons as related to the Bill.

To the Honourable the Commons of GREAT BRITAIN, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the Planters of His Majesty's Sugar Colonies residing in GREAT BRITAIN, and of the Merchants of LONDON trading to the said Colonies:

Showeth, that your Petitioners having upon a former occasion stated and laid before this honourable House, with all the accuracy, precision and truth that were in us, the worth and value of His Majesty's Sugar Colonies in the West-Indies, their national magnitude and importance to Great Britain, their situation as depending upon their sister Colonies in North-America, for the maintenance of property and support of life, our fears and apprehensions of dangers and distress, arising out of the unhappy disputes subsisting between Great Britain and America; we firmly trusted, if conciliation did not render it unnecessary that these substantial motives would have made us the objects of your consideration and attention.

That, in this state of things, at first positively bad, now comparatively worse, and soon, too soon, may be superlatively bad; again do we, your Petitioners, find ourselves obliged to return, to lay our grievances before you, and to implore that relief which justice pleads for, under innocent and unmerited sufferings.

That, fixed between two contending powers, to be abandoned by both, though tied to each by the closest bands of interest, of friendship, of blood; and to be left to beggary, nay, to famine, without a helping hand from either; what scene of piteous horror more can imagination form. And yet this frightful picture is our own.

That, thrust out from our natural channel, and stopped from that course of trade which immemorial usage had rendered habitual, and till now uninterrupted, it is not in us, but in your wisdom, to say what substitute must now take place, what manner of help may be had.

That suggestions of bounties on certain enumerated goods to be procured from Canada, Nova-Scotia, and the Floridas, have been made, as one probable mode of assistance; but, added to the vain hope of receiving any supplies from these Colonies, alas, sorry are we to think that our wants and necessities will afford bounties of a sufficient encouragement to them, and enough to fill even the unsparing hand of extortion itself.

That another idea has been entertained of obtaining a market for the disposal of our rum; an idea, though very inadequate to our purposes, yet, as it promises some advantage, and is the only anchor of hope that remains with us, we wish to cherish, and to look towards you for its effects.

That the means that have been pointed out for effectuating this measure, are in two ways: either to stop the distillation of malt spirits here, and thus admit our rum to consumption in their room, with the general impost upon it, or by taking off the general impost, to enable us to sell it at so low a price, as by increasing thereby the consumption, the increased quantity imported might, in like proportion, find its vent.

That, amidst the flattering expectation that that application might meet a forward disposition in you to relieve, our hopes are at once blasted, and cut off by the bringing in of a bill "to prohibit all trade and intercourse with the Colonies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay," &c., by which we feel ourselves considered as objects of intended punishment, rather than as faithful subjects in need of protection.

That, when the American Congress adopted their Non-Importation and Non-Exportation Resolve, the fears naturally arising to us from thence were somewhat abated, by a reliance on our parts of a relaxation of theirs, at least with regard to us; but lest, happily for us, this event might succeed, the present bill not only deprives us of the probability, but establishes the impossibility likewise.

That, as to the principle and general policy of the bill, these we leave to those whom they may concern; we confine ourselves merely to so much thereof as is afflicting to us.

Your Petitioners, therefore, most humbly pray, that upon this ground we may be allowed to be heard at your bar, by our agents and counsel, against the said bill, relying on your wisdom, goodness, justice, and mercy, not only for special relief in this instance, but for such other assistance as we have asked, and you can further give.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM SOUTH-CAROLINA, RECEIVED AT WILLIAMSBURGH, VA., DECEMBER 6, 1775.

Having an opportunity to Virginia, I embrace it with pleasure, to inform you what confusions we have in this Province. The upper part are against the lower part. The former call themselves King's men, and as such will not submit to the laws of the Provincial Congress; they are even raising a party to put a stop to their proceedings. Many of our lives are threatened by them. One Colonel Fleischall, and Colonel Kirkland, are at the head of this party. They have the vanity to think that they can influence the minds of the people in general, and by that means subdue the rest; then proceed to North-Carolina and Virginia, and so on, till they meet General Gage; then to compel the Americans to swallow those unreasonable acts which Lord North and his party have made; and after all is accomplished, they expect that the King will make one of them Generalissimo over all the Continent.

A few days past, a number of the Sons of Liberty went and took a certain Mr. Brown, the principal man they had that could say any thing worth hearing, and gave him a genteel suit of tar and feathers, which so exasperated his clan that they raised a company, which was coming down to take every person that had a hand in it; but the report of a few great guns, which we had luckily procured, put an entire stop to them with respect to that manoeuvre.

My dear friend, only observe the vanity, pride, and ambition of these men. Let us be aware of their abominable principles, and pity such who are led by them. We have entirely overcome that body in the aforesaid quarter, and reduced them to their former submission.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN HENRICO, TO HIS FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURGH, DATED DECEMBER 6, 1775.

We that live on the river, and have fisheries, are in daily apprehension of being visited by the Upland people, and have our houses searched for salt, as it seems they are in extreme want of that article, and imagine we have laid up a superabundance. Several companies of armed men have already come down and taken it from the merchants. One company, on Monday last, came by my house, and went over to Four-Mile Creek, where they took from one gentleman fifty bushels, being part of two hundred which he had laid up for his own use. For my part, I think the case truly alarming, and may be productive of the most fatal consequences, because a man that has but little salt would not choose to have it taken from him by a person whom he doth not know. Further, the Uplanders do not, or will not, understand that more salt is necessary in the families of the poor and middling sort of people in this part of the country, than in the upper part; for they, not having it in their power to raise pork and beef, are obliged to live upon salted fish. This being the case, if the Uplanders should make an equal division of the salt which they find among us, they will have greatly the advantage; for if our poor have not salt enough to cure their fish, they must eat bread alone, because they cannot raise meat, and have not money to buy it; while the same quantity of salt in the hands of an Uplander, would cure meat enough for his family, which he can raise upon easier terms, or perhaps may have a good stock, while it is utterly out of the power of our poor to keep any stock to speak of. Thus circumstanced, some among us may be induced to make opposition to what they think the Uplanders unjustly demand, while the Uplanders, not considering the matter in the same light, will think us selfish, hard-hearted, and engrossers, which, as I before observed, may produce civil discord, and other bad consequences.

CHESTERFIELD COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held for Chesterfield County, December 6, 1775:

Mr. Edward Johnston, of Manchester, appeared, upon summons, to answer a charge against him of having passed to Norfolk in violation of a passport granted him for his safe conduct to Colonel Woodford's camp.

Upon hearing evidence, and Mr. Johnston's reasons for his conduct, the Committee are of opinion that he has wilfully violated the proclamation of the Committee of Safety, and the promise he made under which he obtained the passport; whereupon it is ordered by the Committee, that the said Edward Johnston do not depart this County without the leave of the Committee, except to Hanover Court, to return by Saturday next, of which order notice was given him.

Extract from the minutes:

JERMAN BAKER, Clerk.

At a Committee held at Chesterfield County, January 5, 1776:

Mr. Edward Johnston, of Manchester, appeared, upon a charge against him of having declared his determination, in case he was pressed to take arms in the present contest between Great Britain and the United Colonies of America, that he would join the Government.

Several witnesses were sworn, and a deposition of Mr. Thomas Bates was read. Upon hearing of the whole matter, the Committee are unanimously of opinion that he is not guilty of the offence he stood charged with; and also ordered, that he be discharged from the injunction laid upon him by the Committee at their last meeting.

Extract from the minutes:

SAMUEL PATTERSON TO MESSRS. RODNEY, McKEAN, AND READ.
Christiana Bridge, December 6, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As our representatives in Congress, from some late vague information, I heard that gold was hard to had in the City of Philadelphia. To answer valuable purposes, I am, and was always willing to contribute my small mite to the times; I now will inform you, if you want, you can have one thousand pounds in gold; and will, for exchange, take the Congress bills as now, by that authority, circulating. If of service to the common cause, send for it, and the exchange as above. I should be glad my offers were of any service to the grand cause.

Your answer shall be punctually obeyed by your most humble servant,

SAMUEL PATTERSON.

To the Delaware Delegates in Congress, at Philadelphia.

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, December 6, 1775.

DEAR SIR: The enclosed letter from Colonel Pendleton, came to hand two days ago, and as it will save a good deal of unnecessary writing, I send it to you. The proclamation there alluded to, we have seen. It proclaims martial law through Virginia, and offers freedom to all the slaves, calling their masters Rebels, &c. It seems this unlucky triumph over Hutchings, with his less than half armed militia, so dispirited the miserable wretches in that neighbourhood, that many have taken an oath of Lord Dunmore's prescribing, reprobating Congress, committees, &c. Long before this, Colonel Woodford, with eight hundred good men, must be arrived in those parts, and I make no doubt has forced his Lordship on board his ships again. All this would have been prevented if our troops could have crossed James River in proper time, but they were obstructed and forced to march high up by the men-of-war; and, indeed, such is the nature of our water-intersected country, that a small number of men provided with naval force, can harass us extremely. I have good reason to hope that, in a few weeks, the state of things in Virginia will be greatly altered for the better.

I thank you for your list of armed vessels, but at present no use can be made of them. I hope some of them will be fortunate enough to meet with prizes eastward.

I had not heard of your improvements on the Kanhawa being destroyed, and unless Mr. Lund Washington has received very accurate information on this head, I am yet inclined to doubt it; because I see in the treaty lately concluded with all the Ohio Indians, they first inform the Commissioners of the Kanhawa fort being burnt by some of their rash young men; but they promise to punish the offenders, and prevent repetition of the like offences. They are very precise in their information, and mention only the fort, as well as I remember. I hope, therefore, that your property may yet be safe. This treaty with the Indians is the more likely to last, as Connolly, with his little corps of officers, are now in close custody in Maryland, having been arrested there as they were stealing through the country to Pittsburgh, from whence they were to proceed to Detroit, and with the troops in those western parts, Indians, &c., he was to have done wonders. This wonderful man is now in close jail.

I congratulate you on the surrender of Montreal, and from General Montgomery's letter giving account of that event, I think we have room to expect that Quebeck is fallen before now. A Committee of Congress some time since sent to Canada, have directions to raise a regiment in that country, to invite delegates to this Congress, and to give the strongest assurances of protection to their civil and religious rights.

I am glad to hear of your getting Cobble Hill, and I hope it will prove useful to you. We are told that your enemy's troops are very uneasy on Bunker's Hill. God grant that their uneasiness may increase to their ruin.

No accounts yet from England; but ships are daily expected.

I am, with much esteem, dear sir, your affectionate and obedient servant,

RICHARD HENRY LEE.

EDMUND PENDLETON TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Virginia, November 27, 1775.

DEAR SIR: For want of a Committee sitting, and as it is impossible to judge what will be the sentiments of the Convention on the several points, previous to an application to the Congress for assistance to this Colony, I can say nothing on the subject of your joint letter of the 14th, but that I will lay that and former letters before the Convention, at their meeting on Friday next. In the mean time I will mention what has happened below, according to the loose accounts I have had, which, perhaps, may be more fully related in the papers which will accompany this.

Eight companies, with some baggage, had passed the river at Jamestown, and were waiting at Cobham for the remainder with Colonel Woodford, who were obliged by the navy to go up the river to pass, and did not get over till Sunday sen'night. In the mean time, Colonel Joseph Hutchings, and some others in Princess Anne, raised about one hundred and seventy men, and were marching to meet and join Woodford's corps. The Governour, hearing of this, marched out with three hundred and fifty soldiers, Tories and slaves, to Kemp's Landing, and after setting up his standard, and issuing his proclamation, declaring all persons Rebels who took up arms for the country, and inviting all slaves, servants, and apprentices, to come to him and receive arms, he proceeded to intercept Hutchings and his party, upon whom he came by surprise, but received, it seems, so warm a fire, that the ragamuffins gave way; they were however rallied, on discovering that two companies of our militia gave way, and left Hutchings and Dr. Reid with a volunteer company, who maintained their ground bravely, till they were overcome by numbers, and took shelter in a swamp. The slaves were sent in pursuit of them; and one of Colonel Hutchings's own, with another, found him. On their approach, he discharged his pistol at his slave, but missed him, and was taken by them after receiving a wound in his face with a sword. The numbers taken or killed, on either side, is not ascertained. It is said the Governour went to Dr. Reid's shop, and after taking the medicines and dressings necessary for his wounded men, broke all the others to pieces. Letters mention that slaves flock to him in abundance, but I hope it is magnified. Young Goodrich, who brought in the powder, is sent to Boston. They have also taken the old man near the Capes, in his passage to the West-Indies, and, 'tis said, used him very ill; but I had not particulars. We are told Matt Shripp was in Hutchings's party, and fought bravely, so that I hope he is not really fallen off. Present my compliments to your worthy colleagues, and to Dr. Shippen.

I am, dear sir, your most humble servant,

EDMUND PENDLETON.

To Richard Henry Lee.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress:

A MEMORIAL.

By the treaty at Easton, the Indians made choice of me to superintend their business, particularly to keep up the old friendship, &c.; and the messengers sent down from the Six Nations having represented that their brethren in Maryland (the *Nanticoke*s) are desirous of going with them to live with their brethren in the Indian country, and they apprehending that the several tracts of land in Maryland, on which they now live, to be their own property, are desirous of selling the same for the value thereof, have sent a messenger to me with a string of wampum, requesting my interposition, and the Indians are now waiting for an answer. The necessity of doing every thing in our power to cultivate harmony with the Indians, must appear to every person concerned for our liberties. I feel myself happy in performing any services conducive to the publick good, but look upon myself as not authorized to give these people the assistance necessary, if not appointed by Congress. The Indians's appointment, and Commissioners answer, appear upon the treaty now before your honourable body.

JOHN BULL.

Philadelphia, December 6, 1775.

LORD STIRLING TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, Elizabethtown, December 6, 1775, }
Two o'clock, P. M. }

SIR: This moment a gentleman of this place is come over from New-York, who tells me, this morning, that a sloop arrived from Albany, after a very short passage, the master of which says that an express was at Albany, on his way to New-York, with an account that on Colonel Arnold's presenting himself before Quebeck the inhabitants threw open the gates and joyfully received him; that he has obtained the entire possession of that city, without the loss of a man; that General Carleton is on Lake St. Francis, between Montreal and Quebeck, and will not easily escape the vigilance of Colonel Arnold. I most sincerely congratulate you, and all the friends of America, on this very important event; and that you may be informed of it as soon as possible, I now despatch Lieutenant Flahavan express with this letter.

I have the honour to be your most humble servant,
STIRLING.
The Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

PUNISHMENT OF THOMAS RANDOLPH.

New-York, December 28, 1775.

The 6th of December, at Quibbletown, Middlesex County, Piscataway Township, New-Jersey, Thomas Randolph, cooper, who had publicly proved himself an enemy to his country, by reviling and using his utmost endeavours to oppose the proceedings of the Continental and Provincial Conventions and Committees, in defence of their rights and liberties; and he being judged a person of not consequence enough for a severer punishment, was ordered to be stripped naked, well coated with tar and feathers, and carried in a wagon publicly round the town; which punishment was accordingly inflicted. And as he soon became duly sensible of his offence, for which he earnestly begged pardon, and promised to atone, as far as he was able, by a contrary behaviour for the future, he was released, and suffered to return to his house in less than half an hour. The whole was conducted with that regularity and decorum that ought to be observed in all public punishments.

DECLARATION OF INHABITANTS OF QUEEN'S COUNTY,
NEW-YORK.

Queen's County, Long-Island, December 6, 1775.

We, freeholders and inhabitants of Queen's County, seeing, in common with our fellow-subjects, the deepest anxiety and distress from the most unhappy state of affairs between Great Britain and the American Colonies, and beholding, with horror, every appearance of being involved in any the least unfriendly contention with our neighbours, countrymen, and fellow-subjects, have resolved to take every step in our power to prevent so destructive an event—an event which, if permitted to take place, will introduce misery and distress, and open wounds that many years cannot heal. Impressed with these ideas, and the most friendly disposition towards all our fellow-subjects, we make this public declaration of our sentiments and intentions, by which we hope to obtain the approbation of every real friend to liberty.

We declare that we have not the most distant design or inclination to injure or offend any of our fellow-subjects; but if, in exercising the essential privilege of freemen, we unfortunately differed with our brethren as to the mode of bringing the present troubles to a happy conclusion, we have carefully avoided every ostentatious display of that difference in sentiment and every irritating measure. We wish only to remain in peace, nor have we done ought to interrupt the quiet of others. So far have we been from harbouring a wish to offer violence to any, that we remained a long time destitute of the ordinary means of self-defence. We trusted that as we meant not to injure any man, so none would attempt to injure us. At length, however, we found too much reason to be apprehensive for the safety of ourselves, our families, and property. Reports have been circulated, and messages delivered to us, importing that we are to be disarmed, and some of our principal people taken in custody; that we are, in short, to be treated as enemies to our country. We call upon every man who values himself upon the inheritance of an Englishman, to say what he would do in such a case. Would he suffer himself to be disarmed, and tamely confess himself an abject slave? Certainly no. Can any one, then, who feels the spirit of liberty, impose that on us which he had rather die than submit to himself? Can he blame us for doing that which he most surely would do was he in our situation? Impelled by the most powerful arguments of self-defence, we have at last been driven to procure a supply of those means for protecting ourselves, of which we have been, till now, almost totally destitute; but we solemnly declare we procured them for the sole purpose of defending ourselves from insults and injuries.

And as many reports have been propagated, tending to excite the resentment of our countrymen against us, and to represent us as entirely inimical to them, we take this opportunity to declare that all such reports are wicked inventions and void of truth.

To remain peaceable and quiet, we again repeat, is our earnest desire; and breathing the most friendly disposition towards our neighbours, countrymen, and fellow-subjects, we treat them to behold in us those endearing connections, and not suffer a difference in opinion, or mischievous and groundless reports, to hurry them into acts of violence against us, which the laws of God and man will justify us in resisting.

The above declarations are published as containing the sentiments and intentions of a large majority of the inhabitants of the County.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER, DATED CAMP BEFORE QUEBECK, NEAR THE GENERAL-HOSPITAL, DECEMBER 6, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I wrote you the 21st ultimo, which I make no doubt you have received. I then gave you some particulars of our march, proceedings, &c., since which General Montgomery has joined us with artillery, and about three thousand men; and yesterday we arrived here from Point-aux-Tremble, and are making preparation to attack the enemy, who are in close garrison, but cannot hold out long, as from the best accounts they are much divided amongst themselves, and a prodigious panick has seized them all. Carleton, we are told, is determined to hold out to the very last, as his only hope; for he can expect nothing but punishment from the Ministry, whom he hath most egregiously deceived with regard to the inhabitants of this country. All his friends, or rather his courtiers, say he could not have taken more effectual measures than he has to ruin the country.

The 22d ultimo he issued a very extraordinary proclamation, strictly ordering all who refuse to take up arms and defend the garrison, to depart the town and district within four days, with their wives and children, under pain of being treated as rebels or spies. In consequence of which a great number of the principal inhabitants came out with their families, but were obliged to leave all their property behind, except some wearing apparel and a little household furniture, &c. I enclose you a copy of the proclamation.

Among the corps who came with General Montgomery, is your worthy friend, Captain Lamb, whom I had the pleasure of seeing a few days ago at Point-aux-Tremble.

Our men are in high spirits, being now well clothed with the regimentals taken from the Seventh and Twentieth regiments, who were taken prisoners at St. John's. This is a circumstance which, I believe, the like never before happened to the British troops, as two regiments of them to be made prisoners at one time. Providence smiles on us in a most remarkable manner. The Canadians say, "surely God is with this people, or they could never have done what they have done." They are all astonished at our march through the wilderness, which they say was impossible, and would not believe our coming until they had ocular demonstration of it.

We are at a great loss for intelligence from the army at Cambridge and other quarters, having had no certain accounts of their movements, nor the least syllable of news since we left Newbury.

I am astonished a regular communication has not been opened between Montreal and the Colonies; hope you will pay a little attention publicly to it, more especially as there are some scoundrels who with impunity open the letters directed to the officers in our army, and I suppose they continue the like infamous practice with the letters which are sent to our friends and acquaintance.

The General is now absent sending off an express, by whom I send this. I hope the next time I write you it will be from Quebeck; for, if the insulting foe does not surrender shortly, I believe it is the General's intention to carry the town by storm.

CONNECTICUT COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Wednesday, December 6, 1775.

At a meeting of the Governour and Council of Safety, Present: His Honour the Governour, Jabez Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West, Benjamin Huntington.

On motion by Captain Jonathan Wells, (present,) for directing, &c.,

Voted, That the Captain and other Officers and Sailors belonging to the armed vessel lately taken near St. John's, and now at Canaan, be disposed of by the Committee for taking care of prisoners, in such town or towns in the County of Litchfield as they shall judge most convenient, until further orders from the General Congress, or the Governor and this Council. Copy given.

Voted, That Captain William Hunter, Lieutenant John Smith, Dr. Thomas Sundon, John Kent, William Kent, and a servant of said Smith, who were lately taken at St. John's, and sent as prisoners to be quartered in this Colony, be allowed to reside within the town of Wethersfield, in this Colony, upon their parole of honour not to depart out of said town, until further orders from the Governor and this Committee, or from the Continental Congress. And the Committee for taking charge of and providing for prisoners, are hereby directed to provide for said Captain Hunter, &c., in said Wethersfield, in the same manner as others of their rank are provided for. Copy given.

N. B. Said Lieutenant and Doctor were present, requesting the same favour, &c.

His Honour having received a letter from General Washington, informing that a number of Soldiers of General Putnam's Regiment, &c., had deserted the service, challenging their term to be expired, &c.; that he had sent after them, &c., and much resenting their conduct, and moving that they ought to be made examples of, &c., &c., the subject-matter thereof, and their conduct, was largely discussed.

It seems the opinion that their conduct is very reprehensible, and that they are deserters, but considering their term of inlistment was very nearly expired, that it is a critical time, about forming a new Army, that perhaps it is not so well within our Province to deal with them; that the law provides, &c., and that the Assembly will probably soon be called, &c., it is best to refer the matter to them; and a letter be wrote to General Washington expressing these things, and our resentment of their conduct, and holding forth the zeal and firmness of the Colony notwithstanding, &c. And a letter was accordingly prepared, and considered, and submitted to the Governor's correction.

And being night, the meeting was dismissed.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: Copies of the enclosed letter I have already written to the Governors of Rhode-Island and Connecticut, and shall do the same to the President of the Congress in New-Hampshire, as I conceive our affairs are in a very critical situation. It was mentioned to me yesterday, in conversation, that the militia of this Government which were ordered on to supply the places of the Connecticut troops, are allowed forty shillings per month of twenty-eight days. The first I highly approved of, because I was unwilling to see any invidious distinction in pay, the never-failing consequence of which is jealousy and discord. But, sir, if the General Court of this Colony have resolved on the latter, you must give me leave to add, that it aims the most fatal stab to the peace of this army that ever was given, and that Lord North himself could not have devised a more effectual blow to the recruiting service.

Excuse me, sir, for the strength of these expressions; if my information is wrong (I had it from General Heath, who says he had it from a member of your Court) they are altogether improper, and I crave your pardon for them; if right, my zeal in the American cause must plead my excuse.

I am, with great respect, GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The Honourable James Otis, Esq., President of the Council of Massachusetts-Bay.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 6, 1775.

SIR: Your favours of the 28th and 30th ultimo, I received, and am to inform you that from the good character you gave of Mr. Aborn, I ordered the agent in whose care his vessel was, to deliver her up to him. There were other circumstances, too, that were favourable to Mr. Aborn, and that induced a belief that he was not inimical to our cause.

I am much obliged by your kind attention to my two letters of the 15th and 18th of November, and for your promise to lay the matters mentioned in the first before the General Committee, and ordering the troops which were on Block-Island to this camp.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Hon. Nicholas Cooke.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO SALEM COMMITTEE.

Cambridge, December 6, 1775.

SIR: The representation of the Committee of the town of Salem was yesterday laid before his Excellency. He orders me to assure you, that it will give him great pleasure to contribute towards the particular safety of the town and inhabitants of Salem, when he can do it consistent with that attention he must pay to the defence of the whole.

The shot taken on board the prize is very much wanting at camp; what are in cases cannot possibly be spared. What are loose in the hold are two sorts, twelves and sixes; of these they may have the small assortment demanded; they giving an obligation to repay the same, or their value, in order that the Continent or their captors may not be deprived of their right. On showing this to Captain William Bartlett and Captain John Glover, agents for the prize, they will deliver the shot conformable to the conditions above mentioned.

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To Timothy Pickering, Esq. Chairman of the Committee of Safety and Correspondence of the Town of Salem.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 6, 1775.

SIR: I send you by the bearer two thousand dollars to defray the expense attending the military stores. Do you pay all the charges, and keep vouchers, that we may not be troubled with a multiplicity of accounts.

I am yours,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To Captain William Bartlett, Beverly.

JAMES SULLIVAN TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Watertown, December 6, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I this evening received your important letter by Major Seammel, and have just returned from a conference with General Washington on the subject-matter of it. As to our paying our troops to the first of August by lunar months, it was our engagement with them to do it when we insisted them, and we can by no means go from it; but I believe we shall be content to make it a Provincial charge rather than have uneasiness with the other Colonies.

I am uneasy at the backwardness of our men to engage in the ensuing campaign, and there will be nothing left undone that our Court has in its power to do, in order to facilitate the raising a new army. I have been this evening drawing a plan to lay before our Court in the morning. It is yet incorrect, but you have here a copy of it:

"The prevailing uneasiness in the army seems to arise more from a disposition in the soldiers to rule, and their opinion of their own importance, than any unjustness in their pay or treatment. This, if long subsisting, will daily obtain in their minds, and have the most probable tendency to break up the army, and therefore should be rooted out as soon as possible. But, as some of the persons who now command as subalterns, were lately neighbours to, and on a level with, the privates they command; and as the soldiery in this country are by no means dependant on the army for a living, this must be done with the greatest delicacy.

"The paying our soldiers by lunar months, or giving them a bounty, will so much enhance the expense of war, that the Southern Colonies, who bear a great part of the expense and share none of the profits of the campaign, may prove discontented, and destroy that union which now so happily subsists. If this Colony should pay the extraordinary expense of lunar months out of its own treasury, or should bid a bounty at its own expense, the troops of the other New-England Colonies would, as they are on the same service, expect the same advantage, and leave the service unless they have it.

"If all the New-England Governments should bid a bounty, or pay the extraordinary charge of lunar months, out of their own treasury, the soldiery, by gaining this demand, would soon make another, and have from this concession of Government such evidence of their own importance as would induce them to suppose that all their demands must be immediately complied with.

"If, therefore, some measure can be hit upon to convince the soldiers now in the camp that an army can be raised without them, they will readily enlist for the ensuing campaign.

"The Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay is to raise sixteen regiments. As the having so many of the inhabitants of the Colony in good wages in the present state of our affairs is a great privilege, it should be held up so to the people as an inducement to them to engage.

"It might be expedient, therefore, for the General Court to apportion, according to the tax bill of the present year, the number of privates each town is entitled to have in pay in the army; which each town should be ordered to furnish at the lines upon or before the first day of January next, enlisted according to the Continental establishment of the army, preference being given by each town to such of their inhabitants as shall have been in the camp this year, provided they are enlisted upon the twentieth day of December instant."

I am your humble, obedient servant,

JAMES SULLIVAN.

To General Sullivan.

If any part or all of this plan is wrong, you will give me your opinion thereon as soon as may be, that it may be altered. Yours, as above.

GENERAL FOLSOM TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Exeter, December 6, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Immediately after my return home on Sunday afternoon, I despatched Colonel Hobart for Ches-ter. The next morning I sent an express to Major Bartlett, of Nottingham, who is now with me. He expects to have his company full by Thursday night, and march them off Friday morning; but wants a dollar per man, which I should be glad you would give me an order for. I also applied without loss of time to several of the likeliest persons here to raise a company, but without success, till Simeon Ladd took the blank order for a company. He has, as yet, enlisted but three, yet refuses to give up the order till he has tried further. I have since employed Benjamin Boardman, of this town, and Porter Kimball, of Brentwood, who, I believe, will raise a company; Boardman having enlisted about twenty, and Kimball about the same number. Shall therefore be glad you would send up beating for them, and an order for one dollar for each of the men.

You may depend on my sparing no pains in getting the men ready to march by Friday morning.

I now send you by the bearer, Mr. Ebenezer Dearing, two hundred pounds, agreeably to your request.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

NATHANIEL FOLSOM.

MR. HARTLEY'S PLAN OF RECONCILIATION.

London, December 7, 1775.

The plan of pacification with America, which was moved this day in the House of Commons by Mr. Hartley, and seconded by Sir George Savile, was opened upon the following grounds: That Lord North having, in the beginning of the session, expressed himself to this effect: "Would to God that all things were as they were in 1763, if the authority of this country could likewise be replaced into the same state that it was in 1763, but that an unconditional repeal of all the acts since 1763, without some honourable satisfaction to the authority of this country, would leave this country much disgraced; declaring at the same time, that he would readily waive the point of revenue from America." Mr. Hartley, who offered last year a draft of a letter of requisition, as a plan of settlement and accommodation, while revenue was the declared object of Administration, desired to offer a proposition to Lord North upon the new ground that he had taken.

The substance of Mr. Hartley's proposition was, that if there was any sincere desire for peace, he would endeavour to join issue with Lord North, and to offer terms of accommodation; by which, if Ministry would consent to replace America to the year 1763, he should, on the other part, propose, that America should give full satisfaction to the point of honour; that he thought himself authorized to engage for every thing that could in reason be required from the Americans, under that declaration in their petition to the King; that they did not even wish for reconciliation, notwithstanding all their distresses, upon terms inconsistent with the dignity of Great Britain; that, taking his ground from this declaration, he should propose a recognition, not in words, but in fact, which would effectually replace the authority of this country, (be it more or less, without any invidious line drawn,) where it was in 1763. The test proposed, was the enrolling some act of Parliament by the Assembly of each Province, supposing that the act of Parliament in view should be formed upon principles of justice, and such as the Colonies would have received with a silent and thankful compliance in 1763. All recognitions in words being unavoidably both invidious and insidious, a test, bringing no line of authority or obedience into question, would be the only safe proposition. The Americans shall be as they were in 1763, if they will likewise admit an act of test, such as they would not have had the least scruple to have admitted in 1763. Let us throw a veil over all the theoretical disputes of the rights of subjects, either as Colouists, or as men at large; let us not discuss the rights reserved or supposed to be reserved, at their emigration, whether tacitly or explicitly; let mutual concessions on both sides bring the two parties together; let the Americans be replaced where they were in 1763, if they will admit and register in their Assemblies, such an act of Parliament as they themselves shall confess that they would have admitted in 1763. It is not an unreasonable request to make to America, that they should treat an act of Parliament, flowing from principles of general humanity and justice, with a different reception to what has been given to acts of grievance.

It is certainly dangerous to disturb questions of the rights and extent of empire or obedience, because, after that, even acts of acquiescence may be construed to involve hazardous concessions, supposed to be included in the principles which have been brought under contest. But in the state of human affairs we must not always be too scrupulous. Something must be given up for peace. A civil war never comes too late. Let the Americans take their situation as it was in 1763, for better and for worse. In the present miserable prospect of things that is a fair and equitable bargain. The object of the act of Parliament to be proposed to America, may be perhaps in the event the abolition, but at the present can only be considered as the first step to correct a vice which has spread through the Continent of North-America, contrary to the laws of God and man, and to the fundamental principles of the British Constitution. That vice is slavery. It would be infinitely absurd to send over to America an act to abolish slavery at one word, because, however repugnant the practice may be to the laws of morality or policy, yet to expel an evil which has spread far, and which has been suffered for such length of time, requires information of facts and circumstances, and the greatest discretion to root it out; and moreover the necessary length of settling such a point would defeat the end of its being proposed as an act of compromise to settle the present unhappy troubles; therefore the act to be proposed to America, as an auspicious beginning to lay the first stone of universal liberty to mankind, should be what no American could hesitate an instant to comply with, viz: that every slave in North-America should be entitled to his trial by jury in all criminal cases. America cannot refuse to accept and to enroll such an act as this, and thereby to re-establish peace and harmony with the parent State.

Let us all be re-united in this, as a foundation to extirpate slavery from the face of the earth. Let those who seek justice and liberty for themselves, give that justice and liberty to their fellow-creatures. With respect to the idea of putting a final period to slavery in North-America, it should seem best, that when this country had led the way by the act for jury, that each Colony, knowing their own peculiar circumstances, should undertake the work in the most practicable way; and that they should endeavour to establish some system, by which slavery should be in a certain term of years abolished. Let the only contention henceforward between Great Britain and America be, which shall exceed the other in zeal for establishing the fundamental rights of liberty to all mankind.

It is hoped that this plan may be thought definite, satisfactory, and practicable; it will be a test of sincerity to both sides. The objects of the plan are to support the dignity of Great Britain as the parent state, to afford redress of grievances to America, to restore peace to this distracted empire, and to re-unite its common interests and exertions into one common cause. The motions are as follow:

That an address be presented to His Majesty, humbly setting forth that His Majesty's subjects in North-America, having in the most dutiful manner laid their grievances before His Majesty, and having humbly besought the gracious interposition of his royal authority and influence to procure them relief from their afflicting fears and jealousies; and having in the most earnest terms declared their attachment to his person, family, and Government, with all the devotion that principle and affection can inspire; and having solemnly assured His Majesty, that, connected with Great Britain by the strongest ties that can unite societies, and deploring every event that tends in any degree to weaken them, they not only most ardently desire that the former harmony may be restored between them, but that a concord may be established upon so firm a basis as to perpetuate its blessings, uninterrupted by any future dissensions, to succeeding generations in both countries; and having further assured His Majesty, that, notwithstanding their sufferings during the course of the present controversy, their breasts retain too tender a regard for the kingdom from which they derive their origin, to request such a reconciliation as might in any manner be inconsistent with her dignity or her welfare; and that the apprehensions which now oppress their hearts with unspeakable grief being once removed, His Majesty will find his faithful subjects in America ready and willing at all times, as they ever have been, with their lives and fortunes, to assert and maintain the rights and interest of His Majesty, and of their mother country; and having, with all humility, submitted to His Majesty's wise consideration, whether it may not be expedient that His Majesty be pleased to direct some mode by which the united application of his Colonists may be improved into a happy and permanent reconciliation, his faithful Commons humbly beg leave to represent, that, however well disposed His Majesty's subjects in America may be, according to their most earnest professions to return to their former obedience and constitutional dependance, yet, that the horrors of war and bloodshed, raging in their country, must drive them to distraction and despair; and, further, his faithful Commons beg leave to recommend it to His Majesty's parental consideration, that a return to their duty, of their own free mind and voluntary compliance, would ensure a more cordial and permanent reconciliation than any reluctant submission, which, through much bloodshed of His Majesty's subjects, could be enforced by the sword: therefore most humbly to beseech His Majesty, that he will be graciously pleased to give orders for putting a stop to the further prosecution of hostilities in America, thereby to prevent the further destruction of the lives of His Majesty's subjects, and to afford the wished-for opportunity to his Colonists, of evincing the sincerity of their professions, by every testimony of devotion becoming the most dutiful subjects, and the most affectionate Colonists.

That leave be given to bring in a bill to empower the inhabitants of the Province of Massachusetts-Bay to elect an Assembly and Council, in the manner directed by the charter granted to the inhabitants of that Province, by their Majesties King William and Queen Mary, bearing date the seventh day of October, in the third year of their reign.

That leave be given to bring in a bill to establish the right of trial by jury, in all criminal cases, to all slaves in North-America, and to annul all laws in any Province repugnant thereto, and to require the registering of the same by the respective Assemblies of each Colony in North-America.

That leave be given to bring in a bill to establish a permanent reconciliation between Great Britain and its dependencies in North-America, and to restore His Majesty's subjects in North-America to that happy and free condition, and to that peace and prosperity which they enjoyed in their constitutional dependance on Great Britain before the present unhappy troubles, viz: as in 1763.

That leave be given to bring in a bill for a free pardon, indemnity, and oblivion.

That an humble address be presented to His Majesty, to lay the opinion of this House before His Majesty, that it may be proper, when the present unhappy disputes in North-America shall be brought to an amicable termination, that His Majesty should be graciously pleased to give orders, that letters of requisition be written in the accustomed manner to the several Provinces of His Majesty's Colonies and Plantations in North-America, and to make provision for the purposes of protecting, defending, and securing the said Colonies and Plantations.

WILLIAM DE HART TO LORD STIRLING.

Morristown, N. J., December 7, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Agreeably to your request, I sent forward your letters to Colonel Winds. Lieutenant Dallas will be down with his party to-morrow evening. Some few of Captains Howell and Morris's men have abstracted themselves and refuse to appear, who have signed the muster-roll, but not reviewed; others have not, on account of the constables, &c. If it should be agreeable to your Lordship, I would send those men to the barracks for a short time, till those difficulties should be removed. Peter Lashien, Captain Howell's fifer, is in custody at Newark. I expect by this time your Lordship has received an answer from the Committee of Safety in respect to the appointments of the Ensigns and Lieutenants in Howell's, Morris's, and Meek's companies; if so, pray let me know by the return of the bearer.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

WM. DE HART.

I promised Mr. Clough to send down Sergeant Key this day, but, as he is recruiting, he cannot come till he comes with Dallas's party.

ALBANY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO THE COMMITTEE FOR THE DISTRICT OF KINDERHOOK.

Albany Committee Chamber. December 7, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are extremely unhappy to find that the misunderstanding that has but too long subsisted in the District of Kinderhook is not yet compromised. A new cause of discontent has arose, in consequence of the late election held in the District for Delegates and Committees to represent the District. By what we can learn of the affair, we are apt to conclude that the gentlemen of the Committee who held the election had not seen the latter resolve of the Provincial Congress, by which persons who had a possession to the value of eighty pounds, were entitled to vote, in consequence of which none but freeholders were permitted to vote, agreeably to the first resolution, which seems to be the cause why two different polls were held, and eight members chosen instead of four. As a means to reconcile these differences, and for the sake of peace, so much wished for at this time, the Committee propose to you to take the eight members who have been returned on both polls; or otherwise propose to you to endeavour to agree amongst yourselves to take two persons from each poll, who, together, may represent your District; or, in short, to endeavour to agree on any other mode which may reconcile a dispute so detrimental to the interests of the County at this critical time. To defeat the intentions of those who are fond of promoting discord, the Committee earnestly recommend to the District of Kinderhook that they will fall on such measures as will promote amongst them peace and harmony.

We are, gentlemen, your very humble servants.

By order of the Committee:

AB'M YATES, JR., Chairman.

The Committee of the District of Kinderhook.

KINDERHOOK COMMITTEE TO ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Kinderhook, December 18, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are so much disposed for peace at this critical juncture that we cannot but pay particular attention to every proposal of which the professed design is to promote so desirable a purpose. We have, therefore, maturely considered the contents of the letter of December 7th, with which you have been pleased to favour us, and we doubt not but you will exercise the same candour, with respect to our reasons, which we shall always think our duty in considering every procedure of this Committee.

When we were to carry into execution the resolutions of the Provincial Congress for the election of Deputies to represent us in Provincial Congress, and members of the Committee, we considered that they were the only rule by which we were to conduct our proceedings, and that the propriety of them was no object of our inquiry. We therefore issued a notification, which was published on the 2d day of November, which we now submit to the inspection of the General Committee. On that day two of us opened and attended the poll, at which many respectable inhabitants gave their votes, agreeably to the list we have delivered in; others, to the number of seven, tendered their votes, which we rejected as not having the necessary qualifications mentioned by the Congress. In the course of the election, a letter was shown to us, who superintended the poll, from Mr. Robert Yates, directed not to us as a Committee, but to one of the inhabitants of the District, mentioning the subsequent explanatory resolution of the Congress. About four o'clock in the afternoon, having taken all the votes which were offered, and having repeatedly signified our readiness to keep the poll open till another day, if requested, (which, however, was not done,) we closed the election, and have made our returns. You are pleased to say that you "conclude that we had not seen the latter resolve of the Provincial Congress, by which persons who had a possession to the value of £80 were entitled to vote." Upon examining that resolve, we find it declares that "tenants possessed of lands or tenements of the value," &c.; which we suppose is what you allude to. But we conceive it by no means follows that this will entitle every possessor to vote; the term tenant, in our conception, being relative to landlord, and the one necessarily implies the existence of the other. To make this material, however, in the case, it ought to be shown that any persons, even with this qualification, that is to say, "a tenant having lands, &c., to the value of £80," had offered themselves, and been refused; but this did not happen. But even admitting (what we positively deny) that all those were wrongfully rejected whose votes we refused, yet, as they were, as we have before observed, only seven in number, the Committee will find that the majority was so great for the returned Deputies and members, that it is impossible they could prevent the returns we have made from taking place, which we think is a conclusive argument against those who would carp at our proceedings. The rejection of even legal votes, in our apprehension, cannot vitiate a return, unless the majority depends upon the admission or exclusion of them, which, in this instance, is manifestly not the case. But, for your further satisfaction, we observe that it has been shown to us, that even of the  voters whom we rejected, no less than  would have voted for the members we returned, which is a proof of our impartiality that we hope impudence itself cannot gainsay.

We are clearly of opinion that, as we have already executed the powers given us by the Congress and the Committee, we could not be justified in acquiescing in the proposal of the Committee to agree with those who have taken on themselves to hold a poll, in direct violation of the resolutions of the Congress and the General Committee of the County, upon a matter which would also impeach our own proceedings. By this means we should not only countenance, but become accessaries to the irregularities of others; we should arbitrarily take upon ourselves to counteract the sentiments of the District, of those who conformed to the directions of the Congress, in order to humour those who wantonly opposed them; and how far this will promote union, or "defeat the intentions of those who are fond of promoting discord," we need not mention. Finally, how can we arrogate to ourselves the rejection of any of the members regularly chosen, or obtrude upon them colleagues whose only claim to a right of representing the District is, that they have dared to violate the rules and directions of that very body of which they are so desirous of being members?

If the General Committee had been apprised of the above facts, and adverted to the reasonings upon them, we think they would not have passed that censure upon the District which is implied in the beginning of their letter. The idea of a disunited place is a harsh one to the inhabitants of it; and, for our parts, we know of no "misunderstanding in the District," unless the clamours of a few discontented persons can be called so, who, it seems, have a higher opinion of their own merit than their neighbours have. We dare appeal to the publick records of the District for proof that the affairs of it have been conducted with a unanimity equal to that of any other; and we might remind this Committee of the weight which is due to the applications of the persons who now again appear before them, from what has happened heretofore. If there be any District or place in the County in such entire union as to have not even a few dissenting voices among them, we have not yet heard of that place, and we wish, for a trial of their patience, that the malcontents in our township might take their residence among them. We believe, however, there is no such place, and, if more frequent and louder clamours have come from the few among us, it is because they are more refractory, and have more perseverance, (but we hope are not more countenanced,) than any other. For our parts, fond as we are of union, we wish not to be united with any set of individuals at the expense of our duty, or with such who refuse to conform to any regulation which they do not themselves approve of. When the Committee consider this, they will not be surprised that "a new cause of discontent" has arisen among these people.

Upon the whole, we have conscientiously conformed to the resolutions of the Congress, according to our understanding of them, and we claim no discretionary power to contract or dispense with the directions of that body.

We remain, gentlemen, your humble servants,

PETER VOSBURGH, MATTHEW GOES, JR.,
PETER VAN ALSTINE, H. V. SCHAACK.

COLONEL HOLMES TO CAPTAIN WYNKOOP.

Ticonderoga, December 7, 1775.

SIR: I have received a copy of a resolve of the New-York Provincial Congress, dated November 3d, directing that £13 8s. 7d. be stopped out of the pay of Thomas Hampton, James Davenport, and Henry May, deserters from your company.

You will make an immediate stoppage in their pay, to reimburse the said sum paid for apprehending said deserters and bringing them to Albany, and the expenses attending that service, so that you may account to me for the same, the Congress having, in this resolve, directed me to account to them.

I am your humble servant,

JAMES HOLMES.

Captain Wynkoop, Fourth Regiment New-York Forces, at Fort George.

RECANTATION OF GIDEON LOUNSBERY.

Stamford, Connecticut, December 7, 1775.

Whereas I, the subscriber, have, at divers times, spoken many things in time past which have been taken as unfriendly to American liberty, and also have inadvertently and inconsiderately spoken disrespectfully of the honourable Continental Congress, and have endeavoured to bring their persons and doings into contempt, I do, in this publick manner, humbly ask the forgiveness of my bleeding country in general and of this town in particular, for my misconduct in so doing; and do hereby, in the most solemn manner, promise and engage, that for the future I will faithfully adhere to any resolve of the Continental Congress, or any recommendation coming from that honourable body, and will, to my utmost, exert myself in opposition to the Ministerial troops sent into this country to dragoon us into slavery. And do further, in consequence of the above confession and declaration, humbly request the Committee of the town of Stamford to revoke the sentence they have heretofore given against me as being an enemy to American liberty, and that I may be received and looked upon as a true friend to the grand American cause. And whereas it has been alleged against me that I have publicly said that I could raise five hundred men to join the King's forces against the American troops, which expressions I do not remember ever to have made use of; I do hereby declare my aversion and disapprobation to any such measures.

In testimony of my sincerity, I have hereunto set my hand the day and date above written.

GIDEON LOUNSBERY.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, December 7, 1775.

SIR: Your Excellency's letter of the 2d instant, per Captain Clarke, came to hand the 4th.

The late extraordinary and reprehensible conduct of some of the troops of this Colony, impresseth me, and the minds of many of our people, with grief, surprise, and indignation, since the treatment they met, and the order and request made to them was so reasonable, and apparently necessary for the defence of our common cause and safety of our rights and privileges, for which they freely engaged; the term they voluntarily inlisted to serve not expired, and probably would not end much before the time, when they would be relieved, provided their circumstances and inclination forbid their undertaking further. Indeed, there is great difficulty to support liberty, to exercise government, to maintain subordination, and at the same time to prevent the operation of licentious and levelling principles, which many very easily imbibe. The pulse of a New-England man beats high for liberty. His engagement in the service he thinks purely voluntary; therefore, in his estimation, when the time of inlistment is out, he thinks himself not holden without further engagement. This was the case in the last war. I greatly fear its operation amongst the soldiers of the other Colonies, as I am sensible this is the genius and spirit of our people.

I have the pleasure to inform you, that the people of the towns where the most of the men belong, were so greatly affected with their unreasonable conduct, that they would readily march to supply their places. This is not thought advisable, as your Excellency made no such application.

Our laws against desertion are well calculated to punish such as are guilty; provision is made effectually to discover and punish such offenders. I think it necessary some examples should be made, especially of the ringleaders; of this care will be taken.

The officers, by the act of Assembly appointed paymasters of their companies, not likely to return soon, and many might be uneasy for want of their wages, to obviate this I advised three gentlemen of our Pay-Table Committee to proceed to the camp with money, to take your direction and advice therein, to settle the rolls and pay the wages of the men; taking care for the publick arms and ammunition, for minors, and apprentices.

The union of the Colonies, and the internal union of each, is of the utmost importance.

I determine to call the General Assembly of this Colony to meet at New-Haven, on Thursday, the 14th instant. Please to notify me of any matters you think proper to suggest for their consideration. You may depend on their zeal and ardour to support the common cause, to furnish our quota, and to exert their utmost strength for defence of the rights of these Colonies.

Your candour and goodness will suggest to your consideration, that the conduct of our troops is not a rule whereby to judge of the temper and spirit of the Colony.

I am, with great sincerity and regard, sir, your most obedient humble servant.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 16, 1775.]

Cambridge, December 7, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you the 4th instant, by express, to which I beg you will be referred. My fears that Broughton and Selman would not effect any good purpose, were too well founded; they are returned, and brought with them three of the principal inhabitants from the Island of St. John's. Mr. Callbeck is President of the Council, and acted as Governor. They brought the Governor's commission, the Province seal, &c. As the Captains acted without any warrant for such conduct, I have thought it but justice to discharge these gentlemen, whose families were left in the utmost distress.

I am credibly informed that James Anderson, the consignee and part owner of the ship Concord and cargo, is not only unfriendly to American liberty, but actually in arms against us, being Captain of the Scotch company at Boston. Whether your being acquainted with this circumstance or not will operate against the vessel and cargo, I will not take upon me to say; but there are many articles on board so absolutely necessary for the army, that, whether she is made a prize of or not, we must have them.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 7, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 4th instant I this moment received, advising of the taking of the captain and midshipman of one of the King's armed schooners. You will be pleased to take their parole of honour not to leave Northampton, where you will have them sent, where are several other officers prisoners.

I am, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Cooke, Rhode-Island.

P. S. As soon as the deficiency is known, I will inform you; for the present I beg leave to refer you to the other letters which will be handed you by Colonel Babcock.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PORTSMOUTH (NEW-HAMPSHIRE) COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Cambridge, December 7, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Richard Enms, a prisoner at Portsmouth, having expressed a strong desire to go to his family and friends in the West-Indies, in a schooner which is about to go there, you will be pleased to grant him a permit for that purpose, unless there should be objections against it, which I am not apprised of.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Committee of Safety at Portsmouth.

RICHARD DERBY, JUN., TO JOHN MORLAND.

Salem, December 7, 1775.

SIR: On Mr. Gray's return I delivered your letter to the Committee of this town, and urged their taking the capture of the brig Kingston Packet into consideration; but, as the matter was novel to them, they have declined it, at the same time observing that there does not appear the least cause to detain the vessel; for, admitting she was at Nova-Scotia contrary to the General Association, (which is not by any means the case,) it points out another method of punishment very different from that of forfeiture of property.

I am very sorry my health does not admit of my making a personal application to the General on this occasion; and as it does not I must beg leave to refer you to the bearer,

Mr. Gray, and to the master, for any information; and, not having the least doubt but his Excellency will give orders for vessel and cargo to be immediately restored to master. I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

RICHARD DERBY, JUN.

John Morland, Esq.

JOHN PICKERING TO STEPHEN MOYLAN.

Salem, December 7, 1775.

SIR: It having been referred to the Committee of Safety and Correspondence of this town, to determine whether the brig Kingston Packet, Samuel Ingersoll, master, taken at Nova-Scotia, on suspicion of being engaged in business contrary to the Association of the United Colonies, should be permitted to proceed on her voyage or not, the Committee beg leave to assure you, sir, that it is not from any desire to avoid doing the utmost service in our power for our country, that we must decline giving our judgment in a matter of this importance. It appears many merchants have considered the prohibition in the same light with the owner of the above brig—many vessels being thus employed. Should the Committees in different towns give different judgments, it would lead to great difficulties. We must therefore request that this important question be determined by judges whose jurisdiction is general.

I am, sir, in the name and by order of the Committee of Safety and Correspondence of Salem, your most humble servant,

JOHN PICKERING, JUN., Chairm. P. T.

Stephen Moylan, Esq.

JOHN WAITE TO JOHN ADAMS.

Falmouth, December 7, 1775.

SIR: I understand you are appointed one of the Committee to receive accounts of the damage done by the Ministerial troops and navy in this Colony. Beg leave to enclose you an account of the damage I suffered by removing from my Island for your inspection.

I am, sir, your humble servant, JOHN WAITE.
Hon. John Adams, Esq.

Falmouth, December 7, 1775.

The town of Falmouth being burnt by the Ministerial troops and navy the 18th of October last, I, the subscriber, being apprehensive of their coming to the Island of Chebeague, in Casco-Bay, where my family and a considerable large stock of horned cattle and sheep then were, applied to the gentlemen of the Committee of Safety, to know if they purposed to continue a guard on said Island, as they had hitherto done. Being answered that they did not, I moved immediately from said Island to the country, back to the town of Falmouth, (distance from said Island being twelve miles,) with my family and stock, consisting of thirteen persons, twenty-four head of horned cattle, two hundred sheep, household goods, &c., leaving behind me one new house, forty-nine by thirty-eight, two stories, two-thirds finished; three old houses, twenty by eighteen, one story; eight hundred acres of land, about one hundred acres of the same clear.

The damage I sustained thereby I humbly submit to the Committee appointed by the honourable Continental Congress.

From their humble servant,

JOHN WAITE.

I think the damage not less than two hundred pounds. If they should be of opinion it is more, or less, I am content.

ADVICES FROM THE INTERIOR OF SOUTH-CAROLINA.

Charlestown, December 8, 1775.

We are glad to inform our readers that the troubles which have lately disturbed our Western frontiers, are now in a great measure removed; and, from the measures adopted by the Provincial Congress, and pursued by the Council of Safety, we have now a prospect of peace and quietness in a very short time being restored in those parts.

The following is the best account of the late transactions in that quarter that we have been able to collect:

About six weeks ago, Mr. Robert Cunningham, of Ninety-Six, who had taken a very active part in the disturbances last summer, and who refused to accede to the Treaty concluded by the Hon. William Henry Drayton with the insurgents, was taken prisoner, brought to town, and put in jail, where he still remains. His friends, upon being informed of this, gathered in a body, with his brother, Patrick Cunningham, at their head, intending, as is supposed, to make reprisals. Our late Council of Safety at that time had sent one thousand pounds of gunpowder, and one thousand pounds of lead to the lower Cherokee Indians, who were in great want of ammunition for hunting, and who had given the strongest assurances of observing a strict neutrality in the present unhappy dispute. This Cunningham's party determined to take possession of, which they easily effected, it being escorted only by a few rangers, whom they allowed to depart.

The Congress was sitting when advice of this outrage was received, and they determined immediately to adopt such measures as would effectually prevent the like in future. They accordingly ordered Colonels Richardson, Thomson, Neel, and Thomas, to march with a body of rangers and militia. Major James Maylon, with about forty-six men of the rangers, and Major Andrew Williamson, with about four hundred and sixty of the militia, hearing that the insurgents were increasing daily in numbers, and threatening, while there was no apparent opposition, to ravage the country, joined their forces; and, upon the 17th of last month, having received certain intelligence that the enemy were within a few miles of them, hastily erected a slight square breastwork of old fence rails, joined to a barn, on a spot of cleared ground, on which, in proper places, they fixed a few swivel guns. On the next day, and before the breastwork was quite finished, they were surrounded by about two thousand of the malcontents, that were led on by Major Joseph Robinson, who sent a message to Majors Maylon and Williamson, desiring that they and their men should lay down their arms and surrender themselves prisoners, which was rejected with disdain. The jail, which is about three hundred yards distant from the fort, was taken possession of by Robinson's party, who had likewise cut off all communication between the stockade and the only spring of water near it. On the same day they took two men belonging to the rangers or militia prisoners, upon which there began a smart firing on both sides, and was continued with little intermission till Tuesday at sunset. Notwithstanding the party in the fort were without water near two days, yet, animated by the example of their commanders, they determined to endure every extremity rather than submit.

On Tuesday evening Major Maylon received a message from Major Robinson, offering a cessation of hostilities for twenty days, which was agreed to. At that time Majors Maylon and Williamson had nearly expended their ammunition, a circumstance they had the address to conceal from their men.

Of our party, fourteen were wounded; one mortally. Of the enemy, it is known several (some say fifty-two) were killed, and many wounded; but particulars are concealed. That their loss exceeds ours is not to be doubted, else why should two thousand men make advances for a suspension of hostilities to five hundred, whom they had a few days before insolently demanded to surrender at discretion?

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO COMMITTEE OF FREDERICK, MARYLAND.

Philadelphia, December 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 24th of November last, being received, was laid before Congress, and I am directed to inform you that the Congress highly approve your conduct and vigilance in seizing Cameron, Smith, and Conolly.

I do myself the pleasure of enclosing you a resolution of Congress, respecting the place of their confinement; and I am directed to desire you, in pursuance of said resolution, to send the prisoners under guard to Philadelphia.

I am, gentlemen, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Committee of Frederick City, Maryland.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO NEW-ENGLAND COLONIES.

Philadelphia, December 8, 1775.

On the 2d instant, I forwarded to you, by order, the resolutions of the Congress, directing such soldiers as will reinlist to be paid their wages for the months of October, November, and December, and moreover one month's pay in advance; and desiring you to exert your utmost endeavours to promote the recruiting service in the army, as well as in your particular Colony.

By letters since that, from the General, the Congress are informed that, from the 19th to the 28th of November, not more than two thousand five hundred and forty reinlisted, and that only nine hundred and sixty-six had reinlisted before that time. The situation of the General and army is the more alarming, as General Howe is well apprised of this matter, and will no doubt, on the first favourable opportunity, avail himself of the information. I need not inform you what pain the Congress feels at this want of public spirit and backwardness in the soldiers to reinlist; nor need I paint to you the dreadful consequences that must ensue, should the lines be abandoned and the General deserted at a critical moment. I am therefore desired to forward the enclosed resolution of Congress, and to request you to exert yourselves in defence of our common liberties, by affording the General all the aid in your power, and to comply with his request for the assistance of the militia, whenever he may find it necessary to apply for it.

I have the honour, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Council of Massachusetts-Bay, President of the Convention of New-Hampshire, and Governours of Rhode-Island and Connecticut.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, December 8, 1775.

SIR: Your letter of the 28th of November, by Captain Blewer, being received, was immediately laid before Congress.

By my letter of the 2d inst., which I hope you will in due time receive, you will perceive the Congress have, in a great measure, prevented your wishes, having written to New-York, and given orders to General Schuyler to supply you with and to forward, with all possible expedition, what cannon can be spared. They have also directed General Schuyler to make diligent search for lead; and retaining so much as may be wanted there, to send the remainder to your camp. However, it is hoped the gentlemen you have sent will expedite that business.

By order of Congress, I forward a commission for Mr. Knox, who is appointed Colonel of the Regiment of Artillery. The Congress also have relieved your difficulties with respect to the two battalions of Marines, having ordered that the raising them out of the army be suspended. It is the desire of Congress that such a body of forces may be raised; but their meaning is, that it be in addition to the army voted; and they expect you will think of proper persons to command that corps, and give orders for inlisting them wherever they may be found.

The Congress are sensibly affected with your situation, and regret the backwardness of the troops to reinlist. In addition to what I had the honour of transmitting you the 2d instant, they have desired me to enclose you a copy of a resolution passed yesterday, and to write to the Council of Massachusetts-Bay, the Convention of New-Hampshire, and the Governours of Rhode-Island and Connecticut, acquainting them with the present state of the army, and enclosing copies of the resolutions of this Congress, relative to your being empowered to call forth the militia of those Governments on any emergency, and requesting those Colonies to exert themselves in defence of our common liberties, by affording you all the aid in their power, and to comply with your request for the assistance of the militia, whenever you may find it necessary to call for it.

The gentlemen with the money set out to-day. I hope the arrival of this will relieve some of your difficulties, and that the payment of the arrears, and the month's advance which you are empowered to offer, will induce many to reinlist, who seem not to be actuated by nobler motives.

By letters received yesterday, we learn that Colonel Arnold, after a fatiguing march, had reached Canada, where he was well received by the inhabitants; that on the 14th of November, he had reached Point-Levi, and was preparing to pass the river that night; that, notwithstanding his being deserted by Colonel Enos, he had great hopes of gaining possession of Quebeck, as both the English and Canadian inhabitants were well-affected to our cause; that Carleton, with the ships under his command, was stopped in his passage down the river by a fort in our possession, at the mouth of Sorel, and some row-galleys; and that General Montgomery was preparing to attack him from Montreal; but of these matters you will doubtless be more fully informed by an express, which we understand was despatched to you from Ticonderoga.

I have the honour to be, &c.,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.To General Washington.

THOMAS LYNCH TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

December 8, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your favour, by Captain Blewer, gives me infinite concern, not less on yours than on the account of the Continent. Providence favours us every where. Our success in every operation exceeds our most sanguine expectations; and yet when God is ready to deliver our oppressors into our hands, that men cannot be found willing to receive them is truly surprising.

With grief and shame it must be confessed that the whole blame lies not with the army. You will find your hands straitened instead of strengthened. What the event will be, it is impossible to foresee. Perhaps it is only intended to force the Continent into their own terms, and to show that neither General or Congress shall be permitted to control the army; perhaps to mortify the favourites of Congress. Be this as it may, resolution and firmness ought to rule our councils; a step yielded to improper and intemperate demands may be irretrievable.

I shall not take upon me to advise; it is as improper as it is needless. Your riflemen, negroes, and deserters, may, in proper passes, defend your artillery, ammunition, and stores. Should your lines be deserted, and the glorious golden opportunity of ending the war be lost, let not hope be lost also. We have, in the York papers, an account of your having taken an invaluable transport, and you have doubtless heard of Arnold's arrival at Quebeck. I hope both may end as we wish. The addition of arms and ammunition in the transport, according to report, must be most important to you. O! had you but an army.

My best compliments to your lady and family, and to all my acquaintance in the army. I told General Gates, Mifflin, and others, I should be much obliged to them could they send me a good drummer. They have forgot me.

One of our members of Congress sets out to-day for New-England. Whether his intents be wicked or not, I doubt much; he should be watched. Ship news, that the Floridas have been taken; but it is not credited. If true, I have no doubt but that it is with the consent of our court. God give you health and spirits to control all opposition.

Your sincere friend and most humble servant,

THOMAS LYNCH.

To General Washington.

P. S. Command me freely, whenever you please.

JOHN MARKS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, December, 1775.

Your petitioner humbly desires to be employed in that useful and much needful business of nail-making; and as your petitioner has followed that business formerly, he hopes to give satisfaction to the publick. And as the aforesaid article will be much wanted in the spring, he would set the business up immediately, that the publick might be punctually served in such useful articles. And whereas it will be necessary to have a good quantity of iron and coal, which, if not purchased soon, will render your petitioner unable to carry on the aforesaid business, he having a family of seven children; and having for some time past followed the shipsmith branch, which is now at a stand, and as he is possessed of tools, and fires for eight men to work by, which he will endeavour to get to the employ, (if not, he will take boys, and teach them, which will be of great service to the publick,) your petitioner humbly prayeth the honourable the Congress will take into consideration, and allow him a little forehand cash, to enable him to carry on the work; and what work he gives in weekly, will pay a moiety towards the advanced money; and the work done at the lowest prices.

If the above is agreeable, and meets with acceptance, your petitioner will forever pray.

JOHN MARKS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany, December 8, 1775.

SIR: In the last letter which I had the honour to address you, I took the liberty to recommend to Congress to send three thousand men to this place, that they might seize the first opportunity of marching into Canada. Such a measure then appeared to me to be prudent. Unfortunately for us, it now seems indispensably necessary, as the enclosed letters from General Montgomery and Colonel Arnold will evince; for we ought not to depend too much on the Canadians. Should Congress be in sentiment with me on this matter, I could wish for the most early advice, whether I am to issue as many more warrants for raising men as to complete a regiment with the four companies now levying, and which were intended for the garrisons of Fort-George and Ticonderoga. If so, as Colonel Van Schaick, Lieutenant-Colonel Yates, and Major Gansevoort, wish to remain in the service, whether I may give them assurances that they will be continued.

The common shoes worn in the country are by no means proper for a winter march. The troops, if any are to go to Canada, should therefore be provided with Canadian moccasins, which, I believe, will cost about four shillings, or four and six pence a pair; a thick woollen cap to cover their ears; a pair of Indian stockings; and a good pair of mittens.

By the tenor of the officers' commissions, I cannot discharge even those who have quitted the service, and they expect to be paid up to the day to which the men were enlisted.

I have received no accounts from any of the Colonies, of what money has been advanced to the troops raised in them; so that I cannot possibly settle their accounts, nor pay off the men, nor even advance a single shilling, unless Congress will direct me to do it at hazard, and abide by the loss. I assure you, sir, that for the want of these accounts, I am not only put into a very disagreeable situation, but our cause will suffer extremely. Numbers that have gone home, have sworn most bitterly that they will never re-engage in the service. Pray, is there not a danger that such people may join our enemies, to which they will be prompted by the malignants, who have now such good materials for the purpose. Permit me, therefore, most earnestly, to entreat Congress that I may be furnished, without the least delay, with those accounts.

The barracks in this place are out of repair. I propose to employ carpenters to mend them, and have requested the opinion of the gentlemen of the Committee on this intention, which they approve of, as they also do of appointing a barrack-master and conductor of the artillery, both of which will save thrice their pay in six months.

Lieutenant Halsey, of the troops raised in Connecticut, and of whom General Montgomery complains, has been excessively troublesome during the whole campaign, and deserved to have been dismissed the service soon after my coming to the command. The time for which he engaged to serve is expired. He can therefore only be punished by stopping his pay, unless he will submit to be tried by a court-martial.

The expense that we are put to by the prisoners, runs amazingly high. I wish some means could be fallen upon that they might receive their pay. Would it not be well if a month's pay was offered them for their bills on General Howe, in Boston. If he accepts them, we get hard cash; if not, we are just where we are; for they may be told that they are not to have any more, and that a bare subsistence only will be allowed them in future.

Of upwards of one hundred batteaus which we built, I am confident twenty-five or thirty will be lost, as they have been left by the lake-side, all the way between Onion river and Skenesborough, by soldiers that took that route homewards.

I found, on my arrival here, about sixty of the Six Nations. To-day, we have had their congratulatory speech, and on Monday they are to proceed to business. Not having had a moment's time to myself since my arrival here, which was last night, I have not been able to learn the intention of this visit. No Commissioner but Mr. Dorr and myself are here; and there being five, we may be blamed for acting; but necessity drives us to it. Perhaps Congress may think proper to add two or three more out of this place.

I am informed that some of the prisoners have behaved exceeding ill. I shall have the affidavits taken in support of the charges made against them, as soon as I can find a little time, and transmit them to Congress. The Committee of Albany have also complained to me of a Mr. McCoy, who is a prisoner cherished by some people extremely inimical to us. His abuse has gone to every body indiscriminately. I shall immediately send him to Connecticut, under a guard.

Colonel Knox is now at Ticonderoga. I have arranged matters in such a manner as that I hope all the artillery he wants will be at Fort George in a few days, from whence it will be carried to Boston, as soon as the roads will permit.

I am pretty confident that a reinforcement might be sent to General Montgomery, even before the ice on Lake Champlain will be strong enough to bear, by a route hitherto not attempted, and I believe with very little difficulty. I shall immediately employ two trusty men to ascertain this.

My letter, alluded to in the first paragraph of this, was only last night delivered to Mr. Livingston, so that it goes by this express.

I am informed that several officers in our army sent a very insulting message to General Montgomery, because he had shown some indulgence to a few of the officers that were made prisoners. This turbulent and mutinous spirit will tend to the ruin of our cause; and the necessity of checking it immediately, and taking measures to prevent it in future, strikes me so forcibly, that I take the liberty to observe that it is worthy of the immediate attention of Congress. I speak the more freely on this subject, as I would not wish that General Montgomery and my successors, whoever they may be, should lead the disagreeable life we have done.

I am, sir, with esteem and respect, your most obedient and most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., &c.

ABRAM DAVENPORT TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Stamford, December 8, 1775.

RESPECTED SIR: Mr. Selleck and Mr. Bates, two of my neighbours, own a vessel of about fifty tons, with which they are desirous to make voyage to the West-Indies, to carry cattle and provisions, and bring back military stores, if a permit can be obtained of your Honour for that purpose. I suppose that it is expected that Mr. Bates will go master, if the vessel is permitted to go. I believe he may be depended upon; and I do not know a man better calculated for the business. The vessel is said to be a prime sailer. We have but a few pounds of powder in our town stock, and I believe it will be universally agreeable to the inhabitants of our town that a permit should be granted them. At the desire of Mr. Bates, I write this. He informs me that Mr. Selleck will apply to your Honour for the permit, and will give bond, (if required,) for the faithful conduct of the master. Mr. Selleck is a man of considerable interest, and his bond will be quite sufficient.

I am, with the greatest esteem and respect, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

ABRAM DAVENPORT.

Honourable Governour Trumbull.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Cambridge, December 8, 1775.

SIR: The intention of yesterday's order, respecting the review of the Connecticut troops, is only to afford a good opportunity of making choice of such of their arms as shall be found fit for the use of the new army.

I am not without my fears, that if they are apprized of the intention, some of the best arms will be secreted. For this reason I desire you will say nothing of the matter till the regiment (in your brigade) is paraded, and then, in company of the field-officers of it, make choice of all the arms that are good, taking the names of the proprietors of them, that they may be lodged, valued, and paid for agreeably to the general order of the 23d ult.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Brigadier-General Sullivan, Winter-Hill.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO BRIGADIER-GENERAL THOMAS.

Cambridge, December 8, 1775.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency to inform you that it is very agreeable to him that Captain Hazleton should fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Doctor Chapin, especially as he seems to have been neglected before this by some oversight, and to be deserving, from the recommendation mentioned in your favour of this date.

I am, &c.,

R. H. HARRISON, A. D. C.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO SALEM COMMITTEE.

Cambridge, December 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: What is the breach of the Association, or what is not, the General has not time, nor indeed does he think himself a competent judge to decide upon; that surely comes under the cognizance of Committees of Safety.

The General thinks the officers on board the armed vessels have deviated from the line of their instructions, though perhaps not from the spirit of them, by taking this brigantine.

From this principle, which his Excellency is of opinion is a just one, he delivers up to the owner his vessel and cargo.

Your most humble servant,

STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

To John Pickering, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Safety and Correspondence, Salem.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO JOHN GLOVER.

Cambridge, December 8, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to desire you will put Mr. Richard Derby in the proper road to get his brig Kingston Packet, and her cargo, into his possession. Whether she is to proceed on her intended voyage to the West-Indies or not the General cannot himself determine; that is the business of Committees of Safety. The General is determined to have no further trouble with this vessel. You will, therefore, sir, manage the matter so as Head-quarters may hear no more of her. I beg you will be attentive to Mr. Callbeck's goods. Let him have every thing that he has been so cruelly pillaged of. The potatoes on board the Scotch vessel should be sold.

I am truly yours,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To Colonel John Glover, Marblehead.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Winter-Hill, December 8, 1775.

MUCH RESPECTED GENTLEMEN: Your favour, signed by Colonel Whipple, is now before me. But previous to the receipt thereof, common fame, with his usual readiness, had proclaimed your vigorous exertions, and the noble spirit of your people. General Washington, and all the other officers, are extremely pleased, and bestow the highest encomiums on you and your troops, freely acknowledging that New-Hampshire forces, for bravery and resolution, far surpass the other Colonies; and that no Province discovers so much zeal in the common cause. Though I wish the troops may all arrive before the 10th instant, yet none will be refused on account of their being a few days later.

I applaud Colonel Burnham's zeal, and shall show him every mark of esteem in my power.

I am, gentlemen, with gratitude and esteem, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

Honourable Committee of Safety.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR LEGGE.

By his Excellency FRANCIS LEGGE, Esquire, Captain-General and Governour-in-chief, in and over His Majesty's Province of NOVA-SCOTIA, and its Dependencies, Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas great mischiefs and inconveniences may and are like to ensue from permitting strangers, who may be in the interest of the Rebels, to resort to the town of Halifax, and by that means obtaining and conveying to them intelligence which may prove highly prejudicial to His Majesty's service:

I do therefore hereby strictly order and command all persons, not settled inhabitants of this place, who, since the 30th day of September last, have, or who hereafter shall, come into the town of Halifax, to repair themselves immediately to Thomas Procter, or Thomas Bridge, Esquires, two of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County of Halifax, to signify their names and places of abode, together with the occasion of their coming into town; upon pain of being considered and treated as spies, if they remain therein the space of two hours without their repairing to either of the Justices aforesaid.

And I do likewise strictly order and command all tavern-keepers, keepers of publick houses, and all persons who shall receive any stranger or strangers after the publication of this Proclamation, to report the name, place of abode, with the occasion of their coming, in like manner to one or other of the persons aforementioned, within two hours after the coming of such stranger or strangers, upon the like pain and peril as herein before expressed.

And whereas it has been reported that sundry strangers have been landed in the Northwest arm, and by that means have come into this town in the night season, and that the same may be of dangerous consequences:

I do therefore hereby order and strictly forbid any ship, boat, or other vessel, entering into that part of this harbour, either by day or night, without first obtaining license from me, or from such persons as I shall appoint for that purpose; upon pain of being considered and treated as spies.

Given under my hand and seal at arms, this 8th day of December, in the sixteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

FRANCIS LEGGE.

By His Excellency's command:

RICHARD BULKELEY.

God save the King.

London, December 9, 1775.

There is now a bill in the House of Commons which will finally pass there next Tuesday, and will most assuredly pass all the branches of the Legislature of England. A copy of this bill perhaps may reach America by this opportunity, or some other, before it is sent over in the formal manner by Government. By this bill all intercourse whatsoever, by sea, is cut off and prohibited from America, or any part thereof, with the rest of the world. And all ships, in any harbour in the Thirteen United Colonies, are thereby made liable to seizure, and a legal prize, with every thing on board, let the property be British, foreign, or American. All ships or vessels, the property of whatsoever nation, bound to or from America, are liable to the same penalty. This act empowers the King to send over Commissioners to treat with America; the Ministers have already settled the powers with which they are to be entrusted. They certainly go no further than authorizing them to receive the unconditional submission of any separate Province, Town, or County, and issue proclamations, and grant pardons, excepting to particular persons; but the secret object of their embassy is to sow dissensions among the Provinces, and the members of the General Congress, by bribery and every artifice; of which they entertain great hopes of success, from the supposed coolness between Mr. D—k—s—n, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. J—Ads, of Massachusetts-Bay, and the very unwise distrust which many in England suppose prevails in the minds of the Delegates of the Southern Colonies against those of the four New-England Provinces. The plan of operations for next year is to carry on a piratical war by sea, and to have thirty thousand men, by land in America, dispersed through the different Provinces. Five thousand of them are to sail from Ireland, in the course of this month, for Virginia; and G—l Clinton is ordered to go there from Boston, to take the command of them, as Lord Dunmore has promised great assistance from the Scotchmen and slaves in that Colony. No person can yet find out how it will be possible for the Ministers to get ten thousand men more to send to America in the course of next year; however, it is certain that this country will pay eight millions of money for the next campaign against America, and it is hardly doubted but the real design of the Cabinet is to exert their utmost efforts next year to subdue America to slavery; in which, if they cannot succeed, they mean to give her up entirely as an independent State. This event may be precipitated much sooner than is expected should G—l Howe and his troops be driven from Boston in the course of the winter, and Canada fall into the hands of America. Notwithstanding the Minister's majority in Parliament, it is very certain that three-fourths in England, and nine-tenths in Ireland, are in favour of America; the rest, with almost all Scotland, are against her; but as Lord Bute and his Scotch junto rule with absolute sway, America will not receive any active assistance from Great Britain for a year or two at least, as the people of England are slow to action. The Ministers have been trying, with all their address, to get troops from Russia, in which they have failed. They are now treating with all the petty Princes in Germany for men, as they can get no men to enlist in England or Ireland; and they have not at this time in all Great Britain above two thousand foot, exclusive of the Guards, and not ten thousand in Ireland. It is not certainly known yet, but probably they may get four or five thousand from Germany; but if America continues determined, united, and vigorous, the conquest of that country is thought utterly impracticable. As all communication is now cut off it will not be easy to convey intelligence of what is going on in this country, therefore America must act upon all occasions as she finds her own strength and circumstances, without reference to what may or may not pass here.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON TO A GENTLEMAN IN VIRGINIA, DATED DECEMBER 9, 1775.

You may depend on it, that Government do not intend to make their grand armament at Boston; they will only reinforce the army there, so as to enable them to maintain their ground, if the Provincials do not carry the place this winter. The whole force is to be twenty-six thousand men, including those now in America, and three regiments of Scotch Dutch, who are to come over in the spring from Holland, and be sent to Scotland to recruit, and from thence go to America; no other foreign troops are to be had, nor would the Dutch have given them, but they were paid a most extravagant price for them. They are now about two thousand, though nominally three thousand, which number they are to be made. This whole force is to be divided in America, and sent to New-York, Virginia, and South-Carolina, so that there will be no very considerable army, though strong bodies of perhaps four, six, and eight thousand men to those places, but the numbers are not ascertained, though they will be strong bodies. All commerce is prohibited with America, but Commissioners are certainly going out; but their names are not yet mentioned. The Scotch faction prevails at Court. The Bedford party are a good deal divided, some having joined the Opposition. Lord Chatham will never again appear out; the minority is considerably strengthened. Lord Rockingham is the head of a formidable party; indeed, almost all the minority are immediately attached to him. Their strength, however, is greatly inferior to the Ministry, and will be, except the rest of the Bedford's, which are the strongest part of that party, and the support of the Ministry, leave them. It is impossible to say what may happen.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO EDMUND PENDLETON, PRESIDENT OF THE CONVENTION.

Great-Bridge, near Norfolk, December 9, 1775.

The enemy were reinforced about three o'clock this morning with (as they tell me) every soldier of the Fourteenth Regiment, at Norfolk, amounting to two hundred, commanded by Captain Leslie; and this morning, after reveille beating, crossed the bridge by laying down some plank, and made an attack to force our breastwork, (the prisoners say the whole number amounted to five hundred, volunteers and blacks,) with two pieces of cannon, but none marched up but His Majesty's soldiers, who behaved like Englishmen. We have found of their dead, Captain Fordyce and twelve privates; and have Lieutenant Battut, who is wounded in the leg, and seventeen privates prisoners, all wounded. They carried their cannon back under cover of the guns of the fort, and a number of their dead. I should suppose, to speak within compass, their loss must be upwards of fifty. Some powder and cartridges were taken. I sent an officer to inform them, if they would not fire upon our people, they should collect the dead and wounded; this they agreed to, and there has been no firing since. We are now under arms, expecting another attack. There is but one man of ours hurt, and he is wounded in the hand. The prisoners inform us that Lord Dunmore has got a reinforcement of Highlanders; they, I expect, will be up next.

MAJOR SPOTSWOOD TO A FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURGH.

Great-Bridge, December 9, 1775.

We were alarmed this morning by the firing of some guns after reveille beating, which, as the enemy had paid us this compliment several times before, we at first concluded to be nothing but a morning salute; but in a short time after, I heard Adjutant Blackburn call out, Boys! stand to your arms! Colonel Woodford and myself immediately got equipped, and ran out; the Colonel pressed down to the breastwork in our front, and my alarm-post being two hundred and fifty yards in another quarter, I ran to it as fast as I could, and by the time I had made all ready for engaging, a very heavy fire ensued at the breastwork, in which were not more than sixty men; it continued for about half an hour, when the King's troops gave way, after sustaining considerable loss, and behaving like true-born Englishmen. They mounted up to our intrenchments with fixed bayonets; our young troops received them with firmness, and behaved as well as it was possible for soldiers to do. Captain Leslie, of the regulars, commanded the fort on the other side of the bridge; Captain Fordyce, of the Grenadiers, led the van with his company; and Lieutenant Battut commanded the advanced party; the former got killed within a few yards of the breastwork, with twelve privates; the Lieutenant, with sixteen soldiers, were taken prisoners—all wounded. Several others were carried into the fort under cover of their cannon; and from the blood on the bridge, they must have lost one-half of their detachment.

It would appear that Providence was on our side; for during the whole engagement we lost not a man, and only one was slightly wounded in the hand. Colonel Woodford is a brave officer, and a man I love. He has had Captain Fordyce buried with the military honours due to his rank, and all the prisoners that fell into our hands are taken the greatest care of. We have not, as yet, been able to ascertain the number of killed and wounded on their side. Three officers' fuses, with bayonets and cartouch boxes, fell into our hands; from which we judge that there were three commissioned officers killed. As soon as a general return can be made, it will be sent to the honourable Convention. I am at present in the greatest hurry, and can only give an account of what I have seen.

KING AND QUEEN COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Sub-Committee of the Upper District of King and Queen County, on Saturday, the 9th of December, 1775:

William Lyne having been charged before this Committee, by James Jones, Jun., with endeavouring to prejudice the Minute-service, and exciting mutiny, the said William Lyne, having heretofore been summoned, now appeared, and on examining several witnesses, it appears to this Committee, that on the day the District Committee chose officers for the regular and minute-service, the said Lyne imprudently dropped expressions tending to injure the minute-service. We believe he had no intention of exciting mutiny; and that, from a review of his conduct, he appears to be a friend to American liberty.

Ordered, That a copy of these proceedings be transmitted to the Publick Printer of this Colony, to be inserted in the Virginia Gazette.

BERNARD TODD, Clerk.

COMMITTEE OF TRENTON (NEW-JERSEY) TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read, December 12, 1775.]

Trenton, December 9, 1775.

SIR: In obedience to the resolve of Congress, transmitted to us, we have strictly examined into the conduct of the gentlemen officers stationed here, and have the satisfaction to find it punctually conformable to their parole, except in one instance. Doctor Huddleston has been unguarded and imprudent in his discourse, to the great uneasiness of the other gentlemen, who trust to the candour and indulgence of the Congress, if his past indiscretion cannot be overlooked, that their innocence may not suffer by it, as they have never failed to reprove him, and often-times severely, for it.

They express great uneasiness at the apprehension of being removed, as well on account of the satisfaction they have in their present situation, as that it must appear to the world as a punishment for breach of honour; and, in justice to them, we assure you, we believe these their declarations to be perfectly sincere.

As to their debauchery, or the people of this place being debauched by them, we apprehend there is not the least danger. The people in and about Trenton early fixed their principles upon proper knowledge and rational conviction, and have as steadily maintained them, as any people on the Continent; and we are positive, when occasion offers, will discover a consonant conduct.

Enclosed is their parole agreeably to direction; we should have transmitted it sooner, but Captain Allgee was expected from New-York.

We are, sir, with great respect, your very humble servants,

SAMUEL TUCKER, ISAAC SMITH,
ABRAHAM HUNT, ROBERT HOOPS.

In Congress, November 17, 1775.

Resolved, That the Commissioned Officers taken in the For's of Chamblly and St. John's, be put on their parole of honour that they will not go into or near any sea-port town, nor further than six miles distant from the respective places of their residence, without leave of the Continental Congress; and that they will carry on no political correspondence whatever on the subject of the dispute between Great Britain and these Colonies, as long as they remain prisoners. By order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

We, the subscribers, acquiesce in the above resolve.

Witness our hands:

J. STOPFORD, Major.
RIGAUDILL, Major.
J. HANTON, Lieutenant.
J. SHUTTLEWORTH, Lieutenant.
RICHARD HUDDLESTON, Surgeon,
Royal Fusileers.
IBBETSON HAMER, Lieutenant.
DAVID ALLGEE.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, December 9, 1775.

DEAR GENERAL: I do myself the honour to advise your Excellency of my arrival here on the 7th instant. Should have wrote you yesterday, but I was all day in conference with sixty of the principal Sachems of the Six Nations. The matter was merely congratulatory, and introductory to the business which they intend to open on Monday, the substance of which I have not yet been able to learn.

Enclose you copies of letters from General Montgomery and Colonel Arnold, together with one to your Excellency, from the latter, and one from Colonel Knox. I have wrote to Congress, that the necessity of sending a body of troops into Canada this winter appeared to me very urgent. I was happy to meet Colonel Knox, at Fort George. I have made such an arrangement to get the articles he wants at Fort George, that I am confident they will arrive there in eight days from this, and I shall take the advantage of the very first snow to send them to Cambridge. My baggage is still behind, and therefore cannot send your Excellency the returns; but there is a sufficiency of every thing Colonel Knox wanted, except powder and flints.

I am now in tolerable good health, but I believe a perfect restoration will not take place until the cold weather ceases.

Some of the prisoners have attempted to escape. A Captain Robinson, of the Emigrants, offered the Captain of an Albany sloop two hundred guineas to carry him on board the Asia man-of-war. I shall request the Captain to make affidavit of it.

I am, dear General, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, December 9, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Since I did myself the honour to address your Excellency on the 28th ult., my baggage is arrived, and now enclose the return of cannon at Crown-Point, Ticonderoga, &c.; besides there are a few at Fort-George, the return whereof I gave Colonel Knox to copy, and he forgot to re-deliver it to me.

As soon as I am a little settled, I shall take the liberty to send you copies of my letters to Congress, containing a recommendation of what I though necessary to be done in this quarter, preparatory to the next campaign.

The gentlemen of the Committee are still here, but propose returning to-morrow. Be so good as to make my respects to the gentlemen of your suite.

I am, dear sir, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. I have just received your Excellency's favour of the 5th inst. I have heretofore observed that Col. Arnold had great merit. He has been peculiarly unfortunate, in that one-third of his troops have left him. If the whole had been with him when he arrived before Quebeck, he would probably have had the sole honour of giving that important place to America. He will, however, share in the glory of its reduction, and I make no doubt but that it will be in our possession before any troops can come to its relief.

If Congress enters into my views, and immediately sends three thousand men to this place, I make no manner of doubt of getting them into Canada by the middle of January. I am, &c.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Lebanon, December 9, 1775.

SIR: Last evening I received your Excellency's favour of the 5th; in your hurry not signed; the number of men enlisted left blank.

While this express waits for a horse, I have only time to mention, that I shall (Deo volente) set out on my journey to meet the Assembly at New-Haven, on the 12th. Please to favour me with a list of the officers of our several regiments, and of the companies in each, as they now stand arranged, with the number enlisted into them for the service of the ensuing year. I trust nothing will be wanting in the most vigorous exertions to afford you every assistance on the present alarming occasion.

I am, most respectfully, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

His Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL.

Cambridge, December 9, 1775.

SIR: Four prisoners are sent for examination, Jeremiah Dawry, William Hedon, George Price, and John Milton. They were taken by Captain Coit, on board vessels carrying supplies to the enemy in Boston, to whom they were pilots. Pownall Deming, a sergeant, who was on board the armed vessel when these prisoners were taken, can give the honourable Board every necessary information relative to them.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most humble servant,
STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

The Hon. James Otis, Esq.

WILLIAM BARTLETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, December 9, 1775.

SIR: I have the pleasure to acquaint your Excellency, that Captain Manly has brought in here a ship from London, and a brig from St. Eustatia. I enclose your Excellency the papers which I forward by Mr. Cabot. Shall secure them until further orders from your Excellency. The brig is safe arrived from Cape-Ann.

I am, with respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM BARTLETT.

To General Washington.

N. B. The Captain of ship has hove overboard the chiefest part of his papers, and some arms, &c. I find by the steward, the ship's cargo is chiefly coals, one hundred butts of porter, forty live hogs.

Watertown, December 11, 1775.

We have just received certain intelligence, that on Saturday last, (December 9,) Captain Manly, of the Lee, privateer, took and carried into Beverly a large ship of three hundred tons burden, (mounted with two double-fortified six-pounders and six blunderbusses, with eighteen men before the mast,) bound from London for the Ministerial army at Boston, laden with coals and provisions, consisting chiefly of porter, cheese, and forty live hogs; thirty more had died on the passage. Although fuel and the above articles are no rarity to the army of the United Colonies, yet, so far as they are distressing to their enemies, so far, it must be acknowledged, they are an advantage to us. The above ship had seven weeks' passage, and brought papers to the 16th of October, which, together with the letters, we are informed, the Captain hove overboard after he was taken.

The same day Captain Manly also took and carried in there a brig of about one hundred and fifty tons burden, from Antigua, for Boston, (consigned to one Brimer, for the use of the Ministerial navy,) laden with about one hundred and thirty puncheons of rum, besides one hundred cases of gin, some cocoa, and a cask of oranges, to please the delicate appetite of my Lord Howe, which, however, may possibly be more acceptable to our army than any other provision, saving a further mess or two for the Congress, which has not a very craving appetite.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

Great-Bridge, December 10, 1775.

A servant belonging to Major Marshall, who deserted the other night from Colonel Scott's party, has completely taken his Lordship in. Lieutenant Batut, who is wounded, and at present my prisoner, informs me, that this fellow told them not more than three hundred shirt-men were here, and that imprudent man caught at the bait, despatching Captain Leslie with all the regulars, (about two hundred,) who arrived at the bridge about three o'clock in the morning, joined about three hundred black and white slaves, laid planks upon the bridge, and crossed just after our reveille had beat; and lucky time for us, and, you will say, rather an improper season for them to make their push, when, of course, all our men must be under arms. The above lieutenant commanded the advanced party, and Captain Fordyce, of the Grenadiers, led the van with his company, who, for coolness and bravery, deserved a better fate, as well as the brave fellows who fell with him, who behaved like heroes. They marched up to our breastwork with fixed bayonets, and, perhaps, a hotter fire never happened, or a greater carnage, for the number of troops. None of the blacks, &c., in the rear, with Captain Leslie, advanced further than the bridge.

I have the pleasure to inform you that the victory was complete, and that most of their dead and wounded, with two pieces of cannon, were carried off under cover of their guns from the fort. We buried twelve besides the Captain, (him with all the military honours due to his rank,) and have prisoners Lieutenant Batut and sixteen privates, all wounded; thirty-five stands of arms and accoutrements, three officers' fusils, powder, ball, and cartridges, with sundry other things, have likewise fallen into our hands. This was a second Bunker's Hill affair, in miniature, with this difference, that we kept our post and had only one man wounded in the hand.*

SAMUEL TUCKER TO LORD STIRLING.

Trenton, December 10, 1775.

MY LORD: I have endeavoured to do every thing you have mentioned in your several letters, and now must refer

* From officers who have arrived in town from Colonel Woodford's camp since the battle of the Great-Bridge, I have, I think, collected a more particular account of that action than any which has yet been communicated to the publick. You will therefore oblige me by publishing it, and perhaps afford, at the same time, no disagreeable entertainment to our countrymen. As the scene of action is but little known to the generality of people, it may be necessary to give some description of it, that the relation may be more clear and satisfactory. The great bridge is built over what is called the Southern Branch of Elizabeth river, twelve miles above Norfolk. The land on each side is marshy to a considerable distance from the river, except at the two extremities of the bridge, where are two pieces of firm land, which may not improperly be called islands, being surrounded entirely by water and marsh, and joined to the main land by causeways. On the little piece of firm ground on the farther, or Norfolk side, Lord Dunmore had erected his fort, in such a manner that his cannon commanded the causeway on his own side and the bridge between him and us, with the marshes around him. The island on this side of the river contained six or seven houses, some of which were burnt down (the nearest to the bridge) by the enemy, after the arrival of our troops; in the others, adjoining the causeway on each side, were stationed a guard every night by Colonel Woodford, but withdrawn before day, that they might not be exposed to the fire of the enemy's fort in recrossing the causeway to our camp, this causeway being also commanded by their cannon. The causeway on our side was in length about one hundred and sixty yards, and on the hither extremity our breastwork was thrown up. From the breastwork ran a street, gradually ascending, about the length of four hundred yards, to a church, where our main body were encamped. The great trade to Norfolk in shingles, tar, pitch, and turpentine, from the country back of this, had occasioned so many houses to be built here, whence these articles were conveyed to Norfolk by water. But this by-the-by. Such is the nature of the place as described to me, and such were our situation and that of the enemy. On Saturday, the 9th inst., after reveille beating, two or three great guns and some musketry were discharged from the enemy's fort, which, as it was not an unusual thing, was but little regarded by Colonel Woodford. However, soon afterwards he heard a call to the soldiers to stand to their arms; upon which, with all expedition, he made the proper dispositions to receive the enemy. In the mean time, the enemy had crossed the bridge, fired the remaining houses upon the island, and some large piles of shingles, and attacked our guard in the breastwork. Our men returned the fire, and threw them into some confusion, but they were instantly rallied by a Captain Fordyce, and advanced along the causeway with great resolution, keeping up a constant and heavy fire as they approached. Two field-pieces, which had been brought across the bridge and planted on the edge of the island, facing the left of our breastwork, played briskly at the same time upon us. Lieutenant Travis, who commanded in the breastwork, ordered his men to reserve their fire till the enemy came within the distance of fifty yards, and then they gave it to them with terrible execution. The brave Fordyce exerted himself to keep up their you to Colonel Lowrey, who is appointed by the Continental Congress to subside the battalions under your command. Mr. Fisher received from me two thousand five hundred, being one-half of the five thousand dollars to be applied towards furnishing arms for your battalion. I hope we shall soon have Colonel Maxwell's battalion completely armed, for which purpose the members of the Committee of Safety have sent to the several County Committees, entreating their assistance in procuring the Province arms that may be in their Counties.

Our Provincial thirty thousand pounds will not be printed for some time for want of proper paper, which is now making for that purpose; and if it was now ready, the Commissioners are particularly directed in what manner to apply it; and I find the members of the Committee of Safety are of opinion they have no power to apply any of the Provincial money for Continental services.

We passed a law in the House of Assembly appointing barrackmasters to repair the several barracks, which was condemned or d——d in the Council, so that we must now do as well as we can with them.

You no doubt will have seen, ere this comes to hand, the dispute between the Governor and Council. The House of Assembly thought it most for the publick service to avoid all disputes at this critical time.

I am, with tenders of service, your assured friend and most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL TUCKER.

P. S. I expect the Commissioners will be here to-morrow or next day.

THOMAS LOWREY TO LORD STIRLING.

Trenton, December 10, 1775.

MY LORD: I received both your favours at Philadel-phia, and note the contents. I saw Mr. Hancock, Mr. Adams, Mr. Livingston, and sundry others of the members. I informed them, and urged the necessity of having every thing done that you wrote to them about. I had great hopes something would be done, but so much other business on their hands prevented them last week. All the members I talked with promised me something should spirits, reminded them of their ancient glory, and, waving his hat over his head, encouragingly told them the day was their own. Thus pressing forward, he fell within fifteen steps of the breastwork. His wounds were many, and his death would have been that of a hero had he met it in a better cause. The progress of the enemy was now at an end; they retreated over the causeway with precipitation, and were dreadfully galled in their rear. Hitherto, on our side, only the guard, consisting of twenty-five, and some others, upon the whole amounting to not more than ninety, had been engaged. Only the regulars of the Fourteenth Regiment, in number one hundred and twenty, had advanced upon the causeway; and about two hundred and thirty Tories and negroes had, after crossing the bridge, continued upon the island. The regulars, after retreating along the causeway, were again rallied by Captain Leslie, and the two field-pieces continued to play upon our men. It was at this time that Colonel Woodford was advancing down the street to the breastwork with the main body, and against him was now directed the whole fire of the enemy. Never were cannon better served; but yet, in the face of them and the musketry, which kept up a continual blaze, our men marched on with the utmost intrepidity. Colonel Stevens, of the Culpepper battalion, was sent round to the left to flank the enemy, which was done with such activity and spirit that a rout immediately ensued. The enemy fled into their fort, leaving behind them the two field-pieces, which, however, they took care to spike up with nails. Many were killed and wounded in the flight, but Colonel Woodford very prudently restrained his troops from urging their pursuit too far. From the beginning of the attack till the repulse from the breastwork, might be about fourteen or fifteen minutes; till the total defeat upwards of half an hour. It is said that some of the enemy preferred death to captivity, from a fear of being scalped, which Lord Dunmore inhumanly told them would be their fate should they be taken alive. Thirty-one, killed and wounded, fell into our hands, and the number borne off was much greater. Through the whole of the engagement, every officer and soldier behaved with the greatest courage and calmness. The conduct of our sentinels I cannot pass over in silence. Before they quitted their stations they fired at least three rounds as the enemy were crossing the bridge, and one of them, who was posted behind some shingles, kept his ground till he had fired eight times, and, after receiving a whole platoon, made his escape over the causeway into our breastwork. The scene was closed with as much humanity as it had been conducted with bravery. The work of death being over, every one's attention was directed to the succour of the unhappy sufferers, and it is an undoubted fact, that Captain Leslie was so affected with the tenderness of our troops towards those who were yet capable of assistance, that he gave signs from the fort of his thankfulness for it. What is not to be paralleled in history, and will scarcely appear credible, except to such as acknowledge a Providence over human affairs, this victory was gained at the expense of no more than a slight wound in a soldier's head; and one circumstance which renders it still more amazing, is, that the field-pieces raked the whole length of the street, and absolutely threw double-headed shot as far as the church, and afterwards, as our troops approached, cannonaded them heavily with grape-shot.—Va. Gaz.

be done. There is a resolve of the House that Mr. Crane is to give directions to you for getting the blankets. He told me he would be home some time this week. I have been with Mr. Tucker about the barracks. He says he will call the Committee soon and get something done. I have done all I could every where, and with every one concerned, to forward the cause. I informed them of the trouble your Lordship and myself hath had. All seemed pleased with what we have done.

Mr. Crane will forward the articles for wear. The commissions for the sundry persons your Lordship wrote for, will be filled up agreeably to your desire. I did not see Colonel Maxwell, but sent him your letter and wrote to him myself. Two of his company will be ready to march in ten days, complete. I have paid off Falkener's company; he is in Burlington barracks. I have also paid off Captain Shute, of Salem, and Captain Hovell, of Cumberland. They will be at Burlington this week, but in no order for marching; arms and blankets are wanting; and I am now on my way to Sussex to forward Shaw's and Scott's companies, and intend being with you at Elizabethtown, on Thursday next at furthest. Pray be pleased to order Meeker, McMyers, and Piatt, to have their muster-rolls, &c., in good order and readiness that I may not be detained when I come.

I am, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient and humble servant,

THOMAS LOWREY.

CONANICUT (RHODE-ISLAND) PLUNDERED.

Newport, December 11, 1775.

About one o'clock, yesterday morning, the bomb brig, a schooner, and two or three armed sloops, left this harbour, went to Conanicut, and landed upwards of two hundred marines, sailors, and negroes, at the east ferry, marched in three divisions immediately over to the west ferry, and set the several houses on fire which were near the ferry-place, then retreated back, setting fire to almost every house on each side the road, from the west to the east ferry, and several houses and barns some distance on the north and south side of the road, driving out the women and children, swearing they should be burnt in the house if they did not instantly turn out.

Widow Hull lost one house; Joseph Clarke, Esq., two houses and one barn; Thomas Fowler, one house, barn, and crib full of corn; Benjamin Ellery, two houses, store, and barn; B. Remington, two houses; John Gardner, Esq., one house and tan-yard; Thomas Hutchinson, one house; Widow Franklin, two; Abel Franklin, one; Benedict Robinson, one. All the above houses were plundered of beds, wearing apparel, and such household furniture as could be conveniently carried off; the rest were consumed. Some women, we are told, were stripped of some of their best clothes they had on. It is said Captain Wallace commanded on this humane expedition. A company of minute-men had left Conanicut the evening before; so that there were but about forty or fifty soldiers on the Island, most of whom had been enlisted but a few days, and arrived there but the evening before in miserable condition for such a sudden attack; but, notwithstanding, it is said there is certainly one officer of marines killed, and seven or eight badly wounded. There was not one Provincial either killed or wounded, except Mr. John Martin, who was shot in his belly, standing unarmed in his door. The above vessels brought off about thirty head of oxen and cows, a few sheep and hogs, most of which they killed before they took them on board. They left Conanicut yesterday, and came to this harbour again about noon.

The above houses were not all occupied by the owners, but each had at least one family, some two.

STEPHEN NOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 10, 1775.

SIR: Your agreeable favour to his Excellency came last night to hand. It was very unlucky that the Captain of the ship threw his papers overboard. He deserves to be severely punished, if it is true that this was done after he was made a prize of. In any other war than the present, he would suffer death for such an action; but we must show him and such as fall into our hands, that Americans are humane as well as brave. You will therefore, sir, treat the prisoners with all possible tenderness. There are on board the vessel from Antigua two gentlemen, passengers, Mr. John Burke and Mr. Gregory. The former is strongly recommended to our good friends in Boston; though not a friend to American liberty, he still has the character of a gentleman; as such, it is the General's orders that he be treated. The other was on board a man-of-war. You will offer these gentlemen a parole agreeably to the enclosed sketch, which I suppose they will not object to; if they should, you must send them to Headquarters.

The captain and crews of both vessels had best remain with you; and, if you see fit, they may remain on board their vessels until further orders; but do not run the least risk of their doing mischief by so many being together. If any way apprehensive of them, let them be sent to some inland town in your neighbourhood, recommended to the care of the Committee of Safety, who must provide them with necessaries, for which they will be paid. Should they be disposed of in this last way, get the captains to sign the paroles for themselves and their crews, a copy of which you will transmit to the Committee of Safety to whose care they are sent, and mention to the Committee that they be treated with humanity.

There are limes, lemons, and oranges on board, which, being perishable, you must sell immediately. The General will want some of each, as well as of the sweetmeats and pickles that are on board, as his lady will be here to-day or to-morrow. You will please to pick up such things on board as you think will be acceptable to her, and send them as soon as possible; he does not mean to receive any thing without payment, which you will please to attend to. The General is informed that the prizes are crowded with people from shore, as well as those belonging to the armed schooner. It is his positive command that no person be suffered to go on board any of them, the officers and agents excepted, that embezzlements be particularly guarded against. If any should happen, the agents will be blamed and held accountable, so that you see the necessity of being strict in enforcing this order. Pray when are you to send the porter, &c.? We want it much.

I am, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To William Bartlett, Esq., Beverly.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO CAPTAIN BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 10, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you this day, to which refer. The cargo by the two prizes to be laid up in a secure place if you think the vessels are not sufficient for that purpose. Captain Adams will deliver you this. He says he will take a cruise while the sails, which he thinks absolutely necessary, are making. You will please to let such sails as he wants be put in hands immediately, as we cannot have two many armed vessels out. Give him every assistance in your power. He wants to change his swivels and some of his guns. Dear sir, indulge him, and let him proceed to sea. I am, sir, yours, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To William Bartlett, Esq., Beverly.

GENERAL GREENE TO GOVERNOUR WARD.

Prospect-Hill, December 10, 1775.

In my last I mentioned to you that the troops enlisted very slowly in general; I was in hopes then that ours would not have deserted the cause of their country, but they seem to be so sick of this way of life, and so home-sick, that I fear the greater part, and the best of the troops from our Colony, will go home. The Connecticut troops are going home in shoals this day. Five thousand of the militia, three from this Province, and two from Hampshire, are called in to take their place. There is a great defection among their (the Connecticut) troops, but from the spirit and resolution of the people of that Province I make no doubt they will furnish their proportion without delay. New-Hampshire behaves nobly; their troops engage cheerfully. The regiment raised in the Colony of Rhode-Island has hurt our recruiting amazingly; they are fond of serving in the army at home, and each feels a desire to protect his own family.

I harangued the troops yesterday; I hope it had some effect; they appear of a better disposition to-day; some have enlisted, and others discover a complying temper. I leave nothing undone or unsaid that will promote the recruiting service. But I fear the Colony of Rhode-Island is upon the decline. There have been, and now are, some unhappy disputes subsisting between the town and country interest, and some wretches, for the sake of a present popularity, are endeavouring to widen the breach, to build up their own consequence, to the prejudice and ruin of the publick interest. God grant that they may meet with the disgrace they deserve.

This Province begins to exert itself; the General Court has undertaken to provide for the army, wood, &c. Their troops begin now to enlist very fast. They are zealous in the country to engage in the service.

I sent home some recruiting officers, but they got scarcely a man, and report that there are none to be had there. No publick spirit prevails; I wish you and your colleague were at home a few days to spirit up the people. Newport, I believe, from the best intelligence I can get, is determined to observe a strict neutrality this winter, and in the spring join the strongest party. I feel for the honour of the Colony, which I think in a fair way, from the conduct of the people at home and the troops abroad, to receive a wound. It mortifies me to death that our Colony and troops should be a whit behind the neighbouring Governments in private virtue or publick spirit.

I have been strengthening this Hill, in order that if the soldiery should not engage as cheerfully as we expected, I might be able to defend it with a less number.

ADDRESS OF THE PROVOST, ETC., OF THE BURGH OF WICK.

Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Common Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick, in Council assembled, presented to His Majesty by John Sinclair, Esq.

Unto the King's most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Common Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick, in Council assembled.

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN: We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Common Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick, for ourselves, and in behalf of the other inhabitants of this Burgh, beg leave most humbly to approach your Majesty with the genuine sentiments of hearts full of loyalty and affection to the best of Kings, and flowing with gratitude for the invaluable blessings and privileges which we enjoy under a mild and constitutional Government.

We should be wanting in duty to your Majesty, to your Parliament, and to our country, did we not declare to the world our hearty disapprobation and abhorrence of the rebellious conduct of our fellow-subjects in America, and of the seditious spirit of a discontented faction at home, whom we consider as the worst enemies of their country, and the corrupted fountain whence the present evils have sprung. We always understood that the acts of the Supreme Legislature of this Kingdom should extend, with equal force, to every part of your Majesty's extensive dominions; we must therefore consider every attempt to oppose that power as repugnant to the British Constitution. And when we reflect with what daring insolence and contempt the authority of the laws has been repeatedly set at defiance by the Americans, we can no longer withhold our unanimous assent to the vigorous exertion of such measures as will force these deluded people to submit to a constitutional dependance upon your Majesty's Government. And at the same time we do assure your Majesty that, with our lives and fortunes, we are ready to contribute to the due execution of such necessary and indispensable measures.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, by our Provost; and the common seal of the Burgh is hereto appended, at Wick, the eleventh day of December, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five years.

JAMES SINCLAIR, Provost.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO EDMUND PENDLETON.

Great-Bridge, December 10, 1775.

SIR: I must apologize for the hurry in which I wrote you yesterday; since which nothing of moment has happened, but the abandoning of the fort by the enemy. We have taken possession of it this morning, and found therein the stores mentioned in the enclosed list, to wit: 7 guns, four of them sorry; 1 bayonet; 29 spades; 2 shovels; 6 cannon; a few shot; some bedding; a part of a hogshead of rum; two or more barrels, the contents unknown, but supposed to be rum; 2 barrels of bread; about 20 quarters of beef; half a box of candles; 4 or 5 dozen quart bottles; 4 or 5 iron pots; a few axes, and old lumber. The spikes, I find, cannot be got out of the cannon without drilling. From the vast effusion of blood on the bridge, and in the fort, from the account from the sentries, who saw many bodies carried out of the fort to be interred, and other circumstances, I conceive their loss to be much greater than I thought it yesterday, and the victory to be complete. I have received no late information from Norfolk or Princess-Ann, nor yet fixed on a plan for improving this advantage. I have despatched scouting parties, and from their intelligence I shall regulate my future operations.

Enclosed is an inventory of the arms, &c., taken yesterday, to wit: 2 silver-mounted fusils, with bayonets; 1 steel do., without bayonet; 24 well fixed muskets, with bayonets; 6 muskets, without bayonets; 28 cartouch boxes and pouches; 3 silver mounted cartouch boxes; 2 cannon do.; 26 bayonet belts; 27 caps; 2 hats; one barrel with powder and cartridges; 1 silk handkerchief, with linen in it; 2 watches; cash 12s. 6d.; 1 pair gloves; 4 stocks and buckles; 1 pair silver shoe buckles; 3 pair silver knee-buckles; 2 snuff boxes; 10 knives; 1 barrel with ball and oakum; 12 coats; 12 waistcoats; 11 pair shoes; 12 pair of gaiters; 1 pair of breeches; 1 shirt; 1 pair of stockings; a parcel of old knee-buckles; a parcel of old buttons; and a black handkerchief. The arms I shall retain for the use of the army; the other articles I shall dispose of at vendue, and apply the money arising from the sale in such manner as the Convention shall be pleased to direct.

Lieutenant Batut, having an inclination to inform the King's troops of the humane treatment he has met with here, I despatched Ensign Hoomes, with a flag of truce, who returned with the enclosed answer from the commander of the fort, viz:

"Captain Leslie presents his compliments to Mr. Batut, and returns Col. Woodford his sincere thanks for his kind treatment of the prisoners. He is happy Mr. Batut's wounds are so slight; but is extremely sorry for the loss of poor Fordyce."

The unfortunate Captain Fordyce was a captain of the Grenadiers, of the Fourteenth regiment; most of the soldiers were Grenadiers of that regiment. As the Captain was a gallant and brave officer, I promised to inter him with all the military honours due to his great merits; which I hope will meet with the approbation of the honourable Convention.

About two hundred and fifty Carolina men are arrived, under the command of Col. Vail. They are composed of regulars, minute-men, militia, and volunteers, and have brought with them six cannon. I have received no certain account of Col. Howe; where he is, what number of force he commands, how armed and provided, or where or when he intends to join me.

I shall pay a due regard to the reinforcements you mention, and the establishment of the posts. I am just informed, by Lieutenant Botut, that a servant of Major Marshall, who was in the party with Colonel Scott, and deserted, informed Lord Dunmore that not more than three hundred shirt-men were here; that imprudent man caught at the bait, and despatched Captain Leslie, with all the regulars, who arrived at the fort about four in the morning.

I have enclosed the honourable Convention a general return of the forces under my command; also a list of sick and wounded. It is my wish to receive orders for what is to be done with the wounded prisoners, when able to travel. I recollect nothing more to add at present, than that I am, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM WOODFORD.

To Edmund Pendleton, President of the Convention.

PARLIAMENTARY POST PROHIBITED.

In Provincial Convention, Annapolis, }
December 11, 1775.

Resolved, That the Parliamentary Post be not permitted or suffered to travel in or pass through this Province, with any mail, packages, or letters; and the several Committees of Observation are requested and directed to see this resolution strictly observed and executed.

Resolved, That no boat or other vessel belonging to this Province, go out of this Province without a license in writing from this Convention, the Council of Safety hereafter to be appointed, or from some Committee of Observation, in which the particular place such boat or vessel shall be designed to go to, shall be expressed in all licenses granted by the Committees of Observation. And if any such boat or vessel shall be navigated beyond the limits of this Province, without such license, or if, after having obtained such license, the shipper thereof shall, without absolute and inevitable necessity, go to, or touch at any place out of this Province other than mentioned in such license, or shall carry any person or letter, of which he shall not give previous notice to such Committee, or shall bring back any person or letter, of which he shall not give previous notice to such Committee, as soon as may be after his return, such shipper, and all other persons accessory to such misbehaviour, may be punished by imprisonment; but it is understood that this Resolution is not to prohibit the crossing Potomack, although the boats or vessels employed or used, therefore, should go up the creeks, or arms of the Potomack river, making into Virginia, or to prohibit the passing and repassing at the Ferry on Pocomoke river.

CAPTAIN JOHN CONWAY TO LORD STIRLING.

Perth-Amboy, December 11, 1775.

SIR: In obedience to your Lordship's commands of the 5th inst., I received of Isaac Monnel, Esq., the beds, blankets, &c., belonging to the barracks here, and tendered him a receipt for them, which, for particular reasons, he refused. I also had a sufficient number of rooms cleaned, and provided fire-wood and provision to supply my company several days, which this day marched here, and quartered in the barracks, though not without a great deal of trouble, owing to the unwillingness of them to leave Brunswick, and several other trivial reasons.

I have now in confinement three privates, sentinels, two of them for desertion and abuse of their officers, the other, for striking a sergeant, and deserting a party on duty of fatigue. As I think it time to carry some command, and use a little severity, I beg your Lordship's permission to call a regimental court-martial to try them, as making an example of one or more of them will certainly deter others from the like.

Messrs. Powell and Rose, who accompanied me here, with their file and drum, will wait on your Lordship with this, and will be proud of serving your Lordship, as file and drum-major to the regiment; their business is to treat and agree with your Lordship on that matter. I therefore recommend them to your Lordship as two valuable men in that capacity, and would be glad to have them appointed on reasonable terms, which I believe they are willing to accept.

I hope your Lordship's good nature will excuse any impropriety of style, particularly the badness of the writing, as I cannot use my thumb, which I offer as a reason for not sending your Lordship a copy of my last orders.

As the barrack chimneys are very foul and dangerous, I have got a boy from York, to have them swept to-morrow morning, (such as will be now used.) There is also some repairs of glazing, carpenter's work, and mending the wood-yard fence, wanting to be done, which, if your Lordship is pleased to order, I will see executed immediately.

I have the honour of being, with great respect, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN CONWAY.

Lord Stirling.

P. S. I beg the favour of your Lordship's orders respecting the above matters, or any further service, as soon as may be pleased to direct; to be left at Captain Dawson's, at Woodbridge, or Gershom Lott's, in Amboy.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH MORRIS TO LORD STIRLING.

Hanover, December 11, 1775.

MY LORD: I have not seen Lieutenant-Colonel Winds since I left Elizabethtown. Have not money to buy arms, one equal half of my company have none; nor have I received the cloth for the soldiers; have sent Mr. Brown, my Second Lieutenant, to town after it, and to wait on your Lordship for orders. I understand by Major De Hart that my son's commission is not come. If it should be thought proper by your Lordship, I would wait on Mr. Tucker for it. My Lord, there is nearly one-half my company in the old uniform, (and likewise Captain Howell's,) and seem very much opposed to altering it, as they have red waistcoats, and not able to get white.

I am with great esteem, your Lordship's most obedient humble servant,

JOSEPH MORRIS.

To Lord Stirling.

COMMITTEE OF BARNARD'S TOWNSHIP, NEW-JERSEY.

Committee of Barnard's Township, New-Jersey, }
December 11, 1775. }

Whereas Nathaniel Hatén, of the Township of Barnard, in the County of Somerset, and Province of New-Jersey, was brought before the Committee of said township as being suspected of being an enemy to the liberties of America, and upon examination, it appears to us, the said Committee, that the said Nathaniel Hatén is an enemy to the liberties of America, and all persons are hereby desired to take notice, and have no more dealings or commerce with the said Nathaniel Hatén, otherwise they will expose themselves to the resentment of the friends of American liberty, and will be dealt with accordingly.

By order of the Committee:

HENRY ALWARD, Chairman.

ISAAC NICOLL TO JOHN MCKESSON.

Goshen, December 11, 1775.

SIR: Some time ago there was application made to Congress for commissions for Goshen Minute Company, of which Moses Hetfield was chosen Captain; but there are no commissions yet to hand, which makes some uneasiness in the company, as they are ordered to go to the Battery in the Highlands to relieve Captain Wisnor's company, the 27th of this instant. I should be glad if you would send the commissions by the post.

From your humble servant, ISAAC NICOLL.
To John McKesson, Esq., at New-York.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, December 11, 1775.

SIR: I do myself the honour to address this letter to you by Mr. Penet, and another French gentleman, who arrived here last night, in Captain Rhodes, from Cape François, who was despatched some time since from this place for powder. Mr. Penet comes extremely well recommended to our Committee for providing powder from a merchant of character at the Cape. He hath proposals to make for supplying the United Colonies with arms and warlike stores. I am informed that the other gentleman is a person of some consequence. I beg leave to introduce them to your Excellency, and to assure you that I am with great respect, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

NICHOLAS COOKE.

To General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO THE COMMITTEE OF SYMSBURY.

Cambridge, December 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The prisoners which will be delivered you with this, having been tried by a court-martial, and deemed to be such flagrant and atrocious villains that they cannot by any means be set at large or confined in any place near this camp, were sentenced to be sent to Symsbury, in Connecticut. You will therefore be pleased to have them secured in your jail, or in such other manner as to you shall seem necessary, so that they cannot possibly make their escape. The charges of their imprisonment will be at the Continental expense.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO MAJOR-GENERAL WARD.

Cambridge, December 11, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to enclose to your care the letter which you will herewith receive for the Committee at Symsbury. Should there be any of the Connecticut troops at Roxbury, which are going that way, and with whom the prisoners can be trusted, you will get them to take charge of them, as it will save some expense; but if you are of opinion that there will be the least risk of their getting away, you will send them off under a proper guard, with a copy of their sentence for the Committee.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

R. H. HARRISON, A. D. C.

To Major-General Ward.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO THOMAS CRAFTS.

Cambridge, December 11, 1775.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency to inform you that the Majority in the regiment of artillery is now vacant, and that he would wish you to fill it in preference to any other person. You will please to signify to him whether you incline to accept it, as soon as you conveniently can.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

R. H. HARRISON, A. D. C.

To Thomas Crafts, Jun., Esq.

WILLIAM BARTLETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, December 11, 1775.

SIR: I beg leave to enclose your Excellency the petition of the Committee of Correspondence of this town, where they set forth the situation of it in a very clear light, and pray your Excellency would hear and answer the same, if you in your great wisdom think it necessary.

Those valuable prizes, brought in here, are much exposed, as we have nothing to defend them with. Our harbour is as safe as any can be, where there is water sufficient to bring in such vessels. Our forts and breastworks, built at the town's expense, would not only protect the prizes, but the town, if we had guns and ammunition to put in them. Therefore, pray your Excellency would hear the petition not only for the relief of the town, but to preserve that interest now belonging to the Continent.

And am, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM BARTLETT.

To his Excellency General Washington.

Beverly, December 11, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: The petition of us, the subscribers, humbly sheweth: That as the high hand of Ministerial cruelty hath brought us into a most unnatural war with our mother country, by which means the town of Beverly is much exposed to their most unnatural, savage-like cruelty, (the town lying more than four miles on the sea-coast, and a great part of that way convenient for landing,) the inhabitants of this town, with the assistance of some of the neighbouring towns, have thrown up breastworks in several of the most advantageous places within the same, and have no cannon or ammunition, or next akin to none, to support them with. And what renders us more obnoxious to their most unnatural cruelty and vengeance is, that the Continental privateers, and others, make this harbour their place of rendezvous, and have of late brought into this harbour a number of very valuable prizes, which we think are very much exposed to the enemy, as also the town in general. Therefore, your petitioners humbly pray that your Excellency would be graciously pleased to give us some relief under our most difficult and distressed circumstances, and let us have, if you in your wisdom think best, two nine-pounders, or one twelve-pounder, with a suitable quantity of ammunition for the same; and those two six-pounders and a half barrel of powder, and about twenty balls, on board of the ship Jenny, and those two small pieces of cannon brought in on board the brig Hannah, together with a half barrel of powder said to be on board, (which vessels were brought into this harbour by Captain Manly,) and also for some shot for the abovesaid small cannon, which will, we think, contribute much to the safety of the interest of the United Colonies, as also of this town in particular, and will be gratefully received by your most humble and obedient servants,

CALEB DODGE, NATHAN LEECH,
JOSEPH REA, LIVERMORE WHITTREDGE,
JOSEPH WOOD,

Committee of Correspondence of Beverly.

To his Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 19, 1775.]

Cambridge, December 11, 1775.

SIR: Captain Manly, of the Lee, armed schooner, has taken and sent into Beverly two prizes since I last wrote to you, which was the 7th instant. One of them is the ship Jenny, Captain Forster, who left London late in October. He has very unfortunately thrown all his papers overboard; is not yet arrived at camp; if he does before I close this, I will let you know what information I get from him. His vessel is loaded with coal and porter; of the latter, about one hundred butts. The other is a brigantine from Antigua, called the Little Hannah, Robert Adams master. Her cargo consists of one hundred and thirty-nine hogheads of rum, one hundred cases of Geneva, and some other trifling articles. Both cargoes were designed for the use of the army and navy at Boston. I have great pleasure in congratulating you on this success.

The numbers enlisted last week are men. If they go on at this slow rate, it will be a long time before this army is complete. I have wrote to the Governours of Connecticut and Rhode-Island, also to the Convention of New-Hampshire, on this subject. A copy of my letter to them I have the honour to enclose herewith; a letter to the same purport I sent to the Legislature of this Province.

The militia are coming in fast. I am much pleased with the alacrity which the good people of this Province, as well as those of New-Hampshire, have shown upon this occasion. I expect the whole will be in this day and to-morrow, when what remains of the Connecticut gentry, who have not enlisted, will have liberty to go to their fire-sides.

The Commissary-General is still, by his indisposition, detained from camp. He committed an error when making out the ration list; for he was then serving out, and has continued so to do, six ounces, per man per week, of butter, though it is not included in the list approved of by Congress. I do not think it would be expedient to put a stop thereto, as every thing that would have a tendency to give the soldiery room for complaint, must be avoided.

The information I received, that the enemy intended spreading the small-pox amongst us, I could not suppose them capable of. I now must give some credit to it, as it has made its appearance on several of those who last came out of Boston. Every necessary precaution has been taken to prevent its being communicated to this army, and the General Court will take care that it does not spread through the country.

I have not heard that any more troops are arrived at Boston, which is a lucky circumstance, as the Connecticut troops, I now find, are for the most part gone off. The houses in Boston are lessening every day. They are pulled down either for fire-wood, or to prevent the effects of fire, should we attempt a bombardment, or an attack upon the town. Cobble-Hill is strongly fortified, without any interruption from the enemy. Colonel Enos has been tried and acquitted. Upon what principle, you will see by the process of his trial, which I now send you. As the time of Colonel Enos's engagement was near expired, a doubt arose whether he could then be tried by a court-martial. This it was which occasioned his trial to come on before Colonel Arnold's evidence could be had.

This is what at present occurs from, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

P. S. The weekly returns of enlistments not being yet received for more than ten regiments, amounting to seven hundred and twenty-five men, I cannot fill up the blank in this letter; but this, added to the former, makes, in the whole, five thousand two hundred and fifty-three.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, December 5, 1775.

SIR: I have of late met with abundant reason to convince me of the impracticability of recruiting this army to the new establishment, in any reasonable time, by voluntary enlistments. The causes of such exceeding great backwardness I shall not undertake to point out; sufficient it is to know that the fact is so. Many reasons are assigned; one only I shall mention, and that is, that the present soldiery are in expectation of drawing from the landed interest and farmers a bounty equal to the allowance at the commencement of this army, and therefore they play off. Be this as it may, I am satisfied that this is not a time for trifling, and that the exigency of our affairs calls aloud for vigorous exertions.

By sad experience it is found that the Connecticut troops have deserted, and are about to desert the noble cause we are engaged in; nor have I any reason to believe that the forces of New-Hampshire, this Government, or Rhode-Island, will give stronger proofs of their attachment to it, when the period arrives when they may claim their dismissal. For after every stimulus in my power has been thrown in their way, and near a month's close endeavour, we have enlisted but about five thousand men; fifteen hundred of which are to be absent at a time on furlough, until all have gone home, in order to visit and provide for their families. Five thousand militia, from this Government and the Colony of New-Hampshire, are ordered to be at this place by the 10th instant, to relieve the Connecticut regiments, and supply the deficiency which will be occasioned by their departure, and of those on furlough. These men, I am told by officers who have been eye-witnesses to their behaviour, are not to be depended upon for more than a few days, as they soon get tired, grow impatient, ungovernable, and of course leave the service. What will be the consequence, if the greatest part of the army is to be composed of such men? Upon the new establishment, twenty-six regiments were ordered to be raised, besides those of the artillery and riflemen. Of these, New-Hampshire has three, Massachusetts sixteen, Rhode-Island two, and Connecticut five. A mode of appointing the officers was also recommended, and as strictly adhered to as circumstances would admit of. These officers are now recruiting, with the success I have mentioned.

Thus, sir, have I given you a true and impartial state of our situation, and submit it to the wisdom of your and the other three New-England Colonies, whether some vigorous measures, if the powers of Government are adequate, ought not to be adopted, to facilitate the completion of this army, without offering a bounty from the publick, which Congress have declared against, thinking the terms, exclusive thereof, greater than soldiers ever had. I have laid the matter before Congress by this conveyance; but the critical situation of our affairs will not await their deliberation and recommendation. Something must be done without further delay.

I am, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour, &c.

Proceedings of a General Court-Martial of the line, held at Head-Quarters, CAMBRIDGE, by order of his Excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq., Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the UNITED COLONIES, DECEMBER 1, 1775.

Brigadier-General Sullivan, President; Colonel Bridge, Colonel Sargent, Colonel Greaton, Lieut. Colonel Cleaveland, Lieut. Colonel March, Lieut. Colonel Read, Lieut. Colonel Brewer, Lieut. Colonel Vose, Major Poor, Major Wood, Major Woods, Major Johnson.

William Tudor, Judge Advocate.

The Court, being duly sworn, proceeded to the trial of Lieutenant-Colonel Enos, of the Twenty-second Regiment, under an arrest for leaving the detachment under Colonel Arnold, and returning home without permission from his commanding officer.

Colonel Enos, being arraigned on the above charge, says, that true it is he did return without permission from Colonel Arnold, his commanding officer, but that the circumstances of the case were such as obliged him so to do. In justification of his conduct, the Colonel begged leave to produce the following evidences, who were accordingly admitted and sworn, viz:

Captain Williams deposes: At the Great Carrying-place, I heard the men ahead of us were in great want of provisions. About two-thirds across the Great Carrying-place, I met Major Bigelow coming back with ninety-five men, who said they wanted provisions. I dealt out to them a barrel of pork, and one of flour. I delivered Major Bigelow six barrels more of provisions. We proceeded forward, and met several parties returning home, and we had orders to supply them with provisions to reach the English settlements. When I came up with Colonel Enos, I was informed there had been a council of war, and that it was settled that, for want of provision, the whole detachment under Colonel Enos should return. Colonel Enos proposed to go forward himself, and let his division return; but as there was a large number besides those which belonged properly to our division, and we had several invalids to bring back, and were very short of provision, (having but three days' provision, and being above one hundred miles from the English settlements,) I thought it was absolutely necessary for Colonel Enos to take the command of the party back, and protested against his going on to join Colonel Arnold, not knowing what orders Colonel Enos had from Colonel Arnold. The division which went on to join Colonel Arnold, had not more than five days' provisions. We supplied them with most of their provision, and left ourselves only three days' allowances.

Captain McCobb: About fifty miles up the Dead river, we held a council of war, at which I assisted as a member, and it was agreed that the whole division under Colonel Enos should return, there not being sufficient provision to carry both divisions through. Colonel Green's division being some way ahead, it was found that we should save two days' time by letting that division go forward; and time was too precious, and provision too scanty, to dispute the point. It was thought most conducive to the service that Colonel Green's division should proceed. We accordingly left them with five days' provision, and set out on our return with three. Lieutenant-Colonel Enos was going forward without his division, but, for the same reasons which have been mentioned by Captain Williams, I protested also against his going on.

Captain Scott confirms all that Captain McCobb deposes, and adds, that he himself protested against Colonel Enos's going forward; that he then thought, and is now confirmed in the opinion, that the presence of Colonel Enos was very necessary to preserve the harmony and order necessary to secure the safe retreat of the men who were ordered to return.

Lieutenant Hyde: I assisted at the council of war, before mentioned, up the Dead river. We found, by the best computation, that it would take fifteen days to reach any French inhabitants, and that it would be impossible for both divisions (Green's and Enos's) to get through, the provisions being so short. It was judged there was about four days' provisions for those who went forward, and we returned with three days' supply. I protested against Colonel Enos's going on to join Colonel Arnold, his presence being necessary for our safe retreat, as we had a number of invalids, and a considerable number of men who did not belong to either of the companies in our division.

Lieutenant Buckmaster confirms what Lieutenant Hyde deposes, and adds, that it was the opinion of all the officers of Colonel Enos's division, that he should return with his division, as we had one hundred and fifty men who did not belong to our division, who had only a subaltern to command them, and whom it would have been impossible, under our circumstances, to manage without Colonel Enos's presence.

The Court being cleared, are unanimously of opinion, after the most mature consideration, that Lieutenant-Colonel Enos was under a necessity of returning with the division under his command, and therefore acquit him with honour.

JOHN SULLIVAN, President.

ORDERS BY GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 6, 1775.

Parole, Philadelphia. Countersign, Allen.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 7, 1775.

(Parole, Sydney.) (Countersign, Brutus.)

The Connecticut regiments are to be under arms upon their regimental parades, on Saturday, at eleven in the forenoon, in order to be reviewed. They are to have their arms in good order, the rolls to be called over, and no man to be absent; every one that is able must appear; for this purpose they are to be exempt from all other duty on that day.

The Quartermaster-General is strictly enjoined to pay proper attention to the order of the 23d of November, respecting the quartering officers, &c., and is to prevent boards and other materials being applied to the building any houses without his orders, as none such will be allowed for by the publick.

All officers are to pay due obedience to this order.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 8, 1775.

Parole, St. Asaph. Countersign, Cato.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 9, 1775.

(Parole, London.) (Countersign, Granby.)

Sergeant Lane, of Colonel Whitcombe's regiment, with nineteen men of different regiments, whose names, corps, and companies are delivered to Brigade-Major Carey, are immediately to be drafted, and sent to the Quartermaster-General to receive his orders.

The Court Martial whereof Colonel Woodbridge was President is dissolved.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 10, 1775.

(Parole, Burke.) (Countersign, Barre.)

The General has great pleasure in thanking Colonel Bridges, and the officers of the Twenty-seventh Regiment, (who, from a peculiarity of circumstances, or want of vacancies, have no appointment in the new established army,) for their polite address to him. He considers the assurances which they have given, of their determination to continue in service (if required) until the new regiments are completed, in a very favourable light, especially as it is accompanied with further assurances that the men of the Twenty-seventh Regiment are consenting thereto. Such a conduct at this important crisis, cannot fail of giving pleasure to every well-wisher to his country; and, next to engaging for another year, is the highest proof they can give of their attachment to the noble cause of liberty. At the same time that it reflects honour upon themselves, it may, under Providence, give posterity reason to bless them as the happy instruments of their delivery from those chains which were actually forging for them.

Four companies of the New-Hampshire militia are to march to Roxbury, for the reinforcement of that division; the Captain will receive General Ward's orders what regiments they are to be attached to. The rest of the New-Hampshire militia are to join the brigades on Winter and Prospect Hills, in Cambridge, &c., and, together with the companies of militia from Massachusetts, which are ordered to join Preston's, Greator's, and Nixon's regiments, are to be appointed to the new established regiments, as the Majors and Brigadiers-General shall think fit for the most equal distribution of them.

The Captains of the several militia companies from the Massachusetts and New-Hampshire Governments, are to make exact rolls of their companies, and return them signed, without delay, to the Adjutant-General.

Head-Quarters, December 11, 1775.

(Parole, Otis.) (Countersign, Warren.)

The Majors of Brigade to be more exact in obliging the Adjutants to deliver to them every Saturday, at orderly time, an exact return, signed by the commanding officers of the new established regiments, of the number of men weekly inlisted in each of those regiments. The Majors of Brigade will, for the future, be answerable for any neglect in executing this order.

To reward and encourage military merit, the Congress thought proper to increase the pay of the captains and subalterns of the Continental army; and, as uniformity and decency in dress are essentially necessary in the appearance and regularity of an army, his Excellency recommends it earnestly to the officers to put themselves in a proper uniform. The field officers of each of the new corps will set the example, by clothing themselves in a regimental of their respective corps; and it is not doubted but the captains and subalterns will immediately follow the example.

The General by no mean recommends or desires officers to run into costly or expensive regimentals; no matter how plain, or coarse, so they are but uniform in their colour, cut, and fashion.

The officers belonging to those regiments whose uniforms are not yet fixed upon, had better delay making their regimentals until they are.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO MESHECH WEARE.

Winter-Hill, December 11, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Though continually involved in those difficulties which necessarily attend a military life, I can by no means forget the duty I owe to that Province whose generous favours I have so largely shared, and whose generous favours I have so often experienced. Being deeply impressed with gratitude to that truly patriotic Colony, and fully sensible that the remaining part of my life ought to be devoted to the interest of my country in general, and that Province in particular, I have stolen a few moments from the busy scenes of war, to offer you my thoughts upon a matter which I deem essential to the future welfare of my truly spirited and deserving brethren within that Government.

I hear that the Continental Congress has given our Province a power to assume government. But the contents of this letter to the Provincial Congress having never transpired, and my friends at the Continental Congress having never informed me but in general terms that we had liberty to assume government, I must conclude that liberty is given to set up and establish a new form of government; for, as we were, properly speaking, a King's Government before, the giving us a power to assume government, would be giving us a license to assume a form of government which we could never obtain. Taking it therefore for granted that the Congress have given us liberty to set up that form of government which will best answer the true end and design thereof, I shall beg leave to offer you my thoughts upon the subject, leaving you to make such use thereof as your wisdom shall direct. And, as my ideas of government may in some measure differ from many others, I shall beg leave to premise some few things. And in the first place must observe, that all governments are, or ought to be, instituted for the good of the people; and that form of government is most perfect where that design is most nearly and effectually answered.

Secondly. That government which admits of contrary or clashing interests, is imperfect, and must work its own ruin whenever one branch has gained a power sufficient to overrule or destroy the other. And the adding a third, with a separate and distinct interest, in imitation of the British Constitution, so much celebrated by those who understand nothing of it, is only like two contending powers calling in a third which is unconnected in interest, to keep the other two in awe, till it can gain power sufficient to destroy them both. And I may almost venture to prophesy, that the period is now at hand when the British nation will too late discover the defects in their much boasted Constitution, and the ruin of that empire evince to the world the folly and danger of establishing a government consisting of different branches, whose interests must ever clash with each other.

Third. That no danger can arise to a State from giving the people a free and full voice in their own government. And that, what is called the prerogatives of the Crown, or checks upon the licentiousness of the people, are only the children of designing or ambitious men, no such thing being necessary; for, though many States have been overturned by the rage and violence of the people, yet that spirit of rage and violence has ever been awakened in the first place by the misconduct of their rulers. And, though often carried to the most dangerous heights, so far from being owing to too much power being lodged in the hands of the people, that it is clearly owing to their having too small, and their rulers too extensive a power.

Thus, we find Rome enjoyed its liberties until their Dictators and others were clothed with power unknown before, at least in that country, and made in some sort independent of the people; and to this authority, so inconsiderately given, should be charged all the tumults at Rome, and the final ruin of that empire. This uncontrollable power, so much sought after by designing men, is made use of to enslave the people, and either brings about that event, or raises the just indignation of the people to extirpate the tyrant thus seeking their ruin. And it sometimes happens that the resentment is so far carried by the fury of an enraged populace, as totally to destroy the remains of government, and leave them in a state of anarchy and confusion; and too often have designing persons taken advantage of this confusion, and established tyranny in its place.

I am well convinced that people are too fond of their own ease and quiet to rise up in rebellion against government, unless where the tyranny of their rulers becomes intolerable. And their fondness for government must clearly appear, from their so often submitting to one tyrant after they had extirpated another, rather than live in a state of anarchy and confusion.

I would therefore advise to such a form of government as would admit of but one object to be kept in view, both by the governor and governed, namely, the good of the whole; that one interest should unite the several governing branches, and that the frequent choice of the rulers, by the people, should operate as a check upon their conduct, and remind them that a new election would soon honour them for their good conduct, or disgrace them for betraying the trust reposed in them.

I by no means object to a Governor, but would have him freely appointed by the people, and dependent upon them, and his appointment not to continue for a long time, unless re-elected—at most, not exceeding three years; and this appointment to be made by the freeholders in person, and not by their representatives, as that would be putting too dangerous a power in their hands, and possibly a majority of designing men might elect a person to answer their own particular purposes, to the great emolument of those individuals, and the oppression of their fellow-subjects; whereas, we can never suppose the people to have any thing but the true end of government, viz: their own good in view, unless we suppose them idiots or self-murderers.

I am likewise much in favour of a Council and House of Representatives, but would have them likewise chosen by the people, and by no means for a longer time than three years; and this mode of choosing would effectually destroy that pernicious power distinguishing Governors, to throw aside those persons who they found would not join them in enslaving the people.

The late conduct of Bernard and Hutchinson, and the present unhappy state of the Province I am now in, are striking witnesses of the justice of this observation; nor can I see the least reason for a Governor having a power to negative a Speaker of the House.

I would have some rule established for making that person incapable of holding either of the above offices, that should, either before or after his election, bribe or treat the voters, with intent either to procure an election or reward the electors for having chosen him. Accusation, if against the Governor, to be tried by the two Houses; and if against either of the other members, by the Governors and the other members of both Houses, he having only a vote equal to any other member. And in case judgment should pass against the new elected Governor, the old one to remain till a new election be had; and in case he be the same person formerly elected, the President of the Council to supply his place till a new election can be made, which President should be appointed by free vote of the members of the Council, at their first meeting.

The infamous practice of bribing people, in Great Bri- tain, to sell their votes, and consequently their liberty, must show the danger of permitting so dangerous a practice to be instituted under our Constitution, to prevent which, and to guard against the undue influence of persons in power over votes, I would recommend the Pennsylvanian method, viz: that every vote should be rolled up, sealed on the back thereof, be noted that it is a vote for a Governour, which should be deposited in a box prepared for that purpose; and a vote for Counsellors and Representatives, sealed up, noted on the back, brought in as aforesaid, and deposited in separate boxes, provided for the purpose. That all voters having once given in their votes, should pass out, and care be taken that they should not come in again till the voting was over; or, if it be thought more expedient, to let the clerk of the meeting have a perfect list of all voters, with three columns ruled against those names, one marked for a Governour, one for a Representative; and when a person brings in a vote for one, a mark to be made against his name in that column; and if he brings in for all three at the same time, a mark to be made in each column; which I think will effectually prevent any fraud in voting again. The Representatives' box to be examined in meeting, and the election declared. The votes given for Counsellors and Governour to be sealed up by the clerk, and forwarded by him to the capital of the Province, where all the votes being had together, a sworn committee should examine the whole and declare the elections.

This method, though it may appear somewhat troublesome, will not turn out so upon trial; and it is the most effectual method to secure the freedom of voting, and prevent every species of fraud and connivance.

Any persons who offer themselves as candidates for any berth, may, agreeably to the method practised in Pennsylvania, publish their design in newspapers, or communicate it in any other method they may think proper, or leave the people to find out persons of merit and nominate for themselves. All civil officers should be appointed by the three branches, and all military officers by the Governour and Council, and never superseded in commission but by the same power which created them. All laws negatived by a Governour, if revived afterwards, and passed by a new House and Council, to be assented to by him at all events, as it would be unreasonable to suppose two Houses of Representatives, and two sets of Counsellors, possessed of less wisdom, or to have less understanding of the true interests of the people, than a single person has, and that after having a long time to think upon the matter, and to consult their constituents thereon.

And here I must beg leave to observe that, however high other people's notions of government may run, and however much they may be disposed to worship a creature of their own creation, I can by no means consent to lodging too much power in the hands of one person, or suffering an interest in government to exist separate from that of the people, or any man to hold an office, for the execution of which he is not in some way or other answerable to that people to whom he owes his political existence.

Time will not permit me to go more largely into the subject, but I must leave you to weigh these hints, and make such improvement thereon as your wisdom shall direct; and though my notions of government are something singular, yet, I think this plan will be an improvement upon the Constitution, by far the happiest I know of. Where I have supposed a defect in that Constitution, I have taken the freedom to borrow from that of Pennsylvania, and other governments, to supply it; and, in some instances have added my own thoughts, which, if they have the force of reason in them, will have their weight. If they should not appear to be founded on reason, I must beg you to excuse my giving you trouble, as I sincerely aim to promote the welfare of that Colony, to which I wish the most lasting happiness.

And assure yourself that I am, with much esteem, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

ADDRESS OF THE MAGISTRATES AND COUNCIL OF KIRK WALL.

Address of the Magistrates and Council of the Burgh of Kirkwall, presented to His Majesty by Thomas Dundas, Esq., Representative in Parliament for Stirlingshire.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Magistrates and Council of the Burgh of KIRK WALL.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the Burgh of Kirkwall, beg leave to approach the Throne with unfeigned hearts and real zeal for the many blessings we have enjoyed by the dispensation of Providence during your Majesty's reign, which we wish may be long and prosperous. We at the same time declare our abhorrence and detestation of the unhappy and unnatural disputes of the Colonists in America with their mother country, fomented and promoted by divisions at home, and carried on and supported by the enthusiastick spirit and overgrown wealth of the Colonists themselves, inasmuch that their unbounded liberties have increased not only to licentiousness, but to open rebellion.

We will not pretend to prescribe rules or methods for terminating these miseries; but we earnestly wish that your Majesty, assisted by the Parliament of Great Britain, will endeavour to suppress this rebellion, and to bring the troubles and calamities thereby occasioned, to as speedy an issue as your Majesty's wisdom, the spirit of the nation, and the welfare of Great Britain, shall permit; and to effectuate and bring about this happy and desirable end we will always be ready to contribute to the utmost of our power.

Signed in name, presence, and appointment of the Council, the 12th day of December, 1775 years, by JOHN RIDDOCH, Provost.

ADDRESS OF THE NOBLEMEN, ETC., OF ROXBURGH.

Address of the Noblemen and Gentlemen of the County of Roxburgh, presented to His Majesty by the Right Honourable Sir Gilbert Elliot, Bart., their Representative in Parliament.

Unto the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Noblemen and Gentlemen of the County of ROXBURGH.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen and Gentlemen of the County of Roxburgh, beg leave to approach your Majesty with hearts full of gratitude for the many blessings we enjoy under your mild and auspicious Government, and to testify to your Majesty our abhorrence of the unnatural and unprovoked rebellion which now rages in your North-American Colonies.

At the same time that we sincerely lament the misery and distraction into which your deluded subjects of America have thrown their unhappy country, by an ungrateful departure from their duty and allegiance, we can assure your Majesty that we have the most entire confidence in the justice, wisdom, and vigour of your measures, for restoring peace and good government to every part of your extensive dominions; and that we are ready, with our lives and fortunes, to support your Majesty's authority, and that of the Parliament of Great Britain, against every attempt to overthrow our present happy Constitution.

Signed by our appointment:

JAMES DOUGLASS, Præses.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

Great-Bridge, December 12, 1775.

Lieutenant-Colonel Stephens arrived at Kemp's Landing last night, and agreeably to my orders, sent a party to secure every person in that neighbourhood that had left Norfolk since the battle of the Great-Bridge. He informs he has Mr. McCalvert, Dr. Campbell, Mr. Matthew Phripp, and others, now with him, whose examinations I now enclose. I have had a number of people from thence to day, whose stories disagree. They bring two petitions, one from the poor inhabitants of Norfolk, the other from the distressed Highlanders, which I likewise send enclosed; and have given no answer to them yet. Have detained the bearers for further consideration.

Two gentlemen this moment brought me in a young Scotchman, named Hamilton, who confesses he has borne arms, and was at this fort in Gilmore's company. He was making his way to Nansemond. I have ordered him to be coupled to one of his brother black soldiers, with a pair of handcuffs, which is the resolution I have taken shall be the fate of all these cattle, till I am further instructed by your honourable House.

Enclose a copy of my advertisement, dispersed over Princess-Ann and Norfolk Counties, and hope it will meet with your approbation.

Major Eppes arrived here this evening with his party, and Colonel Hove with three hundred and forty of the Carolina regulars. I shall march to-morrow with a number of the troops.

I am just informed that several sail of vessels were arrived to day, thought to have troops on board; but Colonel Hove supposes them to be the tenders returning from North-Carolina.

Two companies of choice riflemen have arrived at headquarters this week, who are well armed, commanded by Captain Campbell, of Fincastle, and Captain Gibson, of West-Augusta. Captain Morgan Alexander, with his rifle company, is expected this day. As fine men we have here as ever were seen.

COLONEL SCOTT TO CAPTAIN SOUTHALL.

Great-Bridge, December 12, 1775.

We are now about to finish the work that we came down about. We sent a detachment of four hundred men to Kemp's Landing last night to take possession of that place, which they did without interruption. The inhabitants of Norfolk are daily sending petitions to us for protection. We have not yet answered them. We have taken up some of the worst of the Tories, and coupled them to a negro with handcuffs. The most stupid kind we discharge. I expect a flag of truce here every moment.

We have just received a letter from Lord Dunmore, desiring to exchange the prisoners. I do not expect we shall agree to do it without consulting the Convention. Four of the prisoners are dead since taken. We are well informed that the Governor has disarmed the negroes, and taken all the troops, together with a number of Scotchmen, on board.

I am your most obedient,

C. SCOTT.

P. S. The flag I mentioned above has since come to our camp, in order to exchange prisoners. They behaved exceeding well, and were discharged about eleven o'clock at night, but it is expected we shall hear again from them so soon as our express returns from Williamsburgh.

HANOVER COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

MR. ALEXANDER PURDIE : The Committee of Hanover County, having understood that reports have been propagated reflecting on their conduct with regard to the steps taken by them to prevent disorder and confusion in the County, occasioned by the probability of a scarcity of salt; and that the publick may be satisfied as to the rectitude of their conduct, they have directed me to desire you will publish, in your next Gazette, their proceedings relative thereto, hereunto annexed, which you will please to comply with.

I am your most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM BENTLEY, Clerk.

December 12, 1775.

In Committee, December 12, 1775.

Whereas it is represented to this Committee, that several persons have of their own accord gone about in a disorderly manner, to search for Salt, and have taken the same where it could not be well spared. And this Committee, taking under their consideration the above alarm, occasioned by the scarcity thereof, and being willing and desirous, as far as in their power, to preserve peace and good order, and to prevent riots and tumults:

Resolved, therefore, That, upon application being made to any three or more of this Committee, they will search all suspected places within this County, in the most decent and respectful manner; and if they shall find more than is sufficient for a person's own use, they will do therein as to them shall seem best and expedient, and report the same to this Committee. And if any person or persons whatsoever, within their jurisdiction, shall presume, or offer, without the authority aforesaid, to go about to search for Salt at any publick or private places, that this Committee will use their utmost endeavours to suppress the same, by such ways and means as they shall think proper, and hold the persons guilty thereof to the publick, for contempt of peace, justice and good order.

And that no persons offending herein may plead ignorance for an excuse:

Ordered, That the Clerk of this Committee do cause a copy of this order to be set up at every publick place in this County, and be also published on some Lord's day at the several churches in the said County, by the Ministers and Recorders thereof.

Signed by order of the Committee:

WILLIAM BENTLEY, Clerk.

COMMITTEE OF SECRET CORRESPONDENCE TO ARTHUR LEE.

Philadelphia, December 12, 1775.

SIR: By this conveyance we have the pleasure of transmitting to you sundry printed papers, that such of them as you think proper may be immediately published in England.

We have written on the subject of American affairs to Monsieur C. G. F. Dumas, who resides at the Hague. We recommend to you to correspond with him, and to send through his hands any letters to us, which you cannot send more directly. He will transmit them via St. Eustatia. Mr. Story may be trusted with any despatches you think proper to send us. You will be so kind as to aid and advise him.

It would be agreeable to Congress to know the disposition of foreign Powers towards us, and we hope this object will engage your attention. We need not hint that great circumspection and impenetrable secrecy are necessary. The Congress rely on your zeal and abilities to serve them, and will readily compensate you for whatever trouble and expense a compliance with their desire may occasion. We remit you for the present two hundred pounds.

Whenever you think the importance of your despatches may require it, we desire you to send an express boat with them from England, for which service your agreement with the owner there shall be fulfilled by us here.

We can now only add, that we continue firm in our resolutions to defend ourselves, notwithstanding the big threats of the Ministry. We have just taken one of their ordnance store-ships, in which an abundance of carcasses and bombs, intended for burning our towns, were found.

With great esteem, we are, sir, your most obedient, humble servants,

B. FRANKLIN,
JOHN DICKINSON,
JOHN JAY.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

In Committee, December 12, 1775.

Resolved, That the price of Oil be limited to five pounds per barrel, and no person who may purchase any to retail again be allowed to advance above five shillings per barrel when sold at the wharf, and seven shillings and six pence per barrel, for what they store; and that this Committee recommend it to the retailers in small quantities to sell it in proportion.

R. S. JONES, Secretary.

LORD STIRLING TO NEW-JERSEY COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Elizabethtown, December 12, 1775

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 9th instant, I have received, and am glad to find the appointment of William Barrett, Jun., to the surgency of my regiment has taken place, as we have already use for him, in curing broken shins, and a variety of small business, which unavoidably happen among a number of men assembled together. I wish the commission could be immediately despatched and sent to me, with an account of his pay and allowance that is made with regard to his medicine chest.

Mr. Abner Hatfield was well recommended to me as a fit person to be Quartermaster to the regiment, before I mentioned him as such to Congress. I knew of no disqualification; he has indeed been unfortunate in his circumstances; but I could not conceive that was one, as no money matters, or any other matter would come within his charge that can be affected by his poverty. I apprehend that the nature of this office has been mistaken by your Committee, or that they supposed it was a branch of the Quartermaster-General's office, especially as you mention it as an office worthy the acceptance of Colonel Dayton, or Colonel Thomas. But it has no connection with that department; he is a mere regimental officer, who must at all times attend the regiment, and therefore by no means can suit either of the gentlemen you mention. If still an objection lies against Mr. Hatfield, I must then recommend Mr. Mathias Halsted for that office. In this I am backed by Mr. John De Hart, Colonel Dayton, and Colonel Thomas, and should be glad to have the commission expedited as soon as possible, as we now stand in need of that officer, three companies being now in town, and the rest of the regiment to be here in a few days, the inhabitants having cheerfully agreed to take in all the companies that cannot be quartered in the barracks.

We have quietly got possession of the barracks at Amboy, with all the barrack stores and blankets. One company of this battalion are now there. As soon as Colonel Maxwell's regiment is ready, they will take possession of the barracks at Trenton, Brunswick, and Amboy.

STIRLING.

RECANTATION OF JAMES MILLER.

I, James Miller, of Bedford, in the Province of New-York, notwithstanding my signing the Association in the year past, which was recommended by the Provincial Congress of the Province of New-York, in which I engaged to abide by the resolves of the honourable Continental Congress, and to oppose the present tyrannical measures pursued by the British Ministry and their adherents in America, in order to enslave the inhabitants of the Colonies, yet in the face of all my engagements, by signing the Association above mentioned, I have resolutely opposed all the military preparations recommended by the Delegates of the United Colonies in the Continental Congress, and in many instances have, to my shame, acted against the liberties of the country which gave me birth; and have by indecent and abusive language endeavoured to ridicule those that appeared determined to support their liberties at the hazard of their lives, against all tyranny and oppression. I endeavoured also to break up the Minute company in the town of Bedford; for which, and all my misbehaviour toward them, and opposition to the liberties of America, I now ask their forgiveness, and the forgiveness of all the inhabitants of my bleeding country, which I have injured by my misconduct, and promise to behave myself for the future, consistent with the proposals of the honourable Continental Congress.

As witness my hand in Stamford, this 12th day of December, 1775, desiring the same may be published.

JAMES MILLER.

RECANTATION OF LEWIS McDONALD.

I, Lewis McDonald, Jun., of Bedford, Westchester County, in the Province of New-York, having lately taken the office of Justice of the Peace, under the Ministerial party in this Province, in which I have endeavoured to support their measures, and also violently opposed the military preparations made in consequence of the directions of the honourable Continental Congress, and in many instances have, both in principle and practice been inimical to the liberty and rights of America; for the whole of which conduct I am sincerely sorry, and ask the forgiveness of this Committee, and all the inhabitants of my bleeding country, whom I have injured by my misconduct, either by my private conduct, or in the execution of my office of justice of the peace; and promise that I will suspend acting in that office without the consent of the Committee of the town of Bedford. Which above confession and promise I freely set my hand unto, in Stamford, in Connecticut, desiring the same to be published in one of the New-York papers.

LEWIS McDONALD, JUN.

December 12, 1775.

RECANTATION OF STEPHEN BAXTER.

I, Stephen Baxter, of Bedford, in the Colony of New-York, acknowledge, that, by horrid cursing and profane swearing, I have opposed the liberties of America, and the measures pursued by the honourable Continental Congress; calling those Rebels that adhered to that, and endeavoured to frustrate them in their opposition to the present tyrannical measures pursued by the British Ministry and their tools; for all of which conduct of mine, I am sincerely sorry, and ask the forgiveness of all those whom I have abused personally, and also the friends of American liberty in general, to whom I desire my confession may be made publick in one of the New-York papers.

As witness my hand in Stamford, this 12th day of December, A. D. 1775.

STEPHEN BAXTER.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Albany, December 12, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 5th instant I had the honour to receive yesterday. I thank your Honour for the return that was enclosed. Mr. McKay, who was taken at St. John's, has behaved in such a manner that the Committee of this place have requested his removal. I have discharged him from his parole of honour, and he goes under an escort to Lebanon. I hear that both the elder and younger Skene are fled, and consequently broke their parole of honour. Some of the officers that went under Captain Mott's charge have also attempted to run off. I fear they do not consider their parole of honour as binding. General Montgomery left Montreal on the 25th ultimo, to join Colonel Arnold. The former cannot take above three hundred men with him; and the latter has only five hundred and fifty.

Lieutenant Halsey has behaved so ill that General Montgomery has returned him to me as a deserter. The General says that it was he that instigated the people to refuse going to Montreal. He is certainly turbulent and seditious; I found him so early in the campaign. An extract from General Montgomery's letter, in which the above charge is contained, I have sent to the honourable Continental Congress, and have observed: "That as the time for which Mr. Halsey was engaged is expired, he can only be punished by stopping all his pay, which must be done, unless he will request to be tried by a court-martial."

Wishing your Honour much health and happiness, I am, with great respect and esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

GENERAL LEE TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Camp, December 12, 1775.

MY DEAR FRIEND: I have just received your letter by Mr. Custis. I am heartily glad that you have sent a Committee into Canada, but, inter nos, think it might have been better chosen. Payne has certainly not the manners . . . which, according to Lord Chesterfield, and my observation, are so requisite to captivate the French; for Heaven's sake, my dear friend, why are you not more decisive, and wherefore are any of the sea-port towns suffered to furnish the men-of-war with fresh meat, or even with a single carrot; this indecision will ruin us; this cursed tenderness for the sea-port towns will at least prolong the war and all its calamities. It was indecision that has thrown your affairs in Virginia into their present situation; had my opinion been thought worthy of attention, Lord Dunmore should have been disarmed of his teeth and his claws. I proposed seizing Tryon, and all his tories, at New-York. I knew if it was moved in Congress his Excellency would be instantly apprised of it, and of course the possibility of effecting it would not be left to us; in this persuasion, I would have struck the stroke, and applied afterwards to your mightinesses for approbation. You will justly accuse me of self-conceit and egotism, but I have not yet done. I propose, therefore, the following measures:

First. To seize every Governour, Government man, placeman, tory, and enemy to liberty, on the Continent; to confiscate their estates, or, at least, lay them under heavy contributions for the publick; their persons should be secured in some of the interior towns, as hostages for their treatment of those of our party whom the fortune of war shall throw into their hands; they should be allowed a reasonable pension out of their fortunes for their maintenance.

Secondly. I propose that New-York be strongly garrisoned and fortified, or destroyed.

Thirdly. That a strong flying camp, with not only an able officer at their head, but an officer who has the reputation of being able, in order to inspire the people with confidence, be kept about Hampton, York, or Williamsburgh, in Virginia; another, not quite so strong, about Alexandria; and a third, a strong one, about Annapolis, in Maryland.

Fourth. That Charlestown, in Carolina, should be well secured.

Fifth, and lastly. That, if the Canadians desire it, you spare no expense in furnishing them with an army; but, above all, that you be extremely careful in the choice of officers sent to that country; that they be not only men of strict integrity, but of a frank, open address, with elevated sentiments expressed in their manners. I should think such men may be found with you more easily than in these Provinces, as I find you propose in your letter, for I never saw a people so universally destitute du l'air du monde, as these here; Mr. Bowdoin, an invalid, is the only exception. These propositions, I before offered to a member of your Congress, with one other, respecting the construction of your army, here omitted.

Recruiting goes on here more briskly than we expected; the men are strange mortals, but they have virtue, and many good qualities. Adieu, my dear friend.

Yours, affectionately,

C. LEE.

GENERAL GATES TO GENERAL SULLIVAN.

Head-Quarters, December 12, 1775.

SIR: I have received his Excellency's orders in answer to your letter by the bearer. You have his permission to deliver the Connecticut arms to such of the militia as are in want of arms, taking proper receipts, and making proper persons accountable for the re-delivery.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

HORATIO GATES, Adjutant-General.

To Brigadier-General Sullivan, Winter-Hill.

TO DR. WHEELOCK.

Cambridge, December 12, 1775.

Acknowledged receipt of two letters. Thanked him for information respecting Major Rogers, and enclosed a letter for him, which was saved, with other papers thrown overboard by Captain Forster.

R. H. H.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO THE REV. DOCTOR STILES.

Cambridge, December 12, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to inform you that he received your favour of the 1st instant, with your History of America, containing several useful and necessary maps, for which he is exceedingly obliged to you. It will be taken care of and returned when you want it. General Gates will have the perusal of it, to whom your respects have been tendered.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

R. H. HARRISON.

To the Rev. Dr. Stiles, Newport.

PROCLAMATION BY VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

By the Representatives of the People of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA, assembled in General Convention.

A DECLARATION.

Whereas Lord Dunmore, by his Proclamation, dated on board the ship William, the 7th day of November, 1775, hath presumed, in direct violation of the Constitution and the laws of this country, to declare martial law in force, and to be executed throughout this Colony, whereby our lives, our liberty, and property, are arbitrarily subjected to his power and direction; and whereas the said Lord Dunmore, assuming powers which the King himself cannot exercise, to intimidate the good people of this Colony into a compliance with his arbitrary will, hath declared those who do not immediately repair to his standard, and submit in all things to a government not warranted by the Constitution, to be in actual rebellion, and thereby to have incurred the penalties inflicted by the laws for such offences; and hath offered freedom to the servants and slaves of those he is pleased to term Rebels, arming them against their masters, and destroying the peace and happiness of His Majesty's good and faithful subjects, whose property is rendered insecure, and whose lives are exposed to the dangers of a general insurrection: we, as guardians of the lives and liberty of the people, our constituents, conceive it to be indispensably our duty to protect them against every species of despotism, and to endeavour to remove those fears with which they are so justly alarmed.

If it were possible the understanding of men could be so blinded that every gleam of reason might be lost, the hope his Lordship says he hath ever entertained of an accommodation between Great Britain and this Colony, might now pass unnoticed; but truth, justice, and common sense, must ever prevail, when facts can be appealed to in their support. It is the peculiar happiness of this Colony that his Lordship can be traced as the source of innumerable evils, and one of the principal causes of the misfortunes under which we now labour. A particular detail of his conduct since his arrival in this Colony, can be considered only as a repetition, it having been already fully published to the world by the proceedings of the General Assembly, and a former Convention; but the unremitting violence with which his Lordship endeavours to involve this country in the most dreadful calamities, constantly affords new matter for the attention of the publick, and will remove every imputation of ingratitude to his Lordship, or of injustice to his character. His Lordship is pleased to ascribe the unworthy part he has taken against this Colony to a necessity arising from the conduct of its inhabitants, whom he hath considered in a rebellious state, but who know nothing of rebellion except the name. Ever zealous in support of tyranny, he hath broken the bonds of society, and trampled justice under his feet. Had his Lordship been desirous of effecting an accommodation of these disputes, he hath had the most ample occasion of exerting both his interest and abilities; but that he never had in view any such salutary end, most evidently appears from the whole tenor of his conduct. The supposed design of the Canada bill having been to draw down upon us a merciless and savage enemy; the present manœuvres amongst the Roman Catholics in Ireland, and the schemes concerted with Doctor Connolly, and other vile instruments of tyranny, which have appeared by the examination of said Connolly, justify the supposition, and most fully evince his Lordship's inimical and cruel disposition towards us, and can best determine whether we have been wrong in preparing to resist, even by arms, that system of tyranny adopted by the Ministry and Parliament of Great Britain, of which he is become the rigid executioner in this Colony. The many depredations committed also upon the inhabitants of this Colony, by the tenders and other armed vessels employed by his Lordship for such purposes, the pilfering and plundering the property of the people, and the actual seduction and seizure of their slaves, were truly alarming in their effects, and called aloud for justice and resistance. The persons of many of our peaceable brethren have been seized and dragged to confinement, contrary to the principles of liberty, and the Constitution of our country. Yet have we borne this injurious treatment with unexampled patience, unwilling to shed the blood of our fellow-subjects, who, prosecuting the measures of a British Parliament, would sacrifice our lives and property to a relentless fury, and unabating avarice. If a Governour can be authorized, even by Majesty itself, to annul the laws of the land, and introduce the most execrable of all systems, the law martial; if, by his single fiat, he can strip us of our property, can give freedom to our servants and slaves, and arm them for our destruction, let us bid adieu to every thing valuable in life; let us at once bend our neck to the galling yoke, and hug the chains prepared for us and our latest posterity.

It is with inexpressible concern we reflect upon the distressed situation of some of our unhappy countrymen who have thought themselves too immediately within the power of Lord Dunmore, and have been induced thereby to remain inactive. We lament the advantage he hath taken of their situation, and at present impute their inactivity in the cause of freedom and the Constitution, not to any defection or want of zeal, but to their defenceless state; and whilst we endeavour to afford them succour, and to support their rights, we expect they will contribute every thing in their power to effect their deliverance. Yet, if any of our people, in violation of their faith plighted to this Colony, and the duty they owe to society, shall be found in arms, or continue to give assistance to our enemies, we shall think ourselves justified, by the necessity we are under, in executing upon them the law of retaliation.

Impressed with a just and ardent zeal for the welfare and happiness of our countrymen, we trust they will, on their part, exert themselves in defence of our common cause, and that we shall all acquit ourselves like freemen, being compelled by the disagreeable, but absolute necessity, of repelling force by force, to maintain our just rights and privileges: and we appeal to God, who is the sovereign disposer of all events, for the justice of our cause, trusting to His unerring wisdom to direct our councils, and give success to our arms.

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

Virginia, December 13, 1775.

COLONEL HOWE TO THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

December 13, 1775.

We have scouting parties down the Bay, to give intelligence of the arrival of any vessels, or any other event, either to our advantage or otherwise. From the officers commanding those parties, we have received certain intelligence that a man-of-war, either of thirty-six or forty guns, is within the Bay, and on her way to this place, with a large brig, supposed to be a store-ship, both full of men. This may probably give us something to do, and I hope we may execute it properly.

CHARLES STEWART TO GOVERNOUR PENN.

Ringwood, December 13, 1775.

SIR: In pursuance of your Honour's letter (of 25th ultimo) to the Magistrates of Northampton County, which was delivered to George Taylor, Esq., in Philadelphia, he and I met at Easton, on the 28th, where the contents were made known to Messrs. Gorden, Kuchlin, and Van Compton. The Justices, Nicholas Dupui and Garret Broadhead, were wrote to, to attend at Easton, but did not come. In a day or two after, writs were renewed against the New-England people who had been formerly indicted; and Mr. Taylor furnishing ammunition for the occasion, Mr. Sheriff proceeded over the mountain where some time was spent in collecting a posse; mean time, I sent a proper person to examine the situation of Fort Parks, with directions to return and meet Mr. Sheriff, who accordingly did, and reported, what was found afterwards true, that the Yankees would make little or no resistance; therefore, those that were found were taken; about one-half got out of the way. Mr. Sheriff returned forthwith, without demolishing any part of the fort, and the prisoners were forty miles on their way to Easton, when an express from Fort Augusta arrived, with intelligence that the Sheriff and posse of Northumberland had not yet moved up the river, and wanted to get some assistance from Northampton County. This account embarrassed us exceedingly. The prisoners were told, when they met me, terms would be made; and, declaring their willingness to do any and every thing, I produced to them the enclosed paper, which they readily executed, and sent a man back with them to see that they performed what further promises they made, viz: to cut down the stockades of the fort, and to collect all the settlers that had hid or fled, and get them to sign the copy of the enclosed, and send it to Easton at court next week, with their principal men, where they propose to take leases for their respective improvements or purchase, which some of them say they mean to do, if possible. Silas Parks, who is the only one amongst them who stood indicted, had gone to Wyoming the day before the Sheriff got up; had he been taken, I would not have consented to his stopping short of prison. The rest we had, in fact, no process against, except a warrant, in which their names, as they gave them in, were inserted. Notwithstanding Yankees have so often deceived me, I really expect those men will appear at court, and gladly come under lease; if they do not, I flatter myself the paper they have signed will operate against them hereafter, and be a foundation for calling on them again. At any rate, I beg leave to assure your Honour I did it for the best, and was cautious of giving reason to censure us for cruelty. I also thought treating those people tenderly might facilitate the expedition of the Northumberland Sheriff at Wyoming. I sent an express to them, informing them of what was done, and a copy of the terms. I likewise sent a duplicate of the writ, attested under the seal of Mr. Gorden's office, that they might have all the authority that would be given them to secure the old offenders that are at Wyoming. As the party who went to Fort Parks, or Wallanpapeck, were weary at their return, some disputes having also happened among them, it was with great difficulty I could collect a party to go and join the Sheriff of Northumberland; however, about thirty set out on Monday evening and Tuesday morning, with Isaiah Jennings at their head. I expect that, if they can cross the creeks, they will be this night with the Northumberland men at Wophalapane, the place proposed in their letter to meet at.

I had daily intelligence from Wyoming whilst I was over the mountain. Great divisions have arisen at Wyoming lately. Lazarus Stewart has sent me repeated assurances of his neutrality, at least, and his adherents are hourly wrangling with the real Yankees, so that I think a surrender must ensue. John McDowell and his son-in-law, Jacob Stroud, from Fort Penn, set off last Sunday to bring away from Wyoming their relations, who are numerous, and secure the moneys due them at Wyoming, which is considerable. I believe Stroud will do all he can to serve the cause now, as he has lately been chosen a Colonel, and I gave him to understand he must exert himself or his cockade would be in danger, complaints having been made against him for supplying the Yankees with ammunition and arms to disturb the peace of the Province. Mr. Taylor has done every thing in his power to serve Government on this occasion, and furnished the ammunition, without which nothing would have been done. Mr. Kuchlin and Mr. Van Compton have also been active. I hope the Northumberland posse will succeed without shedding blood. At any rate, I am convinced they will make them submit, and a few days will bring the news. If your Honour thinks proper to let the Wallanpapeck lands to those people on lease, the copy of the draft, with instructions as to terms, will be wanted at Easton court. If the paper they signed contained sufficient power to enter judgment on, I would advise them to be done, to prevent future disputes about possession with them. If Colonel Tench Francis and Mr. Taylor were appointed to treat with those people, I believe it would be answering a good purpose. I know no man so fit to talk to Yankees as Col. Francis, and Taylor may surely be depended on. I will, if able to ride, be at Easton, but am and have been several days in great pain with a rheumatism in my legs.

I am your Honour's most obedient, humble servant,
CHARLES STEWART.

The Honourable John Penn, Esquire.

ASSOCIATION OF CONNECTICUT INTRUDERS.

Whereas we, the subscribers, with Silas Parks and others, our associates, have riotously and in defiance of the laws of the Province of Pennsylvania, seized upon and taken possession of a tract of land surveyed for the honourable the Proprietaries of this Province of Pennsylvania aforesaid, situate on the waters of Lackawaxen, at a place called Wallanpapeck, in the County of Northampton; for which forcible entries, riots, and other illegal acts of any, bills of indictment have been found against us. And the Sheriff and Magistrates of the said County, producing His Majesty's process or writs unto us, we confess the legal service thereof on us severally. And do voluntarily and most cheerfully surrender ourselves to the humanity of the honourable the Proprietaries of Pennsylvania, in regard to our possessions, and to the lenity of the laws of said Province in regard to our crimes, and will appear, agreeably to our recognizances, at Easton court next term. And we do, each for himself, solemnly and voluntarily declare and promise that we will, in future, pay due obedience unto, and be governed by, the laws of Pennsylvania in every respect. We also disclaim all title to our present possessions, in pursuance of any claim or pretended right we, or any of us, may formerly have had under the Susquehannah or Delaware Companies, in Connecticut. And we covenant and promise to yield up our said possessions to the said Proprietaries, or their agents, at any time they may please to demand the same; and we do severally empower James Biddle, Esq., Attorney, or any other Attorney in the Province of Pennsylvania aforesaid, to appear for us and to receive a declaration in ejectment as of any term after this date, and to confess judgment thereon, with full powers to release all errors in the said judgment. We likewise promise that we severally will avoid all future quarrels with our neighbours, and unite and muster with Captain Van Ertan's company, and, if necessary, are willing to march where our assistance may be required for the defence of American liberty, in the common cause; and cheerfully, hereafter, obey all and every the resolutions and orders of the Continental Congress, the Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania, or the Committee of Safety, of all whom we severally and humbly crave forgiveness for past offences; and in testimony of our sincere intentions to behave becomingly in future, we have hereunto set our hands and seals, this eighth day of December, 1775.

LOSSES FROM HOSTILITIES BY THE MINISTERIAL TROOPS. New-York, December 13, 1775.

Whereas the Continental Congress, by their Resolve of the 18th of October last, did order and direct, "That a well-authenticated account of the hostilities committed by the Ministerial troops and navy in America since March last," should "be collected, with proper evidence of the truth of the facts related;" and also, "the number and value of the buildings destroyed by them," with "the number and value of the vessels, inward and outward bound, which have been seized by them since that period, as near as the value can be ascertained;" also, "the stock taken from different parts of the Continent;" And whereas the Committee appointed by them to collect the same, have transmitted a copy of the foregoing Resolve to the Provincial Congress in this City, requesting their assistance in obtaining the same; which letter, with the foregoing Resolve, being, by order of the Provincial Congress aforesaid, delivered to the Chairman of the General Committee for this City and County, "requiring them to ascertain, in the best manner possible, the damages sustained by people of this City and County, with all necessary particulars thereof, and with proofs to support the same, and to transmit them to the Provincial Congress with all convenient speed;" And whereas the General Committee aforesaid have appointed Cornelius P. Low, Oliver Templeton, and Daniel Phanix, to be a sub-Committee for that purpose: All persons in this City and County who have sustained any loss or damage by the Ministerial army or navy in America since March last, are hereby requested to prepare and deliver to them an accurate estimate of the same, with the examinations of witnesses and other papers and documents, officially authenticated; as also, clear, distinct, and circumstantial details of the hostile and destructive acts by them done, or captures or seizures made, that the same may be laid before the Provincial Congress without delay.

EDWARD JONES TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, December 13, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I make bold to lay my grievances before you, in hopes you will see me righted. I have been this five months a Corporal in Captain Ledyard's company, and have received no more than 53s. 4d. a month. I have been lately informed by one or two Corporals that came down from St. John's that they received 58s. 8d. per month. Now, gentlemen, as I have been always ready and willing to do any thing for the good of my country, I hope your Honours will be so kind as to grant me my full pay, which will be forever acknowledged by your much obliged, very humble servant,

EDWARD JONES.

To the Provincial Congress in New York.

COMMISSIONERS FOR FORTIFICATIONS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Fort-Constitution, December 7, 1775.

SIR: Yours of the 3d instant, covering extracts of a letter from Lord Stirling, dated the same day, by which we find six companies, of ninety men each, are ordered up to this post, besides those already here. As to the orders to have sufficient barracks completed for one thousand men, we beg leave to observe, that it is not in our power to get done; the additional one (from the first plan) is not this day completed with filling in, but other ways fit and finished for troops, Captain Grenell's and Captain Halbert's companies being, with part of Captain Ledyard's, quartered in them. The first barrack, a single story, four rooms, twenty men in a room, is occupied by our artificers and labourers. We have ordered, eight days ago, another barrack of eighty feet by twenty, two stories high, with a garret, to be framed at New-Windsor; but the badness of the weather up here, by what we can learn, has prevented the person employed from getting the timber together to begin to frame. We shall hurry him, and may be able to get it raised and covered, but the stacks of chimneys and filling in much doubt if it can be done, as we have neither brick nor lime for it, and if we had, unless more favourable weather than for this fortnight past, could not much work at, as our mortar is continually freezing in the mortar-house. We beg leave to mention our frequent desire to know what number of men would be wanted to remain this winter at this post, as a government to us; in particular, in ours to Mr. John Berrien of the 15th ultimo, your not then nor since making a House, he could not give us a direct answer.

We could not take the artificers from the works of defence had materials (and we directions) for more barracks been on the spot. Artificers and labourers must have covering, and fire to go to. While they continue they take up the room of the first barrack; when they be dismissed, the two barracks now built will contain three hundred men.

We would also beg leave to refer the honourable Provincial Congress to ours of the 10th ultimo, in which we informed them what barracks we had then, to which we have never been honoured with an answer. Our mentioning these things is from a distress we are in on finding so many men ordered up to this post, when we never expected any more than three hundred to winter here, and, hearing nothing to induce us to think otherwise, provided, as well as circumstances and time permitted, for only that number.

As to procuring fire-wood, we are very ready to do it; but it must be bought and brought by water here. We think this comes more properly under the direction of the Commissary to the troops to be quartered here. We have been down in the sloop Liberty, examining the river as low as Slaughter's Landing, and find the depth of water, from there to this post, greatly to exceed the information we have had. We also took a view of Pooploop's Hill, and found its situation the best by much for any defensive works in the Highlands. A little to the north of the house, on the hill, is a place where a battery of heavy cannon would obstruct any enemies coming up, as it commands the river down and up, the length of point-blank shot. Timber in plenty, near, to be had. No enemy can land at Haverstraw and cross the mountain, to annoy it by land. The height of the place, about one hundred feet above the river, and is not much wider over to Anthony's Nose than at this post. From Pooploop's Hill, we understand, there is a tolerable road, and can be made, with ease, much better to the West-Point. From there an enemy might bring cannon by land against this post.

We beg you will be pleased to lay the above before the honourable Congress.

And are, sir, your humble servants,

WILLIAM BEDLOW,
THOMAS GRENELL,
JONATHAN LAWRENCE.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO COLONEL BALDWIN.

Cambridge, December 13, 1775.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency to inform you that, notwithstanding his orders to the contrary, some of the persons that came last from Boston to Point Shirley have been at this camp. One he has seen himself. He is exceedingly desirous to prevent a measure that may prove of fatal consequence to the army, and therefore enjoins that you will make it known to these people, and all others that may be sent out, that they do not come here without special leave obtained first of him; and if they do, they will be immediately imprisoned.

R. H. HARRISON.

To Colonel Loammi Baldwin, Chelsea.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM WATSON.

Cambridge, December 13, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 4th instant is come to hand. Your attention and activity in fitting out the armed vessels is pleasing to his Excellency. I wish they may carry in some prizes that may pay you for all your trouble. Captain Manly's good fortune seems to stick to him; he has taken three valuable prizes since my last. This shows of what vast advantage to the cause these vessels would be, if the commanders were all as attentive to their duty and interest as Manly is. There runs a report about camp that one of our little fleet is taken and carried into Boston. We shall be uneasy until we hear from Martindale, as he is the one suspected. If Captain Coit and he are safe, let us know it as soon as possible.

Yours of the 11th is come to hand. I fear there is no doubt that the Washington is taken.

Mr. Isaac Symms receives £1015 16s. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., being the amount of the account of expenses for fitting out the Washington and Harrison, armed vessels. The General returns his thanks for the venison.

I am, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To William Watson, Esq., Plymouth.

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO SAMUEL ADAMS.

Watertown, December 13, 1775.

DEAR SIR: With pleasure I received your letter of October 29th, relative to the militia and other subjects equally important. When writing on the subject of the militia, I proposed they should be under the command of a Continental General, in case of their being raised to reinforce his army, and upon the supposition that this must require an act of the Court of the Colony whose militia should be thus raised. A Continental General, as such, I am clearly of opinion, ought not to have any command of the militia. It is by no means necessary for general defence. It would lead a principal servant of the Government to forget his station, and conceive himself its master; but since, in military operations, it is absolutely necessary to have but one head, each Assembly would find it necessary that the commanding officer of the army which their militia should occasionally reinforce, should take the command of such part as they might order to his assistance, and this during the pleasure, only, of such Assembly; upon which plan he would, as to this, be in effect a Colonial officer. We already see a growing thirst for power in some of the inferior departments of the army, which ought to be regulated so far as to keep the military entirely subservient to the civil in every part of the United Colonies.

Your sentiments on the choice of men for public offices are extremely just. The jealousy you speak of is plentifully produced in our House of Representatives. This is so natural to their habits, and toyism so noxious, that an enemy to America might as well attempt to scale the regions of bliss as to insinuate himself into the favour of the Assembly; but I should be glad to see a sufficient guard against the choice of men on account of pecuniary recommendation. It is happy to find a man independent in his fortune, of good sense and true patriotism, filling a public office; but when the last is wanting, the possession of the first is an evil. Notwithstanding which, there have been instances in this Government, of persons chosen into public office who might have lived till the millenium in silent obscurity had they depended on their mental qualifications to bring them into public view.

With respect to incompatible offices, a bill is on foot to prevent this evil, and particular care will be taken to exclude gentlemen of the army from the Legislature, that military influence may never reach the Senate.

History can hardly produce such a series of events as have taken place in favour of American opposition. The hand of Heaven appears to have directed every occurrence. Had such an event as lately occurred in Essex happened to Cromwell, he would have published it as a miracle in his favour, and excited his soldiers to enthusiasm and bravery.

The manufacture of saltpetre is increasing. We shall be greatly served if a plan of the Philadelphia powder-mills can be sent us, which (Mr. Revere tells me) the owner was so selfish as to refuse, without a reward of one hundred half-johannes.

Your very true friend,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

MAJOR-GENERAL HOWE TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

Boston, December 13, 1775.

MY LORD: His Majesty's ship Tartar, being ordered to England, by Admiral Graves, I am to confirm to your Lordship the intelligence before communicated, of the capture of the ordnance brig Nancy, by the Rebels, and that there is certainty of another vessel, the property of a merchant, loaded with woollen goods and every article necessary for clothing, having lately fallen into their hands, which must afford great relief to their most essential wants.

Since the departure of the Boyne, man-of-war, on the 5th instant, there have been no arrivals from Britain; and I am induced to believe, from the long prevalence of northerly winds, that the transports from Cork, with the 17th, 27th, 29th, 46th, and 55th regiments, together with the ships bringing stores for this place, have been forced far from the coast; and if so, the difficulties they have to encounter in getting to this port will increase in proportion as the winter season advances.

These considerations, and the state of provisions in store, a particular account of which your Lordship has with my separate letter of the 2d instant, sent by the Boyne, give rise to very alarming apprehensions, especially as demands for this article are increased from the transports, provisions for the seamen being expended from the pressing wants of useful persons, who must be supported for their services, and of many others, who have ever been attached to Government.

I am also concerned to observe that the uncertainty of defenceless vessels getting into this harbour is rendered more precarious, by the rebel privateers infesting the bay, who can take the advantage of many inlets on the coast, where His Majesty's ships cannot pursue them, and from whence they can safely avail themselves of any favourable opportunities that offer. The Admiral being of opinion that the ships cannot block up the several ports of Cape Anne, Marblehead, Beverly, and Plymouth, which afford protection to these pirates, without the assistance of a land force, that cannot at present be spared, has placed his ships in Nantasket-Road, with orders to cruise from thence in the bay; which, not proving effectual, I would humbly propose that the provisions, and other valuable stores, be sent out for the future in ships-of-war, without their lower deck-guns, or in vessels of sufficient force to defend themselves against these Pirates. One of them, a brigantine, with seventy-three men, has been brought in by His Majesty's ship Fowey; and I enclose to your Lordship a copy of the Captain's instructions, from Mr. Washington, commanding the Rebel army. The prisoners are sent to England in the Tartar.

The troops entered into quarters here yesterday, leaving a detachment intrenched upon the heights of Charlestown, for the defence of that post.

Six companies of the Sixty-fifth are embarked, and will sail for Halifax, under convoy of the Cerberus frigate. The 18th and 59th Regiments, being drafted into other corps, their commissioned and non-commissioned officers, with the invalids and recruiting parties, go from hence on board of transports, in company with the Tartar.

By advice received from the head-quarters of the Rebels, I learn that General Carleton embarked at Montreal for Quebeck, on the 12th of November, with one hundred soldiers, and as many Canadians, carrying with him all the military stores he could convey; and that the Rebels took possession of the town the next day.

I am, &c.,

W. Howe.

ADDRESS OF THE FREEHOLDERS, ETC., OF THE COUNTY OF PEBBLES.

Address of the Justices of the Peace, Freeholders, and Commissioners of the Land Tax of the County of Pebbles, presented to His Majesty by Sir Robert Murray Keith, Knight of the Bath, their Representative in Parliament.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Justices of the Peace, Freeholders, and Commissioners of the Land Tax of the County of Pebbles.

We, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Justices of the Peace, Freeholders, and Commissioners of the Land Tax, of the County of Pebbles, beg leave, upon the present very serious and alarming occasion, to express, with perfect unanimity, that warm affection and gratitude which we have and owe to your Royal person, under whose auspicious Government we feel, in common with all your Majesty's subjects, every blessing that the best laws, executed by the best of Kings, can possibly produce.

We lament the situation of those of your Majesty's subjects, in America, who, by the artifices and false suggestions of designing men, have been induced to go into rebellion, from the groundless apprehensions of their property being rendered precarious, and their liberties destroyed, by their submitting to be taxed by the British Legislature.

We detest all the illegal and disloyal artifices that have been used for seducing your Majesty's American subjects, not only to violate the law, in the destruction of private property, but also to resist and destroy all legal authority, and at last, by open rebellion, even to dispute the sovereignty of the British Legislature.

We likewise beg leave to testify our disapprobation and dislike of all the licentious, seditious, and poisonous doctrines which have of late been maintained and published, either by speaking or writing, that have a tendency, at this critical juncture, to add to the deception of the deluded people of America, by making them believe that their rebellion is lawful, and approved of by the subjects of Britain.

We confide in the wisdom of your Majesty's Councils, aided and supported by your Parliament, and in the valour of your Majesty's arms, that every proper means will be used successfully, under the kind protection of Heaven, for bringing our deluded fellow-subjects of America to a just sense of their duty of obedience to the Supreme Legislative authority of these Kingdoms, and to eradicate those groundless apprehensions that seem to have inflamed their minds; that the reconciliation may be sincere and permanent; and we beg leave to assure your Majesty of our wish and most earnest desire to exert every means we can to strengthen the power of your Government.

We pray God, that your Majesty may long reign over us; and that the British Dominions, united in your reign, may be transmitted, in that state, to your Majesty's latest posterity.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, at Peebles, the 14th of December, 1775.

JAMES MONTGOMERY.

In Massachusetts House of Representatives,
February 14, 1776.

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House a letter from St. Eustatia, signed Yankoo, dated December 14th, enclosing a number of newspapers.

TO ANY PROVINCIAL COMMITTEE OR CONGRESS ON THE CONTINENT OF AMERICA.

St. Eustatia, December 14, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last, via Salem, was intended via Rhode-Island, but lost the opportunity, and am fearful if the letter reached you, as I must suppose captures have commenced in America, as well as in the West-Indies. Several vessels inwards from America, and bound thither, among the islands, have been detained and sent into port, particularly Antigua and Dominico; and, notwithstanding their clearances, will be condemned, as reprisals are made without distinction, of all vessels going to or coming from America. Various are the reports from England, respecting America; which proves it is little known what is intended; but if we were to judge from circumstances, in particular that of reprisals, taking in pay foreign forces, and the enumerating their transports, with every kind of stores, ammunition, &c., &c., it certainly carries appearances very different from an accommodation. I saw a letter from Bristol, to a gentleman here, dated 23d October; part says, no prospect of a reconciliation, the Ministry being determined to push measures. Another, from Scotland, this very day received, and two days later, says: Matters between Great Britain and America will certainly be settled on the meeting of the Parliament. Letters anterior to these, and differently received, bear near the same import. Some say an accommodation will take place, others not. I fancy no true judgment can be formed but from the result of the Parliament. God send the agreeable tidings of peace to each other. May Heaven inspire their souls with just ideas of duty, each to the other, that justice may be sealed in mercy, and so enlighten the minds of that great tribunal as to remove every oppressive measure from before the throne, that the subjects of Britain, wherever dispersed, may know no grievance, but, in every part of their wide extended empire, be able, with honest truth, to sing aloud in anthems of joy: Justice, justice runs down our streets like a stream; all evils are now removed from before us; and one and all adore the God of justice, as the King of our King, and the Supreme of the Universe. May brotherly love be mutually renewed, under the banners of justice, and Britain and America join in grateful songs of praise for a happy deliverance from destruction, and be inseparably united to their glory, and the glory of God the giver; is the fervent wish of your obedient and affectionate, YANKOO.

P. S. A brig here will sail for Boston, in ten days, with molasses for the troops. I shall write.

DECLARATION BY VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

By the Representatives of the People of the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, assembled in General Convention.

A DECLARATION.

Whereas, Lord Dunmore, by his Proclamation, dated on board the ship William, off Norfolk, the 7th day of November, 1775, hath offered freedom to such able-bodied slaves as are willing to join him, and take up arms against the good people of this Colony, giving thereby encouragement to a general insurrection, which may induce a necessity of inflicting the severest punishments upon those unhappy people, already deluded by his base and insidious arts; and whereas, by an act of the General Assembly, now in force in this Colony, it is enacted, that all negro or other slaves, conspiring to rebel or make insurrection, shall suffer death, and be excluded all benefit of Clergy: We think it proper to declare, that all slaves, who have been, or shall be, seduced by his Lordship's proclamation, or other arts, to desert their masters' service, and take up arms against the inhabitants of this Colony, shall be liable to such punishments as shall hereafter be directed by the General Convention. And to the end that all such who have taken this unlawful and wicked step may return in safety to their duty, and escape the punishment due to their crimes, we hereby promise to pardon them, they surrendering themselves to Col. William Woodford, or any other commander of our troops, and not appearing in arms after the publication hereof. And we do further earnestly recommend it to all humane and benevolent persons in this Colony, to explain and make known this our offer of mercy to those unfortunate people.

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

Virginia, December 14, 1775.

LORD STIRLING TO CAPTAIN JOHN POLHEMUS.

Elizabethtown, December 14, 1775.

SIR: I must desire that you will forthwith call in all such men as are now absent from your company, and, for the future, to give no furlough or leave of absence to any officer or private, but to hold your company in order for marching at twenty-four hours' notice.

I am your most humble servant,
Captain John Polhemus, Brunswick.

STIRLING.

LORD STIRLING TO CAPTAIN JOHN CONWAY.

Elizabethtown, December 14, 1775.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 11th inst., and much approve of your getting possession of the beds, blankets, and other barrack utensils, at Amboy. Be pleased, by the first opportunity, to furnish me with an exact account of each article you have received, and to be particular with regard to the blankets—distinguishing how many of them are new, how many partly worn, and how many of them are distributed to the men of your company.

The three men you have confined must remain prisoners until we can form a regimental court-martial, which will not be till next week. Powell and Rose are engaged as drum and fife majors to the regiment.* The repairs you speak of are absolutely necessary, and I must desire you will get them done, and keep an exact account of the expense.

The men of your company should be kept in constant exercise, especially marching. We are at it here at least five hours every day.

I am, &c.,
Captain John Conway.

STIRLING.

COMMISSIONERS OF INDIAN AFFAIRS TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany, December 14, 1775.

SIR: Conscious that it is a duty we owe our respectable constituents and ourselves, not to permit any doubts or suspicions to exist, relative to or concerning any transactions of ours, when it is in our power to eradicate them; and reports prevailing, that what Tiahogwando, the Onondaga chief, delivered at the conference held here in the months of August and September last, respecting the Susquehannah lands, now unhappily in controversy between the Colonies of Pennsylvania and Connecticut, was not in consequence either of directions from his particular nation,

* It is agreed between Thomas Rose, on the one part, and William, Earl of Stirling, Colonel of the First New-Jersey Regiment, in the Continental service, on the other part, as follows: That the said Thomas Rose doth enlist himself as a drummer in the said regiment, at the usual Continental pay of seven and one-third of a dollar per month; and also four dollars per month, subsistence, or provision in lieu thereof; and in consideration that the said Thomas Rose is well qualified for drum-major of the said regiment, and is able to teach the other drummers the use of their drums and the whole of their duty, the said Colonel does agree to pay to the said Thomas Rose, eight dollars and two-thirds of a dollar more, monthly, to be stopped out of the pay of the other drummers; and this to continue as long as the said Thomas Rose continues in the service, which will be during his good behaviour, or as long as the regiment continues in the service. It is further agreed, that out of the above mentioned pay, eight dollars per month shall, by the Paymaster, monthly, be lodged in the hands of Colonel John Neilson, of Brunswick, for the use of the said Thomas Rose's wife; one month's pay to be advanced to the said Thomas Rose, when the Paymaster next comes to Head-quarters.

Witness my hand, this 12th day of December, 1775.

THOMAS ROSE.

or the result of the united councils of the Six Nations, we unanimously resolved to enter into an inquiry. Accordingly we sent for Messrs. Deane and Kirkland, who agreed in the following information, viz: That immediately after Tiahogwando had delivered his speech, a murmur ran through the assembly as at a matter not only unexpected but improper; and that some of the sachems, after the rising of the assembly, spoke to them on the subject, expressing their astonishment at such a speech, of which no notice had been given to the Six Nations.

Mr. Fulmer, another interpreter, was then called before us; and as, in the information which he gave, Colonel Francis's name was mentioned, we thought proper to take his deposition and enclose it.

After Fulmer's information, we were of opinion that the sachems should be convened, that we might confer with them on the occasion. Accordingly, Tiahogwando, with another Onondaga sachem, and two from each of the other nations now in town, were convened; at which meeting were also present, Messrs. Deane, Kirkland, Bleeker, and Fulmer, interpreters. The Indians being made acquainted with the business of the meeting, Tiahogwando, the Onondaga sachem, gave the following information: That coming from the meeting preceding that in which the Susquehannah lands were mentioned, Colonel Francis took him by the hand, and informed him that all the other sachems had been to see him, and asked why he did not come and smoke a pipe with him; and invited him to his room in the evening, that he had something to say to him. The sachem replied, it was not the custom of Indians to come alone on such an occasion, and that he would therefore bring one or two along with him. Two accordingly came with him in the evening. After they had drank a little, and began to be intoxicated, Colonel Francis informed them that Governor Penn had directed him to make inquiry about the sale of the Susquehannah lands. Upon which, Tiahogwando then related what he (being a lad) had heard Dinasteego inform his father, being in substance the same as he had delivered in his speech. He observed that he was sorry the white people deceived the Indians, by giving them liquor, to make them say things they ought not; and that what he had said was not in consequence of any directions he had either from his nation or the Six Nations.

Tiahogwando further says, that Colonel Francis promised to give the sachems of the Six Nations something, provided he would deliver it at the close of the business of the next meeting, and not mention his name—meaning Colonel Francis. This chief then observed to us, that the white people have a medicine (meaning liquors) which would make Indians bring out all that is in their minds.

We hope, sir, that in making this inquiry, we have not gone beyond the line of our duty. Our only motives for prosecuting this inquiry, we have taken the liberty to give Congress in the former part of this letter.

We remain, sir, with sentiments of respect and esteem, yours, &c., &c.,

PHILIP SCHUYLER,
VOLKERT P. DOW,
TIMOTHY EDWARDS.

The Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 22, 1775.]

Albany, December 14, 1775.

SIR: Since my last to you, I have received no accounts from Canada. The Indians delivered us a speech on the 12th, in which they related the substance of all the conferences Colonel Johnson had with them the last summer, concluding with that at Montreal, where he delivered to each of the Canadian tribes a war-belt and a hatchet, who accepted it; after which they were invited to feast on a Bostonian, and drink his blood—an ox being roasted for the purpose, and a pipe of wine given to drink. The war-song was also sung. One of the chiefs of the Six Nations, that attended at that conference, accepted of a very large, black war-belt, with a hatchet depicted in it, but would neither eat nor drink, nor sing the war-song. This famous belt they have delivered up, and we have now a full proof that the Ministerial servants have attempted to engage the savages against us.

I learn that the recruiting parties I have sent out, meet with little success. The troops of Fort-George and Ticonderoga, have only seventeen days more to serve, and I fear they will come away as soon as their time of service is expired.

All the prisoners are not yet arrived here. The moment they come in, I shall send them to Esopus, as well the officers as men; for Colonel Wolcott informs me that Governor Skene, as well as his son, have fled, and that two Frenchmen are also gone, one of which is Orillat, whom Mr. Brook Watson recommended to Major Shirreff to get exchanged. The vicinity of Hudson river to Newtown and Bridgefield (the two tory towns in Connecticut) favours their escape. I have given such orders to Colonel Wynkoop, that, if they are properly executed, I shall be under no apprehensions for those that go to Ulster County. Wynkoop is a spirited and good officer.

The river here is closed. The prisoners are to march by land. I propose keeping the French seigneurs until I can move them at a less expense. Perhaps, too, if Quebeck should fall into our hands, General Montgomery may beg of Congress to permit them to pay a visit to their families.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,
 PHILIP SCHUYLER.
 Honourable John Hancock, Esq., &c.

JOSEPH HOPKINS'S REPORT ON LEAD-MINES.

To the Honourable General Assembly, convened at New-Haven, on the 14th DECEMBER, 1775:

Whereas Captain Samuel Forbes and the subscriber were appointed by your Honours, at your sessions in October last, a Committee to examine and explore a lead-mine at New-Canaan, in the Province of New-York, and to report, &c.

The said subscriber begs leave to report that, on the 7th of November last, on my journey to said New-Canaan, I expected said Captain Forbes to join me; but he being ill, and unable to assist in said business, advised me to proceed; with which advice I complied, and repaired to said New-Canaan, where I found said mine, the vein of ore in which appears about fifty or sixty rods in length, lying north and south in a ledge of rocks or lime-stone, mixed with white flint, at the south end of which the ground falls about twenty-six feet, below which the water cannot be 'drawn off by a level; which vein I found had been opened about one rod in length, and about three or four feet deep, where I employed a skilful miner to blast the rock, but found no continued or adherent vein, but found the ore in bodies, in different shapes, about three or four inches in diameter, lying about three or four feet distant. The said miner also opened the vein in several places where it had not before been tried, and it appeared to lie in the same manner. I also smelted about eight ounces of said ore, and found, when it was well refined, it weighed five ounces, and was very malleable and good. All which is submitted.

Your Honours' most obedient, humble servant,
 JOSEPH HOPKINS.

N. B. The mine aforesaid lies in a tract of land called the King's District, where the fee has never been granted, or patent, to any person, and the inhabitants claim to hold by possession only; and I employed the miner aforementioned, with others, to labour in said mine seven days, about half of which time was spent in preparing to open the vein, and by the other half of the labour was raised one hundred weight of ore.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Cambridge, December 14, 1775.

SIR: The two French gentlemen who will appear before you with this, brought recommendations to me from Governor Cooke, of Providence; their names are Messieurs Penet and De Plarne. They propose a plan for supplying this Continent with arms and ammunition, which appears to me very eligible. As I am not acquainted with the extent of schemes already formed by Congress for the attainment of these necessary articles, I have declined entering into any engagements with them, but have prevailed with them to proceed, at the publick expense, to Philadelphia, and there, through you, to lay their proposals before Congress, or a Committee of Congress, to whose attention I beg leave to recommend them, and the important business they come upon.

I am, &c., GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of Congress.

P. S. I have given these gentlemen reason to expect that they can get back to the Capes as commodiously and speedily from Philadelphia as they could from Providence, in which I should be very sorry if they were disappointed.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 23, 1775.]

Cambridge, December 14, 1775.

SIR: I received your favour of the 2d instant, with the several resolves of Congress therein enclosed. The resolves relative to captures made by Continental armed vessels, only want a court established for trial to make them complete. This, I hope, will be soon done, as I have taken the liberty to urge it often to the Congress. I am somewhat at a loss to know whether I am to raise the two battalions of marines here or not. As the delay can be attended with but little inconvenience, I will wait a further explanation from Congress, before I take any steps thereon. I am much pleased that the money will be forwarded with all possible expedition, as it is much wanting; also, that Connolly and his associates are taken; it has been a very fortunate discovery. I make no doubt but that the Congress will take every necessary measure to dispossess Lord Dunmore of his hold in Virginia. The sooner steps are taken for that purpose, the more probability there will be of their being effectual.

Mr. William Aspinwall and Mr. Lemuel Hayward were appointed surgeons at Roxbury, in the first formation of the army. They were confirmed by Dr. Church, who promised them to write to the Congress in their behalf. They applied to me during his confinement here, at a time that I had notice of Dr. Morgan's appointment. I referred them to his arrival, and enclosed you have his sentiments relative to them; also of Dr. Rand, surgeon to the small-pox hospital, and his mate. I have to remark to you that when we had some time past got the better of the small-pox, Dr. Rand applied to me for a continuance of him in that department, which, from a principle of not multiplying officers, I declined. He is at present wanting, and says that by only attending occasionally, he loses his country practice—of course his livelihood. You will please to lay these matters before Congress for their consideration.

I was happy enough to anticipate the desire of Congress respecting Mr. Crafts and Mr. Trott. They both declined. The latter did not choose to serve. The former's ambition was not fully gratified by the offer made to him of a Majority, and higher rank must have turned out Colonel Burbeck or Major Mason, who had served in those characters in that regiment to acceptance. I hope Col. Knox will soon finish the business he is upon, and appear here to take the honourable command conferred on him by the Congress. I will make application to General Howe, and propose an exchange for Mr. Ethan Allen. I am much afraid I shall have a like proposal to make for Captain Martindale, of the armed brigantine Washington, and his men, who, it is reported, were taken a few days past by a man-of-war, and carried into Boston. We cannot expect to be always successful.

You will doubtless hear of the barbarity of Captain Wallace, on Conanicut Island, ere this reaches your hands. About one hundred and fifty more of the poor inhabitants are come out of Boston. The small-pox rages all over the town. Such of the military as had it not before, are now under inoculation. This, I apprehend, is a weapon of defence they are using against us. What confirms me in this opinion is, that I have information that they are tearing up the pavement, to be provided against a bombardment. I wrote you this day by Messieurs Penet and De Plarne, who will lay before the Congress, or a committee thereof, proposals for furnishing the Continent with arms and ammunition. I refer you to themselves for further particulars.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most humble and obedient servant,
 GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

DOCTOR MORGAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

General Hospital, December 12, 1775.

SIR: In pursuance of your Excellency's command, I have carefully inquired into the state of the General Hospital, and of the sick in each house, and do find that the number set down in the last weekly return, made to me from the surgeons of the hospital, amounts to six hundred and seventy-six; but they have sometimes amounted to near fifteen hundred, of which the proportion at Roxbury is about one-third; and on an average their returns have generally proved to be nearly in that proportion. And whereas, from the great number of troops stationed at Roxbury, and its being so remote from Cambridge, it is absolutely necessary to have houses there for the reception and care of the sick, and to have stores and proper officers for the same; and on further consideration of the merits and services of William Aspinwall and Lemuel Hayward, in establishing houses for that purpose, and their care, attention, and skill, manifested as surgeons ever since the army has been established, as well as the expediency of retaining gentlemen of their abilities and good character in the hospital, and the particular advantage of their being stationed at Roxbury, in case of action in that quarter, (the mates of the hospital, in general, being not yet sufficiently qualified for a trust of that importance, without the direction of a superior; and the four surgeons, already appointed by Dr. Church, being fully employed, in times of prevailing sickness, at Cambridge, and will be all wanted there in case of a general action,) I would beg leave to recommend that Mr. Aspinwall and Mr. Hayward may still be kept in pay as additional surgeons in the General Hospital, so long as circumstances require, with liberty to draw on this hospital for the necessary supplies of instruments, medicines, &c. And whereas the small-pox hath made its appearance at several times in the army, and a number of persons have been lately sent out of Boston, and landed at Point-Shirley, with the small-pox on them, it is highly expedient to fix on a proper place for conveying such persons to, as may have the small-pox, with suitable conveniences to prevent its spreading, and to have a surgeon and mate of experience kept there continually, whose sole business shall be restricted to the taking care of the soldiers, and other persons that may have the small-pox, and be sent thither to prevent its spreading. And whereas Dr. Isaac Rand has hitherto been employed as surgeon, and Mr. Lyon as his mate, to take care of the small-pox patients, who are willing to remain in that department, I do further recommend that they may be continued in pay as surgeon and mate for the service, so long as occasion requires, with liberty to draw on the General Hospital for necessary supplies.

With all dutiful submission, I remain your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

JOHN MORGAN.

His Excellency General Washington.

ORDERS BY GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 12, 1775.

(Parole, Eppingham.)

(Countersign, Fuller.)

The honourable the Continental Congress having been pleased to appoint Henry Knox, Esquire, Colonel of the Regiment of Artillery, upon the new establishment, he is to be obeyed as such. The Colonels or commanding officers of the five Connecticut regiments, upon the new establishment, to deliver to the Adjutant-General to-morrow, at orderly time, an exact list of the commissioned officers of their respective corps, together with a return of the men they have each of them enlisted for the above regiments, as an express is immediately to set out to Governour Trumbull, who has demanded the same, to lay them before the Assembly of the Colony.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, December 13, 1775.

(Parole, Camden.)

(Countersign, Chatham.)

The Major-Generals are to order the militia companies to be joined to the different brigades and regiments in their respective divisions, in such a manner as to supply the deficiency of the Connecticut troops, and to prevent disorder and confusion in case we should be called to action, and make a report thereof as soon as it is done. As the companies have an inclination to join particular regiments, the General has no objection to it in every instance where it can be done consistent with the good of the service, and the allotment to the different encampments. The Adjutants of every regiment, to which any of these companies are joined, are to acquaint them with all general and brigade orders, that they may not unknowingly disobey them.

The Colonels of the several regiments, upon the new establishment, may respectively apply to the Commissary of the Ordnance Stores for seventy-five stand of arms, lately taken in the store-ship from London. These arms the Colonels will be careful to put into the hands of the soldiers most approved for their care and bravery, and such only as are enlisted for the next campaign; exact lists of their names to be returned to the respective Colonels. The carbines taken in the said ship are not to be delivered without especial orders.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 14, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 11th inst., was handed me by the two French gentlemen, Messrs. Penet and De Pliarne, for which I am exceedingly obliged to you. I have heard their proposals and plan for supplying the Continent with arms and ammunition, which appear plausible, and to promise success. But not thinking myself authorized to enter into any contract respecting the same, and being not fully acquainted with the measures Congress have adopted for procuring these articles, I have prevailed upon them to go to Philadelphia, and recommended them, and the consideration of their plan, to that body, where the matter will be finally agreed upon or rejected.

I must request the favour of you to furnish every necessary for accommodating them, and carriages, with all expedition, for carrying them as far as Governour Trumbull's. They are to travel at the Continental expense; and whatever charge you may be at on their account, you will be pleased to transmit to me, and it shall be immediately reimbursed.

Yours, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Cooke, Rhode-Island.

WILLIAM BARTLETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, December 14, 1775.

SIR: I now forward to your Excellency, by the bearer, three casks of porter, purchased of Capt. Hunter; one barrel of lemons, of what was remaining sound out of the ship Concord; one box of pickles; one keg of sweetmeats; one box of wine; two cases of wine; one barrel of tea and loaf sugar; one box of oranges, being all the sound ones on board the brig Hannah. The oranges being directed to his Excellency General Gage, hope they will be the more acceptable to his Excellency General Washington. The box of sweetmeats being all I can find at present on board, when she is unloaded, if there should be any more found, shall forward them to your Excellency. There is on board the brig Hannah a number of casks of lemons and limes, being almost all perished—therefore shall sell them, next Monday, at publick auction, if no counter orders are received from your Excellency; four loaves of sugar out of ship Jenny, being all there was on board. Hope these will arrive safe, and clear from frost; and am, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM BARTLETT.

To his Excellency General Washington.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO COLONEL WENTWORTH.

Cambridge, December 14, 1775.

SIR: I see by your favour of the 3d December, that mine to you of the 1st had not then reached your hands. I then desired you would dispose of the cargo by the Rainbow; also the sloop, if a tolerable price could be got for her. If this last is not done ere this reaches your hands, you must defer it until further orders.

The two vessels sent into Winter Harbour were very unjustly taken, and are delivered up to their respective owners.

Captain Adams has his complement of men made up. Please to make my compliments to Mr. King; tell him I will be much obliged to him for the invoice of flour by first private hand.

Captain Manly has been very successful since I last wrote you, having taken three more valuable prizes. I wish the commanders of the rest of our little fleet were as active; if they were, we could conquer our enemies without loss of blood. I am, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To Colonel Joshua Wentworth, Portsmouth.

MAJOR ROBERT ROGERS TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Medford, (Porter's Tavern,) December 14, 1775.

SIR: I sailed from Gravesend the 4th of June last, in a merchant ship, bound to Baltimore, in Maryland, which was, at the time I came away, the highest passage I could get to Philadelphia, where I waited on the gentlemen that compose the Continental Congress, in order to obtain their permit to settle my private affairs, being much encumbered with debts, chiefly contracted in the Province of New-York; in which settlement my brother, Colonel James Rogers, (who lives in the Province of New-York, about twenty miles west of Connecticut river,) was deeply concerned, being bound for me in several sums of money, which made it necessary for me to visit him in my way home, and for that purpose came by the way of New-York and Albany, to my brother's, and from thence to Portsmouth, to my wife and family, (a pleasure long wished for,) having been six years in Europe.

I have taken the earliest opportunity that would permit to come to this town, (where I arrived this morning,) in order to lay before your Excellency the passport I received at Philadelphia, from the Committee of Safety there, a copy of which is transmitted at the bottom of this letter, together with the minutes made thereon by the Committees of Safety at New-York and New-Hampshire. I do sincerely entreat your Excellency for a continuance of that permission for me to go unmolested where my private business may call me, as it will take some months from this time to settle with all my creditors.

I have leave to retire on my half-pay, and never expect to be called into the service again. I love North-America; it is my native country, and that of my family, and I intend to spend the evening of my days in it.

I should be glad to pay you my respects personally, but have thought it prudent to first write you this letter, and shall wait at this place for your Excellency's commands.

I am, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

ROBERT ROGERS, Major.

To his Excellency General Washington.

The following is a copy of the aforesaid Permit, and the Certificates relative thereto, viz:

"I, Robert Rogers, Major, on half-pay in His Majesty's army, a prisoner in the custody of the Committee of Safety for the Province of Pennsylvania, and being kindly treated and protected by them, and enlarged on parole, do hereby solemnly promise and engage, on the honour of a soldier and a gentleman, that I will not bear arms against the American United Colonies, in any manner whatever, during the present contest between them and Great Britain; and that I will not in that time attempt to give intelligence to General Gage, the British Minister, or any other person or persons, of any matters relative to America.

"(Signed) ROBERT ROGERS."

"Philadelphia, September 23, 1775."

"These are to certify, to all persons to whom these presents may appear, that the above writing is a true copy of the parole of honour given by the bearer, Major Robert Rogers, to the Committee of Safety for the Province of Pennsylvania.

"It is therefore recommended to such persons, that the said Major Rogers, be permitted to pass where his business may lead him, without any hindrance or molestation.

"Extract from the minutes of the Committee of Safety.

ADVICES RECEIVED IN ENGLAND, FROM AMERICA, TO DECEMBER 14, 1775.

General Howe has barely six thousand effective men at Boston. The fortifications begun to be erected from water to water, within the Neck of Boston, he has been obliged to abandon for want of men sufficient to perform the work.

General Clinton preserves his post at Bunker's Hill. The Provincials have abandoned Ploughed-Hill, but the Regulars have not taken possession of it. The situation of the troops at Bunker's Hill is truly deplorable; much snow, northeast winds, &c., no fire, poor clothing, salt provisions, &c., &c.

The distress of the troops and people at Boston exceed the possibility of description. There are advices in town of December 14th; not a coal ship was then arrived. The inhabitants and troops literally starving with cold. They had taken the pews out of all the places of worship for fuel; had pulled down empty houses, &c., and were then digging up the timber at the wharves for firing; very poor clothing, and so scarce of provisions they have been eating horse-flesh for some time.

A difference has broke out between General Howe and Admiral Graves, at Boston. General Howe is obliged to repair the light-house with his own people; the Admiral refused to have any thing to do with it.

The distress of the troops and inhabitants in Boston is great beyond all possible degree of description. Neither vegetables, flour, nor pulse for the inhabitants, and the King's stores so very short none can be spared from them. No fuel; and the winter set in remarkably severe. The troops and inhabitants starving for want of provisions and fire. Even salt provision is fifteen pence sterling per pound.

Three coal ships from England, were taken at the mouth of the harbour, by the American privateers, as was also a vessel with live stock, from Halifax. They boarded another vessel within two miles of the light-house.

On account of this accumulating distress, the inhabitants petitioned General Howe for leave to quit the town. He refused. They then petitioned to go out, leaving their effects in the town. But he still refused. They consist chiefly of the Selectmen and other principal inhabitants, and it is thought the General keeps them as security for the town.

The Provincial Generals intend, as soon as the water is frozen between Dorchester-Neck and Boston-Neck, to erect batteries upon Dorchester-Point. No ships nor floating batteries can then annoy them. They waited for the frost, otherwise they would have been done long ago. From Dorchester-Point they can command the town of Boston.

The Americans ridicule the folly and ignorance of the Ministry, in sending transports to Boston, with troops, stores, and provisions, so late in the season, when, as they say, the northwest winds alone will prevent four in five from ever getting to North-America.

The American privateers constantly cruise at the mouth of Boston harbour, and between Cape-Cod, Cape-Ann, and Jeffery's Ledge.

Only four companies of one of the last two regiments which were sent had arrived, though the whole sailed together.

CONNECTICUT ASSEMBLY.

William Williams, Esq., Speaker of the House of Representatives; Richard Law, Esq., Clerk.

An Act for raising and equipping a body of Minute-men, to be held in readiness for the better defence of this Colony.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That one-fourth part of the Militia of this Colony be forthwith selected by voluntary inlistment, with as many other able-bodied effective men, not included in any militia roll, as are inclined to inlist, to stand in readiness as Minute-men, for the defence of this and the rest of the United Colonies.

And that such inlistment may be speedily made, Be it further enacted, That the Colonels, or chief officers of the respective Regiments of Militia in this Colony, shall forthwith give orders to the Captains, or chief officers of the several military companies in their Regiments, requiring them to call their respective companies together, and inlist the fourth part of the same as aforesaid, with such other able-bodied effective men, not included in any militia roll, as shall voluntarily offer themselves; and said Captains, or chief officers of said companies, shall immediately execute said orders, and make return of their doings to the Colonels or chief officers of the respective Regiments; and thereupon the Field-Officers of each Regiment of Militia shall form said men into distinct companies, each consisting of about sixty-eight rank and file; which companies shall have liberty to choose their own officers, to wit: one Captain, two Lieutenants, and one Ensign, four Sergeants, one Clerk, one Drummer, one Filer, and four Corporals; and said Field-Officers shall lead such companies to the choice of their commissioned officers, and make return of their choice, with a muster roll of their company, to his Honour the Governour; who, on receipt thereof, is authorized and desired to commission them accordingly.

And be it further enacted, That his Honour the Governour, with the advice of the Committee appointed to assist him in the recess of the General Assembly, be, and he is hereby authorized and desired, to form said companies into distinct Regiments, and specially appoint and empower such of the Field-Officers of the Regiments of Militia for the time being to take command of such new-formed Regiments as he shall think proper and expedient.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That such officers and soldiers shall completely equip themselves with arms and ammunition, according to law; and also provide themselves with a good bayonet and knap-

sack, for which they shall be allowed and paid each one the sum of eight shillings, out of the Colony Treasury; and the Captain of each of said enlisted companies shall provide a drum and a fife for the use of his company, for which he shall be paid out of the Colony Treasury, and at the expiration of their service, shall secure the same for the use of this Colony.

And be it further enacted, That the Companies raised and formed as aforesaid, shall be called out by their chief officers, and meet one half day in each fortnight, the three summer months only excepted, either in whole or in such divisions, not exceeding four in number, as the commissioned officers shall direct, for military exercise, and shall be subject to the same penalties for absence or misbehaviour as the militia by law are already subject to; which penalties shall be collected by warrant from the chief officers, and applied to the use and benefit of said company; and the said officers and soldiers shall be allowed and paid out of the publick Treasury for each half day they shall meet and exercise as aforesaid: a Captain, three shillings; a Lieutenant, two shillings; an Ensign, one shilling and sixpence; a Sergeant and Clerk, one shilling and three-pence each; and each Corporal, Fifer, Drummer, and Private Soldier, one shilling.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the officers and soldiers of the Regiments and Companies raised and formed as aforesaid, shall hold themselves in constant readiness, to march on the shortest notice, for the defence of this or any other of the United Colonies, in obedience to the orders of the Captain-General of this Colony, or other their superior officers; and when they are called out into actual service shall have and receive like wages and billeting allowance, and be subject to the same laws and regulations, as those to which the officers and soldiers already raised and enlisted for the defence of this Colony, by order of the General Assembly, are entitled or subjected.

And be it further enacted, That the Regiments and Companies raised and formed as aforesaid, shall be exempted from military duty in any other Regiment or Company, and shall continue to be held under the aforesaid regulations during the pleasure of the General Assembly, not exceeding twelve months from and after the first day of January next, and shall then be disbanded, and returned into the Regiments and Companies of Militia to which they respectively belong, and be again subject to military duty therein, said enlistment notwithstanding: Always provided, That no officer or soldier enlisted and liable to do duty as aforesaid, shall be enlisted to have or receive the sum or sums granted to said officers and soldiers for their service as aforesaid, until he or they shall completely arm themselves as is hereinbefore directed and ordered, any thing herein contained notwithstanding.

And it is further provided, The provisions of this act shall not extend to include or affect the Twenty-fourth Regiment of Militia in this Colony.

An Act for encouraging the Manufactures of Saltpetre and Gunpowder.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, There shall be given and paid out of the Colony Treasury, a premium or bounty of ten pounds for every hundred pounds weight of good and merchantable Saltpetre or Nitre that shall be made and manufactured in this Colony, between the 1st day of June, 1776, and the 1st day of January, 1777, and so in proportion for a greater or a lesser quantity: Always provided, That in case any proprietor of Saltpetre Works or manufacturers of Saltpetre, shall, upon application and request made to him by any person or persons, neglect or refuse to communicate a full account of the materials out of which, and the process by which such Saltpetre or Nitre is made, such proprietor or manufacturer shall not be entitled to have or receive the aforesaid bounty or premium for any Saltpetre or Nitre he shall make, any thing herein contained notwithstanding.

Be it further enacted, That a suitable number of Inspectors of Saltpetre or Nitre be appointed by the General Assembly, and that the claimants of the premium or bounty given by this or any former act for the manufacture of Salt-petre or Nitre, shall procure the Saltpetre or Nitre by them made to be inspected by one or more of said Inspectors, and shall also make oath before such Inspector, which oath such Inspector is hereby enabled to administer, that such Saltpetre or Nitre was made and manufactured in such Colony, out of materials collected therein by him or them, or for his or their account, and that no other certificate hath been had or given for the same; and thereupon said Inspector shall give to the claimant or claimants a certificate of the quantity and quality of such Saltpetre or Nitre, and that proof hath been made as aforesaid, that the same was manufactured in this Colony by such claimant or claimants; which certificate being laid before the Committee of the Pay-Table, they shall draw an order on the Colony Treasurer, to pay such claimant or claimants the amount of the aforesaid bounty or premium on such Nitre or Saltpetre, out of the Colony Treasury, and charge the same to the Colony's account, who shall accept and pay such order accordingly.

Be it also enacted, That every town in this Colony, which hath and doth send Representatives to the General Assembly, in which Saltpetre or Nitre works are not or shall not be erected, and the manufacture of Saltpetre is not or shall not be carried on by some person or persons, shall be and are hereby enjoined as soon as may be, to erect one set of such works, and carry on the manufacture of Nitre or Saltpetre in the same; and that it shall be the duty of the Selectmen of each town in this Colony, and they are hereby authorized and enjoined at the expense, and for the benefit of said town to cause such works to be erected, and said manufacture to be carried on in the same accordingly.

Be it also enacted, That no Saltpetre, Nitre, or Gunpowder, made and manufactured, or that shall be made and manufactured in this Colony, shall be exported out of the same by land or water, without the license of the General Assembly, or his Honour the Governour and Committee of Safety, under the penalty of twenty pounds for every hundred weight of such Saltpetre, Nitre, or Gunpowder, and proportionably for a greater or lesser quantity, so without license exported; to be recovered by bill, plaint, or information, in any court of record in this Colony by law proper to take cognizance thereof.

And whereas it is necessary that two Powder-Mills be immediately erected in this Colony, for manufacturing Gunpowder: Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That a bounty or premium of thirty pounds shall be paid out of the Colony Treasury, to the person or persons who shall erect the first Powder-Mill in this Colony, and shall make and manufacture therein five hundred pounds weight of good and merchantable Gunpowder; also, that a bounty or premium of thirty pounds shall be paid out of the Colony Treasury, to the person or persons who shall erect the second Powder-Mill in this Colony, and make or manufacture therein five hundred pounds weight of good and merchantable Gunpowder.

Be it further enacted, That the Inspector or Inspectors, who shall inspect and give a certificate for any quantity of Saltpetre as before directed, shall purchase and receive such Saltpetre for the Colony's use and benefit, and give his or their receipt therefor to the claimant or claimants, who shall be paid therefor out of the Colony Treasury, at such price as the General Assembly shall ascertain and affix.

And whereas it is expedient that Powder-Mills should be so situated as to accommodate the publick in the best manner: Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no Powder-Mill shall be erected in this Colony, for the manufacture of Gunpowder, without the license of the General Assembly, or, in their recess, of the Governour and Council, first had and obtained, under the penalty of thirty pounds for every such offence, to be recovered as the other foregoing penalties in this act are directed to be recovered.

An Act for restraining and punishing Persons who are inimical to the Liberties of this and the rest of the UNITED COLONIES, and for directing proceedings therein.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the autho-

city of the same, That if any person within this Colony shall directly or indirectly supply the Ministerial Army or Navy with Provisions, Military or Naval Stores, or shall give any intelligence to the officers, soldiers, or mariners, belonging to the said Army or Navy, or shall enlist or procure any other to enlist into the service of said Army or Navy, or shall take up arms against this or either of the United Colonies, or shall undertake to pilot any of the vessels belonging to said Navy, or in any other way shall aid or assist them, and be thereof duly convicted before the Superior Court, shall forfeit all his estate; which shall be accordingly seized by order of the said court, for the use of this Colony; and such person shall be further punished by imprisonment in any of the jails in this Colony, at the direction of said court, for a term not exceeding three years.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person, by writing or speaking, or by any overt act, shall libel or defame any of the resolves of the honourable Congress of the United Colonies, or the acts and proceedings of the General Assembly of this Colony, made, or which hereafter shall be made, for the defence or security of the rights and privileges of the people, and be thereof duly convicted before the Superior Court, shall be disarmed, and not allowed to have or keep any arms, and rendered incapable to hold or serve in any office, civil or military, and shall be further punished either by fine, imprisonment or disfranchisement, or find security of the peace, and good behaviour, as said court shall order, and shall pay the cost of prosecution.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That on complaint being made to the civil authority, Selectmen, and Committee of Inspection, of the respective towns in this Colony, against any person or persons dwelling or residing in such town, or any adjoining town, in the same County where there is not a Committee of Inspection, that he or they are inimical to the liberties of this Colony, and the other United Colonies in America, it shall be the duty of such civil authority, Selectmen, and Committee, to cause every such person or persons to appear before them to be examined; and if on examination they shall not be able to satisfy the said authority, Selectmen and Committee, or the major part of them, that they are not inimical to this or the other United American Colonies, then such person or persons shall be by order of such authority, Selectmen, and Committee, or the major part of them, disarmed, and not allowed to have or keep any arms, until they shall satisfy said authority, Selectmen, and Committee, or the major part of them, that such person or persons are friendly to this and the other United Colonies.

And for the more effectual carrying into execution this act, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That when any person shall be duly convicted and ordered to be dismissed as aforesaid, the Superior Court, or civil authority, Selectmen, and Committee aforesaid, as the case may happen, are hereby empowered and fully authorized to issue a warrant, signed by the Clerk of the Superior Court, or by one or more of the said civil authority, directed to the Sheriff of the County, his Deputy, or to the Constables of the town wherein such person or persons dwell, directing and ordering said officer forthwith to disarm such person or persons; and in case he or they shall refuse to resign up his or their arms, said officer by and with the advice of any one Assistant, and Justice of the Peace, or two Justices, is hereby authorized to raise the Militia of the County, or so many of them as they shall judge needful for the purpose of carrying into execution such warrant; and all military officers and soldiers being duly required, who shall neglect or refuse to obey the command of such Sheriff, his Deputy, or Constable, shall be subject to the same penalty as by law is provided for commissioned officers and soldiers who refuse to obey the Sheriff in the execution of his office. And all informing officers are directed to inquire after, and due presentment make, of all the breaches of the foregoing paragraph of this act.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That on information being made to any of the County Courts within this Colony, by the Selectmen of any towns, or the major part of them, that there are real estates in such town belonging to any person or persons, who have, since the making of this act, put, or shall continue to hold and screen themselves under the protection of the Ministerial Army, or have aided or assisted in carrying into execution the present Ministerial measures against America, such County Court within the County where such estate lieth, are hereby authorized and empowered to issue a warrant to attach such estate; an attested copy thereof with the officer's doings thereon, shall be left at the last usual place of abode of such person or persons, if within this Colony, at least twelve days before the sitting of the next County Court in such County; and if on inquiry by said court said information shall be found true, said court are directed to order said estate so attached to be held under the care of such person or persons as said court shall appoint, who shall improve said estate or estates for the use of this Colony, and be accountable for the rents and profits thereof.

Whereas this Assembly, in May, 1769, did establish and order that the military exercise called the Norfolk Militia Exercise, should be used and practised by the Militia of this Colony for the future: And whereas the Continental Army have adopted the military exercise usually called the Manual Exercise, as ordered by His Majesty in the year 1764, which is esteemed preferable in many respects to the said Norfolk Militia Exercise, for the purpose of preparing the soldiery for real service:

Resolved by this Assembly, That for the future the military exercise, called the Manual Exercise, ordered by His Majesty in 1764, shall be observed and practised by the Militia in this Colony; and that the Colonels, or chief commanding officer of the respective Regiments in this Colony, do give orders to the commanding officers of each Military Company under their command, that they conform themselves thereto, as soon as conveniently may be, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act in addition to a Law of this Colony, entitled An Act for the punishment of Deserters.

Be it enacted by the Governour and Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That if any Soldier or Mariner, regularly enlisted into, taken, or retained in the service of this Colony, or of this and the rest of the United Colonies, who shall depart without license of his commander, or that shall desert said service, and shall escape into, or be within this Colony, it shall be the duty of any and every person that shall be made acquainted therewith, and especially of the Constables and Grand Jurors in the several towns in this Colony, immediately to give notice thereof to the next Assistant or Justice of the Peace, who shall, by proper warrant under his hand, cause such person forthwith to be apprehended and committed to the common jail of the County where he shall be taken, and there be secured till he can be returned to his said commander. That if any person shall harbour or conceal any such deserter within this Colony, knowing him to be such, such person shall forfeit and pay to the Treasurer of this Colony, a sum not exceeding fifteen pounds, at the discretion of the court that shall have cognizance thereof, or imprisoned not exceeding two months, at the discretion of said court, and that every person that shall be guilty of any breach of this act, shall be informed against by the same officers, prosecuted in the same manner, and tried before the same court mentioned in said law.

Whereas the Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers belonging to this Colony, who have been employed for the year past in the Continental Armies, stand liable and obliged by law to pay taxes for their respective polls, yet, considering the fatigues and importance of the service, and being desirous to encourage the future service, and to show some gratuitous token of approbation to those who have behaved well and served out faithfully the stipulated time by them entered into:

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That those Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers, who have faithfully discharged their respective duties as soldiers during the campaign that is past, shall be exempted from paying any taxes arising on their respective polls, in the list given in for the year 1775, and that those who have already enlisted, or shall hereafter enlist into the Continental Army for the ensuing campaign, shall be exempted from paying taxes on their polls in the list to be given in for the year 1776; and that the persons of such as shall so enlist, or have already enlisted, be exempted from arrest for debt until the term of their service is expired.

An Act empowering the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army, or Officers commanding a Detachment, or Out-posts, &c., to administer an Oath.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the Commander-in-Chief of the Army, raised or to be raised by this and the rest of the United Colonies, or any officer in the service of the said United Colonies, commanding any detachment or out-post, shall have power and authority to administer an oath, and swear any person or persons to the truth of any information or intelligence, or any other matter relative to the publick service.

An Act for altering and further ascertaining the Bounds and Limits of the Town of WESTMORELAND, in this Colony.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the Town of Westmoreland, in this Colony, shall be bounded east by the River Delaware, south by a line of latitude just forty-one degrees north from the Equator, and extend west on said line to the termination of fifteen English miles west of the East Branch of the River Susquehanna; from thence to run northerly a straight line to the Forks of the River Tyoga, and continuing the same course to the north line of this Colony, which shall be the west line of said Town and of the County of Litchfield; and said Town is bounded north by the north line of this Colony, as described in the Charter from King Charles the Second, bearing date the 23d day of April, A. D. 1662. And whereas part of the land contained in said Charter to this Colony is claimed by the Proprietors of the Colony of Pennsylvania, by virtue of a grant from King Charles the Second, made subsequent to the grant to the Governour and Company of this Colony, and a number of persons are settled on part of said lands under said claim, and also numbers of persons are settled on other parts of said disputed territory, under the title of this Colony, which are included within said Town of Westmoreland, and in order to preserve the peace of said inhabitants and harmony and friendship between the Colonies, pursuant to the advice of the honourable Congress of the United Colonies, until the controversy concerning the title of said lands can be settled and determined, either by an amicable agreement or some competent judicature:

It is resolved by this Assembly, That all the present inhabitants on said disputed territory shall remain quiet in their present possessions, without molestation from any person or persons under the jurisdiction of this Colony, provided they behave themselves peaceably towards the inhabitants settled under the claims of this Colony, and provided the persons belonging to this Colony who have been lately apprehended on said lands by some of the people of Pennsylvania, be released, and all the effects, as well of those who have been already released, as those now in custody, be restored to them; and all persons are hereby strictly forbid making any further settlements on said lands, without special licence from this Assembly, or giving any interruption or disturbance to any persons already settled thereon; this temporary provision to remain in force during the pleasure of this Assembly, and shall not affect or prejudice the legal title of this Colony, or of any particular persons to any of said lands in company.

Resolved by this Assembly, That, for the future, the Delegates of this Colony who shall be appointed to attend the General Congress of the United Colonies of America shall be annually chosen by this Assembly at their session in October, and such of said Delegates who shall be directed to attend, shall on the first day of January next after their being elected as aforesaid, attend said Congress, if then sitting; always provided, that if it shall so happen that said new chosen Delegates shall not arrive at the place where said Congress be then sitting, that the Delegates then attending at said Congress in behalf of this Colony, do continue to sit and act until said new elected Delegates shall arrive and take their seats in said Congress.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Selectmen for the time being of each Town in this Colony be, and they are hereby appointed Inspectors of Nitre and Saltpetre made and manufactured in this Colony, with all the power and authority given to Inspectors of Saltpetre, in and by an act of this Assembly, intitled An act for encouraging the manufactures of Saltpetre and Gunpowder; which Saltpetre or Nitre shall, from time to time, be delivered to such person or persons as his Honour the Governour; and Committee of Safety shall appoint to receive the same, and cause it to be manufactured into Powder for the use of the Colony.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Mr. Titus Hosmer, Mr. Ephraim Strong, Captain John Holbrook, Colonel Jabez Hamlin, and Doctor John Dickerson, be a Committee to examine where any mines or mineral substances containing Sulphur may be found within this Colony, and procure proper experienced workmen to separate the Sulphur from its ore, and make experiments on such ores, as to be able to form a judgment what will be the expense of manufacturing Sulphur, and whether it will be practicable to carry on that manufacture to any advantage, and make report to the next session of the General Assembly, or to his Honour the Governour, in case they shall be prepared to make a report before such session of the Assembly; and in case report shall be made by said Committee to the Governour, his Honour the Governour, with the advice of his Council of Safety, is empowered to give orders to such Committee to proceed in manufacturing Sulphur for the use and at the expense of this Colony, and to empower said Committee to receive of the Treasurer such sums of money as shall by them be judged necessary to be used for carrying on said manufacture to the best advantage.

Resolved, That the Brigantine owned by Captain John Greggs be purchased for the use of this Colony, to be fitted and improved as an Armed Vessel for the defence thereof; and that Colonel David Waterbury be a Committee to purchase said Brigantine and appurtenances, at a price not exceeding one thousand pounds, taking an inventory of the appurtenances belonging to said Brigantine, and a bill of sale thereof, to the Governour and Company of this Colony; and that he make report thereof to this Assembly; and in case the said Colonel Waterbury shall purchase said Brigantine, that with all convenient despatch he proceed with her to the Port of New-Haven.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Colonel David Waterbury and Captain Isaac Sears be empowered and directed to inquire, view, examine, and find out some suitable Vessel, to be improved for an Armed Vessel in defence of this Colony, and what terms such an one may be either purchased or chartered, with their judgment, estimate, and opinion thereon, and report make to this Assembly at their present session.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Colonel David Waterbury and Captain Isaac Sears be a Committee to view and examine a certain Brigantine belonging to Captain John Greggs, at Greenwich, and find whether said Brigantine, in their opinion and judgment, is fit to be improved for an Armed Vessel for defence of this Colony, find the terms she may be purchased or chartered, and report accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Troops now stationed on the sea-coast of this Colony by order of the Governour and Council of Safety be, and they are hereby continued for the defence thereof; that the Battery of Groton be furnished with six Cannon—thirty-two pounders, or in lieu thereof, six twenty-four pounders; and that the Battery at Stonington be supplied with six Cannon—two eighteen and four twelve pounders; and that the Battery at New-Haven be supplied with sixteen Cannon, viz: six eighteen, and ten twelve-pounders; and that the Harbour of Milford be supplied with six of the Cannon now at New-Haven, if to be obtained: And it is further resolved by the authority aforesaid, That the Governour and his Council of Safety be authorized and empowered to supply the Batteries with said Cannon, and suitable Ammunition, from time to time, as they shall find necessary and expedient: Provided, nevertheless, That the Governour and his Council of Safety be, and they are hereby empowered to augment, disband, or discharge any or all of the Troops now stationed on the sea-coast, from time to time, and under such regulations as they shall judge expedient, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolved, That Captain Giles Hall, commander of the Brigantine Minerva, now in the Colony's service, be directed, and he is hereby directed and ordered, forthwith to deliver to Jonathan Fitch, Esq., at New-Haven, all the Guns and warlike Stores now on board said Brigantine; and having so done, he is further directed to dismiss as many hands as he shall think proper, reserving a sufficient number to sail said Brigantine into Connecticut River, and proceed with her with all possible despatch to Rocky-Hill and deliver her to the owner, according to charter party; and in case he should be prevented by ice in the river, he is to lay said Vessel in the most convenient and safe place, and to discharge the hands, reserving only a sufficient number to take proper care of said Vessel, and make return to his Honour the Governour and Council of War of his proceedings, and make up his Portage Bill and Muster-roll, and lay the same before the Committee of Pay-Table for adjustment and payment.

Resolved by this Assembly, That one Armed Vessel, in addition to those already ordered or provided, and also four Row-Gallies, be built or otherwise procured, suitably manned, armed, and equipped, for the defence of this and the neighbouring Colonies, under the direction of his Honour the Governour and the Council appointed to assist him in the recess of the Assembly, who are hereby authorized and fully empowered to perform said service as soon as may be.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Colonel of each Regiment of Militia in this Colony, excepting the Twenty-fourth Regiment, or in his absence the chief officer in the Regiment be, and they are hereby ordered and directed as soon as may be, or at the time of inlisting Minute-men, to cause the Arms and Ammunition of all the Militia under their command to be viewed and examined, and take an account thereof; and also take an account of the Ammunition now remaining in the several town stocks in their respective Regiments, together with an account of the several sorts and quantity of Ammunition that each town hath supplied or delivered out of their town stocks for the use of the Troops in the Continental service; and also an account of the number of Companies and Troops in their respective Regiments, with the names of the Commissioned Officers, and the number of men in each, and forthwith make return thereof to the Captain-General.

Resolved by this Assembly, That William Samuel Johnson, Esq., for the Counties of Fairfield and Litchfield; Titus Hosmer, Esq., for the County of Hartford; Samuel Bishop, Esq., for the County of New-Haven; and Nathaniel Minor, Esq., for the County of New-London and Windham, be appointed, and they are hereby appointed to procure a just and well-authenticated account of the hostilities committed by the Ministerial Troops or Navy, whereby any damage has been done to the property of any person or persons in this Colony since March last, together with the proper evidence of the facts related, the number and value of the Vessels, either inward or outward bound, which have been seized by them since that period, and as near as may be their value, with their Cargoes on board, when taken, and make return thereof to his Honour the Governour, to enable him to make proper return to the Committee of the honourable Continental Congress agreeably to a Resolution of said Congress.

Resolved by this Assembly, That a Chaplain be by his Honour the Governour appointed to each of the Regiments from this Colony in the Continental service, who shall receive the same wages as have been given to the Chaplains in the last campaign; and, as a further encouragement, this Assembly grants to each of such Chaplains so in future to be employed, the sum of forty shillings per month during their continuance in said service, to enable them to supply their respective pulpits in their absence.

Upon the information of Andrew Adams, Esq., Attorney of our Lord, the King, for the County of Litchfield, showing to this Assembly, that Benjamin Kilborn, of Litchfield, in said County of Litchfield, who is a Lieutenant in the First Military Company or Train-band in said Litchfield, did at said Litchfield, at sundry times between the first day of November last and the date of said complaint, utter and declare that he wished there were ten hundred thousand Regular Troops now landed in the Colony, and that he would immediately join with them in order to subdue the Americans, who were in a state of rebellion; that the commanding officer who fired upon the town of Falmouth, treated the inhabitants of said town too mildly and gently, and much more so than he would have done if he had had the command; that he was determined to join the Regulars, and would kill some of the inhabitants of said Colony; and that he, the said Benjamin, has, during the whole time aforesaid, publicly affirmed and declared that the late oppressive measures of the British Administration respecting America, were constitutional and right, and that he would willingly join in enforcing the same, and that the conduct of the United Colonies in America were unconstitutional and rebellious, &c., praying advice in the premises, as per complaint on file:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the said Benjamin Kilborn be, and he is hereby cashiered of his said office; and the Captain of said Company is hereby directed to lead them to the choice of a Lieutenant in the room and stead of him, the said Benjamin, and such other Commissioned Officers as may be wanted, and make return to the next session of this Assembly: And it is further resolved, That the said complainant be, and he is hereby directed to prosecute the said Benjamin Kilborn, in law, for his said offences.

Whereas, upon the Memorial and Representation of the Town of Mansfield against Captain Hezekiah Bissell, of Windham, preferred to this Assembly at their session in October last, it was resolved by said Assembly in October, that the Secretary should serve said Bissell with a copy of said Memorial or Representation to notify him to appear and answer thereto at the next session, &c., and said Bissell not being notified as aforesaid for want of time, it is now

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Secretary be, and he is hereby directed to serve the said Bissell with a copy of said Memorial or Representation, and notify him to appear before the General Assembly at their session in May next, to answer thereto, and also that the Secretary send out a citation or summons to the Witnesses to appear before the Assembly at their session in May next, to testify what they know in support of said Memorial.

Upon the Memorial of William Pitkin and George Pitkin, of Hartford, representing to this Assembly that they are owners of a convenient stream and place for erecting a Mill for manufacturing Gunpowder, about three miles east of Connecticut River, in the Town of Hartford, praying liberty to erect such Powder-mill, as per Memorial on file,

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Memorialists have liberty, and license is hereby granted them, to erect such Mill, at such place, for the purpose aforesaid.

Upon the information of Peter Bulkley, Esq., of Colchester, against Henry Champion, Esq., of said Colchester, preferred to this Assembly:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Secretary be, and he is hereby directed to cause the said Henry Champion, Esq., to be served with a copy of said information, and also summon him to appear before the General Assembly at their next session, to answer unto said information; also,

Resolved, That the said Peter Bulkley, Esq., be, and he is hereby directed to procure and bring forward the Witnesses and other evidence to support and prove the matters in his said information alleged and complained of.

Upon the Memorial of David Hawley, of Stratford, showing to this Assembly that on the 4th day of September last past, he sailed on a voyage to the West-Indies, with a small cargo on board, in order to purchase a cargo of Gunpowder, if it was possible to obtain it; if not, then to invest the nett proceeds of his cargo in Salt and Sugar; all pursuant to and in consequence of the advice of the Committee of Inspection in the Towns of Fairfield and Stratford, and that on Tuesday last he returned from said voyage, and that he had been to several of the West-India Islands, and that all that it was in his power to purchase was only one hundred weight of Gunpowder, and that with the rest of his cargo he purchased thirteen hundred and five bushels of Salt, and eighteen hogsheads of Sugar, and made a contract to be supplied with a cargo of Gunpowder, if he should be permitted to go a second voyage after it, and then return; and that, on his return, he found that his Honour, the Governor's proclamation, for continuing the first embargo, which expired a few days before he sailed to the West-Indies, arrived at Fairfield the day after he sailed, but that he heard nothing of it until his return, although he finds now that it had been issued several days before it arrived at Fairfield, and that although he had it not in his heart to disobey the laws of his country, he fears he is liable to a prosecution on the matter aforesaid, and therefore prays that he may be exempted from any prosecution or punishment on account of said voyage, and that he may be directed in the disposal of said Powder as per Memorial on file appears:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Memorialist be, and he is hereby, exempted and freed from any prosecution or punishment for or on account of said voyage, and that the Memorialist shall and do dispose of said Powder equally between the Towns of Fairfield and Stratford.

Upon the Memorial of Adam Babcock, of New-Haven, showing to this Assembly that he has a Brigantine, sold to a person in North-Carolina, praying for liberty to export five thousand pounds weight of Cheese, in part to defray the expense of a voyage to recover his effects, as per Memorial on file:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Memorialist have liberty, and he is hereby permitted, to export to said North-Carolina five thousand pounds weight of Cheese, in order that he may procure a quantity of Rice for the use of the Army.

Upon the Memorial of Jedediah Elderkin and Nathaniel Wales, Jr., praying this Assembly to grant them liberty to erect a Mill, &c., in the Town of Windham, for the manufacturing of Gunpowder, as per Memorial on file:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Memorialists have liberty, and liberty and license is hereby granted to them, to erect a Powder-mill, in the Town of Windham, for the purpose of manufacturing Gunpowder, pursuant to an act of this Assembly, directing the building of Powder-mills.

Upon the Memorial of Abraham Fuller, of Kent, in the County of Litchfield, showing to this Assembly that he is Overseer of Indians, at Schaghtacook, and that there has been considerable expense incurred in curing the sickness and wounds of said Indians, as per Memorial on file, on which Maj. Samuel Canfield and Capt. Sherman Boardman were appointed a Committee, who have now made their Report, that the said Indians have about one hundred and twenty acres of Land, improved and lying in one common field; that the same was formerly allotted out to each Indian, and therefore can be let out but for little profit; that many of said Indians are now removed, and they are reduced to a small number; and that it is advisable that said Lands be leased to defray the expense; and that David Sherman, the Indian who wounded his brother, be assigned in service to defray the expense incurred by wounding his brother. Which Report is accepted, and approved; and it is thereupon

Resolved by this Assembly, That Major Samuel Canfield and Captain Sherman Boardman be, and they are hereby appointed a Committee, who are hereby empowered to make a new allotment of said Lands, to the several Indians, as shall be necessary for their support; and the residue the Overseer of said Indians is hereby directed to lease out, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of said sickness, and the avails thereof, over and above, after repairing and making necessary fences, said Overseer shall render an account to the General Assembly; and that said Samuel Canfield, Esq., be, and he is hereby appointed and authorized to assign in service the said David Sherman, for the satisfaction of such part of the expense as has arisen on account of wounding his brother, during such time as shall be necessary for that purpose; and make report of their doings in the premises to this Assembly.

Upon the Memorial of Daniel Clifford, of Fairfield, in the County of Fairfield, showing to this Assembly that, on or about the 18th day of October last past, he owned a small Boat, of about ten tons burden, used in the coasting business; on which he had loaded, on the 2d day of said October, four bushels of Indian Corn; and that he, being uncertain of the continuance of an embargo, on said 18th day of October, proceeded to New-York, and there sold and disposed of one bushel and an half of said Corn to sundry different people, and brought back the residue to said Fairfield; that he had no design to contravene the Proclamation issued to continue an embargo, and that a private person had made information to the King's Attorney, in Fairfield County; and should he be subject to prosecution it would prove detrimental to his circumstances, as per Memorial on file:

Resolved by this Assembly, That said Daniel Clifford be exempted and discharged from all penalties and forfeitures that may be incurred on account of his transporting said Corn as aforesaid, said embargo notwithstanding, he paying all cost that may have arisen on said prosecution.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Treasurer of this Colony advance and pay to the Honourable Oliver Wolcott and Samuel Huntington, Esqs., the sum of two hundred Pounds, towards defraying the expense of attendance upon the honourable Continental Congress, as Delegates from this Colony, taking their receipt for to account.

This Assembly is adjourned, by Proclamation, &c., until his Honour the Governor, or in his absence, the Deputy Governor, shall see cause to call it to meet again.

Test:

GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary.

COLONEL HOWE TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

Norfolk, December 15, 1775.

SIR: The course of service necessarily inducing an inquiry between Colonel Woodford and myself respecting our commissions, we found that mine, from the nature of it, had the precedence of his. He conducted himself upon this occasion in that manner which his knowledge of discipline could not but dictate, and with that gentility which never forsakes him. It is with diffidence, sir, that I undertake this charge; and I must add, however honourable, with reluctance, as I supersede a gentleman I so much esteem, whose abilities I know to be equal to the duties of the station, and who hath so amply filled the measure of his duty.

If real attachment to the noble cause in which I am engaged, and the strictest attention to my duty, can in any manner compensate for want of abilities, the Colony of Virginia may rely upon my utmost exertions to serve them; in which, I flatter myself, I shall not be wholly unsuccessful, as I am promised the assistance of my friend Colonel

Woodford, whose advice I shall upon every occasion ask, and whose aid I am certain never will be denied me. I shall be happy to be honoured with your instructions on every occasion, and an exact compliance with your commands shall be considered as an indispensable obligation.

I have the honour to be, with great respect, sir, your obedient servant,

ROBERT HOWE.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE CONVENTION.

Norfolk, December 15, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you last night; since then nothing material has happened; we still remain in the same situation. This morning a midshipman, with a flag of truce, arrived from the Otter. That and our answer you have enclosed. All the principal Tories, with their families and effects, have retired on board the ships-of-war and other vessels in the harbour, of which there is a very large fleet. What they intend I know not, and I am much at a loss to inform your honourable body what steps we shall take, further than to keep possession of this part of the town, and afford what protection we can to the inhabitants that claim it. We are much at a loss for your further orders, which we hoped to have received before this time, and are not without our fears that some accident must have happened to your express.

I received a letter this morning from Mr. Cary Mitchell. Our answer is enclosed, with his letter. I have the worst opinion of the people here; and have no doubt but every thing relating to us is laid before his Lordship. If it is your intention that a part only of the present force should remain at this place, I would submit it to your consideration whether the Second Regiment, or any part of it you may think proper to withdraw, may not, after their duty, be drawn off.

I wrote the Convention last night that I had resigned the command to Colonel Howe. As that gentleman's military abilities and great experience will be full equal to every task, I would ask the Convention's leave of absence to see my family, and attend to my private affairs, for so long time as may be agreeable to them. I do not mean this so long as there is a prospect of any actual service, either offensive or defensive.

You have enclosed a return of the strength of the troops at this place, and for further particulars must refer you to several members of your respectable body, who are the bearers of this.

I am, with the greatest respect, sir, your most obedient servant,

WILLIAM WOODFORD.

Otter sloop-of-war, off Norfolk, December 15, 1775.

To the Officer Commanding at NORFOLK:

Captain Squire's compliments to the commanding officer, informs him that several musket balls were last night fired at the King's ship, from some people at Norfolk. Captain Squire did not return the fire, from a supposition that it was done out of wantonness. Captain Squire does not mean to fire on the town of Norfolk, unless first fired at; must beg to know if any hostile intention was meant to His Majesty's ship, and people under his command.

Answer to the above.

Colonel Howe's and Colonel Woodford's compliments to Captain Squire, and assure him they gave no orders to fire upon the Otter, and conceive the musket balls mentioned in Captain Squire's message to have come from our guard, who fired by mistake upon one of our own parties.

ROBERT HOWE.

WILLIAM WOODFORD.

CAPTAIN COVENHOVEN TO LORD STIRLING.

December 15, 1775.

SIR: I would inform you that Captain Longstreet has been under many disadvantages in raising his company. In the first place, his Lieutenant failing, put him back a fortnight; some people discourage the enlistment; and others, seeing those that had enlisted, which retard the business considerably. However, I hope, with some of our leading men, they have agreed to enter to his assistance, with spirit. I make no doubt that the company will soon be filled.

Your giving some further indulgence will oblige, sir, your very humble servant,

JOHN COVENHOVEN.

Sir, please to excuse haste.

To Colonel Stirling.

CAPTAIN POLHEMUS TO LORD STIRLING.

New-Brunswick, December 15, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 14th instant, I received, and note the contents, and shall endeavour to call in all the men out on furlough as speedily as possible. I find much difficulty in keeping the men together, now they are billeted about the town; but expect to have the barracks ready to go into by Monday or Tuesday next, and doubt not by the latter end of next week to have my company altogether in the barracks, ready for your further orders. I understood that two or three companies of our battalion are expected to lie here some time; if so, shall esteem it a particular favour of your Lordship if you will continue us in this town till such times as we may be properly equipped or wanted for immediate duty.

I have the honour to be, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN POLHEMUS.

The Honourable Earl of Stirling, Elizabethtown.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the General Committee for the City and County of New-York, on Tuesday evening, December 15th, 1775, Present: John Broome, Chairman pro tem.,

Colonel Hyer,	Mr. Van Zandt,	Mr. Templeton,
Mr. Janeway,	Mr. Gilbert,	Mr. T. Curtinuis,
Mr. Roade,	Mr. Ray,	Mr. Mulligan,
Mr. Pintard,	Mr. Banker,	Mr. Norwood,
Mr. Dunscomb,	Mr. Johnson,	Mr. Brinkerhoff,
Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Moore,	Mr. Theop. Anthony,
Mr. Bassett,	Mr. Abeel,	Mr. Ray, Jun.,
Mr. Duyckinck,	Mr. Byvanck,	Mr. Totten,
Mr. Roome,	Mr. Breasted,	Mr. Low,
Mr. Lott,	Mr. Jay,	Mr. Burling,
Mr. Roosevelt,	Mr. John Anthony,	Mr. Phenix,
Colonel Lasher,	Mr. Miller,	Mr. Ramsay.
Captain Dennis,

The Chairman laid before the Committee a letter from Mathias Williamson, of Elizabethtown, to his son, requesting him to obtain permission from this Committee to send a Chariot to Mr. Johnson, in Jamaica, which being read, Ordered, That the Chairman give permission accordingly.

The Chairman produced an Inventory of a quantity of Provisions, belonging to Mr. Daubeny, which were taken by the City Guard, going to Long-Island in order to be conveyed on board the Asia, man-of-war. Mr. Daubeny being called in, from his examination it appeared that he had inadvertently attempted to send some necessaries on board the Asia, without the permission of Mr. Lott.

The question then being put, whether Mr. Daubeny should be dismissed by receiving a reprimand from the Chairman, was carried in the affirmative.

Mr. Daubeny being then called, and having received a reprimand from the Chairman, Ordered, That he be dismissed.

Mr. Dunscomb moved that the Secretary enter the names of the members as they voted, on each side of the question, which was unanimously agreed to, and ordered accordingly.

The names of the members as they voted on the question relating to Mr. Daubeny:

For the Affirmative.

Mr. Roade,	Mr. Ray,	Mr. Brinkerhoff,
Mr. Pintard,	Mr. Banker,	Mr. Theop. Anthony,
Mr. Duyckinck,	Mr. Johnson,	Mr. Totten,
Mr. Roome,	Mr. Jay,	Mr. Low,
Colonel Lott,	Mr. Miller,	Mr. Ramsey,
Captain Dennis,	Mr. Templeton,	Mr. Breasted,—18.

For the Negative.

Colonel Hyer,	Colonel Lasher,	Mr. Curtinuis,
Mr. Janeway,	Mr. Van Zandt,	Mr. Multigan,
Mr. Dunscomb,	Mr. Gilbert,	Mr. Norwood,
Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Abeel,	Mr. Ray, Jun.,
Mr. Bassett,	Mr. Byvanck,	Mr. Burling,—17.
Mr. Roosevelt,	Mr. John Anthony,

Whereas, many of the Members of this Committee have hitherto neglected to give their attendance at the stated meetings,

Ordered, therefore, That the Chairman issue his order to the Door-keeper, directing him to apply to every Member who is absent at this time, (excepting those who belong to the Continental or Provincial Congresses, those who have removed out of town, and those who are in the Provincial service,) and obtain a declaration in writing whether they mean to be considered as members of this Board, and engage to attend accordingly; and that the Door-keeper report to the Chairman each written answer, with all convenient speed.

As there are several persons now confined in the Guard-House,

Ordered, That Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Dunscomb be a Committee to inquire into the offence of the prisoners, procure the evidences' names, and report the same at the next meeting.

It being suggested to the Committee that one Graham, residing near the North River, has been employed in procuring Provisions, and supplying the Asia, man-of-war, therewith, Ordered, That William Sloo and Joseph Bauldwin be sent for immediately.

Mr. Bauldwin attending, informed the Committee that he well knows this Graham to have purchased large quantities of Provisions, and that he verily believed they were bought for the use of the man-of-war; that Joseph De Groot and George Anderson carted the Provisions.

William Sloo declares to the above effect, and furthermore says, that one Mrs. Haily, in Dey Street, informed him (Sloo) that she was employed by the said Graham to procure a large quantity of Butter; that David Morris, Carpenter, can give some further intelligence.

Major Stoutenburgh, Garret Abeel, John Lasher, and William Hyer, a Sub-Committee, appointed to draw up a set of Regulations for the Night Watch, reported that they had drawn up said Regulations; which, being read and amended, are in the words following, viz:

Whereas, the Military Night Watch, which has been kept for several months past, has been found of great utility towards preserving peace and good order in the city, and protecting the persons and property of its inhabitants; and as the continuance of such a Watch has become more necessary than ever, from the unsettled state of publick affairs, and the recent instances of insults offered to the rights and persons of said inhabitants, the Sub-Committee appointed by the General Committee to draw up directions for the Regulations, are therefore of opinion it be again published in the newspapers, that it is expected the inhabitants of this city continue with willingness and punctuality said Watch, agreeably to the rules and orders of the Provincial Congress for regulating the Militia, and the directions of the General Committee.

The following directions for the Watch, are submitted to the General Committee for their approbation:

First. That at least one company, properly officered, mount guard every evening at such place and time as shall be directed by the General Committee; that the present Watch be kept at the Barracks on the Battery, and attend there every evening at six o'clock, and be discharged at daylight in the morning, unless it be found necessary by the Commanding Officer of the Regiment or Battalion to which such company belongs, to continue the same through the day.

Second. That the Town-Major give notice to the Adjutant of each Battalion, whose tour of duty it is, at least twenty-four hours before he mounts guard; and that the officer report to the Town-Major the occurrences of the night, and deliver him a return of the men who have been on duty, and of the defaulters, which report is to be delivered by him to the Colonel, or next Commanding Officer of the Battalion to which the company or guard belongs.

Third. That immediately after roll-calling, sentinels be set at such places as have been directed by the Committee, or shall be directed by the Town-Major, or be found necessary by the officer on guard.

Fourth. That detachments be made from said guard, to patrol the streets every two hours, under the command of a Commissioned or a Non-commissioned Officer, beginning at ten o'clock; that said patrol endeavour, by all means, to prevent outrage on person or property; and that all offending or suspected persons, or those who cannot give a proper account of themselves, be by them taken up and carried to the Guard-Room, and there kept in safe custody until disposed of in the morning by the Chairman of the Committee, or the Commanding Officer of the Regiment or Battalion to which the company or guard belongs, which Chairman or Commanding Officer, is hereby authorized to examine the person or persons so taken in custody, and release him or them, if sufficient proof does not appear to render their further confinement necessary. And if said patrol should discover any person or persons landing or taking off goods in the night, they place a sentinel or sentinels over said goods, until notice be given to the officer on guard, who shall repair himself, or send another officer to the place, to be fully satisfied that said goods are not landed or laden contrary to the Association, or orders of the Congress or General Committee.

Fifthly. That no wanton alarm be given to the inhabitants, by firing of guns or beating of drums.

Sixthly. That if any alarm shall be given in the night, by fire or otherwise, the guard stand to their arms, and the officer immediately despatch a sufficient detachment to inquire into the reason of such alarm.

Seventhly, or lastly. It is expected by the General Committee, that every officer of the Military Watch adhere strictly to the 23d and 24th Articles of the Rules and Orders of the Provincial Congress, in fining and punishing delinquents.

ISAAC STOUTENBURGH, JOHN LASHER, GARRET ABEEL, WILLIAM HYER.

Ordered, That a fair copy of the foregoing Regulations be made out and signed by the Chairman, and delivered to the Town-Major, with orders to have the same pasted on a board and hung in the Guard-Room.

Abraham P. Lott and Peter T. Curtenius, appointed to superintend the election of Officers for Beat No. 28, reported that they had attended the said election, and that William De Witt was, by a majority of votes, elected Captain of said Beat No. 28, and that Martin Shire was chosen First-Lieutenant, John Horne, Second-Lieutenant, and John Brewster, Ensign.

Abraham P. Lott and Jacob Van Voorhies, appointed to superintend the election of a Captain in Beat No. 5, reported that they had attended said election, and that James Wessels was, without any opposition, chosen Captain of said Beat.

Ordered, That the Officers' names be sent to the Provincial Congress, requesting their commissions to be made out.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Albany, December 15, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your Excellency's favour of the 23th November, I received on the 11th instant. The inventory of the military stores taken from the enemy, gave great joy in this place.

With mine of the 8th instant, your Excellency will receive an account of our strength in Canada. It is daily decreasing; above an hundred have left it since General Montgomery's letter. I fear much that by the first of next month I shall not have a man left at Ticonderoga, Crown-Point, or Fort-George, of those now there; and I cannot learn that the officers to whom I gave warrants to raise new companies, to garrison those places, meet with any success.

The treaty with the Indians is not yet concluded. They have delivered us the war-belt and hatchet which Colonel Johnson gave them at Montreal. When this belt was delivered at Montreal, Johnson had caused an ox to be roasted, and a cask of red wine was prepared; and when he invited them to the feast, he said it was to eat a Bostonian, and to drink his blood. The sachems of the Six-Nations, present, refused to partake of the feast, or to let the warriors sing the war-song; but took the belt to lay it before their Grand Council. We have now sufficient proof that the Ministry attempted to engage the savages to fight against us.

The Mohawks have received a severe and publick reprimand from the other nations, because they did not immediately send for the few of the tribe that were in Canada, some of which were killed by our people.

I do myself the honour to enclose your Excellency copies and extracts of my late letters to Congress.

I have not heard a word from Colonel Knox since I left him at Fort-George. The weather is so moderate at present, that I am in hopes he has got most of the stores to Fort-George.

I am, dear sir, with every sentiment of esteem, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

His Excellency General Washington, &c., &c.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JOSEPH REED.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Since my last, I have had the pleasure of receiving your favours of the 28th ultimo, and the 2d instant. I must again express my gratitude for the attention shown to Mrs. Washington, at Philadelphia. It cannot but be pleasing, although it did, in some measure, impede the progress of her journey.*

I am much obliged to you for the hints contained in both of the above letters, respecting the jealousies which you say are gone abroad. I have studiously avoided, in all letters calculated for the public eye, (I mean for that of the Congress,) every expression that could give pain or uneasiness; and I shall observe the same rule with respect to private letters, any further than appears absolutely necessary for the elucidation of facts.

I cannot charge myself with incivility, or, what in my opinion is tantamount, ceremonious civility, to the gentlemen of this Colony; but if such my conduct appears, I will endeavour at a reformation, as I can assure you, my dear Reed, that I wish to walk in such a line as will give most general satisfaction. You know that it was my wish, at first, to invite a certain number of the gentlemen of this Colony every day to dinner; but, unintentionally, we some how or other missed of it. If this has given rise to the jealousy, I can only say that I am sorry for it; at the same time I add, that it was rather owing to inattention, or, more properly, too much attention to other matters, which caused me to neglect it.

The extracts of letters from this camp, which so frequently appear in the Pennsylvania papers, are not only written without my knowledge, but without my approbation, as I have always thought they must have an unfavourable tendency; but there is no restraining men's tongues or pens, when charged with a little vanity, as in the accounts given of, rather by, the riflemen.

With respect to what you have said of yourself, and your situation, I can only add to what I have before said on this subject, that whilst you leave the door open to my expectation of your return, I shall not think of supplying your place. If ultimately you resolve against coming, I should be glad to know it as soon as you have determined.

The Congress have resolved well, in respect to the pay of the men; but if they cannot get the money signers to despatch their business, it is of very little avail; for we have not, at this time, money enough in camp to answer the Commissary's and Quartermaster's accounts, much less to pay the troops.

The account which you have given of the sentiments of the people respecting my conduct, is extremely flattering. I pray God that I may continue to deserve them, in my perplexed and intricate situation.

Our inlistment goes on slowly. By the returns last Monday, only five thousand nine hundred and seventeen men are engaged for the ensuing campaign; and yet we are told that we shall get the number wanted, as they are only playing off, to see what advantages are to be made, and whether a bounty cannot be extorted, either from the public at large or individuals, in case of a draft. Time only can discover this. I doubt the measure exceedingly.

The fortunate capture of the store-ship has supplied us with flints, and many other articles we stood in need of; but we still have our wants.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

SIR: Your favours of the 7th and 9th instant I received, and was much pleased to hear of the zeal of the people of Connecticut, and the readiness of the inhabitants of the several towns to march to this town, upon their being acquainted with the behaviour and desertion of their troops.

I have nothing to suggest for the consideration of your Assembly; I am confident they will not be wanting in their exertions for supporting the just and constitutional rights of the Colonies.

Enclosed I send you a list of the officers and companies under the new establishment, with the number of the men inlisted; the returns only came in to-day, or I would have transmitted it before.

* CAMBRIDGE, December 14, 1775.—Last Monday night came to town, from Virginia, the lady of his Excellency General Washington, and the lady of the Hon. Adjutant-General Gates, accompanied by John Custis, Esq., and lady, and George Lewis, Esq.

Having heard that it is doubtful whether the Reverend Mr. Leonard, from your Colony, will have it in his power to continue here as a Chaplain, I cannot but express some concern, as I think his departure will be a loss. His general conduct has been exemplary and praiseworthy; in discharging the duties of his office, active and industrious; he has discovered himself a warm and steady friend to his country, and taken great pains to animate the soldiery, and impress them with a knowledge of the important rights we are contending for. Upon the late desertion of the troops, he gave a sensible and judicious discourse, holding forth the necessity of courage and bravery, and at the same time, of obedience and subordination to those in command.

In justice to the merits of this gentleman, I thought it only right to give you this testimonial of my opinion of him, and to mention him to you as a person worthy of your esteem and that of the publick.

I am, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull, Connecticut.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO JAMES WARREN.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency, to transmit to you the enclosed letter, from John Dalton and William Ramsay, Esquires, two of the Committee for the County of Fairfax, in the Colony of Virginia, by which you will see that they have sent the sum of fifty-three pounds thirteen shillings and three pence, by John Custis, Esq., who arrived here this week, for the suffering poor of Boston. As your honourable Court may make a distribution of this money in a manner, probably, which will better answer the benevolent intentions of the contributors than what his Excellency can, it is his desire that you will have an order made respecting the same, and send some person with it, to whom the money may be paid. The letter you will please to return.

I have the honour to be your very humble servant,

ROBERT H. HARRISON, A. D. C.

To the Hon. James Warren, Esq., Speaker.

P. S. If you can certify that the other donations were received, it will give the Fairfax Committee satisfaction.

TO WILLIAM BARTLETT, ESQ., BEVERLY.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

SIR: Acknowledged receipt of his letter, with petition from Committee of Correspondence of Beverly. If any cannon, not immediately wanting for the armed vessels, to be lent them. Shot to be lent. Powder found on board the prizes to be detained in his hands; and, if absolutely wanting for the town, to be lent.

COLONEL NOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

SIR: Your favour of the 14th came to hand, with the sundry articles therein mentioned. I was in hopes there was some bottled porter, which would have been much more agreeable than that in cask. The General sends back the tea, which I am informed consists of two canisters only. The barrel of lemons was not half full. There was some preserved ginger on board the Antigua, which would be very agreeable.

Captain Lowrie just now delivered yours of the 11th. His Excellency thinks the price of teams, as fixed by the Province, full sufficient; he will not raise the price. His Excellency approves of your selling the lemons and limes, the potatoes, cabbage, and every thing perishable, on board the different prizes.

Captain Lowrie and Captain Foster have liberty to stay at Salem on their parole. Let them have their wearing apparel, and what to you appears clearly to be their private property, taking their receipts for what you give them.

Mr. Burke will deliver you this. You are ordered to give him and Mr. Gregory all their private property, taking their receipts. You must also give Captain Adams all his private property, taking his receipt.

Attend to former orders, by preventing embezzlements. As the court is not yet established to bring on the trial, I have nothing further to mention to you concerning them, than that all possible care must be taken of every article. Four loaves of sugar are all that came to hand.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To William Bartlett, Esq., Beverly.

COLONEL MOYLAN TO WILLIAM BARTLETT.

Cambridge, December 15, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you this day by Mr. Burke, to which you will please be referred.

The General was much surprised at the rapacity of the crews, in stripping the prizes of every little thing they could lay their hands upon. It is now his positive command, that you make strict inquiry for the different articles which have been taken, and such as can be got, returned to the proper owners; and that such articles as cannot be found, must be made good to them—the same to be deducted from the shares of those whom it can be proved the pillagers. If they cannot be found out, it must be a charge upon the one-third belonging to the captors. Of this you must acquaint Captain Manly and the agent for the people, if any such is by them appointed.

It is his Excellency's desire you will pay a strict attention to this order, and that he may not be plagued with any more applications of this sort.

STEPHEN MOYLAN.

To William Bartlett, Esq., Beverly.

Opinion given by JOHAN DERK Van der CAPELLEN, upon the request of the King of GREAT BRITAIN for the loan of the SCOTCH Brigade, in the Assembly of the States of OVERYSSELL, on the 16th of DECEMBER, 1775, and inserted in the Records of that Province.

Honourable and Mighty Gentlemen:

The request of a neighbouring Power for some troops of this State, to be taken into their service and pay, is, in the present state of Europe, an affair of so great consequence to our Republick, that I chose rather to communicate my sentiments to you in writing, desiring, at the same time, that this my opinion be inserted in the Records of this Province.

Assisting a foreign Power with troops, in order to extricate them from troubles in which they are involved, is simply no less than engaging therein, choosing a party, and putting ourselves in danger of being deeper involved than may, at first, be foreseen or wished for, and thus exposing ourselves to all the consequences of the first step.

Our Republick (which, though it flourishes only by peace, yet has constantly been engaging in unsuccessful wars, subsists principally by commerce and agriculture, and to both which, but especially the former, sufficient encouragement has not been given) is, by the great influence of some, and blind zeal of others, brought to so low a state of power as only to be recovered (if any remedy be still left) by observing a strict neutrality in all quarrels throughout Europe. Every proposal, therefore, however plausible, must be tried by this touchstone, and rejected if it does not stand the test. Of this sort, (and nobody can take amiss that I speak my sentiments on what regards the State so nearly with the true spirit of Batavia freedom; I even look upon myself as called upon, and that silence would be criminal when to speak is my duty,) I say, of this sort is that you are now deliberating upon; at least, I view it in that light. The torch which now burns in America is capable of inflaming all Europe, already full of combustibles. If assistance is offered to England, America will not want it on her side.

The House of Bourbon, and all who wish the peace of Europe and freedom of commerce, look with a jealous eye on the greatness of England, in raising it to which we have most unaccountably sacrificed ourselves without any reward or national profit whatever, and by which the balance of power in Europe, which cost such an effusion of blood, is entirely lost; inasmuch that we now behold that Kingdom exercising an imperial power on the sea, even much greater than was ever known to exist before; and it is more than probable a blow will be aimed against her, when a proper opportunity occurs, in order to stab her to the quick.

What will then be the consequence? No other than seeing ourselves again involved in a destructive war with one of our mightiest neighbours, (France), who, from a reciprocal interest, is our natural friend, and can wish nothing more than that there should exist such a neutral, and by trade flourishing, Republick as the United Provinces, to carry on, (by means of our extensive shipping and naval force,) with mutual advantage, their navigation and commerce, when obstructed by their wars with England. This appears obvious to me, besides other reasons of no less consequence.

What advantage can this Republick expect from this session of troops? What advantage has ever accrued to her from her near alliance with Great Britain? What reward has she received for her ever faithful assistance, so cheerfully and readily granted? That Kingdom, on the contrary, got, at the end of the Succession war, (which proved so fatal to this country,) besides her extensive conquests in America, nothing less than the key to the Mediterranean, Gibraltar and Minorca; and what we, but (as a certain writer too justly remarks) an irrecoverable and exhausted treasury, the just fruits of our folly?

Not only the advantages of our commercial treaties, so strictly observed on our side, and by which we are granted nothing more than the law of nature and nations require, but even a free navigation and trade, have been denied us. Our ships were searched and confiscated at pleasure when trading on the free seas, which belong solely to the great Creator; nay, even on our own coasts. Their courts declared goods to be contraband which really were not so; and they have treated us often in a manner by no means suitable to a free and independent State.

Let these just causes of complaint be removed, and the immense sums taken from our merchants refunded. Then shall I allow myself to deliberate on rendering services which we are by no means held to do, and show my readiness, provided our own circumstances and the state of affairs permit it.

This brings me to my last observation. Though not as principals, yet as auxiliaries, our troops would be employed towards suppressing (what some please to call) a rebellion in the American Colonies; for which purpose I would rather see janizaries hired than troops of a free State. In what an odious light must this unnatural civil war appear to all Europe, a war in which even savages (if credit can be given to newspaper information) refuse to engage; more odious, still, would it appear for a people to take a part therein who were themselves once slaves, bore that hateful name, but at last had spirit to fight themselves free. But above all, it must appear superlatively detestable to me, who think the Americans worthy of every man's esteem, and look on them as a brave people, defending in a becoming, manly, and religious manner, those rights which, as men, they derive from God, not from the Legislature of Great Britain. Their mode of proceeding will, I hope, serve as an example to every nation deprived, by any means, of its privileges, yet fortunate enough in being able to make suitable efforts towards retaining or regaining them.

These are my reasons, which I look upon as sufficiently convincing; but must further observe, that I am not without apprehensions that this session of troops may lead towards an augmentation of our own, of which I am daily more and more afraid. An overgrown military power is too apt to interfere in civil and criminal jurisdiction, and creates an imperium in imperio, which frequently obstructs the administration of justice. In neighbouring monarchies there are many proofs of this. In England it is unknown. It is one of the dreadful innovations of the last century. Bitter complaints of it were made throughout Europe, and, in my opinion, it ought never more to be mentioned in this Republick; yet, sorry I am to say, this military spirit gains ground more and more, and serves only to dissolve the weak bands which have hitherto, in some degree, connected the armed and unarmed part of our country, and which only can make the former retain any idea of their dependance on, and submission to, the civil power. For all these reasons, I find myself bound to give the following opinion : That, as the interest of the Republick in general, and the Province in particular, does not require or admit the cession of these troops, and could not even be done without a manifest injustice to people who have no ways injured us, it becomes necessary, for the present, not to grant the King of Great Britain's request.

As this affair, from its nature and consequences, (which are very extensive,) does not come under those points which belong to the daily administration of Provincial affairs, I trust that my negative voice will, in the end, have such influence, and be of so much effect, as is consistent with what of old has been, and still is, customary,* in such cases, in your High Mightinesses' Assembly.

J. D. VAN DER CAPELLEN, tot den Pöll.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON, TO A GENTLEMAN IN VIRGINIA, DATED DECEMBER 16, 1775.

The King's Speech was calculated to inflame, rather than allay animosities. The pretence of hypocrisy in the Americans, and denunciations of decisive exertions, I can easily see will have no good effect. In pursuance of the spirit of the Royal denunciation, the Parliament have shut up all the ports of America. At the same time, for a show of clemency, Commissioners are to go over to receive the submissions of those who will come in to the Royal standard, pardon them, and restore their trade. Another act has also passed, allowing Nova-Scotia an exemption from all taxes, they paying eight per cent. on all goods imported from any parts except Great Britain and its dominions. The other Colonies are to be allowed this plan if they choose to accept it; but in this plan England is considered as having an indefinite legislative power over the Colonies, and the acts altering the Constitution of Massachusetts-Bay, the Canada Bill, indeed all the acts complained against, are to remain unrepealed. I know of no probability that we shall have any better terms offered, unless some news should arrive of success on the side of the Provincials. If Bunker's Hill should be retaken, St. John's reduced, &c., matters might take a somewhat more favourable turn. At present the nation is against us, and think we shall be an easy prey. New-England, they confess, will do something; the other Colonies, they say, nothing. An account is lately received that Lord Dunmore, with eighty regulars, beat five hundred Virginians. I cannot believe it; but if, unfortunately, it proves true, it will strengthen the Ministry and dishearten our friends, who are already but few. Europe is quiet, and like to be so. Administration will receive no check in their career of vengeance, unless given by our troops.

SAMUEL TUCKER TO LORD STIRLING.

Trenton, December 16, 1775.

MY LORD: Your favour of yesterday is before me, and observe the contents. With it, I received per Camp, two memorials, one from Yellas Mead, recommended by a considerable number of respectable signers, for the Lieutenant's commission; the other memorial from George Ross, the third, of Springfield, in the County of Essex, supported by a great number of respectable signers, for the Ensign's commission in Captain Meeker's Company, alledging that he has insisted a considerable number, and ought to have the Ensign's commission; both directed to the Committee of Safety. I, therefore, could not fill up these commissions until directed by the Committee of Safety, which must meet, unless it can be settled without. All the other commissions I have filled up, and now send you by Caleb Camp, Esq., as stated at the foot of your letter. I wish the matters may be settled, as I am of opinion the Committee will pay attention to the matters set forth in the memorials, more especially as they are supported by so many persons of caution.

An answer will oblige your assured friend, and most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL TUCKER.

* At the commencement of the Republick, unanimity was necessary in their determinations. A single negative was sufficient to reject any proposition.

LORD STIRLING TO CAPTAIN LONGSTREET.

Elizabethtown, December 16, 1775.

SIR: Your Lieutenant, Mr. Schenck, this moment informs me, that you are arrived at Amboy with part of your Company. I hope the rest will be there soon. Lawry, the Commissary, will take care to furnish your Company with provisions according to the orders of the Continental Congress, and will call on you on Monday, and will advance you such money as the incomplete state of your Company will admit of. You will mount a guard at the barracks, of a sergeant, a corporal, and twelve men, and keep your men as much within the barracks as possible.

STIRLING.

To Captain Longstreet.

LORD STIRLING TO CAPTAIN JOHN CONWAY.

Elizabethtown, December 16, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby requested to deliver to Mr. John Van Emberg the keys of the stores of the barracks at Amboy, with all the stores therein, taking an exact account of the same; and if no other troops be arrived at those barracks, or at Amboy, you are desired to pick twelve or twenty-four men out of your Company, such as you can best depend on, as a guard for the possession of those barracks, and the stores there. Mr. Van Emberg will supply them with provision according to the orders of the Continental Congress. The remainder of your Company may stay at Brunswick till further orders, and go immediately into barracks. Captain Polhemus's Company is also to go immediately into barracks, and both to receive provisions from the Commissary, Mr. Lawry, or his deputy.

STIRLING.

To Captain Conway.

LORD STIRLING TO JOHN VAN EMBERG.

Elizabethtown, December 16, 1775.

SIR: You are hereby requested to take into your possession the keys of the barrack-stores at Amboy, with all such stores as you will find there, or that you will receive from Captain Conway, agreeably to an order I now send him. You will observe to take an exact account of the stores you receive, and of the expenditure of them.

STIRLING.

To Mr. John Van Emberg.

RECANTATION OF JAMES JUDD.

Norwalk, Connecticut, December 16, 1775.

I, James Judd, of Danbury, in the County of Fairfield, have this day been brought before the Committee of Inspection of Norwalk, and detected in my wicked and mischievous striving to undo, and bring destruction and ruin on my bleeding country, by going on board sundry of the King's ships in New-York, and then and there gave in my name, and there held criminal correspondence with a man called Governour Tryon, who gave me as a present, four pamphlets, to inflame the country people against the resolves of the Continental Congress and Committees, which I had a design to spread in the country, which I now conceive was very wicked and wrong to do against my country, and am now heartily sorry for, and request the forgiveness of all true friends to the United Colonies; and hereby promise and engage to give information of all plots and intrigues laid, or hereafter may be laid, to circumvent or disconcert any of the resolves of the honourable Continental Congress, or any other Congress or Committee under them, but will freely take up arms and fight for my country, against the Ministerial army, or any under them. In confirmation of what is above written, I have voluntarily, with my own hands, committed to the flames the above mentioned pamphlets.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, the date above.

JAMES JUDD.

JESSE RAYMOND, Clerk, P. T.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO GENERAL WOOSTER.

Head-Quarters before Quebec, }
December 16, 1775.

DEAR GENERAL: The bearer, Mr. Melchior, I sent express to St. John's for artillery stores; be so good as to give him all the assistance in your power, particularly in money matters. Yesterday we opened a battery of five guns and a howitzer, and with very little effect. I attempted to summon the Governour by a flag of truce; he would not receive any letter. The enemy have very heavy metal, and I think will dismount our guns very shortly; some they have already rendered almost useless. This gives very little uneasiness; I never expected any other advantage from our artillery than to amuse the enemy and blind them as to my real intention.

I propose the first strong northwester to make two attacks by night: one, with about a third of the troops, on the lower town, having first set fire to some houses, which will, in all probability, communicate their flames to the stockade lately erected on the rock near St. Roque; the other upon Cape Diamond bastion, by escalade. I have not time to point out my reasons for this particular attack; let it suffice that it is founded on the nature of the grounds, works, and the best intelligence I have been able to procure. However, I am not certain whether or no the troops relish this mode of proceeding; I am fully convinced of the practicability. But should it not appear in the same advantageous light to the men, I shall not press it upon them, well knowing the impossibility of making troops act with the necessary vigour on such an occasion, if their minds are possessed with imaginary terrors.

We are exceedingly weak, it is true, but the enemy are so too, in proportion to the extent of their works; and as they know not where they will be attacked, all must be guarded; indeed, their apprehensions for the lower town, induce them to bestow their greatest attention on that quarter. I hope the arms, lead and flints are on the way. I could wish for a reinforcement if to be spared. We have not much above eight hundred men fit for duty, exclusive of a few ragamuffin Canadians. I believe you will not think it proper to let the contents of this letter go abroad. Should you have no accounts of any cash on the way, I must beg you will send an express to hasten it. I shall soon be exceedingly distressed if a supply does not arrive. I must therefore beg you to raise what you can for fear of accidents. Let a considerable number of shirts be sent down as soon as possible; our men are much in want of them. I must refer you to Mr. Melchior for particulars.

Believe me, dear sir, with much esteem, yours, &c.,

RICHARD MONTGOMERY.

To General Wooster.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO GENERAL CARLETON.

Holland-House, near Quebec, }
December 16, 1775. }

SIR: Notwithstanding the personal ill-treatment I have received at your hands—notwithstanding the cruelty you have shown to the unhappy prisoners you have taken, the feelings of humanity induce me to have recourse to this expedient to save you from the destruction which hangs over your wretched garrison. Give me leave to inform you that I am well acquainted with your situation. A great extent of works, in their nature incapable of defence, manned with a motley crew of sailors, most of them our friends; of citizens, who wish to see us within the walls; a few of the worst troops, that call themselves soldiers; the improbability of relief, and the certain prospect of wanting every necessary of life, should your opponents confine themselves to a simple blockade, point out the absurdity of resistance. Such is your situation. I am at the head of troops accustomed to success, confident of the righteousness of the cause they are engaged in, inured to danger and fatigue, and so highly incensed at your inhumanity, illiberal abuse, and the ungenerous means employed to prejudice them in the minds of the Canadians, that it is with difficulty I restrain them, till my batteries are ready, from assaulting your works, which would afford them a fair opportunity of ample vengeance, and just retaliation. Firing upon a flag of truce, hitherto unprecedented, even among savages, prevents my following the ordinary mode of conveying my sentiments; however, I will at any rate acquit my conscience. Should you persist in an unwarrantable defence, the consequence be upon your own head. Beware of destroying stores of any sort, as you did at Montreal or in the river. If you do, by Heavens there will be no mercy shown.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN THE CONTINENTAL SERVICE, DATED BEFORE QUEBECK, DECEMBER 16, 1775.

General Carleton escaped from Montreal by paddling with his hands by our men in the night, and got safe to Quebeck, where he gave immediate orders for all that would not take up arms to leave the city.

We have, upon the Plains of Abraham, a battery of gabions, filled with snow, and water poured on till it froze quite hard, which does very well, and we have some mortars in St. Roque, behind a tory's house, at a little distance from the Palace gate, from both of which we have put them into some confusion, and set the town on fire in several places. We have roused them up these five nights successively, and I believe they are almost tired out. Yesterday we sent a flag of truce to them, which they would not receive, and it was with great difficulty the raw sailors could be prevented from firing on the person who carried it. General Montgomery, in that, offered a safe convoy to Carleton and Cramahé, Lieutenant-Governour, but he would not read it. Last Saturday night we made the Indians fire several letters into the town, with bows and arrows, which were found by the inhabitants, and are circulating through the town. One was directed to the inhabitants, informing them of our requests, and the consequence of a refusal; and another to Carleton, threatening him with immediate death unless he gave up the city. Was it not for Carleton, Cramahé, Colonel Maclean, a Scotchman, (who was taken up by the Congress at New-York, but denied interfering in the dispute, when, at the same time, he had a commission to raise men,) and Hanslie, Collector of the Customs, we should have been in Quebeck before now; but in a few nights we are to take it by storm, to play from both batteries, attack in the lower town, and scale the wall with ladders, which are almost finished. All that get safe into the city will live well, for they are allowed to plunder, and take what they please.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LIEUTENANT VAN WAGENEN, OF CAPTAIN QUACKENBOSCH'S COMPANY OF NEW-YORKERS, DATED BEFORE QUEBECK, DECEMBER 16, 1775.

We are now before Quebeck, which makes an obstinate defence. A flag was lately sent them to surrender, but it was fired at by Carleton, and obliged to retire. Colonel Arnold, and Macpherson, our General's Aid-de-camp, were again despatched; they got to the walls, but were ordered to be gone immediately; they asked if the Governour would not receive a letter which they had for him; they were answered, No; and ordered to decamp; upon which they retired. We have thrown above two hundred shells into the town, and this morning opened a six gun battery, which is now playing on the walls. The enemy have killed ten or twelve of our men. A council of war was called last evening, when it was concluded not to storm the town until a reinforcement should arrive, as it was generally thought that they have more men within the walls than we have without.

SAMUEL NORTON TO MASSACHUSETTS ASSEMBLY.

Martha's Vineyard, December 16, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: On the 24th November last, I observed a sail-boat, with six men on board, sailing from Edgartown, in pursuit of His Majesty's ship Swan, Captain James Ayscough, commanding. I being officer on guard on the east side of Holmes's Hole harbour, observed her motions; but she being so far from the shore, could not command her to, but going nearer the west side, the guard fired upon the said boat, but the people would not bring to. But keeping watch of said boat's return, I had the pleasure of seizing her on the 25th said November; and as there was no Committee or leading men in this town that would take notice of the offenders, I, by order of my commanding officer, took said offenders under examination, before a Justice of the Peace, whose affidavits I have herewith enclosed, which will show your Honours said offenders' faults.

Your advice in this case shall be ever acknowledged by your dutiful and obedient servant,

SAMUEL NORTON,
Lieutenant in Second Company in Dukes County.

To the Honourable the General Court and House of Representatives for the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[R ad December 26, 1775.]

Chelsea, December 16, 1775.

Observation of the day.—Last evening eight men came in a boat from Boston, to our guard, at the ferry; six of them Captains of vessels. They brought the following account: Yesterday one large mortar was carried over to Bunker-Hill; the troops filling water, carrying it on board the transports; provisions scarce, not more than sufficient for six weeks; one regiment of Foot and three companies of the Light-Horse sail for Halifax this day.

Dorchester, December 16, 1775.

Sailed out of Boston Harbour this morning, eight large and two small vessels, taken to be tenders; by their firing appeared to be going a voyage out to sea. Mr. Joshua Pico came last night from Boston; he confirms the information that the regiment of Foot and some companies of Light-Horse were preparing to embark for Halifax.

Cambridge, December 16, 1775.

SIR: The information contained in the above, coming so many different ways, corroborated by several vessels having sailed this day from Boston, I thought it my duty to transmit it to you. Though Halifax is the place given out for their destination, it is possible they may be bound elsewhere. I shall communicate this intelligence to Governours Cooke and Trumbull, and to the Convention of New-York, for their government.

I remain, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,
GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Congress.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Cambridge, December 16, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Among many resolves of Congress, which were forwarded to me the other day, are the enclosed.

Not being able to discover from the resolves themselves, or the letter which accompanied them, whether a copy had been transmitted to you by the President, or to be handed in by me, I thought it best to err on the safe side, especially as the Quartermaster-General has just informed me that he is exceedingly scarce of hay, and can get none under six pounds lawful a ton; and that he is fearful, if he should even consent to offer this, (enormous as it is), the price will be further advanced upon him as heretofore, and in the article of wood.

I am, &c.,
GEORGE WASHINGTON.
Honourable General Court of Massachusetts-Bay.

FROM GENERAL WASHINGTON'S SECRETARY.

Cambridge, December 16, 1775.

MADAM: I am commanded by His Excellency to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th instant, and to inform you that an exchange of prisoners is not yet agreed upon; when it is, Mr. Tilly will probably be released among the rest. He will not be forgot then.

I am, &c.
To Mrs. Ruth Tilly, New-Haven.

"In Committee of Safety for New-Hampshire, }
October 27, 1775. }

"GENTLEMEN: It having been represented to this Committee as necessary that a number of vessels should be properly moored above the Boom in Piscataqua river, in order to prevent the passage of the enemy's ships up the river, we do therefore hereby desire you, or any three of you, to take a sufficient number of the meanest vessels you can easily find, that will answer the purpose, and fix them in such places, and in such a manner, above the Boom, as you shall judge most proper; and to appraise each of said vessels, and make return thereof, with the names of the owners, to this Committee. And to assure the owners of the vessels so taken that, in case they are destroyed in said service, they shall be paid for according to your appraisalment.

"By order of the Committee,

"MATTHEW THORNTON, Chairman.

"To William Knight and Joshua Wentworth, Esqs., Captain William Pearce, Captain Thomas Thompson, and Captain Supply Clap."

Pursuant to the above order, we, the subscribers, determined on and transported some vessels for the purpose above mentioned, and valued the same; since which, finding it unnecessary they should lay any longer at their moorings, have returned them to the respective wharves from whence they were taken, and delivered them to the several owners, unhurt; but that some of the cables and hawsers are injured by use, of which a future estimate may be made, if the owners require it.

WILLIAM KNIGHT, WILLIAM PEARCE, JOSHUA WENTWORTH, SUPPLY CLAP.

Portsmouth, December 16, 1775.

COLONEL SCOTT TO CAPTAIN SOUTHALL.

Norfolk, December 17, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I have just time to inform you that we have got possession of the most horrid place I ever beheld; I mean Norfolk. Almost all the inhabitants fled on board the ships. Flags are continually passing, asking water, provision, or to exchange prisoners. Duty is harder than I ever saw before. Our guards have not been relieved for forty-eight hours. The men-of-war fell down last evening about four miles, and left a brig, with five thousand bushels of salt, behind; which our guard took, and brought to the wharf; but have not got one bushel on shore yet. We have got on board the vessel Mr. Cory Mitchell.

COLONEL WOODFORD TO EDMUND PENDLETON, PRESIDENT.

Norfolk, December 17, 1775.

Your favour of the 14th came safe to hand last night, and I should esteem myself wanting in duty, and respect to your honourable body, if I did not take the earliest opportunity to express the high sense I have of the great honour done me by your resolution of the 13th instant, and to assure the Convention that I consider my country's approbation of my conduct a sufficient reward for any services I may be thought to render at this alarming crisis.

I had taken the liberty to afford that protection and assistance to the distressed Highlanders which I find is the wish of the Convention; and Colonel Howe and myself will pay due regard to your directions respecting those that remain still in this town. Their vessel being detained, and their distressed wives and little ones left to starve in a strange country, is a fresh instance of the inhumanity of a certain Lord.*

* A remarkable instance of Lord Dunmore's humanity.—A ship from Cameron, in North-Britain, with about two hundred and fifty Highlanders, consisting of men, women, and children, was bound to Newbern, in North-Carolina, but forced by bad weather and other accidents to put into Norfolk, in this Colony, Lord Dunmore, whose troops had a few days before been defeated in the battle at the Great-Bridge, forced these poor people on shore, seized their ship for accommodating his Tory friends, who, after the battle, fled from Norfolk, on board the ships and other vessels lying in the harbour, and left his other countrymen, with their wives and children, to perish for want of subsistence, in a strange land. In this wretched condition they petitioned Colonel Woodford to take them under his protection. This petition was transmitted by that brave officer to the General Convention, sitting at Wil-Hamsburgh, who immediately gave orders that the Colonel should take them under his protection, relieve their immediate wants, and afford them all necessary assistance, to conduct them to North-Carolina, the place of their first destination. In consequence of these orders, Colonel Woodford sent the Highlanders, in wagons, under a proper escort, to Suffolk; from whence, by order of the Committee of Safety, they are to be conducted to North-Carolina, agreeably to the order of the Convention. The Committee of Safety, of this Colony, have wrote to the Committee of Safety of North-Carolina, informing them of the distresses of these poor people, occasioned by Lord Dunmore's cruel treatment, and requesting them to give directions for their relief and accommodation, till they shall arrive among their friends in that Province, amongst whom they intended to settle. Lord Dunmore had forced about one hundred and sixty of these unfortunate people into his service; but, upon being informed of the humane intention of this Colony, they

Your orders respecting the Tories and negro prisoners shall be complied with. We have upwards of one hundred of them now in our guards. Captain Squire sent us yesterday the following ticket:

"Captain Squire's compliments to Messrs. Howe and Woodford, and will be glad to know if they mean to prevent the navy and army from being supplied with provisions and water."

To which we returned this answer: "Colonel Howe and Colonel Woodford's compliments to Captain Squire, and return him for answer to his message, that as His Majesty's troops and ships-of-war have long since committed hostilities upon the persons and property of the good people of this Colony, and have actually taken and imprisoned several private gentlemen, and others, who did not bear arms at the time, our express orders are, to prevent, to the utmost of our power, any communication whatever between the said troops and ships-of-war and this town, or any part of this Colony."

In the afternoon the two ships-of-war and tenders got under sail, and fell down towards the distillery. They gave a signal for a snow, with four thousand bushels of salt, to follow; but she not being so quick as they expected, our guard ordered her to continue. The Kingfisher sent a boat, with about fifteen hands, to bring her off; but our officer hailed her, when within gun-shot, and told her he would fire if she did not return. She took his advice and put about to the man-of-war. On board the snow was Mr. Cary Mitchell, with all his official papers, which we have in possession, likewise the vessel, moored to the wharf, and intend landing the salt as soon as a proper house can be got within our guards. That gentleman has made many professions of his innocence, and has prevailed upon Col. Howe and myself to take his parole of honour for his appearance before the Convention, for which he sets off to-morrow.

Twenty-odd pieces of cannon were left by the enemy, but spiked and dismantled.

Norfolk, December 19, 1775.

Yesterday the two men-of-war, and a large sloop, stood up to their former station, and sent a flag of truce, with the following message:

deserted him, and joined their wives and children, except two maidens, who were detained as bed-makers to his Lordship.

Notwithstanding the Convention had a return from Colonel Woodford, after the battle of the Great-Bridge, from which, besides from the Colonel's own declaration in his letter to them, it appeared that not one of our men was killed, and but one slightly wounded; and add to these convincing proofs of the truth of this, we have seen officers of veracity that were in the action, who declare the same thing; yet we hear that it was reported in Norfolk that we lost one hundred and fifty men; and we have pretty good reason to believe that Lord Dummore had propagated a report amongst the few Tories now left in his interest that fifty of the Grenadiers of the Fourteenth Regiment had fallen into an ambuscade of twelve hundred Rebels; that they fought bravely, killed one hundred and fifty Rebels, and retreated, leaving behind them thirty-three killed and wounded; that their loss was heavy, but that they sold their lives dearly; and that the Shirt-men have nothing to boast of, having with difficulty forced the seventeen surviving Grenadiers to retreat, although they had fifty to one. We may therefore expect, when the news of this affair arrives in England, that Lord Dartmouth will publish Lord Dummore's letter, which will probably contain a more rational account, and may be to this effect: That, finding the Rebels had closely besieged a fort he had built to obstruct their passage to Norfolk, that a large reinforcement was daily expected by them from Carolina, and that they were procuring cannon, he thought it best to attack them before they could receive such assistance; especially, as he was informed by a deserter that they were but three hundred; that he found that a favourable opportunity, having just pressed into his service some Scotch Highlanders who had come over to settle in America, and this circumstance giving rise to a report, which he had taken care to propagate, that he had received a reinforcement of five hundred Highlanders, he thought it advisable to make an attack as soon as possible; that he ordered Captain Leslie, with a company of eight Infantry, and Captain Fordyce, with his company of Grenadiers of the Fourteenth Regiment, to take with them all the volunteers and slaves that were well armed, to march in the night of the 8th December to the fort, and to sally out by day-break and attack the Rebels; that Captain Leslie did so, but being in a great measure deserted by the slaves, and several of the volunteers, (for they could not be prevailed upon to advance,) and the Rebels having near three times the number he had been informed they had, and behaving, indeed, on that occasion, with more resolution than they had ever done, and Captain Fordyce and the advance Grenadiers being cut off by the Riflemen, and Captain Leslie being unable to rally the negroes, who could not stand the severe fire from hundreds of marksmen, retreated into the fort, and that night abandoned it; that he, finding the people of Norfolk were not to be relied on in case of an attack, thought it prudent to retire to the ships, and wait for a reinforcement, which he hourly expected. Some such account as this we may expect to see in some future English paper, unless this anticipation of it should happen to be read or republished in England before their Lordships have patched up their story.—Va. Gaz.

"Captain Squire's compliments to Colonels Howe and Woodford. Acquaint them that the brig laden with salt alongside the wharf is a prize belonging to the King, and taken by the Otter. Captain Squire requests she may be immediately delivered up, and proposes sending a boat to take her away. Should any shot be fired on the people, he will most assuredly fire on the town."

To which we returned this answer: "Colonel Howe and Colonel Woodford's compliments to Captain Squire, and return him for answer, that the brig in question fell into our hands the other night, and we shall give orders to fire upon any boat that attempts to take her away."

They have never yet made the attempt, and our parties are ready to oppose the taking the vessel. Our out-scouts inform us that a thirty-six gun frigate, with a brig, are below this, at the Pleasure-House. She is supposed to be the Liverpool frigate, with a store-ship. We have parties watching her motions.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS TO HIS FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA, DATED DECEMBER, 1775.

One of our armed vessels has taken an English store-ship, coming with all the implements of war, except powder, to Boston. She is worth about thirty thousand pounds sterling, as General Washington informs us, and the stores are adapted to his wants as perfectly as if he had sent the invoice. They have also taken two provision vessels from Ireland to Boston. A forty-gun ship blew up the other day, by accident, in the harbour of Boston. Of a certainty the hand of God is upon them. Our last intelligence from Arnold, to be relied on, is by letter from him; he was then at Point-Levi, opposite Quebeck, and had a great number of canoes ready to cross the river. The Canadians received him with cordiality, and the regular force in Quebeck was too inconsiderable to give him any inquietude. A later report makes him in possession of Quebeck; but this is not authenticated. Montgomery had proceeded in quest of Carleton and his small fleet of eleven pickeroons, then on Lake St. François. He had got below him, and had batteries so planted as to prevent his passing. It is thought he cannot escape their vigilance.

I hope Lord Chatham may live till the fortune of war puts his son into our hands, and enable us, by returning him safe to his father, to pay a debt of gratitude.

The Congress have promoted Brigadier-General Montgomery to be a Major-General; and on being assured that Arnold is in possession of Quebeck, it is probable he will be made a Brigadier-General, one of those offices being vacant by Montgomery's promotion.

LORD STIRLING TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS

[Road December 23, 1775.]

Elizabethtown, December 17, 1775.

SIR: The two letters I wrote you on the 3d and 5th instant, I hope you received. I have not received any answer to either of them, except a letter from Mr. Walter Livingston, relative to the surgeon and quartermaster of my regiment, which I have answered.

The enclosed letter from Colonel Maxwell, I received yesterday. I had before wrote to him to put his men into barracks as soon as possible. I was then sensible that all the barracks in this Province would not contain the two regiments of Continental troops raised in New-Jersey, and therefore intended boarding out two or three of the companies in this town, at a dollar per week, which, considering the expense of fire-wood, will be nearly as cheap as to have them in barracks. By this letter, I find Colonel Maxwell's regiment cannot, at present, be provided with the barracks at Trenton, as I expected. It seems there are about seventy or eighty non-commissioned officers and private soldiers, prisoners from Canada, with their women, &c., at Trenton, who have taken possession of the best rooms in the barracks, with all the furniture, and behave in a most insolent and improper manner, exciting mutiny and dissension among the men of Colonel Maxwell's regiment, posted there. From what I am well assured of, I have reason to believe that it is very improper those prisoners should remain at Trenton, or in the Province. The Tories, in every part of it, have of late assumed fresh courage, and talk very daringly. I was yesterday evening informed by the Committee of this County, that they received intelligence of a combination carrying on for opposing the measures of the Congress; that some of them are bold enough to assert that their list of Association already amounts to more than four thousand men; and that they have had a supply of ammunition from on board the Asia, man-of-war. On this foundation, the Committee have applied to me for a party of men to seize two of the most active of the gang in this County, and I hope to surprise them to-morrow evening.

Colonel Lawry has, yesterday, paid off three companies more of my regiment at this place. Part of the eighth and last company arrived at the barracks at Amboy on Friday; the remainder of them are expected there to-morrow. On Tuesday next, a complete company from Morristown will also be there. The troops in barracks will, to-morrow, begin to subsist on their rations, as contracted for by the Congress.

I do not find that it will be possible to get any ammunition in this Province or New-York. We ought to have a magazine of at least twenty-four rounds, to guard against unforeseen emergencies.

I shall, on foot hereof, add an account of the manner of stationing these two regiments as I intended them. Colonel Lawry, who has lately reviewed the barracks, is of opinion with me that they cannot possibly contain more than I have allotted to them.

I am, very respectfully, sir, your most humble servant,
STIRLING.

To the Hon. John Hancock, Esq.

COLONEL MAXWELL TO THE EARL OF STIRLING.

Trenton, December 14, 1775.

MY LORD: I have wrote to the Continental Congress to have a surgeon appointed, and that there may be some orders given for repairing the barracks. There is another affair of so delicate a nature I thought it proper to consult you on before I would inform the Congress; and if you please to inform the Congress of it, I will decline. The case is thus: The two barracks in the western division will not be sufficient to hold my regiment when they are put in the best order. The Trenton barracks are already occupied by the Government prisoners. They have possession of the officers' rooms, and most of the bedding and utensils, which cannot be put up with; besides, I look on them as unfit companions for our soldiers; at any rate they may infuse bad sentiments into their minds, that will not be easily removed. The people in the country talk loudly of it, that Trenton is a very improper place for the prisoners, it being so much of a thoroughfare.

I beg you will inform the Congress of what you may think necessary of the above, and you will much oblige me.

My Lord, your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,
WILLIAM MAXWELL.

To the Hon. William, Earl of Stirling.

COLONEL MAXWELL TO LORD STIRLING.

Woodbridge, December 17, 1775.

DEAR SIR: You will find by this we got no farther last night. Mr. Patterson had me entirely in his power. He would go no farther, but declared he would encamp here; and it was so very dark I did not think it safe to proceed. The purport of this is to beg your Lordship would please to begin the letter I left you yesterday in the following order, viz:

"Trenton, December 14, 1775.

"MY LORD: Your favour of the 10th inst., I just now received, wherein your Lordship informs me the troops are not to march so soon for the Hudson river as you first expected. I must acknowledge I am very glad of it; for notwithstanding my utmost endeavours, the soldiers would have been far from complete, as they should be, either in arms or clothing, for such a march to the northward. A great many of our best arms want repairs. I have wrote to the Congress for two casks of powder and one of flints, as I can get none there, and begged they would order the barracks to be repaired."

Please to add what part of the above you may think proper to that you have. Give my compliments to Lawry. Mr. Patterson begs I may enclose you his compliments.

I am, my Lord, your Lordship's most humble servant,
WILLIAM MAXWELL.

To William, Earl of Stirling.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN NEW-YORK, DATED MONTREAL, DECEMBER 17, 1775.

Our brother-soldiers, now before Quebeck, have thrown up ramparts of snow and water, which, when condensed and frozen, are proved by experience to be sufficient for the purpose. Who but Yankos would have thought of such a contrivance? Or who but enthusiasts for liberty would carry on a siege at such a season of the year?

The companies of Captains Weisenfels, Cheeseman, Mott, Varick, and Quackenboss, are before Quebeck; Captain Goforth's and Lyon's are stationed here, under Colonel Ritzema. Captain Willet has the command at St. John's.

COLONEL KNOX TO COLONEL McDUGALL.

Fort-George, December 17, 1775.

SIR: When I was at New-York, I did not know of any 13-inch mortars, a number of which I found at Ticonderoga. I must beg, sir, that you would use your influence that there be sent immediately to the camp at Cambridge, the following number of shells: Five hundred 13-inch shells; two hundred 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch shells; four hundred 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch shells. You are too well acquainted with the importance of this request to want urging any additional motive for the utmost expedition. If they are not to be had, please to inform General Washington immediately. The business on which I came has succeeded equal to my expectation.

I am, sir, with great respect, your obliged and most humble servant,

HENRY KNOX.

Colonel McDougall.

COLONEL KNOX TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Fort-George, December 17, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I returned from Ticonderoga to this place on the 15th inst., and brought with me the cannon, &c., it having taken nearly the time I conjectured it would to transport them here. It is not easy to conceive the difficulties we have had in getting them over the lake, owing to the advanced season of the year and contrary winds. Three days ago, it was very uncertain whether we could have gotten them over until next spring; but now, please God, they shall go. I have made forty-two exceeding strong sleds, and have provided eighty yoke of oxen to drag them as far as Springfield, where I shall get fresh cattle to carry them to camp. The route will be from here to Kinderhook, from thence into Great Barrington, Massachusetts-Bay, and down to Springfield. There will scarcely be any possibility of conveying them from here to Albany or Kinderhook, but on sleds, the roads being very much gullied. At present, the sledding is tolerable to Saratoga, about twenty-six miles; beyond that there is none. I have sent for the sleds and teams to come up, and expect to begin to move them to Saratoga on Wednesday or Thursday next, trusting that between this and that period we shall have a fine fall of snow, which will enable us to proceed farther, and make the carriage easy. If that should be the case, I hope, in sixteen or seventeen days, to be able to present to your Excellency a noble train of artillery, the inventory of which I have enclosed. I have been particular with respect to their dimensions, that no mistake may be made in making their carriages, as there are none here, or implements of any kind. I also send a list of those stores which I desired Colonel McDougall to send from New-York. I did not then know of any 13-inch mortars, which was the reason of my ordering but few shells of that size; but I now write to him for five hundred 13-inch, two hundred 5 $\frac{7}{8}$ -inch, and four hundred 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inches. If these sizes could be had there, as I believe they can, I should imagine it would save time and expense rather than to have them cast. If you should think otherwise, or have made provision for them elsewhere, you will please to countermand this order.

There is no other news here of Colonel Arnold than that, from Colonel Maclean's having burnt the houses round Quebeck, Colonel Arnold was obliged to go to Point-aux-Trembles, about six miles from the city; that Gen. Montgomery had gone to join him with a considerable body of men, and a good train of artillery, mortars, &c. There are some timid and some malevolent spirits who make this matter much worse; but from the different accounts which I have been able to collect, I have very little doubt that General Montgomery has Quebeck now in his possession.

I am, with the utmost respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY KNOX.

His Excellency General Washington.

List of Cannon, Stores, &c., ordered from New-York,
NOVEMBER 27, 1775:

Twelve double-fortified iron 4-pounders; two brass 6-pounders; five tons 24-pound shot; five tons 18-pound shot; five tons 13-inch shells; ten tons 10-inch shells; ten tons 8-inch shells; five tons 7-inch shells; port-fire compositions and quick-matches. All the carcasses, although it is dubious whether there are any.

Ordered from the same place, December 17, 1775: Five hundred 13-inch shells; two hundred 5 $\frac{7}{8}$ -inch shells; four hundred 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch shells.

Col. McDougall mentioned, doubtfully, that he thought there were some carcasses at a place near New-York. I ordered, if there were any, for the whole to be forwarded; but have since heard there were but few. They must be provided elsewhere.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 17, 1775.

SIR: By sundry persons and accounts just from Boston, I am informed that the Ministerial army is in very great distress for want of fresh provisions, and having received intelligence that there are two hundred fat cattle on Block-Island, and some transport vessels cruising that way in quest of necessities for the army, I must request you to have the cattle, &c., removed from thence immediately, and from every other place where their ships can come and take them off. It is a matter of the utmost importance to prevent their getting a supply. If they can be hindered now, the advanced season of the year, and the inclement weather, which we may expect ere long, will put it out of their power.

I yesterday received the enclosed information from several persons who lately came out from Boston, which I thought my duty to transmit to you. It is more than probable that the destination of the troops may be very different from what they have given out. They may have made use of that to deceive in another quarter.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Cooke, Rhode-Island.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, December 17, 1775.

SIR: I yesterday received the enclosed information from several persons who lately came out from Boston, which I thought it my duty to transmit to you. Whether these troops are embarked I cannot undertake to say; but if they are, it is very probable that their destination is very different from what they have given out, and that was used only as a feint, and to deceive us. It is certain that several ships sailed from thence yesterday morning.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull, Connecticut.

P. S. Brigadier-General Prescott, as it is said, having treated Colonel Allen with severity, I beg your particular attention lest he should escape.

The same to the New-York Convention.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL WARD.

Cambridge, December 17, 1775.

SIR: The applications for liberty to go to the lines are so frequent that they cause much trouble. You will, therefore, sir, grant passes to such as you may think proper. At the same time I would recommend to you that the officer who will attend upon these occasions be a person of sense, and one who will carefully attend to the conversation of those who meet on the lines.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Ward.

REPORTS OF CAPTAIN DODGE.

Chelsea, December 16, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I have enclosed the observation of the day:

Last evening, eight men ran away in a boat from Boston, to our guard at the ferry. Early in the morning, finding they had been with the guard, I immediately forwarded them to the Committee. On the Committee's reception of them, they cleansed them by smoking them, and let them pass. One of them was Captain James Warden, who was taken in Major Miffin's employ, who is very desirous of seeing the Major. Six of them are masters of vessels, and brought the enclosed account.

I am your most humble servant,

RICHARD DODGE, Captain.

To his Excellency General Washington.

N. B. Yesterday, one large mortar was carried over to Bunker-Hill. The troops are filling water, and carrying it on board the transports. Provision is very scarce; the officers say not more than enough to last them six weeks. One of the gentlemen says he dined with a man that dined with Lord Percy, a few days ago, upon horse-beef. This is from the men that came out of Boston last night.

This account I received from Boston this day, December 17, 1775:

Remarks for Tuesday, December 5, 1775:—Got into Boston; met with the ship Boyne, bound for London, which had on board thirty masters of vessels, passengers.

Thursday, 7: The Foy, man-of-war, twenty guns, Montagu commander, brought in the brigantine Washington, one Martindale commander, mounting ten guns and ten swivels, and seventy-two men. The Captain and all the men were put on board the Preston.

Monday last:—Prisoners were put on board the Tartar, man-of-war, to be sent home for trial as pirates.

The following is the price of provisions in Boston: Rum, twelve shillings per gallon; molasses, three shillings, by the hogshead; wood, four pounds, sixteen shillings and six pence, per cord; sea coal, four pounds, fourteen shillings, per chaldron; salt beef, four pounds, five shillings, per pound; Madeira wine, one pound eight shillings, per dozen; red porter, one pound four shillings, per dozen; hay, twenty pounds, per ton; geese, nine shillings; turkeys, ten shillings and six pence; fowls, four shillings and six pence; onions, six pence per pound; potatoes, ten shillings per bushel.

Soldiers' allowances, four pounds per week.

Orders from General Howe, to pull down the Old North Meeting-house, and one hundred wood houses. Morison, a Scotch minister, took bribe of a certain gentleman, of thirty-six shillings sterling, to get out of Boston, and seventy-two shillings to let him bring out a trunk of two hundred and eighty pounds in cash; which, when he had it in his power, seized the whole and carried it to Boston again.

The officers of the Fifty-ninth and Eighteenth regiments are sailed for home in order to recruit, and return in the spring. One regiment of Foot and three companies of the Light-Horse sail for Halifax this day.

I am credibly informed that the soldiers have nothing but the above four pounds of pork and bread dealt out to them.

RICHARD DODGE, Captain.

GENERAL SULLIVAN TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp on Winter-Hill, December 17, 1775.

MUCH RESPECTED GENERAL: Agreeably to your order have again waited on Major Rogers, and strictly examined him. Have seen his several permits, and think them genuine, and in every respect agreeably to the copy sent you. He says he left New-York about the 10th of October, being ill with the fever and ague, was ten days in getting to Albany; that there, and at the place called Stone Rabba, he tarried ten days more; he then passed through Hoosuck, Standford, Draper, and Hinsdale, in his way to his brother, who lives in Kent; he was three days in performing this route, and tarried with his brother five or six days more; he was then three days in going to Westminster, and in his way passed through by Dartmouth College, and saw Mr. Wheelock; from thence he went to his farm in Pennicook, where he tarried six or eight days; from thence he went to Newbury, and from thence to Portsmouth, and after tarrying there some few days, laid his permit before the Committee of Safety. He owns every thing in Mr. Wheelock's letter, except that of his having been in Canada, which he warmly denies, and says he can prove the route he took, and prove himself to have been in the several towns at or near the days he has mentioned. I asked him why he came to the camps, as he had no business with any particular persons, and had no inclination to offer his service in the American cause; to which he replied, that he had voluntarily waited upon the Committees of several Colonies, as he thought it a piece of respect due to them, and would probably prevent his being suspected and treated as a person unfriendly to us; that he likewise thought it his duty to wait on your Excellency, and acquaint you with the situation of his affairs, and if he could, to obtain your license, to travel unmolested.

These, sir, are the facts as handed to me by him. What may be his secret designs I am unable to say, and what steps are most proper to be taken respecting him your Excellency can best judge. I am far from thinking that he has been in Canada; but as he was once Governour of Michilimackinack, it is possible he may have a commission to take that command, and stir up the Indians against us, and only waits for an opportunity to get there; for which reason I would advise lest some blame might be laid upon your Excellency in future, not to give him any other permit, but let him avail himself of those he has; and should he prove a traitor, let the blame centre upon those who enlarged him. I beg pardon for intruding my opinion, and subscribe myself your Excellency's most obedient servant,

JOHN SULLIVAN.

His Excellency General Washington.

NORTH-CAROLINA PROVINCIAL COUNCIL.

At a Provincial Council held at the Court House in the County of Johnston, the eighteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord 1775:

The Honourable the President, and ten Members appeared and took their seats in Council, to wit:

Samuel Johnston, Thomas Jones, Samuel Ashe, James Coor, Thomas Eaton, Abner Nash, John Kinchen, Whitmill Hill, Waightstill Avery, Thomas Person, Esquires.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Tuesday, December 19, 1775.

The Council met according to adjournment.

Samuel Spencer, Esquire, one of the members of Council appeared, repeated and subscribed the Test, and took his seat.

The Sheriff of Halifax County brought before this Council a certain Walter Lamb, with several affidavits accusing him with sundry misdemeanors.

And whereas this Council thinking it proper that the witnesses should personally appear against the said Lamb, Do therefore order, That Mr. Branch, the aforesaid Sheriff, take into his custody the said Lamb, unless he shall give sufficient security to appear before the said Committee of Safety, for the District of Halifax, by them to be tried, acquitted, or punished as they shall think necessary.

The Sheriff of Halifax County, brought before this Council a certain George Massingbird, with an affidavit accusing him of having made use of some words disrespectful to the cause of America.

And whereas this Council thinking it proper that the witnesses should personally appear against the said George Massingbird, and he appearing to be truly sensible of his past ill conduct, and having taken an oath satisfactory to the Council:

Do therefore order, That the said George Massingbird be discharged from custody.

The Council being informed that Roger Ormond, Esq., one of the members of the Committee of Safety for the District of Newbern is dead:

It is therefore resolved, That John Simpson, Esquire, of the County of Pitt, be, and he is hereby appointed a member of the said Committee, for the District aforesaid, in the room and stead of the said Roger Ormond, and that he, the said John Simpson, be admitted to take his seat accordingly.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Wednesday, December 20, 1775.

The Council met according to adjournment.

Resolved, That the Paymaster of Hillsborough District pay unto Messrs. Nathan Rochester and William Johnston, seventy pounds, seven shillings and four pence, Proclamation money, for one hundred and fifty pounds of Gunpowder, four hundred and seventy-six pounds of bar Lead, and one thousand Gun Flints, purchased by them pursuant to a resolve of the Committee of Orange County, and that the said Ammunition be lodged in the hands of William Johnston, and that the said Paymaster take his receipt for the same, to be produced whenever demanded by the publick.

Resolved, That Lehansyus Dekeyser, Adjutant in the First Regiment of Regulars, raised in this Province, under the command of Colonel James Moore, be allowed Adjutant's pay, from the fifteenth day of September last, inclusive, he having performed duty from that day.

It appearing to this Council, that the measures concerted for the defence of American liberty have been communicated to the prejudice of the publick,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committees of Wilmington and Brunswick, and to the Commanding Officer of the detachment stationed on Cape-Fear River, to use their utmost endeavours to cut off all manner of personal communication between his Excellency Governour Martin and the officers of the ships-of-war, with the inhabitants of this Province, on any pretext whatever; and that the utmost caution be used in supplying the ships-of-war with Provisions; that they be conveyed in such manner as to prevent any intelligence from being disclosed by the persons conveying the said Provisions.

Resolved, That nothing in the above Resolve shall be construed to prevent any person corresponding by letter with Governour Martin, or the ships-of-war, such letter being first laid before the Committees of the said towns, or either of them, or the Commanding-Officer aforesaid, and approved of by them.

Provided, nevertheless, That the Committee of Safety for the District of Wilmington, should they think it necessary, are hereby empowered to cut off all supplies of Provisions to any of the ships-of-war lying in Cape-Fear River.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of William Kennon, Esquire, Commissary to the First Regiment of regular Troops in this Province, the sum of two thousand pounds, for purchasing Provisions for the use of said Troops, to be accounted for with the Provincial Congress; and that they be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That Mr. President write in the name of this Board, to the Council of Safety of South-Carolina, requesting them to supply this Province with two thousand weight of Gunpowder, to be delivered Waightstill Avery, Esquire, or his order, who is hereby appointed to wait upon them, or empower some other person for that purpose, to receive the same; and that this Board will pay for all Powder delivered to the said Waightstill Avery in consequence of this order; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, be ordered to give a draft on the Continental Treasury for the amount.

Resolved, That Matthew Troy be appointed to employ proper persons to make Carriages for, and mount four of the Cannon now at Newbern, and remove them to Salisbury, for the defence of this Province, to be accounted for; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of the said Matthew Troy, the sum of forty pounds for the above service, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of Abner Nash and James Coor, Esquires, one hundred pounds, to be appropriated by them towards completing the Fortifications now erecting at Hangings-Point, on Neuse River, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of Samuel Ashe, Esquire, one hundred pounds, to be appropriated by him towards completing the Fortification now erecting at Du Bois's Mill, on Cape-

Fear River, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Thursday, December 21, 1775.

The Council met according to adjournment.

To either of the Publick Treasurers:

You are to pay unto James Davis, printer, two hundred and fifty pounds, Proclamation money, being for one year's salary due to him, the first day of this instant, as publick printer to this Province, according to act of Assembly for that purpose; for which this shall be your warrant.

Resolved, That Robert Smith, Esquire, be appointed Paymaster of the Troops stationed in the District of Edenton, as also to the Minute-men in the said District, in the room of Samuel Johnston, who resigns, he first entering into bond to this Council, with sufficient security in the sum of ten thousand pounds, Proclamation money.

This Council taking into consideration the necessity of fitting out Armed Vessels, for the protection of the trade of this Province: that there be three Armed Vessels fitted out with all oespateh, to wit: one at Cape Fear, one at Newbern, and one at Edenton:

Do resolve, That Mr. President, Samuel Ashe, Richard Quince, Robert Ellis, Esquires, and Captain John Forster, or any three of them, are appointed Commissioners at Port Brunswick; Abner Nash, James Coor, Joseph Leech, James Davis, Richard Ellis, Esquires, and Messrs. John Green, David Baron, and John Wright Standley, or a majority of them, are appointed Commissioners at Port Beaufort; and Samuel Johnston, Thomas Jones, Joseph Montfort, Robert Hardy, Robert Smith, Esquires, and Mr. John Norcomb, or a majority of them, are appointed Commissioners at Port Roanoke; and that the said Commissioners do immediately purchase, arm, man; and victual, in a sufficient manner, at each of the above-mentioned ports, one good and substantial vessel, and to recommend proper officers to this Council, and to station them at such place or places as they may think proper, prudent, and necessary, in order to protect the trade and commerce of this Province, the whole under the control of the Provincial Congress and Council.

Resolved, That the Commissioners appointed for each of the ports mentioned by the above resolve, or a majority of them, are hereby empowered to draw on either of the Treasurers of this Province for all necessary sums of money to answer the above purposes, who shall be allowed the same in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That Abner Nash and James Coor, Esquires, or either of them, be empowered to charter one or more Vessels, and agree with the masters and seamen, at the Port of Newbern, and load the same to such parts as they may judge expedient, and with such articles as they may think proper, not exceeding the sum of five hundred pounds, Proclamation money, in order to procure Arms and Ammunition for the use and protection of this Province, the same to be at the hazard, risk, and expense of this Province.

Resolved, That Mr. President, Richard Quince, Sen., and John Forster, Esqs., or either of them, be empowered to charter one or more Vessels, and agree with masters and seamen, at the Port of Wilmington, and load the same to such parts as they shall judge expedient, and with such articles as they may think proper, not exceeding the sum of five hundred pounds, in order to procure Arms and Ammunition for the use and protection of this Province, the same to be at the hazard, risk, and expense of this Province.

Resolved, That Whitmill Hill, Esquire, be empowered to charter one or more Vessels, and agree with masters and seamen, at the Port of Edenton, and load the same to such parts as he shall judge expedient, and with such articles as he may think proper, not exceeding the sum of five hundred pounds, Proclamation money, in order to procure Arms and Ammunition for the use and protection of this Province, the same to be at the hazard, risk, and expense of this Province.

Resolved, That James Geckie, be appointed Surgeon of the First Regiment of the Continental Army of this Province, in the room of Doctor Isaac Guion, who neglects his duty.

Resolved, That Richard Caswell, Esquire, Treasurer of the Southern District, pay into the hands of Abner Nash and James Coor, Esquires, or either of them, the sum of five hundred pounds, for purchasing Arms and Ammunition, to be accounted for at the next Provincial Congress, and that the said Treasurer be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That Samuel Johnston, Esquire, Treasurer of the Northern District, pay into the hands of Whitmill Hill, Esquire, the sum of five hundred pounds, for purchasing Arms and Ammunition, to be accounted for at the next Provincial Congress, and that the said Treasurer be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of Mr. President, and Richard Quince, Sen., and John Forster, Esquires, or either of them, the sum of five hundred pounds, for purchasing Arms and Ammunition, to be accounted for at the next Provincial Congress, and that the said Treasurers be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay to Doctor William Pastuer, the sum of seventy-five pounds, for Medicines furnished the Second Regiment of Continental Troops in this Province, and that the said William Pastuer account with the next Provincial Congress for the said sum, and that they be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

It appearing to this Council, that John Simpson, Edward Salter, and Robert Salter, Esquires, in behalf of the Committee of Pitt County, had agreed and executed bonds with a certain Paul White, for a quantity of Powder and Lead, and at the same time undertook to indemnify the said Paul White, in his vessel, during the completion of the voyage:

And whereas the said vessel on her arrival at Occacock Bar, was taken by a cutter belonging to some of His Majesty's ships-of-war, and detained as a prize, but the Ammunition saved by taking out the same at sea:

Resolved, That John Simpson, Edward Salter, and Robert Salter, be allowed the sum of eight hundred and sixty-five pounds, four shillings and eight pence, to enable them to comply with their contract with the said Paul White; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay them the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the next Provincial Council shall be held at the Court-House in the County of Johnston, the seventeenth day of March next; but that the President may call a Council sooner, if he should find it necessary.

Whereas it appears probable this Province may soon be invaded by the British Troops, and the inhabitants be destitute of sufficient Arms for defence of their lives, liberties, and properties:

It is therefore resolved, That Mr. Thomas Jones, Mr. Whitmill Hill, and Mr. Luke Sumner, for Edenton; Mr. Abner Nash, Mr. James Coor, and Mr. David Baron, for Newbern; Mr. John Kinchen, Mr. John Butler, and Mr. Memucan Hunt, for Hillsborough; Mr. President, Mr. Samuel Ashe, Mr. William Campbell, and Mr. James Kenan, for Wilmington; Mr. Samuel Spencer, Mr. Waightstill Aery, Mr. Griffith Rutherford, Mr. Christopher Beckman, and Mr. Ralph Garrill, for Salisbury; Mr. Willie Jones, Mr. Thomas Eaton, Mr. William Alston, (son of Philip), Mr. Joseph John Williams, Mr. Eaton Haynes, and Mr. Duncan Laman, for the District of Halifax, or any of them, be, and they are hereby, empowered and required to purchase materials and employ proper persons to make and mend Guns and Bayonets, and also to purchase good serviceable Guns, Gun-barrels, Stocks, and Locks, Lead, and Flints, and have them repaired for the use of this Province; for which purpose, the Treasurers or the Paymasters, or either of them, are directed to furnish any of the above persons with money out of the Publick Treasury, as occasion may require: Provided, The amount to be paid to the persons in either of the Districts does not exceed the sum of three hundred pounds; for which they are respectively to account with the next Provincial Congress.

Resolved, That two Battalions of Minute-men be immediately embodied in the District of Salisbury, in the same manner as directed by the Congress, and that the following persons shall be, and are hereby appointed Field-Officers of said Battalions, viz:

Of the First Battalion: Griffith Rutherford, Colonel; John Pfiffer, Lieutenant-Colonel; John Paisly, Major.

Of the Second Battalion: Thomas Polk, Colonel; Adam Alexander, Lieutenant-Colonel; Charles MacLaine, Major.

And that Commissions issue accordingly.

The Petition of William Gibbs being read, praying leave to ship a quantity of Naval Stores, which suffered in the late hurricane, and the same being taken under consideration was rejected, it being incompatible with the Resolves of the Continental Congress.

Resolved, That William Hooper, Joseph Hewes, and John Penn, Esquires, Delegates for this Province at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, do purchase one Wagon and four good Horses in the Province of Pennsylvania, and hire a careful person to bring the same to Edenton, in this Province, with the Gunpowder, Drums, Colours, and Fifes, procured by them for the use of the Continental Troops stationed in this Province; and that the said Delegates are empowered to call upon the Continental Treasurer for the amount of the purchase of the Wagon and Horses, and paying the person to be employed by them to bring the same; to be charged to the Account of this Province.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

— Friday, December 22, 1775.

The Council met, according to adjournment.

It having been made to appear to this Council, that the late Election for Delegates and Committee-men for the County of Onslow was unduly made, and that the Committee so unduly elected have refused to subscribe the Test,

Resolved, That the said Elections be set aside, and that the Election for Delegates and Committee-men for the said County of Onslow be held on the third Saturday in January next; and that Thomas Johnston, Esq., give at least twenty days notice of this order previous to the said Election, and that he take the poll and make the proper returns.

Whereas the County of Surry have failed to elect Delegates and Committee-men on the day appointed by Congress for that purpose,

Resolved, That William Sheppard, Esq., be commanded to notify the Freeholders and Householdors to meet at the Court-House on the second Tuesday in February next, then and there to elect any number of Freeholders or Householdors, not more than five, to represent them in the next Congress; and any number of Freeholders or Householdors, not less than twenty-one, to serve as Committee-men; it being, in the opinion of this Council, agreeable to the intention of the last Congress.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay to Adam Boyd the sum of twenty pounds, for two hundred Pamphlets, delivered to the Congress at Hillsborough, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That Mr. Jeremiah McCaffety be allowed the sum of seventy-four pounds, eight shillings and nine pence, Proclamation money, for two hundred and ninety-seven pounds and three-quarters of a pound of Gunpowder, taken and received by Colonel Thomas Polk and Major John Pfiffer, to be accounted for by them to the next Congress, and by them served out to the Troops who lately marched from the Western Counties of this Province against the insurgents near Ninety-Six, in South-Carolina; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That James Mansfield be allowed the sum of five pounds, eleven shillings and six pence, Proclamation money, for taking care of the sick Soldiers at Cape-Fear, and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay him the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay into the hands of Colonel Henry Rhodes the sum of twenty-one pounds and nine shillings, for Gunpowder and Lead purchased in Onslow County, for the use of this Province; and that the said Henry Rhodes do deposite the said Powder and Lead in some secure place until further orders from this Council or the Provincial Congress.

It appearing to this Council that James Kebble, of Onslow County, at present is inimical to the cause of Liberty,

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Council that the said Kebble is an improper person to hold any commission in the Militia of the said County.

Whereas it appears to this Council, that, from the natural situation of Pasquotank County, being divided by a very wide river, that the calling of General Musters at the Court-House of that County is burdensome and troublesome to the inhabitants of the same, and that a division of the Pasquotank Regiment would ease the inhabitants and encourage military discipline:

Therefore, resolved, That the Regiment of Militia in the said County of Pasquotank shall be divided by Pasquotank River, and that all the Militia of said County on the northeast side of said river shall be, and is hereby, made and established a new and distinct Regiment, and shall be known and distinguished by the name of the Second Regiment of Pasquotank Militia; and that Commissions issue accordingly.

Resolved, That Colonel Henry Rhodes be, and he is hereby, appointed to pay for and receive into his custody all the Powder in the County of Onslow secured in the hands of individuals for the use of the publick, and keep the same till further orders.

Resolved, That the dividing line between the First and Second Regiment of Rowan Militia shall hereafter be continued from the mouth of the lower Little River, a due north course, to the line of the County of Surry, it appearing to the Council to be more convenient to the inhabitants.

Resolved, That Richard Quince be allowed the sum of two hundred and one pounds, three shillings and six pence, Proclamation money, for four hundred and sixteen pounds and one-half of a pound of Gunpowder, two thousand five hundred and thirty-one pounds of Lead, and one hundred and ninety-three pounds of Saltpetre, for the use of the publick; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay him the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That William Hill be allowed the sum of thirty-seven pounds, two shillings and eight pence, Proclamation money, for fifty weight of Gunpowder, and eight hundred and fourteen pounds of Buckshot, for the use of the publick, and delivered to Colonel Nash; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay him the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Committee of Wilmington be allowed the sum of eighty-three pounds, fifteen shillings and ten pence, Proclamation money, for thirty-one Guns, stocking four Guns, and repairing three Guns and twelve Gun Locks, for the use of the First Regiment, under the command of Colonel Moore; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay him the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Committee of Wilmington be allowed the sum of one hundred and fifteen pounds, three shillings and three pence, for seven hundred and thirty-three pounds and one-half pound of Powder, and seventy-three pounds of Lead and Ball, for the use of the publick; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay them the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Committee of Wilmington be allowed the sum of seven pounds, one shilling, Proclamation money, for two Muskets, repairing one Gun and two Gun Locks, for the First Regiment, on account of the publick; and that the Treasurers, or either of them, pay the same, and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Saturday, December 23, 1775.

The Council met, according to adjournment.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay to Doctor James Geekie the sum of fifty pounds, to enable him to purchase Medicines for the use of the First Regiment of the Continental Troops in this Province; and that the said James Geekie account with the next Provincial Congress for the said sum, and that they be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That each of the Publick Treasurers be empowered to draw on the Continental Treasury for any sum, not exceeding ten thousand dollars each, towards defraying the expense of the Troops on the Continental establishment in this Province.

Sundry Resolves of the Continental Congress, respecting regulations and arrangements of the two Battalions of the Continental Army raised in this Province, being communicated to this Council by the Delegates of this Province in the said Congress,

Resolved, That copies of the said Resolves be delivered to the Colonels of the respective Battalions, and that it be recommended to them that they, with all convenient speed, call General Courts-Martial to form their respective Regiments, agreeably to the said Resolves.

And as the number of Captains, agreeably to the said Resolutions, must necessarily be reduced, this Council will recommend it to the Provincial Congress that, in case any of the said reduced Captains will act as Lieutenants in the service, an allowance be made them, out of the publick Treasury of this Province, sufficient to make their pay equal to a Captain's, and to retain their rank. And, as on the said new arrangement there will be several vacancies of Ensigns, this Council recommend it to the Courts-Martial to encourage proper persons to fill such vacancies, to assist in recruiting their respective Regiments, which services will be considered by this Council, in filling up the said vacancies, in proportion to the number they shall respectively recruit.

It is further recommended to the Commanding Officers of the said Battalions, that they, as soon as may be, despatch proper officers on recruiting parties to the Western Counties of this Province, in order that their full complement of men may be completed with all despatch.

Resolved, That a sum not exceeding eighty pounds, Proclamation money, be applied by Samuel Johnston, Esq., Treasurer of the Northern District, for the purpose of erecting a Breastwork in the Town of Edenton, for the defence of the said Town; and that the said Treasurer be allowed the same on settling his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That it be recommended to all friends to American freedom to purchase all the Powder, Saltpetre, and Sulphur in their power, for the use of the publick, and lodge the same with the several Town and County Committees in this Province; and that the said Committees appoint a proper person in each Town and County to take care of the above-mentioned articles, and taking receipts for the same, and to be paid for by the publick; and that a sum not exceeding half a dollar be given for Saltpetre.

The Council adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Sunday, December 24, 1775.

The Council met, according to adjournment.

Resolved, That the Paymasters be directed to furnish a sum, not exceeding sixty pounds, to the Captain of each Company, to be by him paid to such persons as may be sent out on recruiting parties, as advance money for the new recruits, at forty shillings a man.

Whereas Governour Martin hath distributed great numbers of Tory Pamphlets in the Western part of this Province, where the People are not well informed,

Resolved, That the Continental Delegates from this Province be immediately informed thereof, and desired to procure the best Pamphlets that can be had, for the true information of the People, to counteract and frustrate the wicked and diabolical stratagems of Governour Martin and other tools of a corrupt Ministry.

Resolved, That one-fourth part of the Powder and Lead, lodged in the hands of Mr. William Johnston, of Hillsborough, by resolve of this Council, be delivered to Mr. Thomas Person, in order for the use of the publick, and that the said Johnston take his receipt for the same.

Resolved, That the Commanding Officer of the First Regiment send an officer, with twenty-five privates, to Georgetown, as an escort to protect the Ammunition to be purchased by a resolve of this Council, for conveying the same from thence to Cape-Fear.

Resolved, That the Paymasters in the several Districts where the Continental Troops are stationed, do immediately purchase Cloth and have the same made up into Clothes, to wit: Coats, Waistcoats, and Breeches, for such of the men in the two Battalions of Continental Troops not already provided with Clothing, and that the amount thereof be discounted out of each man's pay, at the rate of ten shillings per month.

Resolved, That the sum of two thousand pounds be paid into the hands of Samuel Ashe, Esq., Paymaster of the Troops stationed at Cape-Fear, by the Southern Treasurer, for the purpose of purchasing Cloth, &c., for said Troops, and that he account for the same to the next Congress, and be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the sum of one thousand pounds be paid into the hands of Robert Smith, Esq., Paymaster of the Troops stationed at Edenton, by the Northern Treasurer, for the purpose of purchasing Cloth, &c., for said Troops; and that he account for the same to the next Congress, and be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the sum of one thousand pounds be paid into the hands of Richard Caswell, Esq., Paymaster of the Troops stationed at Newbern, by the Southern Treasurer, for the purpose of purchasing Cloth, &c., for said Troops; and that he account for the same to Congress at its next meeting, and be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Northern Treasurer pay into the hands of Matthew Locke, Paymaster of the Regulars and Minute-men in the District of Salisbury, the further sum of two thousand pounds, to enable him to pay off and clothe the Continental Troops, and pay the Minute-men; to be accounted for at the next meeting of the Congress, and be allowed in his accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That Matthew Locke, Paymaster of Salisbury District, be directed to purchase all the Ammunition he can procure; and for all sums advanced in this service he shall be allowed in his settlements with the publick.

Resolved, That the Paymaster of the Continental Troops stationed in this Province do immediately procure Cartridge-boxes and Haversacks, for the use of such of the Troops as are not already supplied with them; and that the Paymasters be allowed for the same in the settlement of their respective accounts with the publick.

The Continental Congress having recommended to the Council additional Rations for the Troops stationed in this Province, viz: three pints of Peas or Beans per week, or Vegetables equivalent, rating the Peas or Beans at a dollar per bushel; one pint of Milk per day, at the rate of 1-72 of a dollar per pint; half a pint of Rice or one pint of Indian Meal per man per week; one quart of Spruce Beer or Cider per man, or nine gallons of Molasses per company of one hundred men per week; three pounds of Candles to one hundred men per week, for guards; twenty-four pounds of Soft or eight pounds of Hard Soap for one hundred men per week:

The Council having taken the same into consideration, resolve that the several Commissaries to the Continental Troops do supply them with the above-mentioned Rations, and that they respectively be allowed for each man so to be supplied, per day, the additional sum of two pence; and that the said Commissaries be allowed for the same in the settlement of their respective accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the Treasurers, or either of them, pay to William Chew the sum of forty pounds and eight pence, Proclamation money, for conveying a packet from the Continental Congress to this Board, and carrying back answers to the same; and be allowed in their accounts with the publick.

Resolved, That the several Members of the Committee of Safety for the District of Salisbury, be required to meet on the first Tuesday in February next, for the despatch of publick business.

Resolved, That the Northern Treasurer, or the Paymaster of Salisbury District, pay Mr. Waigstall Avery the sum of twenty-five pounds towards defraying his expenses to South-Carolina, on the business of this Province.

Resolved, That, in case any of the Continental Troops should be stationed in either of the Towns in this Province, the Committee of such Town is hereby empowered and required to provide for them suitable Barracks during their stay in such Town, and report to the next Congress the time such Barracks shall have been occupied, that the Members thereof may make such allowances as they shall judge necessary.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the several Town and County Committees in this Province immediately to furnish the Captains of each Minute and Militia Company, in their respective Counties, with copies of the Test signed and recommended by the late Provincial Congress, and present the same to the men under their command, for their approbation; and also to return a list of all those who neglect or refuse signing the same, to the said Committee, to be by them transmitted to the Provincial Council at their next meeting.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Council that no person or persons shall be entitled to any benefit or relief against any debtor, as directed by the Provincial Congress, unless such person or persons so applying shall, at least ten days previous to such application, have subscribed the Continental Association and the Test, as signed and recommended by the late Provincial Congress, held at Hillsborough.

CORNELIUS HARNETT, President.

By order:

JAMES GREEN, JR., Clerk.

COLONEL HASBROUCK TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Newburgh, December 18, 1775.

Pursuant to the orders of the Congress to the Regiment under my command, to be in readiness upon any proper alarm, I have appointed the place of general rendezvous to be at Mr. Martin Wygant's, in Newburgh Precinct.

I am, with due obedience to the honourable Congress, sir, your humble servant,

JONATHAN HASBROUCK.

To the Honourable Nathaniel Woodhull, President of the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRYON TO THE MAYOR OF NEW-YORK.

Ship Dutchess of Gordon, off New-York, }
December 18, 1775. }

SIR: I lose no time in transmitting to you, herewith, a letter I this morning received from Captain Parker, of His Majesty's ship Phoenix, communicating certain instructions he has received from Admiral Graves, for the rule of his conduct on this station, which letter you will forthwith make known to the Corporation and citizens of New-York; and I request that you will insert it in the publick papers, to the end that the inhabitants of this Province may have the comfort of knowing the protection that is afforded to the friends of order and good government, and warned to avoid a continuation of measures that will involve the country in misery, and bring destruction upon their families and on their own heads.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

WILLIAM TRYON.

To Whitehead Hicks, Esq., Mayor of the City of New York.

CAPTAIN PARKER TO GOVERNOUR TRYON.

Ship Phoenix, at New-York, December 18, 1775.

SIR: Being ordered by my instructions from Vice-Admiral Graves, Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's ships and vessels in North-America, publickly to signify to all towns accessible to His Majesty's ships, that in case any violences shall hereafter be offered to any of the officers of the Crown, or other peaceably disposed subjects of His Majesty; or, if any bodies of men shall be raised and armed in the said towns, or any military works erected, otherwise than by order of His Majesty, or those acting under his authority; or, if any attempts shall be made to seize or destroy any public magazine of arms, ammunition, or stores, in all or either of those cases, it will be my duty to treat the said town as in open rebellion against the King.

I am to request that your Excellency will be pleased to let the above instructions be publickly made known in the town of New-York. At the same time, you will assure them that I shall be happy in granting the town every protection in the power of His Majesty's ships under my command. I am, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

H. PARKER.

To His Excellency Governour Tryon.

SAMUEL STEVENS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Charlestown, Cumberland County, N. Y., }
December 18, 1775. }

SIR: I am requested by some of the people of the County of Cumberland, to acquaint you, as Secretary of the Congress of the Colony of New-York, that the major part of the inhabitants of that County are desirous that the Congress do not make out commissions to any person or persons in either of the regiments of militia in that County, until a candid representation be made of the minds of the people with respect to the several nominations and appointments made by their County Congress and Committee of Safety, except it be to those persons who were chosen by the people of the several towns in June last, by order of the County Congress when upwards of forty members were present. They recommended that the County be formed into two regiments of militia, for which purpose, order that the inhabitants of the respective towns in each regiment meet, and make choice of one captain, one lieutenant, and one ensign, in each town; that the said officers should afterwards meet and make choice of proper persons for field-officers of each regiment, which was accordingly done; and the people in general are as well satisfied as the nature of such a proceeding will admit of. I suppose there may be a few disaffected persons, who expected to have been chosen to office. The persons made choice of in the lower regiment for field-officers were, viz: James Rogers, Colonel; Eleazer Pattison, Lieutenant-Colonel; and one Mr. Lovejoy, Major. Upper regiment: Simon Stevens, of Springfield, Colonel; Joseph Marsh, of Hartford, Lieutenant-Colonel; and Benjamin Wait, of Windsor, Major. A return of the proceeding was delivered to Major William Williams, and by him to be delivered to the Congress at New-York, that the commissions may accordingly issue, if the choice were approved of by the Congress. I understand that about fourteen or fifteen of the said Congress met some time in September, and made a new choice of field-officers, and left out the most of those chosen first; at which time they made choice of a standing Committee of Safety, and then dissolved themselves as a Congress.

I am informed, that at a meeting of the said Committee of Safety, about three weeks ago, consisting of fourteen members, amongst other things, nominated another set of gentlemen to be field-officers of the militia and minute-regiment; so that if they are all commissioned, above one-third of the men in the County will be officers. The two last choices have created a great deal of uneasiness in the County. I intend shortly to pay you a visit.

I am, sir, in haste, your humble servant,

SAMUEL STEVENS.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Head-Quarters, December 18, 1775.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I have been near a fortnight before Quebeck, at the head of upwards of eight hundred men; a force you will say not very adequate to the business in hand, but we must make the best of it. It is all I could get. I have been so used to struggle with difficulties, that I expect them of course.

I hope the troops will be sent down as soon as possible, for should we fail in our first attempt, a second or a third may do the business before relief can arrive to the garrison. Possession of the town, and that speedily, I hold of the highest consequence. The enemy are expending the ammunition most liberally, and I fear the Canadians will not relish a union with the Colonies till they see the whole country in our hands, and defended by such a force as may relieve them from the apprehensions of again falling under the Ministerial lash. Were it not for these reasons, I should have been inclined to a blockade till towards the first of April, by which time the garrison would probably be much distressed for provisions and wood.

With anxious wishes for the recovery of your health, and best respects to your family if you be returned home, I am, my dear sir, your very affectionate and obliged humble servant,

RICHARD MONTGOMERY.

To Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Head-Quarters, Montreal, December 18, 1775.

DEAR GENERAL: General Montgomery informs me that you desired me to send you an account of the number of men that I discharged between Albany and Ticonderoga. Therefore I would inform you that I did not discharge any men, but only gave them a furlough—and that to the Connecticut troops only—to pass to New-England, as the term of their enlistments were not expired, and I imagined they might be very serviceable there; and as the Captains are Paymasters to their own companies, by act of Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut, they are all returned home, and without doubt have settled their pay-rolls with the Committee of the Pay-Table appointed for that purpose.

Sir, I must beg leave to enforce General Montgomery's request, for the Paymaster or money to be sent forward, or we shall be overwhelmed with mutiny and disorder.

I am, dear General, your most obedient, humble servant,
DAVID WOOSTER.

To General Schuyler.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Providence, December 18, 1775.

SIR: I am favoured with your Honour's letter enclosing the resolutions of the Congress relating to the Continental army, and beg leave to assure you that every assistance in my power shall be given to re-establish it. The militia of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay and New-Hampshire have cheerfully supplied greater numbers of men than were required of them for the defence of the lines, and I think it probable that three-quarters of the old soldiers will reenlist before the militia are discharged.

I gave orders some time ago for the delivery of Mr. Smith's trunk to Mr. Simon Pease, and am informed by him that he shipped it to Philadelphia by Capt. Anthony, who sailed about eleven or twelve days ago.

This letter will be handed to you by Messrs. Penet and Pliarne, who arrived here about ten days ago from Cape-François, in a vessel sent by the Colony for powder; they were well recommended to us, and I gave them a letter to General Washington, who hath prevailed upon them to lay their proposals before the Congress. I hope their visit to North-America will be an introduction to such measures as may be attended with happy consequences to the United Colonies.

I am, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

NICHOLAS COOKE.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL HOWE.

Cambridge, December 18, 1775.

SIR: We have just been informed of a circumstance which, were it not so well authenticated, I should scarcely think credible. It is, that Colonel Allen, who (with his small party) was defeated and taken prisoner near Montreal, has been treated without regard to decency, humanity, or the rules of war; that he has been thrown into irons, and suffers all the hardships inflicted upon common felons. I think it my duty, sir, to demand, and do expect from you an éclaircissement on this subject; at the same time, I flatter myself, from the character which Mr. Howe bears, as a man of honour, gentleman, and soldier, that my demand will meet with his approbation. I must take the liberty, also, of informing you, that I shall consider your silence as a confirmation of the truth of the report, and further assuring you, that whatever treatment Colonel Allen receives, whatever fate he undergoes, such exactly shall be the treatment and fate of Brigadier Prescott, now in our hands. The law of retaliation is not only justifiable in the eyes of God and man, but absolutely a duty which, in our present circumstances, we owe to our relatives, friends, and fellow-citizens. Permit me to add, sir, that we have all here the highest regard and reverence for your great personal qualities and attainments, and that the Americans in general esteem it not as the least of their misfortunes, that the name of Howe—a name so dear to them, should appear at the head of the catalogue of the instruments employed by a wicked Ministry for their destruction.

With due respect, I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Howe.

P. S. If an exchange of prisoners, taken on each side in this unnatural contest, is agreeable to General Howe, he will please to signify as much to his most obedient servant,
G. W.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Cambridge, December 18, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Your favours, the first of the 28th ultimo, and the two last of the 9th instant, with their enclosures, I received. I am happy to hear of your being better, and heartily wish that you may soon be perfectly recovered from your indisposition.

I should have been very glad if Mr. Carleton had not made his escape. I trust, ere long, he will be in our hands, as I think we shall get possession of Quebeck, from whence he will not easily get away. I am much concerned for Mr. Allen, and that he should be treated with such severity. I beg that you will have the matter and manner of his treatment strictly inquired into, and transmit me an account of the same; and whether General Prescott was active and instrumental in occasioning it. From your letter, and General Montgomery's to you, I am led to think he was. If so, he is deserving of our particular notice, and should experience some marks of our resentment for his cruelty to these gentlemen, and his violation of the rights of humanity. As some of the prisoners have attempted to escape, I doubt not of your giving necessary orders that they may be prevented. It is a matter that should be attended to.

In a letter from the Rev. Doctor Wheelock, of Dartmouth College, of the second instant, I had the following intelligence:

"That the day before, two soldiers returning from Montreal, informed him that our officers were assured by a Frenchman (a Captain of the artillery whom they had taken captive) that Major Rogers was second in command under General Carleton, and that he had been in an Indian habit through our encampment at St. John's; and had given a plan of them to the Generals, and supposed that he made his escape with the Indians that were at St. John's."

You will be pleased to have this report examined into, and acquaint me as to the authenticity or probability of the truth of it. If any circumstances can be discovered to induce a belief that he was there, he should be apprehended. He is now in this Government.

The Congress have sent me several accounts against the rifle companies, one of which is against Captain Morgan, which I enclose you, and desire that it may be transmitted to Colonel Arnold, who will have proper steps taken for the payment of it, as Captain Morgan is with him.

I flatter myself that your next favour will give me an account of General Montgomery's joining Colonel Arnold, and that Quebeck is, or soon will be, reduced to our possession. Should our arms be crowned with much success, to me it appears that Administration will be much embarrassed, and stand in a very disagreeable predicament.

I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL GREENE TO HENRY WARD.

Prospect-Hill, December 18, 1775.

The army is filling up slowly; I think the prospect is better than it has been. Recruits come in out of the country plentifully, and the soldiers in the army begin to show a better disposition, and to recruit cheerfully.

Your observation is exceedingly just. This is no time for disgusting the soldiery, when their aid is so essential to the preservation of the rights of human nature, and the liberties of America. His Excellency is a great and good man; I feel the highest degree of respect for him. I wish him immortal honour. I think myself happy in an opportunity to serve under so good a General. My happiness will be still greater if fortune gives me an opportunity in some signal instance to contribute to his glory and my country's good.

But his Excellency, as you observe, has not had time to make himself acquainted with the genius of this people; they are naturally as brave and spirited as the peasantry of any other country, but you cannot expect veterans of a raw militia from only a few months' service. The common people are exceedingly avaricious; the genius of the people is commercial, from their long intercourse with trade. The sentiment of honour, the true characteristic of a soldier, has not yet got the better of interest. His Excellency has been taught to believe the people here a superior race of mortals; and finding them of the same temper and dispositions, passions and prejudices, virtues and vices of the common people of other Governments, they sink in his esteem. The country round here set no bounds to their demand for bay, wood, and teaming. It has given his Excellency a great deal of uneasiness that they should take this opportunity to extort from the necessities of the army such enormous prices. The General has often expressed to me his uneasiness about the expenses; they so far exceed the expectations of Congress. He is afraid they will sink under the weight of such charges. Economy is undoubtedly essential in this dispute; there should be no wanton waste of publick property; but if you starve the cause, you protract the dispute.

If the Congress wish to put the finishing stroke to this war, they must exert their whole force at once—give every measure an air of decision. I pray God we may not lose the critical moment. Human affairs are ever like the tide, constantly on the ebb and flow. Our preparations in all parts of the United Colonies ought to be so great as to leave no room to doubt our intentions to support the cause and obtain our conditions. This will draw in the weak and wavering, and give such a turn to the minds of people, that small shocks shall not be seriously felt in the general plan of operations. Your proclamation, in answer to that of the King's of August last, is glorious, is noble; was it unanimous, or only the voice of a small majority? The papers announce to you the much greater part of the military operations here.

From the best accounts we can get out of Boston, they are prodigiously distressed. It begins to be very sickly; the scurvy discovers itself; the small-pox prevails; and General Howe is inoculating all the soldiery who have never had it. I think they cannot hold out the winter through, though we were to leave them un molested, which God grant we may not.

It is reported that Quebeck is taken. General Montgomery and Colonel Arnold will acquire immortal honour. Oh, that we had plenty of powder; I should then hope to see something done here for the honour of America.

Our barracks are almost completed. Blankets and clothing will be very much wanted, notwithstanding your supply from Congress. The Connecticut troops are gone home; the militia from this Province and New-Hampshire are come in to take their places. Upon this occasion, they have discovered a zeal that does them the highest honour. New-Hampshire behaves nobly.

LAND BOUNTY TO HIGHLAND EMIGRANTS.

Head-Quarters, Boston, December 18, 1775.

The bearer hereof, Duncan McArthur, having voluntarily engaged to serve His Majesty in the Royal Regiment of Highland Emigrants, (raised and established for the just and loyal purpose of opposing, quelling, and suppressing the present most unnatural, unprovoked, and wanton rebellion,) conformable to the orders and directions of his Excellency the Commander-in-chief, and agreeable to His Majesty's most gracious intentions, signified by the Earl of Dartmouth, (Secretary of State for America), "that such emigrants from North-Britain, as well as other loyal subjects, that should engage to serve in the before-mentioned corps, should be considered in the most favourable light; and after the conclusion of the present unhappy civil war, (to which period only they are obliged to serve,) be entitled to a proportion of two hundred acres vacant (or forfeited) lands for every man or head of a family, together with fifty acres more in addition for every person the family may consist of; the whole to be granted and patented without any expense to the said grantees. And, moreover, to be free of any quit-rent to the Crown for twenty years." I do therefore, with the consent and approbation of his Excellency the Commander-in-chief, certify and declare, that the said Duncan McArthur is, at the expiration of the present troubles, (and when peace, order, and due obedience to the laws are re-established in the British Colonies on the Continent and Islands of North-America), to be at liberty, and entitled to a final discharge from said regiment and from his Majesty's military service; and likewise to receive as a just reward for his spirited loyalty the before-mentioned grant of lands, in consequence of the orders and directions His Majesty has been pleased to issue for that purpose.

Given under my hand and seal, time and place, as first above mentioned.

To all whom it may concern.

MURDOCH MACLEAN, Capt. R. H. Emigrants.

To Major John Small.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CAMBRIDGE, DATED DECEMBER 18, 1775.

Yesterday being dark and cloudy, General Putnam broke ground, with four hundred men, on Lechmere's Point, at ten o'clock in the morning. The mist was so great as to prevent the enemy from discovering what he was about, until twelve, when it cleared up, and opened to their view our whole party at the point, and another at the causeway, throwing a new bridge over the creek that forms the Island at high water. The Scarborough ship-of-war, which lay off the point, immediately poured in upon our men a broadside. The enemy, from Boston, threw many shells, and obliged us to decamp from the point, with two men badly wounded. The bridge, however, was ordered to be raised by the brave old General, and was completed last night. The garrison of Cobble-Hill were ordered to return the ship's fire; which they did, and soon obliged her to heave tight upon her springs, and to cease firing. But the battery in New-Boston kept up the fire of shells till twelve o'clock last night. Our party at the point renewed their work in the evening, and continued it all night. This morning, at day-light, by a signal of two rockets from Boston, the Scarborough weighed anchor, and has left the point clear. She is now anchored at Charlestown ferry, out of harm's way. The work at the point is well secured, and will be completed this night.

The Scarborough's flight is a proof of the enemy's weakness, and of the strength of our two last posts, Cobble-Hill and Lechmere's Point.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BEVERLY, DATED DECEMBER 18, 1775.

You no doubt have heard of Captain Manly, who goes in a privateer out of this harbour; because his name is famous, and as many towns contend for the honour of his birth as they did for that of Homer's. Captain Manly has brought into this harbour in the course of a fortnight, two large brigs, of two hundred and twenty tons each, laden with military stores and provisions, and two ships, of three hundred tons each, laden with English goods, porter, live hogs, &c., to the amount of forty thousand pounds sterling the whole. A sloop is just brought in here from Virginia, laden with corn, oats, potatoes, &c. The Captain was a midshipman belonging to the Otter sloop-of-war there; she was bound to Boston, and has been out fourteen days. Of the people on board is a member of their Provincial Congress, two other persons of note, whom Lord Dunmore had taken prisoners, and ordered to Boston to be tried, it is supposed, for their lives. There is likewise a tory Colonel, who had inlisted three hundred slaves and convicts, but was defeated and obliged to fly to Lord Dunmore; who advised him to go to Boston, and recommended him to General Howe for a commission.

The prisoners, with all the letters and papers, (some of which are of great consequence,) are just gone off to Headquarters.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 30, 1775.]

Cambridge, December 18, 1775.

SIR: Captain Manly, of the Lee, armed schooner, took and sent into Beverly the sloop Betsy, A. Atkinson master. She is an armed vessel, despatched by Lord Dunmore, with Indian corn, potatoes, and oats, for the army in Boston. The packets of letters found on board I have the honour to send you with this, by Captain James Chambers, they being of so much importance that I do not think it would be prudent to trust them by a common express. As Lord Dunmore's schemes are fully laid open in these letters, I need not point out to the Congress the necessity there is of a vigorous exertion being adopted by them, to dispossess his Lordship of the strong hold he has got in Virginia. I do not mean to dictate, but I am sure they will pardon me for giving them, freely, my opinion, which is, that the fate of America a good deal depends on his being obliged to evacuate Norfolk this winter, or not. I have Kirkland well secured, and think I will send him to you for examination. By most of the letters relative to him, he is a dangerous fellow. John Stuart's letters and papers are of a very interesting nature. Governor Tony's, and many other letters from Augustine, show the weakness of the place, at the same time of what vast consequence it would be for us to possess ourselves of it, and the great quantity of ammunition contained in the forts. Indeed, these papers are of so great consequence that I think this but little inferior to any prize our famous Manly has taken.

We now work at our ease on Lechmere's Hill. On discovering our party there yesterday morning, the ship which lay opposite began a cannonade, to which Mount-Horam added some shells. One of our men was wounded. We fired a few shot from two eighteen-pounders which are placed on Cobble-Hill, and soon obliged the ship to shift her station. She now lies in the ferry-way, and, except a few shells from the Mount in Boston, which do no execution, we have no interruption in prosecuting our works, which will in a very short time be completed. When that is done, when we have powder to sport with, I think if the Congress resolve on the execution of the proposal made relative to the town of Boston, it can be done.

I have sent a letter in this day to General Howe, of which a copy goes herewith. My reason for pointing out Brigadier-General Prescott as the object who is to suffer Mr. Allen's fate, is, that by letters from General Schuyler, and copies of letters from General Montgomery to Schuyler, I am given to understand that Prescott is the cause of Allen's sufferings. I thought it best to be decisive on the occasion, as did the Generals whom I consulted thereon.

The return for men inlisted, since my last, amount to about eighteen hundred; making in the whole, seven thousand one hundred. The militia that are come in, both from this Province and New-Hampshire, are very fine-looking men, and go through their duty with great alacrity. The despatch made, both by the people in marching, and by the legislative powers in complying with my requisition, has given me infinite satisfaction.

Your letter of the 8th instant, with the explanatory resolve respecting my calling forth the militia and minutemen, is come to hand, to which I shall pay all due attention. You have removed all the difficulties which I laboured under about the two battalions of marines. I shall obey the orders of Congress in looking out for proper officers to command that corps. I make no doubt but when the money arrives to pay off the arrears, and the month's advance, that it will be a great encouragement for the men to enlist.

Enclosed is a letter I lately received from Mr. James Lovell. His case is truly pitiable. I wish some mode could be fallen upon to relieve him from the cruel situation he is now in. I am sensible of the impropriety of exchanging a soldier for a citizen; but there is something so cruelly distressing in regard to this gentleman, that I dare say you will take it under your consideration.

I am, with great respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

JAMES LOVELL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Provost Prison, Boston, November 13, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I wish at this time to waive the expression of my veneration of your character, in a still lively hope that Providence will bless me with the opportunity of attempting it by the united sincere language of my eyes and lips, though even that must prove inadequate. Personally a stranger to you, my sufferings have yet affected your benevolent mind, and your exertions in my favour have made so deep an impression upon my grateful heart as will remain till the period of my latest breath.

Your Excellency is already informed that the powers of the military government established in this town have been wantonly and cruelly exercised against me, from the 29th of June last. I have in vain repeatedly solicited to be brought to some kind of trial for my pretended crime. In answer to a petition of that sort, presented on the 16th of October, I am directed, by Captain Balfour, Aid-de-camp to General Howe, to seek the release of Colonel Skene and his son, as the sole means of my own enlargement. This proposition appears to me extremely disgraceful to the party from which it comes, and a compliance with it would be pregnant with dangerous consequences to my fellow-citizens. But while my own spirit prompts me to reject it directly with the keenest disdain, the impotency of my distressed wife, and the advice of some whom I esteem, have checked me down to a consent to give your Excellency this information. I have the fullest confidence in your wisdom, and I shall be perfectly resigned to your determination, whatever it may be. I must not, however, omit to say, that, should you condescend to stigmatize this proceeding of my enemies by letter, the correction might work some change in favour of myself, or at least of my family, which must, I think, perish through want of fuel and provision, in the approaching winter, if it continues to be deprived of my assistance.

I have the honour to be, your Excellency's devoted friend and servant,

JAMES LOVELL.

To His Excellency General Washington.

JAMES LOVELL TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Boston Prison, December 6, 1775.

SIR: I address your Excellency upon a matter greatly important in its consequences to more than myself. And though I am personally unknown to you, I shall proceed without any other ceremony, than just to beg you would not attribute my abruptness to the consideration of the channel by which my letter will be conveyed, but to my embarrassment in an aim to express, by words, my real veneration of your publick character.

Charged with being a "spy, and giving intelligence to the Rebels," I have been suffering the pains and indignities of imprisonment, from the 29th of June last, without any sort of trial.

Captain Balfour, Aid-de-camp to General Howe, some time ago, directed Mrs. Lovell to tell me, from the Commander-in-chief, that I must obtain the exchange of Colonel Skene and his son, as the only condition of my enlargement; and I have waited weeks from that, in a vain hope of being enabled to write with more precision to your Excellency.

I have no argument, but of a private nature, to make use of upon this occasion, and it is addressed to your Excellency's humanity, which I am well satisfied will attend the decisions of your wisdom. I myself am reduced to such a risk of life, and my family to such miseries, by my imprisonment, as to make both the objects of compassion to all who are not learnedly barbarous and cruel.

I am, your Excellency's devoted servant,

JAMES LOVELL.

To General Washington.

Intercepted Letters transmitted to Congress by General Washington, with his Letter dated December 18, 1775.

GOVERNOUR TONYN TO GENERAL GAGE.

St. Augustine, September 30, 1775.

SIR: I have this moment the honour of your Excellency's letter of 29th April last, with a circumstantial account of the unhappy affair that happened on the 19th April, between His Majesty's troops and the people of the Province under your Excellency's Government.

Had the account arrived in any reasonable time, it would have prevented a great deal of anxiety and uneasiness here, but so many things have happened since, to the astonishment of all mankind, that one is actually bewildered in the madness of the times.

Your Excellency's account of the attack on the heights of Charlestown will probably be as long on the road here as the last; but I hope some system of a more quick communication will soon take place. I must confess I do not think that has been sufficiently attended to; I am sure it was a matter of more importance than in general it seemed to be imagined.

Wishing your Excellency all imaginable success, with a share of good health and spirits, in proportion to the great fatigues you must necessarily undergo and the most arduous command His Majesty has been pleased to entrust to your Excellency's conduct, I have the honour to be, with very great esteem and regard, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

PATRICK TONYN.

GOVERNOUR TONYN TO ADMIRAL GRAVES.

St. Augustine, October 3, 1775.

SIR: On the 14th of last month I had the honour to write to you; which letter is now on board the transport, with troops for Virginia, and this will go by the same opportunity.

Yesterday the St. Lawrence, schooner, arrived in this harbour. She will be of great use to this Province. I am very thankful to you for this mark of your attention to His Majesty's service in this Province. I shall endeavour to make the service here as agreeable to Captain Graves as possible.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

PATRICK TONYN.

JOHN STUART TO GENERAL THOMAS GAGE.

St. Augustine, September 30, 1775.

SIR: I have by this opportunity written to your Excellency, and fully communicated what I know of Indian affairs. I have not as yet received any answer to my letters and messages, sent to the Indian nations by expresses upon my first arrival here. I take the liberty of troubling your Excellency with this, by Colonel Moses Kirkland, of the South-Carolina militia, who, for his attachment to Government, is obliged to fly; he visits your Excellency to communicate the situation of affairs in the back parts of the Southern Provinces, where he is well acquainted and very popular. I know him to be an enterprising, active man, and may possibly be useful in bringing back the people of Carolina to their duty, or keeping up a party for Government. Lord William Campbell has desired me to furnish him with some money to defray his expenses; which I have done accordingly, and have given him a small bill on my agent at New-York.

I most cordially congratulate your Excellency on the signal advantage obtained over the Rebels by the troops under your command at Bunker's Hill, and wish it may have been followed by such further success as may facilitate the restoration of publick tranquillity, upon terms glorious to your Excellency, and honourable to the nation.

I am, with the utmost respect and truth, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

JOHN STUART.

P. S. The last letter which I have had the honour of receiving from your Excellency is dated 11th of March.

JOHN STUART TO GENERAL THOMAS GAGE.

St. Augustine, October 3, 1775.

SIR: Last night I had the honour of receiving your Excellency's letter of 12th September, and I shall pay the strictest attention to your commands contained in it; nothing in my power shall be neglected to forward the interests of Government and your Excellency's views.

Since writing my last letter, by Colonel Kirkland, I have received, by the way of Savannah, a copy of a talk from the Cherokees, to Mr. Cameron, which I now enclose. It shows their disposition, which I shall, by all means, cultivate; for which purpose my brother is preparing to set off for the Creek, and afterwards for the Cherokee nation.

It occurs to me that it will no longer be good policy to foment the difference between the Choctaws and Creeks; for while they continue at war it will be difficult or even impossible to get the Creeks to act in His Majesty's service, by which they must expose their women and children to the attacks of their enemies. I shall impatiently wait for your Excellency's ideas upon this subject, which I humbly submit. In the mean time I shall send the necessary instructions throughout the District.

I shall immediately take steps to get some Indians here, which will be an acquisition to this place, in its present weak state; and I have been for some time past using all possible means of supplying myself with necessaries for engaging the Indians firmly in His Majesty's interest. I am apprehensive I shall find difficulty in getting a supply of provisions.

I have the honour of being, with the utmost respect, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,
JOHN STUART.

JOHN STUART TO GENERAL GAGE.

October 3, 1775.

SIR: Colonel Kirkland will acquaint your Excellency that a great majority of the frontier and back inhabitants of Carolina are attached to and inclined to support Government. In such circumstances I conceive that an indiscriminate attack by Indians would be contrary to your Excellency's idea, and might do much harm; but I shall dispose them to join in executing any concerted plan, and to act with and assist their well-disposed neighbours. The Alachaway Indians are now here; and I now look with impatience for answers to my despatches to the different nations, which I have reason to expect every hour.

I have the honour of being, most respectfully, sir, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,
JOHN STUART.

JOHN STUART TO MAJOR SMALL.

St. Augustine, October 2, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I was extremely glad to learn, by our old friend, Captain Barker, of the 16th, who arrived here yesterday, that you was well when he left Boston. I congratulate you upon a very narrow escape, where so many fell. The St. Lawrence, armed schooner, is safe moored in this harbour; she sailed in, at half flood, without touching. This I mention because I understand that it was apprehended her coming in would be attended with much difficulty; on the contrary, there was not one thing taken out of her, and she did not want the assistance of a boat. I have again been disappointed in a supply of ammunition. I had twenty-five hundred pounds of powder on board a ship bound from London to Georgia; about fourteen days ago she arrived, and the Rebels seized her powder, as they had before that in Captain Maitland's ship. However, I borrowed from the ordnance stores about four thousand pounds; which, with some I have purchased, will be a supply.

This will be delivered by an unfortunate gentleman named Cameron, who has been obliged to leave his country on account of an affair of honour, in which his antagonist fell; he is desirous of becoming a volunteer, and begged of me to mention him to some officer in the army. I have, therefore, taken the liberty of troubling you upon the occasion, to beg your good offices, so far as you can with convenience; and you must blame yourself for this, for if you had not made your own character remarkable by benevolent and good-natured actions, I should not now have applied to you, as I do with hopes of being pardoned by you for taking a liberty which nothing else could warrant. I have no particular news of any sort. Our communication with all parts of America is difficult, and dangerous to any person residing in any of the disaffected Colonies. Our Carolina neighbours have threatened to pay us a visit; however, I doubt much of their putting their threats in execution. By the detachments sent from the Fourteenth Regiment this garrison is much weakened. Before the arrival of the St. Lawrence, the second detachment of troops to Virginia embarked, and left only thirty-five men fit for duty. I shall bring down some of my friends to stay with us here also. I shall find it extremely difficult to find provisions.

I most sincerely wish you success and safety in all your enterprises; and am, with sincere regard, dear sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN STUART.

DANIEL CHAMIER, JUN., TO DANIEL CHAMIER.

St. Augustine, September 18, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: I embraced an opportunity some time ago, which I hope has proved a safe one, of writing to you from this place, so shall not repeat the cause of changing my situation.

This climate, though almost constantly refreshed with sea-breezes, is still very hot, and subject (especially this year) to a violent and dangerous fever, which I, among others, have had the misfortune to be afflicted with. It has weakened me much; but I am recovering by degrees. This is the third fever I have had in these hot climates; and what is worst of all, they render me the more incapable of returning to colder ones.

Another detachment is now ordered from this garrison, which may shortly be the cause of my being obliged at last, however against my will, to retire to England. Je crois que vous entendez bien ce que je voudrais dire. I am now at the end of the continent, and no possibility of a conveyance to the West-Indies. This may, however, not be the case hereafter, if by exchange or otherwise I should be entitled to seek a passage there, or were I ever furnished with proper credentials for my abode there, which I am not. I beg you just to hint this to your brother, to prepare him for it, although nothing but absolute necessity shall induce me to surprise him with a visit.

It is very hard that I should be in this situation, when we had such strong assurances that all our losses, by the removal of the custom-house, were to be made good. By a very moderate calculation I have just now made, on the 5th day of January next, I shall have at least two hundred pounds sterling due to me, exclusive of what I am to allow my deputy, but of which sum I shall not dare to draw for a larger portion than thirty pounds, being now to pay my deputy, out of my salary of one hundred pounds, the sum of seventy pounds for doing nothing, which must have been the case for a long time past. I am also driven from those friends in Charlestown, who generously advanced me what money I wanted, though I trust I shall not be without resources here until I can hear from you.

I write this also by way of Virginia; and should the remainder of this regiment be hereafter ordered away, you will of course know of it, and may take that opportunity of letting me hear from you, which I am very anxious to do after so long a silence, and seeing no other prospects, for we look upon the Southern Colonies as entirely deserted by the Admiral, which has been of infinite prejudice to His Majesty's service in many respects.

I am not very disagreeably situated in this place, although I have been more obliged to some friends, on my first coming, than I ought. Nevertheless, if we are thus forsaken, and our troops drawn away from us, we must, like other Provinces, suffer some distress; and this alone may oblige me to leave it in my present state of health. The last fevers that I have had, and a somewhat freer way of living sometime ago in Charlestown, have shown me very evidently, that I have a strong scorbutick taint in my blood, and this was Doctor Matys's opinion, which your brother was so kind as to procure for me two years ago, upon a state of my case drawn up by myself; and though my temperance may have hitherto repressed any violent symptoms, yet such a disposition lurking in the blood may well be one cause of retarding my cure, and I have lately made such alterations in my diet as this case would require. Sure I am, it is either that, or a worse disorder, that has manifested itself lately, but I think the symptoms too mild for the latter; and yet, considering my youth, I can hardly think the weakness I still labour under, (and which is, indeed, my only complaint,) to be altogether the consequence of my Boston illness.

I pray my love to Mrs. Chamier, when you see her or write to her, and believe me to be ever,

Yours most affectionately,

DANIEL CHAMIER, JUN.

I beg you to make inquiries if there is any prospect of being paid the deficiency of my income, which would enable me at once to remove to the West-Indies, for I am now informed a vessel has been long expected here from Jamaica, or is there no possibility of procuring letters of credit to that Island, or any other? Mr. Mills is at Barbadoes, and is well known to our gentlemen, and I believe still acting as Collector there, besides being Surveyor-General. Mr. John Stuart, the Superintendent of Indian Affairs, is a fugitive here also; he transacts all his money matters with the General, and might be of service to me in this case, as I have been long acquainted with him, and received many civilities from him. However, all interest out of the question, pray contrive some method of letting me hear from you.

The bearer of this is a Mr. Cameron, an acquaintance of Mr. Stuart's; he can give you some account of me. He comes to Boston, he tells me, for the recovery of his health; I wish I could do the same, that I might once more have the pleasure of seeing you.

MAJOR FURLONG TO GENERAL GAGE.

St. Augustine, October 5, 1775.

SIR: Enclosed I have the honour to send your Excellency the returns of the state of this garrison; at the same time must acknowledge the receipt of your orders, in a letter to Captain Cooper, at Boston, the 9th July; in conformity to which I have sent Lord Dunmore a detachment of sixty men, under the command of Captain Fordyce, which was designed for Sir James Wright, but not demanded.

It has left the garrison remarkably weak, at a season when the men are falling sick every day, and great apprehensions of the Georgians. His Lordship required the whole regiment; but as the three companies of the Sixteenth are not yet arrived at St. Augustine, I could not evacuate the garrison by your Excellency's orders, neither would the Governor and Council hear of it by any means, few as we are; have now only left for duty about forty men. Lord Dunmore has detained the officers in Virginia that were in their way to join the regiment, though they are much wanted here, having only one captain and three subalterns. The detachment is made since the return of September the first. I have sent his Lordship, upon his request, provisions, bedding, and ammunition.

The enclosed memorial was sent to me by Lieutenant Brown, whom I strongly recommend to your Excellency's patronage, with regard to the Adjutancy of the Fourteenth Regiment; which I hope he will obtain.

I must also acquaint your Excellency that the contractors for supplying this garrison with money do not make the usual remittance, either from England or New-York, and Mr. White, of New-York, has wrote Mr. Alexander (the agent here) that he must not expect cash from him as usual, bills of exchange not passing.

Captain Lestie, who went with the first detachment from this to Virginia, writes that no money is to be had there for bills.

Since I wrote the above I am to acknowledge the receipt of your Excellency's orders of the 12th of September, (by His Majesty's armed schooner the St. Lawrence,) for the non-commissioned officers of the General's and Captain Stanton's companies, to be sent to Boston. As I had just embarked a second detachment of sixty for Lord Dunmore, I took the opportunity of sending them by the way of Virginia, and hope they will arrive safe. The said schooner brought me twenty-three recruits, and ammunition, which was much wanted. I shall incorporate the above companies into the battalion.

Our Surgeon's Mate is in Virginia. And I have the honour to be, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

JONATHAN FURLONG.

LIEUTENANT BROWN TO GOVERNOUR TONYN.

St. Augustine, September 18, 1775.

SIR: The peculiar hardship of a company going over my head, and the Adjutancy given to another, after so long a series of service, having engaged the attention of your Excellency, (desirous of knowing the particulars,) I do myself the pleasure of enclosing the copy of a memorial given in to the commanding officer of the regiment, in order to be transmitted to the Commander-in-chief.

I have the honour to be, sir, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

WILLIAM BROWN,
Lieutenant, Fourteenth Regiment.

To His Excellency Patrick Tonyn.

To his Excellency THOMAS GAGE, Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's Forces in AMERICA, &c., &c.

Memorial of Lieutenant BROWN, of the Fourteenth Regiment, sheweth:

That in the year 1759 he received a pair of colours in the Eighty-Fourth Regiment, and was in the East-Indies during the successful campaigns of General Coote, on the Coromandel Coast. That he received his lieutenantcy at the siege of Pondicherry; and in the Province of Bengal during the troubles of '62, '63, and '64; the latter end of which year he arrived in England, and was put upon the establishment as a reduced Lieutenant. That he exchanged into the Fourteenth, by purchasing the difference, in June, 1766. That he embarked from Europe with the regiment for America, and has never been absent from it since. That he was appointed in May, 1774, to act as Adjutant. That his attention to this duty prevented him from requesting leave to look after his private concerns; by which omission, a company has gone over his head, though he is neither destitute of friends nor money. That a very junior officer is appointed to supersede him in a commission, which he has been doing the duty of fifteen months and upwards, without either fee or reward.

Your memorialist, therefore, hopes he is a proper object of your Excellency's attention.

WILLIAM BROWN,
Lieutenant, Fourteenth Regiment.

St. Augustine, September 16, 1775.

PATRICK TONYN TO GENERAL THOMAS GAGE.

St. Augustine, September 21, 1775.

SIR: Lieutenant Brown's distinguished conduct in his duty cannot fail to draw my particular notice of it. He has a great deal of worth and merit; besides being an excellent officer, he is a modest, fine gentleman.

Some singular, unlucky circumstances have combined to make his case and advancement in his profession rather unfortunate. When such disappointments accompany deserving merit, they awaken the attention of every one to endeavour to give assistance to remove the oppressive weight of them. Therefore, sir, I beg leave to recommend Lieutenant Brown in the warmest manner to your Excellency's favour and protection.

Last year, sir, I took the liberty to address your Excellency in favour of my nephew, Mr. Levitt, whose inclinations lead him to the profession of a soldier. I was in hopes that should the army under your Excellency be compelled to act, in which case, consequences that are unavoidable, would of course bring on vacancies, your Excellency might drop a thought towards the recommendation of an old acquaintance.

I must beg leave of your Excellency to permit me to renew my solicitation for my nephew, Mr. Levitt, requesting on a favourable opportunity that your Excellency will appoint him an ensign, and be pleased to recommend him for His Majesty's approbation.

It must certainly be not necessary to make professions of my warm zeal to serve your Excellency in whatever is in my power, whether in a private or public capacity.

I have the honour to be, with very great respect, your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant,

PATRICK TONYN.

To His Excellency the Honourable General Gage.

JONATHAN FURLONG,
Major Fourteenth Regiment.

LIEUTENANT JOHN GRAVES TO ADMIRAL SAMUEL GRAVES,
AT BOSTON.

On board the St. Lawrence, at St. Augustine, }
October 3, 1775. }

SIR: I send you this by Mr. Lane, master of the Otter sloop, who is carrying some troops to Virginia.

We made the land the eleventh day after our sailing from Nantasket, and, considering that neither the master nor myself was ever here before, there could not be any better landfall, as we were steering right for the light-house when we made the shore a few leagues to the northward of the harbour. We got a pilot off that evening, but did not get into the harbour until two next day; and very lucky for us we did, as there came on a blowing, dirty night after we got in.

The bar here is a most shocking one; but eight feet at low water, and twelve at high, and not above the length of two large ships across from breaker to breaker. It is all a white flat sand here, yet the different kind of orange trees are loaded with fruit; they are not quite ripe. I wish I could convey some of them to you just as they are, with their fruit on, they look so beautiful.

I cannot help complaining of my midshipman being taken from me at Boston, as Captain Hartwell had no right to demand him, for he was my proper one. He got himself discharged out of the Boyne into this schooner by choice, and was perfectly satisfied until I told him of his neglect of duty at Annapolis-Royal, when, by his not turning out in his watch at four in the morning, I lost my boatswain and four men; and at such a time as that, when I did not know when I should fall in with the pirate O'Brien, it was enough to vex any officer that had any regard for his character, and I think if every midshipman is indulged to go to what ship they please, when they think themselves aggrieved, it was more than ever I could do when I was in that station.

There is no contractor for the navy, but shall be supplied by the army contractor. There is fresh beef here at three pence per pound, and very good. The Governour as well as myself thinks it will be right to supply the people with fresh beef in the harbour to preserve the salt, as there is not much in store, if the butcher will take bills on the victualling officer, the Contractor at Boston.

My old mainsail and foresail is giving way in several places, and if I can replace them here, I think it will be best, as the old will convert into hammocks, that the people are in much want of, and I could not get any at Boston; none of the men that came from the Preston brought any with them.

If I meet with your approbation in what I do for the best, I am happy.

And am, dear sir, yours most sincerely,

JOHN GRAVES.

To Admiral Graves.

State and Condition of His Majesty's Armed Schooner St. Lawrence, Lieutenant John Graves Commander, at St. Augustine, October 3, 1775.

[illegible]

ALEXANDER SKINNER TO BRIGADIER GENERAL GRANT.

St. Augustine, September 21, 1775.

SIR: By a detachment of the Fourteenth Regiment, ordered to Virginia, I have the opportunity of acknowledging the receipt of your Excellency's letters of 2d and 23d May, and am glad, in some respects, of your coming to America, as by that means I shall have an opportunity of seeing you again, which otherwise I hardly ever expected.

Things are going on tolerably at the Villa, were it not for the cursed worms, which are getting worse every year. Though this season has been more favourable than several others before it, yet, on account of these destructive insects, I do not imagine we shall be able to make near the quantity of indigo we did last year; but the quality, on an average, will be better. The first cut turned out well, amounting to about two thousand weight; but the worm has laid hold of our second, and destroys it so fast that I am afraid it will be impossible to save much of it. And, to mend the matter, my time is so much taken up in town that I can never get liberty to stay at the plantation above a week, or at most a fortnight, upon a stretch, which may rather be something against your interest. Sampson is a pretty good overseer, and Brunner becomes more and more attentive; yet I could wish to be more upon the spot myself.

The Indian business is become a perfect plague to me, and for which I have not the smallest consideration, so that I am determined, at all events, to shake myself clear of it, though I do not like to withhold any assistance in my power to give, in the present critical situation of the times.

Mr. Stuart, the Superintendent, has taken sanctuary here, and we have information the Carolínians and Georgians design sending an armed force to this place to demand him, and, if not delivered up, to commence hostilities. But I am in hope they will have some other employment nearer home, before it is long.

October 5.

Your Excellency's letter of the 13th ultimo I had the honour to receive by the St. Lawrence schooner, which came very well over the bar, without being in the least lightened, as our bar is at present very good. Every body here is extremely glad and thankful that this is to be her station, and only wish she had come a little sooner, to have prevented one hundred and odd barrels of the King's powder being taken out of Lofthouse by a Carolina pirate, acting under the orders and directions of your old acquaintance Colonel Laurens. The garrison, you imagined, were scarce of provisions; but we are pretty well as yet, having about four hundred barrels of pork and above that number of barrels of flour, after sparing a supply of three months' provisions for the detachment at Virginia.

I have been a week at the plantation since I wrote you the 21st ultimo, making indigo fast, but this four days past I have been obliged to be in town with the Allatchaway Indians, with whom I earnestly wish I had nothing to do, as that business takes up a great deal of my time, and of which I have so little to spare at this season of the year. The people at the plantation are obliged to be upon foot night and day, in order to save as much of the indigo from the worms as possible, and it is not in my power to give them any assistance until these savages are gone from town.

Lofthouse is loaded with lumber at St. Mary's, and is expected off this bar in a few days. The vessel does not come into the harbour, but proceeds directly for England. I wish I could send what indigo is cured along with her, but am afraid, in the hurry of our cutting, it will be impossible to get it ready. However, I shall do every thing I can for the best.

I shall write your Excellency by Wallace, who will sail in about eight or ten days hence; at present I take leave of you, with this earnest prayer, that God may preserve to you your health and protect you from your enemies.

I am, with my best wishes, sir, your Excellency's most obliged and most obedient servant,

ALEXANDER SKINNER.

FREDERICK GEORGE MULCASTER TO GENERAL GRANT.

St. Augustine, October 3, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I wrote you about five days ago [29th September] by Captain Fordyce, who is not yet sailed. The day before yesterday a man-of-war schooner appeared off; the pilot immediately went out and was put on board; it blew fresh, and she stood off and on the remainder of the day and night. Yesterday she came in with the flood-tide, without the least difficulty. The wind being to the eastward, you, sir, very well know, throws a heavy sea upon our bar, but, notwithstanding, she did not even touch; and Lieutenant Graves, who commanded her, told me she then drew nine feet water. Had she been in need of assistance, there is here (belonging to Government) a sixteen-oared launch, a decked schooner of about fourteen tons, and a stout open boat, which would have been ready to have lightened her; but for vessels of that burden there is no such need wanting. She rides safe at an anchor opposite the Chief Justice's door. I have also a decked boat, which is always ready, and the pilots have my leave to command her at a moment's warning for the public use; and you may be assured she would have been out had occasion been necessary. Indeed, I did not dream that such assistance would be even thought of for vessels of that burden, till I got your letter, which makes me imagine that this bar is held to the northward as a bugbear; it was formerly so, only by the jealousy of our two neighbouring Colonies, for fear we should outdo them in their own produce of rice and indigo. I hope now men-of-war's men will have better opinion of it; in truth, it is done great injustice to. The Governor, Lieutenant Brown, of the Fourteenth, and myself, not above two months ago, sounded it with the pilots; we had seven feet at low water, the tide runs five, which gives twelve at high. The St. Lawrence came in at three-quarters flood. When I write to you I am confident you will believe me, as I wish only to say what your Excellency may assert, in favour of a Province once under your protection, and we find now you have still at heart. The St. Lawrence's log-book will prove this. She is infinitely necessary here, for neither provisions, correspondence, or any thing whatever is to be obtained at this place without such assistance.

The Carolínians are, or, I should rather say, have, fitted out three vessels in order to attack the Tamar at Charlestown, which is the reason Thornborough has taken the Cherokee to support him, for they were to be ready in two days after our last accounts from them. They are also fitting out a stout vessel of ten guns, to give Captain Lempriere, (the rascal who took our powder,) for his gallant behaviour off this bar; by this you see that private cruisers are upon this coast as well as the northern.

The guns at Fort Johnston were thrown over the parapet by the Tamar's people, but what could possess them not to destroy the carriages and knock off a trunnion I cannot conceive; they might at least have thought of spiking them, but Thornborough is old, and unfit for service. It is very well to send such men in time of peace to a hot country, for the chance of a vacancy; but in time of rebellion, surely active officers should be employed.

There is a set of five guns, I have been told, at Providence, and, if my intelligence is good, (and you know I have not in general any bad,) the Carolínians intend soon to have them; should they get them, it will not reflect great honour upon the navy.

The troops going to Virginia can certainly be of no use, but you are mistaken in regard to Lord Dunmore's sending for them without authority. The first detachment of Captain Leslie and sixty men and the Providence company, was a positive order from General Gage; the detachment of sixty men which goes now was also a positive order of the General's; and the last order says that, if Lord Dunmore makes a requisition of the rest of the regiment, it is to go upon the arrival of the three companies of the Sixteenth. These orders I have seen, and there is, at this hour of my writing, nothing contradictory to it, so that, should the companies arrive to-morrow, the regiment must, of course, embark, in consequence of those orders, (Lord Dunmore having made the requisition.) However, as the companies are not arrived, the order has undoubtedly miscarried; but the St. Lawrence has brought a duplicate of the order to Governor Tonyn, who is to forward it to West-Florida; but there is no contradiction in regard to the regiment. This last article is hearsay, but I believe I am right, and am positively certain that Furlong has no orders whatever from General Gage to contradict his former, consequently I do not believe that Tonyn has; and if he had, I should most likely have heard it.

A provision vessel would have been of great service; the Pensacola people will have none, but for their passage; and although the troops are not at present in want, yet the inhabitants begin to be in distress for flour. And what is to become of our boasted asylum, if there is nothing to eat for those who choose to come among us? I hope Tonyn will write for a provision vessel by this occasion. I have desired Moultrie to give him a hint of it. Urquhart writes to his brother officers that General Grant lives like a General. He tells them also this Province may thank you for the St. Lawrence; by the by, Tonyn wanted to make believe she was sent in consequence of a letter from himself. If your Brigade-Major is as good an officer as the generality of the Fourteenth, you are happy with him; I have often heard him spoken well of by them. Urquhart writes that he expects the Virginia detachments will certainly go to Boston, as they can be of no use with Lord Dunmore, and that the regiment will undoubtedly remain here. Surely there is some strange jumble and mistake of orders in regard to these people; but observe, that what I have already said in regard to the orders I am exceedingly correct in, for, I repeat to you again, I saw them.

De Brahm is on board the Cherokee, as I told you in my last; he has with him a nephew of his own name and the youngest Row, the former from Germany. Some time before Mrs. De Brahm died, when in England, she broke open a will of De Brahm's; the contents (to her astonishment) were leaving every thing he possessed in the world to his brother in Germany. This she wrote to her father, some time before he died; she had sufficient sway with him to make him alter it in her favour, but, as such was his feeling, it is happy for the poor woman she died first. This circumstance I did not know till two days ago, when the person told me had it from old Row. I did not expect even my children would get any thing from him, except, possibly, he might have left them his house and lands after her death; but that he should leave her (who had only him to depend upon) destitute, was beyond my belief almost, but it seems it was too true.

The Government takes up lately a great deal of Skinner's time; he is not able to visit the plantation so often as necessary, and the crop will not be the better for it; Skinner says much the worse, and complains of the prospect; however, he generally grumbles a good deal till he has done making, therefore I do not expect it is so bad as he says he expects; but I shall see the plantation before Wallace sails, and will be more particular by him. The furniture business you shall then hear about, but at present it is impossible to speak to a man absorbed in pen, ink, and paper, preparing despatches, &c., although he did not receive three letters, and no news; even his letters from Donkin, the General's Aid-de-camp, (who is his particular friend,) I do not hear gave him any intelligence. The furniture is an arduous undertaking; the valuation is highly necessary, but, for the pecunia, I am afraid it is non habet.

Wallace is to take your advice, and bring oranges, &c. As he is not idle, I suppose he will sail soon; at present he is employed in carrying out part of this detachment to the snow, which could not come in, not because she drew too much water, but because her transom beam was broke, and she was afraid to venture, lest, if she chanced to touch, she should go to pieces.

It is now eleven o'clock at night, therefore I shall leave off till to-morrow, when I shall give you an account of the situation of Charlestown. I have finished the plan of the harbour, and the town I shall do in the morning. When it is done, you will have at large the opinions you desired on that subject.

October 4, 1775.

Your black man Alexander was with me this instant to inquire after your health, and has loaded me with beaucoup de compliments. He wishes much to come to make your bread, for he says he gives no satisfaction to his present master and mistress; the former he says is assez bon, but madam, who is always referred to, is the diable.

The parson has got the fever, and is really very yellow.

I wish he could go to the northward; but if he did, his Excellency would have no one to advise with; and, should counsellors grow scarce, he would not know who to appoint.

The enclosed plans I got done with difficulty, as Kirkland was hurrying me, from whom I got the original. I must refer you to him for many particulars. He has with him the last new survey of the Province of Carolina, and he can explain to you all you can want to know of the interior parts, the complexion of the people, the prospect of assistance, &c. I did not tell him what I wanted his draft for, so he does not know of its going by this conveyance to you. I have made some remarks upon the plans, should they be for attacking the town. You must also observe, that the buildings upon the wharves are always filled with pitch, tar, and turpentine. The batteries were in very bad order, but I have heard they were busy preparing to mend them. Fort Johnston is exceedingly out of repair, but, were it otherwise, the shipping can go to the northward of the Middle Ground without danger, as nothing but random shot could hurt them; besides, a frigate could always cover them. Should it be necessary to attack the south side of Broughton's bastion by frigates, that d—d Fort Johnston must then be silenced, as the south side of the Middle Ground will, by much, be the most convenient water for the vessels to go up to their station. Behind Shute's Folly transport vessels may easily pass; so Mr. Kirkland tells me, which would be a pretty safe way of getting into Cooper river; and, should the landing in the town be deemed rash or improper, they may proceed higher up that river, and land at several places within three, four, five, or six miles of the town, which would be the means of forming an army between them and the country, save their town, (which the rascals do not deserve,) and reduce them to compliance. What I call an army is four or five battalions; for that, with their harbour blocked up, would effectually do their business. Their work at the town gate is out of repair, and not thought of, their chief attention being towards the water; and, even with their utmost efforts there, I do not see how they could resist the frigates. Besides, their batteries are en barbet, and their men exposed. Their harbour is deep water close to their wharves, so that men-of-war might go as near as they pleased on that side; and in Ashley river the frigates marked d, d, may lay much nearer than the letters are placed, for the soundings are set down between them and the shore. These people undoubtedly deserve no favour; why not employ a bomb vessel or two at once; they, under the cover of frigates, would completely do the business; or, place a thirteen-inch mortar on Shute's Folly, and it will be of infinite service. The enclosed plans will give a clear idea of the situation vessels may be placed in, as you have the shoals and soundings. The town will refresh your memory in regard to the situation of the streets, &c. The plans will also guide you to ask Mr. Kirkland questions, which he can, I believe, answer. His general plan will show you the roads and the situation of the Catawbas, with Colonel Thompson's regiment of Horse, at the fork where the Congaree and Waterce rivers meet. They remain there, not to move till wanted. The regiment consists of about three hundred men, and live about those parts; they do not choose much to come to Charlestown, because of ill health and expense.

I wrote in my last (a few days since) something concerning these back-country people, of their wants and their inclinations to do themselves justice or to join the King's troops. I also mentioned a scheme of Savannah river and the back-country people meeting. The man Kirkland can inform you well on all these articles, and, as he knows nothing of my earnestness to acquaint you, or your having wishes to be informed, you may get from him any intelligence you want. If Carolina is to be attacked, he will be of infinite use; but this you will discover as soon as you have conversed with him. I give this letter also to Captain Fordyce, and if Kirkland goes by a safe conveyance from Virginia, he is to deliver him to his care.

John Stuart told me he had, by this opportunity, some instructions from the General in regard to the Indians. Some of them are just now in town; and he told me he intended to keep about forty or fifty encamped near the town for the winter, and he would make up to them in presents what they would lose by their winter's hunt. He is jealous of Tony. In a day or two, I dare say, I shall know what he intends to do and what orders he has got, but at present he has not opened. His wife being at Charlestown makes him, I fancy, apprehensive for her safety. He thinks she would be massacred should he bring down the red people; he wishes her away, and I wish so too.

Mr. Chamier I was already acquainted with. I told him of your recommendation of him. He daily receives instances of people's hospitality in this place, and your mentioning him will not lessen it. The Barrackmaster Shirreff I cannot say so much for, for I do not see any one who likes him, not from being a bad person, but from being a fool, talking nonsense, a blundering forwardness, and, although, I believe, wishing to be civil, very rude, by all accounts. He is as unlike his brother at Boston as two can well be. I am very well acquainted with him, and I am only pestered by his continually plaguing me to come and drink tea with his wife, who is as stiff and prim as Mrs. Catherwood. However, he dines with me to-morrow, and also Chamier, Lieutenant Graves, and Captain Barker, an officer of the Sixteenth, who came in the schooner, expecting to find the companies here. We heard, a few days since, of Barry's death, the mate of the hospital you got appointed; he died at sea on his way to England, has left a wife and child, and about five hundred pounds, also a will, which gives the use of the money to the wife during her life for her maintenance, and the education of his son, but if she marries, she loses all benefit of the money, and it is then to go to the child upon its coming of age, which is when it arrives at twenty-four years of age. One would think it was five thousand a year he had left, from the pomposity of the will. However, the poor woman, who had five hundred when he married her, has got by the marriage a child, and less money than she had before.

The bars of Nassau and St. Mary's have been sounded, both of them by Captain Doren and Wallace. St. Mary's I mentioned to you in my last; Nassau is as good as St. Augustine, and St. John's I sounded myself, and had nine foot at low water. When Wallace reaches you, he can, as a seaman, give the General, yourself, or the Admiral, a particular account of them. The Georgians talked of visiting us. It certainly was only talk, for there would many difficulties intervene to stop the progress of a flying Yankee party. But suppose it had been so, and they were capable of undertaking schemes of that sort, the armed schooner is at once a safe protection for this Province; one at St. Mary's effectively stops the inland passage by water, and another at St. John's would prevent their passing that river, were they to attempt any thing by land, and that would be attended with little or no expense. I say this, if the Georgians or Carolinians had spirit to make an attempt; but the truth is they are apprehensive at home. They certainly conjecture that it's more than probable an intention may be to arm the troops to the southward in the winter. However your caution of secrecy will be carefully attended to; no one knows of it but Moultrie, Stuart, and myself. Urquhart says engineers are scarce, and a number of officers employed to assist. Should a southern plan take place, as I am next but one to Montresor on the list, and of the same rank in the corps and army as he is, the General not being able to spare him, might probably be glad to employ me, and if necessary, have the power to appoint assistants should they be wanted. Besides I am accustomed to the sun, and could escape a fever, when a healthy northern constitution might be laid up. My excursions and lying out for months together for some winters past, makes me not tender or fearful of a wet lodging, or a hungry belly; for I have experienced both. But this I entirely leave to your consideration. Indeed Boston, from all accounts, is no tempting place; but should you think it right for me to join a southern expedition, I am ready at an hour's notice; an armed schooner to come off a day before the ships sail, would be here time enough to take me in, and meet you before you reached Charlestown Bar, and in case such a scheme should be approved of, and you like it, time might be saved by the schooner hoisting a yellow flag at her main top-gallant mast head, and firing two guns. I will be aboard of him, if the wind and tide permit, in two hours; therefore, should such a signal appear, I shall understand it. Captain Fordyce is to forward this by the safest opportunity; but if Kirkland goes soonest, he will deliver them. I need not hint to you to give Kirkland some soup, for I think you will benefit by it. I have been in such extreme hurry, that I have not been able to keep a copy of the enclosed plans; pray be careful of them, should I not be able to procure others; and for fear of discovery, I durst not trust my young men to copy them.

Adieu, and may you succeed in every thing, is the earnest prayer of your always obliged and sincere humble servant,
FREDERICK GEORGE MULCASTER.

C. SHIRREFF TO GENERAL ROBERTSON.

St. Augustine, October 2, 1775.

SIR: I have only time just to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, by Captain Barker, who arrived this day, and the wind not being fair, has detained the troops now on board for Virginia, but are now weighing anchor, and I am afraid I shall not be able to get this on board. I have only to acquaint you I have already wrote to you by a Mr. Cameron, and shall observe the contents of your letter, and settle about the bills as you desire, and the very first opportunity write you. There are several other articles I much want to know your opinion of, so that I beg leave to refer you to my first letter, and the one now on board; for at present I do not pretend to take in charge any vacant rooms, as the commanding officer thinks he has a right to occupy them as he pleases; but unless something is very speedily done to the barracks, they will be down, and I have frequently spoke to the engineer on this head, and his answer is, he has no orders and so can't act. Caudles we much want, and I will do for the best when they are required, and shall endeavour to give all the satisfaction I can in the discharge of my duty. Being in a hurry, I have only time to add that Mrs. Shirreff joins with me in compliments to you, and kind remembrance to all friends.

I am, wishing you all success, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

C. SHIRREFF.

Brigadier-General James Robertson, Barrackmaster-General.

P. S. In your letter you inform me the Fourteenth were paid bed money, &c., to the last of June; but Mr. Barton informs me if you will look at his accounts last sent, you will there find the corps are only paid up to the 22d of April last. As I shall have money to pay here at times, if you thought proper, it would be necessary to send me a bill to answer any demands, as no one here will take bills payable at the northward. Troops from Pensacola not arrived.

GOVERNOUR TONYN TO MAJOR DONKIN.

St. Augustine, October 2, 1775.

DEAR DONKIN: I steal a moment from publick despatches, to thank you for your favour of the 12th September. The account you give of the Rebel intrenchments does not surprise me; it was the natural consequence of our post stationed at Boston. They only followed our example. I have, however, no great opinion of their prowess. If you could get fairly to an onset with them, your army would beat five times their number. We heard of a letter fallen into your hands from Lee to Washington, advising to storm Boston, to make two places the object of attack, in the general assault; that Lee assured the success, with the loss of ten thousand men. Is this true? Will the Yankees like to hear ten thousand of them are to be killed, and take Lee's assuery for the success? which at best is doubtful, and which, I am sure must be impossible, without a formal siege, and a breach made, or I can't guess at all at what you have been about.

What I am most of all astonished at, is, that they should have cruisers to the northward, and that they should have any success with our powerful fleet. How comes this about? They have had cruisers on this coast too, and have had some success, which you will hear from your General. Shirreff and Chamier, from your recommendation of them, are entitled to every act of kindness.

Some happy transactions, are, I hope, to be expected from Guy Johnson and General Carleton. Truly it is high time Great Britain should rouse from her state of languor.

I wrote to you, the 25th of last month, by Virginia. I shall never forget the names of my very old friend Rufane. If it was in my power to make you a Lieutenant-Colonel, I would enclose you the commission. Dear Donkin do not distrust my friendship, which shall always be ready and willing to serve you on every opportunity.

That you may all soon triumph over these lawless infernal rebellious villains, are the constant wishes of, dear Donkin, yours most faithfully,

PATRICK TONYN.

Major Donkin.

SPENCER MAN TO GENERAL GRANT.

St. Augustine, October 4, 1775.

SIR: It was with much pleasure that I heard by the St. Lawrence armed schooner of your safe arrival at Boston, and that you were in good health, which I sincerely wish may long continue, and hope we shall have the pleasure to see you in this country before you return home, as I flatter myself the regard you have shown on all occasions to the welfare of this Colony, never was more wanted to be exercised than at present. You will, I doubt not, be informed of the situation of our politics by more able hands than mine, and shall only observe that our political body is much diseased, and I know no doctor who could cure it so well as you; and with respect to settlement we are going back every day, and I believe our ruler has neither ability to point out, or interest to procure any good to us; in a word, sir, if you do not stir a little for us, we shall be a nonentity very soon. I hope, therefore, as do many of your friends here, that you will pay us a visit before you return to England.

Wishing you health, success, and safety in your present situation, I remain, sir, your much obliged and most humble servant,

SPENCER MAN.

To Brigadier-General James Grant.

ALEXANDER ROSS TO CAPTAIN STANTON.

St. Augustine, October 4, 1775.

DEAR STANTON: I received yours by favour of Captain Barker, enclosing a bill on Messrs. Cox and Mair for £45 15s. sterling. I offered Captain Fordyce the twenty pounds you desired me to pay him, but he would not accept of it; have therefore given the agents credit on your account for the balance, which is only £19 0s. 10½d., as you will see by the statement adjoining, which you may draw on them for when you think proper, viz:

By credit to Captain Stanton for a set of bills on Messrs. Cox and Mair - - - -	£45 15 0
By credit for cash received from Captain Barker , at 4s. 6d. to the dollar, - - - -	2 9 7
	<hr/>
	48 4 7
Captain Stanton debtor on account for balance due the recruits, - - - -	29 3 8½
	<hr/>
Balance due Captain Stanton , credited the agents, - - - -	£19 0 10½

The reason of there being a difference, is owing to the dollar passing always here for four shillings and eight pence, the sterling value; so that whether I receive money for bills, or give money for bills, it is all the same.

The recruits you have sent are all good looking lads, but we would have been better pleased to have had you with the whole, rather than a part; it appears very odd to imagine what advantage it can be to the service to have our regiment so much divided, when, were they once again properly united, they surely might be of use.

Captain Fordyce has been on board of vessels with his company and a detachment, amounting in all to sixty men, ready to sail for Virginia the first fair wind; and had three companies of the Sixteenth arrived from Pensacola, as we have been long expecting, the whole regiment would sail at the same time. We have been in anxious expectation of hearing of great feats performed since the 17th of June, from your quarter, and we find now the summer far spent without any thing of consequence having happened; but this is a subject too tender to offer free sentiments upon.

You will be so good, as often as you can, to send us here accounts of so very interesting matters as are going on near you; it will in some degree alleviate the distress of being in a manner out of the world in this place, to hear now and then from a friend, in which class I hope to be included by you.

And believe me to be, with regard, dear Stanton, yours sincerely,

ALEXANDER ROSS.

To Captain Stanton.

JOHN MOULTRIE, LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOUR OF EAST-FLORIDA, TO GENERAL GRANT.

St. Augustine, October 4, 1775.

I have the pleasure of yours by the St. Lawrence. By sending her you have done your old Government essential service; we wanted such a vessel very much; she appeared off one day, and came over the bar the next with ease and without a rub, and without unlading her guns or provision; our bar is better than ever I knew it.

By our steady attachment to our mother country, we are become an eye-sore to our sister Colonies; particularly so to our foolish young sisters Georgia and Carolina. They threatened, and have done every thing in their power to starve us, which is not in their power to effect. Their threats were of service, and alarmed the people here at first, but I told them I was glad of it; that it was a shame to trust our existence to others, and give them our money for what we could make as easily as they could; which they now find to be true. Almost every planter has made his provision; many a great deal to spare. I have above eight hundred bushels of corn to spare of the Bellavista crop; a fine crop of rice at the Musquetoe, already reaped, and in the barn yard; a second cutting of the same rice almost ripe.

I am surprised to find you and the army in the state you have been in. I flatter myself you will move to advantage soon. The southern people are madder than the northern, though I believe not such great rogues; they have got to the highest pitch of raving madness. You will have heard of one hundred and ten barrels of our powder taken out of Lofthouse, off our bar, by a vessel fitted out of Carolina, with an order from Laurens to proceed on that business; which order, by mistake, and through confusion, the pirate Captain left behind him, and is now in our possession. Laurens loves popularity; but I think he does not sleep many hours a night, and may perhaps dream. You know the man. Our neighbours talk of visiting us to take our ordnance stores; but this I look upon as mere vapour, and that they will not feel bold enough; if they do, well, we will do our best to dress them. I hope the General will not take any more of the troops from this. I think he has already weakened us too much. Consider the fort and its contents; consider what our neighbours are willing to do; consider, above all, that this is now the best and only immediate communication between Great Britain and our red brothers. You judged right; the Rebels have been tampering and endeavouring to get the Indians with them. The best friends of Great Britain are in the back parts of the Carolinas and Georgia; if the Indians were put in motion these would suffer, and not the Rebels. But this will be delivered to you by Colonel Moses Kirkland, who comes express to General Gage; to him I refer you; what he tells you, you may depend on. I think he may be made a most powerful instrument in the hands of Government should any thing be done this way, which I think ought immediately to be undertaken. He knows every inch of Carolina, every road and by-road, every creek and swamp, every person, and has a most extensive influence; is resolute, active, and enterprising, and I think ought to receive the greatest encouragement. He has not had a liberal education, but possesses clear, strong, and manly sense, and I think him entirely to be depended on.

I have had Mulcaster with me; he will send you some papers. Some others shall be done on a larger scale. Kirkland can give you good intelligence. Wallace, who acts with so much spirit and honour, can also furnish you with rich materials on that head. I remember he was very busy when there in sounding and surveying.

I lament, as you may imagine, the present state of affairs, and the situation of most of my friends, who have been worked powerfully on, and have, to my great sorrow, taken a wrong way. I need not say any thing further to you on the state of things in these parts of the world, as Kirkland will be better than a very long letter. I hope soon to see order drawn out of confusion, and peace restored; that good men may escape, but that every rogue and vile tool, and every wilful and violent oppressor and oppressor may meet with their full and just reward.

Pray, dear friend, adieu. I am, most affectionately and sincerely, yours,

MOUTRIE.

Mrs. Moultrie begs her best respects to you. We are happy and well. If you see Wallace, pray my compliments; I think and hear of him with pleasure.

To Brigadier-General Grant.

DANIEL CHAMIER, JUN., TO DANIEL CHAMIER.

St. Augustine, October 3, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: I had written you a long letter by Mr. Cameron, who was to make the best of his way to Boston, from Virginia, to which place another detachment of the regiment here is now destined, and ready to sail. I shall not recall that letter, notwithstanding the receipt of yours has rendered a great part of it unnecessary, as the rest of it still stands good.

I made my retreat from Charlestown in good time, for which my friends have since complimented me on my sagacity, having, it seems, been in more danger than they had imagined, although it was at their repeated informations that I determined at last to retire. Such an unjust persecution as that of mine is hardly to be paralleled, as they had not the shadow of a charge to bring against me. My worthy friend, Captain Innes, (Lord William's Secretary,) who arrived a few months before his Lordship, and with whom I had formed the strongest intimacy, being acquainted with the Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Henry Laurens, made my case known to him, and I had the satisfaction to receive a message from him, assuring me that he himself was fully satisfied of my innocence, and that he would take care that I should have full liberty to remain in Charlestown, or go to what part of America or Europe I thought proper; and, understanding that my first design was to go to England, he wrote a letter to the Captain on board whose ship I was, removing all difficulties that lay in my way. Upon this information I immediately altered my route, and wrote as polite a letter as I could dictate to Mr. Laurens, for I was much touched with such generous behaviour from a stranger, (for he was but just returned here from England,) when many of the gentlemen of the town (as they call themselves) with whom I had been acquainted, were for cutting my throat. I am glad Harcomb has escaped; he has the true spirit of loyalty of an old English soldier.

I shall not attempt to express the feeling I have for the generous supply which you have sent me; it is fully sufficient for the present, and I hope for some time to come, as my friends in Charlestown are not likely to call upon me until it be perfectly convenient. I am much distressed for them. They are all now disarmed, and confined to the limits of the town, for having refused to sign a treasonable association.

But my noble friend Innes, although long out of the army, refused to deliver his arms, and told the Committee, "that he had the honour of bearing five commissions under his present Majesty, and his late Royal grandfather, and were he to deliver up his sword to any one not legally entitled to demand it, he should think he deserved to have it broke over his head;" for which soldier-like behaviour he was ordered to quit the town in four-and-twenty hours, and accordingly he retired on board the man-of-war. Lord William, not many days after, dissolved the Assembly, and retreated to the same place. Mr. Irving, who was formerly Inspector of imports and exports at Boston, and is now Receiver-General of the quit-rents at Charlestown, and to whose friendship I have been so much indebted, embarked some time after I left Charlestown for Providence Island, for recovery from a bilious complaint, and he will remain there for some time if he is wise. Please to inform Mr.

Hulton of this, as he has a great regard for the gentleman of whom I speak. I beg you also to present my compliments to him and his lady.

October 3.

As the transport with the troops luckily cannot sail to-day, I have set my friends to work to make you a keg of shrub, which I will risk by Mr. Cameron, although I have some fear whether he can accomplish it; if he does you will be much obliged to him, as I suppose he will find it difficult enough to carry himself there, but the loss will not be great, and its safety I hope will prove very beneficial to you.

My worthy friend, Mr. Penman, is one of the two eminent merchants in this place. I became acquainted with him in Charlestown some time ago, and I have been under great obligation to him since my arrival here, indeed for every accommodation, as there are no lodging houses here. I laid a copy of your scheme before him, and I now enclose you a very encouraging answer from him, which I hope and expect will induce you to put it immediately into execution, as the fruit will soon be in its full state of maturity. Address your vessel immediately to Mr. (James) Penman, and resume your former style and character, and I warrant he will do you justice. I know him to be a man of honour, and he is also well known to Mr. Hulton. Write upon the subject immediately, if you cannot send your vessel at once, that the fruit may be gathered and prepared at the proper season.

I will now, if I have time, answer every other paragraph of your letter.

I have already been very kindly treated by the Government and the rest of the gentlemen here. The recommendations you have procured me will insure me in future all the respect and favour I could wish for. I beg you to express to General Grant and Major Donkin the high sense I have of their kindness. The fruit here is not yet ripe, nor is it probable, from what I have said above, that any quantity could make its way good from Virginia. I heartily wish your shrub itself may meet with that good fortune.

I depend greatly on your intercession with your brother. There can be no vacancy in Carolina but from the death or removal of Mr. Morris, the Comptroller. He is old, and willing to retire, but he is also hearty; and a resignation, your brother says, is not to be effected in my favour. Besides, I am astonished that your brother should still talk of an office in Charlestown, when the proprietors of them do not think them at present worth a farthing; and when I know such true and alarming accounts of the state of that Province have been so long ago transmitted to the Ministry.

I note well what you say concerning the scurvy. You will find by my first letter, which was written and sealed before the receipt of yours, that my own opinion corresponds with yours; but my great temperance and regularity had long concealed that from my own knowledge which my poor father's unhappy course of life rendered but too apparent to every one. I flatter myself that I already feel some benefit from my change of diet, and shall persist in this new regimen, but am afraid I shall soon be without a principal article in it, which is Madeira wine. If you could spare me ever so small a quantity, it would be as acceptable as the shrub to you, and full as necessary for me, as I drink no other liquor, the mixture of it with water being as strong an acid as will agree with me, and a few glasses prove an excellent and palatable restorative and strengthener.

I am sorry for my friend Christie's ill usage; but he must be content to take neighbour's fare, and should not be sorry at having the opportunity of manifesting his loyalty.

I have written you in my first letter concerning Mr. Savage. I cannot send you a power of attorney, having given that authority at my first leaving Boston to Mr. Nathaniel Coffin, the Deputy Cashier and Receiver-General, who has generously transacted my money matters hitherto free from any charge. I see not how I can help myself at present. If you can, with the assistance of Mr. Hallowell, bring him to reason, you will save me a great deal of money. But I apprehend you cannot do much without the influence of the Board. I beg you to consult Mr. Hallowell, and present my best compliments to him.

You desire me to have patience, that Anthony shall not neglect me. I should make a most ungrateful return for your generosity, and his endeavours to serve me, if I were not perfectly easy. While my leaves of absence are continued, and this garrison not too much weakened, I can remain content for any length of time. But we look upon the great draft of men made from this fort as a very unfortunate measure, that may be attended with very dangerous consequences to the service here; and I am confident if the General or the Ministry knew the true state of these Southern Colonies, that such a measure would never have taken place. The only other difficulty I find here is in point of board and lodging.

I had lately fixed myself very agreeably at a good house, a small distance from town, across St. Sebastian's Creek, in a healthy situation, with a worthy old gentleman, Mr. Cuming, the Comptroller of the Port, but he, poor man, lately caught the fever, which carried him off in a few days. I still stay at the house, to take care of his property, but it cannot be convenient for me to stay there long. Were you acquainted with the geography of the Southern Colonies, you would know that it was impossible for me to go to Pensacola. The only passage by water is via Jamaica, in the packet which calls there on her return from that island, not in going to it, from Charlestown; and a passage by land is utterly impracticable for any one but an Indian or a Cracker; which last term General Grant can explain to you. I apprehend also that I could sooner negotiate a change with Sir Charles Burdett, the Collector of this Port, to whom this climate is as unfavourable as that of Boston is to me; provided he be willing to descend from a collector of a small port to the surveyor of a large one. I understood, from Mr. Cuming, that the incomes are pretty near equal. He has been in Boston, and the neighbourhood thereof, these three years, and I know is very desirous of remaining there longer than the Board may perhaps think proper. I could wish you to talk to him on the subject, if he be still with you. Mr. Hallowell, who knows him well, will inform you about him.

Captain Barbut I saw in Charlestown, and, as I soon found he was acquainted with our family, we became very intimate. He is a fine old soldier, and very candidly, and in the most friendly manner, made me himself the offer you mention; nay indeed, even to resign in my favour, for a very reasonable satisfaction; but I apprehend it would be very imprudent in me to give up my own certainty for his uncertainty; besides, you will please to observe, that your brother has all along proposed the West-Indies to me, and I am myself of opinion that not only the equable climate of the islands would be best for me, but that also the chances of vacancy or promotion are there much greater. Please to observe also that the climate of Pensacola is not reckoned comparable to this in any respect.

I think I have now answered your letter; but whether I have or not, I have no more time left. Your cask of shrub is completed; five gallons of rum and seven of juice, which is yet hardly ripe enough, but I hope will do. Adieu, and believe me to be, yours, most affectionately,

DANIEL CHAMIER, Jr.

October 4.

Postscript.—I am come to town again early this morning, to put the finishing hand to this letter, and to see your shrub well taken care of. Remember again that you are not to take this as a specimen of the best we can do, as the fruit is hardly ripe enough. I beg you to see that Mr. Savage sends me the clothes and books I wrote to him for a twelve month ago. I am surprised he did not embrace so fine an opportunity as the man-of-war. Several of my things are lost and destroyed in the house where I left them.

I once more beg the favour of you to send me a few dozens of Madeira wine, if to be had in Boston, at any reasonable price. It is the only article we are much in want of; I mean for the table. If that is not to be had, some good Fayal, or other white wine, might do. Lisbon, I suppose, is too sweet to be so proper as other wines.

Send an answer to Mr. Penman instantly. He would set to work for you, and procure a large quantity of fruit, if he were sure of your vessel.

It is astonishing to me how you manage with your pack-ets and men-of-war. We have now English intelligence above a month later than in your paper of the 15th September, viz: 10th July, by the July packet; and I suppose the August mail is at Charlestown by this time. You desire the things you wanted to be sent by the return of the man-of-war, and the Captain declares he is stationed here until April next. How did you make this mistake?

I will not fail to compliment the gentlemen you mention, when the opportunity offers. Should my friend, Captain Innes, come to Boston, I beg you to treat him as you would myself; I never met with a man in my life with whom I formed so close an intimacy in so short a time. The officers of the Sixty-Third Regiment can tell you who he is. He was last in their regiment.

Adieu again, yours, most affectionately, again,

DANIEL CHAMIER, Jr.

JOHN STUART.

PETER CHESTER, GOVERNOUR OF WEST-FLORIDA, TO GOVERNOUR TRYON.

Pensacola, November 18, 1775.

SIR: The Earl of Dartmouth having been pleased to signify to me, in a letter of the 5th of July last, His Majesty's royal wishes that I should afford every possible protection to such of his subjects in the Colonies in rebellion, as shall be too weak to resist the violences of the times, and too loyal to concur in the measures of those who have avowed and supported that rebellion, and are desirous of seeking an asylum in this Province; and that I should countenance and protect all such as may be induced, under the circumstances above stated, to retreat hither, and give them grants of land by way of bounty and encouragement, exempt from quit-rent for ten years; and that I should also give every possible encouragement in my power to the exportation of lumber from hence to the West-India Islands: I therefore thought proper to direct a Proclamation to issue, notifying and declaring this Royal bounty and encouragement; but I am afraid, from the circumstances of the times, that it will not be in my power to have it so generally dispersed and published as I could wish, we having no printing press in the Colony; and therefore I have taken the liberty to enclose a copy of this Proclamation to your Excellency, and to request that you will be pleased to direct that a number of copies of the same may be printed and published in your Government.

I have further to request, that your Excellency will be pleased to afford every assistance in your power to have these His Majesty's most gracious intentions carried into execution.

I am, with great regard and esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PETER CHESTER.

His Excellency William Tryon, Esq.

WEST-FLORIDA.

By His Excellency PETER CHESTER, Esq., Captain-General, Governour, and Commander-in-Chief, in and over His Majesty's said Province of WEST-FLORIDA, and the Territories depending thereon in AMERICA, Chancellor, Vice-Admiral, and Ordinary of the same, &c.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas His Majesty, by his royal instructions, dated at St. James's, the 3d day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-four, and in the fourteenth year of his reign, did think fit, with the advice of his Privy Council, to revoke and annul all the powers and authorities which, before that time, had been given by His Majesty to the Governours of this Province, for the laying out and passing grants of land within the same, and to direct and appoint certain rules and regulations, to be thenceforth strictly and punctually observed, for the future disposal, by publick sale, of such lands, tenements, and hereditaments as then were, or thereafter should be in His Majesty's power to dispose of, within this Province, in the manner by the said instructions particularly mentioned and directed:

And whereas, His Majesty has lately been most graciously pleased to signify his royal wishes that the Governour of this Province should afford every possible protection to such of his subjects in the Colonies in rebellion, as shall be too weak to resist the violences of the times, and too loyal to concur in the measures of those who have avowed and supported that rebellion, and are desirous of seeking an asylum in West-Florida; and to that end His Majesty has been pleased to direct that the execution of the instructions of the third day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-four, hereinbefore mentioned, should be suspended for the present within this Colony:

And whereas His Majesty has also been pleased to signify his further pleasure to the Governour of this Province, to give every possible encouragement to the exportation of lumber from this Colony to his Islands in the West-Indies: It is therefore hereby notified to all His Majesty's good and faithful subjects who may be induced, under the circumstances above stated, to seek a retreat in this Province, that the Governour of the said Province will afford them every possible protection and countenance in his power; and that they, upon their arrival in this Province, and applying to the Governour thereof in Council, for grants of land, shall obtain the same, exempt from quit-rents for ten years, under the following regulations, to wit: That one hundred acres of land will be granted to every such person, being master or mistress of a family, for himself and herself; and fifty acres for every white or black man, woman, or child, of which such person's family shall consist at the actual time of making the grant. And in case any such person, well-affected to the Constitution, applying to the said Governour in Council for grants of land, shall be desirous of taking up a larger quantity than the actual number of persons in his or her family would entitle such person to take up, that the said Governour in Council will grant to every such person or persons such further quantity of land as they may desire, not exceeding one thousand acres, over and above what they are entitled to by the number of persons in their respective families: Provided, It shall appear to the said Governour that they are in a condition and intention to cultivate the same: And provided also, That they, at the time of such application, do give good evidence to the Governour of the said Province of their real attachment to the Constitution, and of their non-concurrence in the rebellious proceedings in the other Colonies.

And it is hereby further notified, that the Governour of this Province will afford every possible encouragement to all His Majesty's good subjects who may think proper to be concerned in the exportation of lumber, and all other produce, from this Province to the West-Indies, and that he will grant his license to any such person or persons to cut wood and convert it into lumber, upon any part of His Majesty's lands within this Province: Provided always, that proper security be given, upon the exportation of any lumber, that the same shall be landed in some of the West-India Islands belonging to the King.

Given under my hand, and the Great Seal of His Majesty's said Province, in the Council Chamber at Pensacola, the eleventh day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, and in the sixteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

PETER CHESTER.

By His Excellency's command:

ALEXANDER MACULLOUGH, Dep. Sec'y.

God save the King.

ALLAN CAMERON TO DUNCAN CAMERON.

On board the ship William, Norfolk Harbour, }
in Virginia, November 11, 1775. }

DEAR SIR: Though I never had the pleasure of being personally acquainted with you, I am very sensible of the connexive narration of our predecessors, which induces me now to take the freedom of troubling you with this epistle. No doubt, sir, you would have heard of an unfortunate accident that had happened between one Mr. Cameron, of Mursirlock, and I, in the year '72, at which time I believe you was at Fort-William, in Lochaber.

From the above circumstances, I dare to say you will, and justly, conclude that I am a son of Mr. Cameron, of Erracht. Since my departure from that part of the world, I have been in both the French and British West-Indies, and over the most civilized parts of North-America, still in the character of a gentleman; so that good or bad luck has ordained a roving life for me hitherto. At the same time, I must beg leave to let you know, that I at last got pretty well settled to the southward; but, as I could not comply with the proposals of some of the demagogues of this unlucky rebellion, was obliged to push along. I arrived here a few days ago from St. Augustine, in East-Florida, which place I left with a view of proceeding from here, by the first opportunity, to Boston; and, as I always had an inclination of getting into the army, and still have, my intention was to have joined some marching regiment as a volunteer, till better would offer, of which I made no doubt, with what recommendation I had to some gentlemen there, in conjunction with your interest, which I flattered myself with. But Lord Dunmore, finding that I was upon a plan of this nature, insisted that I would be advised by him, and accept of a lieutenancy in a Provincial regiment that he is about raising, of which he himself is to be Colonel. I could not well but agree to his Lordship's proposals, and am to set out to-morrow morning for Detroit, along with one Major Connolly, who is made Lieutenant-Colonel of said regiment. We are very apprehensive of being intercepted by some of their d—d Committees. However, if we get out, and this undertaking is properly managed, I dare to say it will be of essential service to this Government, and perhaps to others.

I take the liberty of enclosing to you all the letters I had for different gentlemen there, and I beg you will be kind enough to deliver them to those who they are directed for. As I am mentioned in most of them, I suppose the gentlemen will naturally say something or other about me. In that case, I hope you will make such answers as you shall think proper. I imagine, in case General Gage is gone home, as is reported here, that you will deliver the letters directed for his Excellency to Lord Howe, who we understand is Commander-in-chief there at present.

I have not heard one word from my relations or friends at home, since my embarkation at Greenock, in '73; so that I do not know how the MacLones and my old father make it out. If you should be kind enough to write me, I would esteem it as a particular favour if you would let me know all the Highland news you have.

I am, sir, your most assured friend, and humble servant,
ALLAN CAMERON.

In case you do write me, direct as above, and to the care of Lord Dunmore, and he will forward it.

ALLAN CAMERON TO DANIEL CHAMIER.

On board the ship William, Norfolk Harbour, }
in Virginia, November 11, 1775. }

SIR: Enclosed you will find three letters, from Mr. Chamier, in East-Florida, which I promised him I would in person deliver to you, as also a keg of some kind of liquid; but finding it impossible for myself to proceed as I then intended, thought proper to send it by Captain Elkison, who I hope will deliver it safe to you.

I am, sir, your humble servant,

ALLAN CAMERON.

CAPTAIN MONTAGU TO ADMIRAL GRAVES.

Kingfisher, off Jamestown, Virginia, }
November 14, 1775. }

SIR: I beg leave to inform you that a tender of mine, cruising off Ocracoke, took, about the 1st instant, a brig, from Jamaica, laden with salt, rum, sugar, molasses, Irish linens, osnaburghs, woollen jackets, and shoes; and a sloop from Martinique, the Captain of which started his rum in the hold, and was found pumping it out; he also acknowledges to have thrown overboard a quantity of coffee, and about five hundred and seventy pounds of gunpowder.

Enclosed you have an invoice of the different articles in the brig.

And I am, sir, your very humble servant,

JAMES MONTAGU.

To Samuel Graves, Esq.

An Invoice of the brig Adonis's cargo.

2,000 bushels of salt; 46 casks of molasses; 37 casks of rum; 10 barrels of limes; 1 bag ginger; 65 pieces of Irish linen; 18 pieces of check linen; 24 bolts of osnaburghs; 53 flannel waistcoats; 93 pairs of shoes; 12 cruppers; 36 girths; 69 round hats.

JAMES MONTAGU.

November 7, 1775.

W. GRIFFIN TO GEORGE GIFFARINA.

Kingfisher, Jamestown, Virginia, }
November 14, 1775. }

DEAR SIR: This moment the Otter's tender arrived from Norfolk for our despatches for Boston, by which I take this opportunity to inform you that I am still in being; I cannot say in the land of the living, for I dare not show my nose here, being surrounded on each shore by Rebels, who narrowly watch our motions; but by the vigilance of our Captain we harass them much.

The day before our arrival in the river, about a thousand Rebels, from Williamsburgh, got over opposite to Jamestown, where they are now encamped, in order to march down to Norfolk, to attack our few troops there, and to punish the Norfolk people for declaring for Government. Had we but two complete regiments, I make not the least doubt of their reducing the refractory, and restoring peace and good order to this Province.

If there are any letters for me, or the rest of the officers, in your office, beg you will forward them; and at the same time I should esteem it as a favour if you would send me two tons of essence, with a few quires of writing paper, as I cannot get any here.

I am, with great regard, dear sir, your most obedient humble,

W. GRIFFIN.

To George Giffarina, Secretary to Admiral Graves.

P. S. Captain Montagu desires his compliments to you, and should be glad to know if the sloop he carried to Boston with cattle is condemned; if so, should be glad you would forward the money for the ship's company by this opportunity.

NEIL JAMIESON TO MESSRS. GLASSFORD, GORDON AND CO.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 17, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The annexed is a copy of my last, per the ship Isabella, which ship got to sea, I fancy, about the 23d ultimo. Since that time we have been in very great confusion here, very few people remaining in the town. I don't know a man who had any property left here but myself; but seeing every other person securing their effects, and going off themselves, I began to consider that, if any accident happened to your subjects in my hands, I might be censured; therefore, I bought a small vessel, for which I am to give three hundred pounds; I have put all the rum, sugar, &c., on board of her, and I have all my papers and other things of value lying ready packed up, in order to be put on board this vessel in half an hour, with myself, ready to haul off under the protection of the men-of-war, and proceed to sea, to some place of safety. It is a disagreeable situation to be in, to be lying all night in fear, with loaded arms at your bed-side, for fear of being alarmed or set upon.

Three days ago, our Governour received information of a body of men being assembled in arms at Kemp's Landing, ten miles from hence. His Excellency set off himself, with the most of the troops that are here, (about one hundred and fifty,) and from twenty to thirty volunteers. They came up with these unfortunate people, about two to three hundred of them. They immediately fired on the King's troops. I must be excused from giving you the particulars, as I had it from his Excellency himself, last night, (for he spent the evening here, with me.) In short, these poor people were immediately dispersed and put to the rout, with the loss of a few lives; not any of the King's troops suffered; a sailor, only, shot in the knee.

His Excellency's humanity appeared in a conspicuous light, as he could easily have surrounded and cut off the most of these poor people; but he was satisfied with taking some prisoners. The King's standard was hoisted immediately, and martial law declared. This brush was in Princess-Anne, the neighbouring County.

On the standard being hoisted, many people have come in. There were above five hundred people who came in and declared for Government, and took the oath. If I have time, you may have copy of the oath, &c.

Yesterday, about two o'clock, P. M., his Excellency marched in here, and the King's standard was hoisted, when the principal inhabitants (what few of them were in town) took the oaths to Government, and all in the town signed, to the amount of two hundred.

Several of the principal people concerned in the raising of the poor people in Princess-Anne County, have been taken prisoners, and are now on board the guard-ship. The poor people blame these men much for obliging them to take up arms. May the Lord in his infinite mercy put an end to these troubles, and bring relief to this distressed country.

There is no communication with the upper parts of the country just now, so that I cannot get Mr. Irving's state to send you; and you may easily judge of our present distressed condition, that I cannot apply to the making out of mine here, just now. It's said the principal part of the people up the country, in low circumstances, are for Government, if they were at liberty to declare their sentiments.

Lord Dunmore has applied to me to negotiate some money matters. I am not fond of this business; but if he urges it, and gives the necessary security, I suppose I must comply.

If I had time, I should have made out a scheme for a cargo of goods, to be shipped immediately, on receipt hereof; but, as I am not, at present, very fit to go on such business, I think you could be at no loss in sending out a cargo for this, to the amount of four thousand to five thousand pounds sterling; this is providing you have vessels convenient, of our own, and that you have a prospect of selling your tobacco to advantage, so far as to make you easy in circumstances. I presume there will be open trade at this place soon, although I do not expect tobacco can be shipped home for some considerable time, for the planters have not brought any to the warehouses; and if it was, it could not be brought here; but I think dry-goods will be sold here. What I would propose would be this: providing such a young man could be got that you had a good opinion of, and such as you could take for a partner in this business, in that case the goods might be bought up by him or his friends, and consigned to himself. But recommend him to apply to me, and be under my directions. The sales could go on in his name; and, as a plentiful supply would be ordered, which could come here in safety if the country is brought to order by the time they arrive, then we could supply our upper stores from thence. I could purchase the goods here from the young man that was sent out. I have consulted Lord Dunmore on this head, and will have his interest and assistance, if necessary.

From what I have said, you'll know my meaning. The worst that can happen will be ordering the vessel with the goods for the West-Indies, providing it is not prudent to open them here; but by the time these goods arrive, I think there will be no danger. Indeed, were our circumstances easy at home, you might go the length of ten thousand pounds sterling value in goods. You would be at no loss for a scheme for a summer cargo; all kinds of linens, none above three shillings sterling per yard; some loaf sugar, value about five hundred pounds sterling of it; nails, from four-penny to twenty-penny; paints; linseed-oil. There ought to be one thousand pounds sterling value of osnaburghs of different kinds.

I think, by the time they arrive, there may be a chance of being able to supply the upper stores. By this, you see, your having the schemes for the upper stores in your hands, you'll not be at any great loss in sending out such goods as are there ordered, especially such as may sell in the West-Indies, in case matters are not cleverly settled here. But, by what I have seen already, I have a notion there will be a good chance of selling goods by the time they arrive.

By the enclosed papers you'll easily see what may be expected. There are above one thousand people already signed, in three days, from this and Princess-Anne County. I think I shall have no reflections cast on me by any of the country gentlemen, although my not going into violent measures, as many of our countrymen have, I find a party of them here is formed against me. His Excellency knows my reasons, and such as may be deemed prudent, because I informed him I act agreeably to your instructions. I think I stand well with his Lordship, and hope to render good offices to the distressed; this will be my study. His Lordship is a humane, good man, and will use as much lenity as in prudence may be necessary for the unfortunate.

I think you might pretend to order the goods for Antigua, for fear others may choose to ship as soon as you. Be pleased to order the vessel that belongs to ourselves, if they get a load of tobacco for France, to load great salt, providing you should soon hear of an accommodation being expected. Indeed, if a load of tobacco to any part of the Channel was got, I think you might order, in their return, to call at Liverpool and load salt; half of each cargo should be in good sacks.

On the whole, you'll be pleased to judge for yourselves. If we can go through with this scheme, I think it will do. I refer you to the papers enclosed for what may be expected soon.

I am for self & Co., gentlemen, yours, &c.,

NEIL JAMIESON.

P. S. Do not forget an assortment of sail-cloth, and twine; also, a few hogsheads of potatoes, if to be got on tolerable terms. Might fill up tierces with potatoes from Liverpool, provided it's not too late in the season.

N. J.

December 24, 1775.

SIRS: I refer you to the above letter, which I hope will get safe to your hands. This letter goes under cover with some others, to Mr. James Anderson, at Boston, by a man-of-war's tender. I have sent, by this opportunity, to Mr. Anderson, Lord Dunmore's draft on the Commander-in-chief, at Boston, for five thousand pounds sterling, payable in a bill or tender, at three days sight. Mr. Anderson is to present the draft, and to take one bill from the Commander-in-chief, favour of Edward and René Payne, Esquires, London, for four thousand five hundred pounds sterling. As the bill will be at three days sight, it would be a pity to lose any time in having it presented and paid. They will advise you of this so soon as they receive it; so you'll order the disposal of it in such manner as you think proper. The other five hundred pounds sterling is to be laid out in goods for His Majesty, since I'm still of opinion the goods should be ordered out immediately on receipt of the above letter. By the time they receive them they will probably be in great demand, as there must be a number of troops and ships of war here by the time they arrive. But, at any rate, if any thing is to be done, it must be with the greatest despatch possible you can.

Send no strong beer. A few hogsheads porter would do, if good, and warranted sound. I have wrote Messrs. Paynes fully, and shall also write you some hereafter. Be pleased to take notice that there should be a quantity of shoes ordered with the goods. By mine of the 13th August, I advised you leather work of any kind would not do; but, as I find there will be a number of troops here, I think shoes of all kinds will be a good article. As a regiment of Negroes is raising here, coarse shoes, large and good, will be wanted.

I am, for self & Co., your obedient humble servant,
NEIL JAMIESON.

Messrs. Glassford, Gordon, Monteath & Co., Glasgow.

WALTER HATTON TO NATHANIEL COFFIN.

Norfolk, November 21, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I herewith transmit my accounts and lists of shipping for the three last quarters, which I would rather have done at the close of each quarter, but had not an opportunity of so doing; and in these lawless times I think it would have been very unsafe to trust letters by indifferent hands, as it is now, and has been some time past, an established rule to break open all letters either going from or directed to any officer in the service of the Crown. It was with difficulty, I will assure you, that I now am able to transmit them, as my going from Accomack to this place was opposed by upwards of three hundred people of the County, who will not allow any vessel to come to this place, for fear of supplying the ships of war and other troops with provision; and I will assure you that I am doubtful whether I may not be obliged to take a shelter in some of the ships, or at least on this side the bay, as I expect, during the confused usurpation of power, that an officer of the customs, if he only acts with spirit, or as his duty and oath binds him, that he will immediately fall under the lash of the damned Committees, &c., who, on such occasion, will show them as little mercy as they themselves may expect in the future world; and as I have on sundry occasions opposed their measures, and strove to convince the deluded people of their error, I have, by that means, rendered myself obnoxious to them, and no doubt if ever in their power, shall have their whole weight of vengeance laid on me. But while I am acting in favour of Government and my own steady principles, I make no doubt but I shall be able, with half their number, to meet them in the field; as I hold it to be an established point that those who fight, or take up arms against Government, are always in dread, and fight to great disadvantage, knowing that they are fighting against their sovereign, by whom alone they can hope for assistance against their real enemies, and who, out of his grace and favour, has offered them protection from all their foes, and who would be glad to see them return to their duty, and embrace the proffered grace. They know that the halter is round their necks, and if taken, (which they can do no less than expect,) that they are liable to be trussed up without any delay. Whilst the favourers of Government know the goodness of their cause, and the support that may at any time be given from the friends thereof, to assist them against all enemies, they also, no doubt, are assured that if they fall in so glorious and good cause, that they have done their duty, and may expect their reward in a future life.

You will be glad, no doubt, to hear out of so many enemies to Government that there are some who have courage, even in these hazardous times, to confess the lenient measures used by those in power, and who have sworn allegiance to their lawful sovereign; amongst which the inhabitants of Norfolk, Town and County, Portsmouth, Nansemond, &c., stand recorded to, I believe, three thousand and upwards. The late engagement at Kemp's, I believe, has been cause sufficient for numbers who have been constrained, to throw off the yoke and boldly to stand forth and confess themselves friends of Government; numbers having been forced to take up arms against their will, as has been proved since the late action. God send a happy conclusion to this bad beginning. How long I may stay among them here is uncertain, as I have a design to remove, and have a promise from those in power for a better place; I have reason to expect somewhat nearer you than this. My letters please direct to the care of Mr. Sproule, Norfolk, (or Gosport rather,) who will forward them; and what money you may have of mine in your hands, be pleased to send per bill of exchange. Be pleased to pay Mr. Hulton his account herewith transmitted, and let me hear all the news you conveniently can; and believe me to be, dear sir, your very humble servant.

WALTER HATTON.

Nathaniel Coffin, Esq., Receiver-General and Cashier of His Majesty's Customs, Boston.

LORD DUNMORE TO ADMIRAL GRAVES.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 24, 1775.

SIR: The bearer, Colonel Kirkland, begs to be introduced to you, and I do it with great pleasure, as I am sure you will be happy to be acquainted with an American so truly well disposed to His Majesty's service. You will find him a man of real worth and spirit; for particulars I refer you to the General. Our little squadron here goes on as well as you can expect; but as Captain Squire writes to you by this opportunity, I shall not trouble you any further than returning you thanks for the kind reception you was so good as to give to Major Connolly, and to assure you that I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

DUNMORE.

To Admiral Graves.

P. S. I have now only to request you, if possible, to let one of the line-of-battle ships winter here, and to despatch the sloop Betsey as soon as possible.

NEIL JAMIESON TO JAMES ANDERSON.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 28, 1775.

SIR: Enclosed you will find Lord Dunmore's draft, in our favour, on the Commander-in-chief, at Boston, payable three days sight, for five thousand pounds sterling. You will be pleased to present the same for payment. You see it is payable in a bill of exchange on London, at three days sight. You will be pleased to order one bill to be made out for forty-five hundred pounds sterling. Let there be four copies of it, and let the bills be made payable to Edward & René Payne, Esqrs., of London. You will find here enclosed two letters for Messrs. Paynes, left open; be pleased to enclose the bills, one copy in each of these letters, and to be forwarded by the first ships to Britain; but if no immediate opportunity from Boston to Great Britain, in that case you will be pleased to put the letter for Messrs. Paynes, under your own cover, and send the same to Hugh and Alexander Wallace, Esqrs., of New-York, and tell them it is by my desire they should forward the same by the packet, or any other opportunity that may soon after offer. You will understand that my wish is, how soon these bills may be forwarded to the gentlemen in London. The five hundred pounds sterling remaining, you will be pleased to lay out with you, in such goods as you will find here ordered; on which you will charge your usual commission. One of the copies of the bill, for forty-five hundred pounds, you will be pleased to forward to me, under cover, by the same opportunity.

I am, for self and company, sir, your obedient humble servant,

NEIL JAMIESON.

December 2, 1775.

The vessel that carries this will bring the goods. With this will also be a letter for my partners; which please forward by first opportunity for Great Britain. I have drawn on you of this date, in favour of Captain Kirkland, at sight, for twenty Spanish milled dollars.

Yours,

N. J.

Since writing the above I have been considering if there is any immediate opportunity to Glasgow. You may take the bills payable to my partners in Glasgow, Messrs. Glassford, Gordon, Monteath & Co., and put the bills under your own cover; but if the opportunity offer for London, or by the packet, you will send the bills to the Messrs. Paynes, of London.

N. J.

If Mr. Anderson is out of the way, Mr. Nath. Coffin is desired to do the needful.

N. J.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 24, 1775.

NEIL JAMIESON TO EDWARD AND RENE PAYNE.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 28, 1775.

With this you will find the Commander-in-chief at Boston (N. E.) his draft in your favour, at three days sight, for four thousand five hundred pounds sterling. Immediately on its being accepted, be pleased to advise my partners, Messrs. Glassford, Gordon, Monteath & Co., of the same, and be pleased to dispose of the moneys agreeably to their directions.

I am, for self and company, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

NEIL JAMIESON.

Edward and René Payne, Esqrs., London.

NEIL JAMIESON TO EDWARD AND RENE PAYNE.

Norfolk, Virginia, November 20, 1775.

SIR: I wrote you the 29th June, which I make no doubt but you have received. I have not been forgetful in applying to Messrs. McAllister & Co., for the debt due you, but to no purpose. Indeed, the distracted situation we are at present in, has put a stop to all kinds of business, nor is there any collecting of debts; and if there is not an end soon put to this very unfortunate dispute, I am afraid there will be great danger in recovering the subject in debts, in the hands of the people up the country; for many people who were lately in opulent circumstances, I am much afraid will very soon be in a distressed situation, and I am much afraid will not be able to pay any debts for some considerable time to come. It is owing to the above cause that these people have not been able to make any payments at present. You must therefore rest satisfied for the present. They are honest men, and I am well assured they will do every thing in their power to discharge this debt as soon as they possibly can.

I had proposed, some time ago, to have returned to Great Britain, and fixed at home; but these troubles render my stay here necessary for some time longer, to see to save as much of our subject as possibly I can. This being the case, and to make up for the great loss we must lay our accounts of meeting with on account of these troubles, as it is likely there will be several ships of war continued here on the station, and that there may be several contracts to make in London for the supplying of the navy and army, should any of the contractors be in want of an agent here, to do their business, I would be much obliged to you if you would recommend them to our house. We have it in our power to do their business on the best terms, as much so as any house in this Colony.

I have only time to give you this hint at this present time. In a few days I will write you more fully.

I am, for self and company, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

NEIL JAMIESON.

Edward and René Payne, Esqrs., London.

CAPTAIN LESLIE TO GENERAL GAGE.

Norfolk, Virginia, December 1, 1775.

SIR: The 28th of last month, the Rebels attacked the wooden fort mentioned in my former letter of the 6th of November, built to secure the pass at the Great-Bridge, and have continued firing small-arms at it in an irregular way ever since, without any other consequence than that of slightly wounding two or three of our men. The fort is defended by Lieutenant Wallace, one sergeant, one corporal, and twenty-five private men of the Fourteenth Regiment, some volunteers, and a good many negroes. Two four-pounders were sent to them yesterday; therefore I take it for granted that the Rebels will not easily get possession of that post unless they bring artillery against it; of which, by all accounts, they have not any at present.

I do myself the honour to enclose your Excellency this month's return of my detachment, as also a letter from Lord Dunmore, in answer to an application I made to his Lordship for a passage for the non-commissioned officers of the two companies of the Fourteenth Regiment, now at Boston.

The officers here, of the Fourteenth Regiment, having requested that I would apply to your Excellency for their bat and forage money, I beg you will be so good as to give directions for the payment of it as soon as convenient.

As a number of women and children belong to my detachment, and there is no method of providing for them but from the King's stores, I hope you will be pleased to grant them the same indulgence here as I am told they have at Boston.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

SAMUEL LESLIE,

Captain Fourteenth Regiment Infantry.

LORD DUNMORE TO CAPTAIN LESLIE.

On board the Dunmore, off Norfolk, }
December 2, 1775.

SIR: I have at your request just now made inquiry if there was room for the non-commissioned officers of the Fourteenth to go to Boston in the sloop Betsy; but am informed it is not possible for them to go in her, as she is already too much crowded; which I hope will be attended with no inconvenience, as I expect General Hove will order the remaining part of the regiment to join you here.

I am, sir, your most obedient humble servant,

DUNMORE.

N. B. Captain Blackett died October 14, 1775.

SAMUEL LESLIE,

Captain Fourteenth Regiment Infantry.

CAPTAIN FORDICE TO CAPTAIN URQUHART.

Norfolk, December 1, 1775.

DEAR URQUHART: Thanks to the bar of St. Augustine, for allowing me to receive your last letter, two days before the St. Lawrence arrived. I had embarked for this Colony, with all the Grenadiers, and as many men from the battalion as made up a detachment of sixty, including non-commissions. We sailed the 7th of October, and got here the 20th. Janathan, with the small remains of the regiment, are to follow when relieved by the three companies of the 16th, from Pensacola. From what you wrote me there must most certainly be some unaccountable mistake with respect to our regiment. One would conceive that it never could be intended that we should be divided in the way we have been for some time past. I brought the sergeants and corporals of your two companies with me; and it was intended they should have gone by this sloop, but Lord Dunmore has acquainted Captain Leslie that he cannot give them a passage; the true cause is that he does not at present choose to part with so many good men.

We have been in great hopes of troops coming here, either from England or your army. What a pity it is that this Colony should have been so much neglected; a couple of thousand men would settle every thing here in the course of this winter. There have been no accounts from England or Boston since I came here. I enclose you a newspaper, which contains some account of our proceedings here. You will see by it that we have had a little brush with the Rebels, who behaved in a most dastardly manner. Redfern was the only man hurt; he received a shot in the knee-pan, which will render him unfit for service. A corps of about seven hundred men has been sent from Williamsburgh, in order to take possession of this place, which they are most exceedingly desirous of doing. We are throwing up some intrenchments, so that they won't find it quite so easy as they expected. They have been for some days within about ten miles of us, but their farther progress has been hitherto stopped by a fort constructed by Batut, at a bridge where they must pass. Their riflemen keep up an almost constant fire, but hitherto without much success, having only wounded Gardner, of the General's company. Wallace commands the fort; he has twenty-five of our regiment, a few militia, and some negroes. The negroes who had deserted from the Rebels to the fort, say that many of them have been killed and wounded by our people. Would to God we had a few more men, and I think we should give a very good account of these rascals; but we are at present a very handful. The place is entirely deserted by the natives; only a few Scotch remain, who to a man are well-affected to Government, and are now all embodied, as the town of Norfolk militia, and do their duty with great spirit; one of them you may recollect at Boston some years ago, his name John Hunter, an active man, and aid-de-camp to Lord Dunmore.

I have forgot all this time to condole with you on the death of your good friend, and quondam Captain, Blackett, who drank his last dram, and resigned his breath on the 12th of October. They say he was a most miserable object before he died. I think you have been in tolerable good fortune this year to get quit of him, and Paton so soon. I have wrote to Stanton to apply for our bat and forage money. We are most certainly entitled to it, as well as the other troops. Lend a helping hand in this business; a few joes would by no means be inconvenient for some of your friends. I have likewise desired from him particular information concerning the provisions for men, women, and children.

I see by the Williamsburgh papers that the Thirty-Second and some other regiments have been drafted, and the officers sent home. It must really be a most distressing matter to be robbed of all the men that one knows, and has been at so much pains with. I am very thankful that we have been so fortunate as to avoid that dreadful fate. I hope my very worthy friend Symes was well when he left you. Did Brown go home with the regiment, or remain with General Grant? If he is with you, remember me to him.

We have a report that General Gage is gone home, and that General Howe succeeds him. If that is true, it will make a terrible change in your staff; though I hope it may not by any means affect you. I have enclosed in a packet to you a great many letters which I brought from St. Augustine, which I will be obliged to you if you will take the trouble of sending. All your friends in East-Florida desired to be remembered to you. The parson had some thoughts of coming with me in his way to Boston, but Governour Tonyn would not give him leave. My best wishes attend Mrs. Urquhart. By what I have heard, you have, I presume, by this time, a pledge of your mutual love. I beg my compliments to Colonel Leslie, Major Musgrave, and my other friends of the Sixty-Fourth. All here join in compliments and best wishes to you. And I remain with great truth, dear Urquhart, your sincere friend, &c., C. FORDICE.

Captain Urquhart.

CAPTAIN SQUIRE TO ADMIRAL GRAVES.

Otter sloop, off Norfolk, December 2, 1775.

SIR: My Lord Dunmore having a quantity of corn, which he understands would be of great service to, and was much wanted for, the cavalry to the northward, and begged I would send some men in a sloop to carry it to Boston, I have, therefore, for the good of the service, sent a petty officer and six of my people in the Betsey sloop for that purpose. In my last to you of the 13th September, by the Mercury, I informed you that the people of this part of Virginia seemed to be peaceably inclined, but am sorry to say, that for these two months past, they have taken every method to annoy the King's ships, boats, and troops, wherever they see them, firing on them on all occasions. I some time since went in a tender, with three other tenders in company, in order to prevent their sinking vessels in the mouth of Hampton harbour, when they fired on me, and killed two of my people, and wounded two more; and from the imprudence of the officer on board, a small tender running too near the town, their musketry was so great, that several of my people swam from her to me, and the Rebels took the vessel with four men, which men they have since returned. On the 14th of last month, His Excellency Lord Dunmore, and the detachment of the Fourteenth Regiment, embarked in boats from Portsmouth, and went up a river near a place called the Great-Bridge, intending to dislodge some men that he heard were there, whose intention was to stop provisions coming to Norfolk. His Lordship from thence, in his march to Norfolk, was attacked and fired on by some Rebels, whom he soon drove off, after killing one, and taking seven or eight prisoners, with a Colonel Lawson and Colonel Hutchins, men who have been very busy in corrupting the minds of the poor deluded people of this Colony. His Lordship then issued his proclamation, (a copy of which I send you.) As Mr. John Atkinson, the petty officer that brings you this, was a volunteer with Lord Dunmore, on the expedition, I refer you to him for more particulars. We have now a small fort at the Great-Bridge, which the Rebels must pass to come to Norfolk. We have destroyed the bridge, and for these ten days past, have kept a body of near nine hundred Rebels from passing. We have likewise intrenched the town of Norfolk, and I have great reason to suppose, and hope from their being such cowards, and cold weather coming on, that they will return to their respective homes, and we shall be quiet the remainder of the winter. I am securing all the provisions I can for the King's ships, and I hope to get a sufficient quantity until we can have a supply from the northward. I must hope, sir, when in your power to spare a victualler, you will send one.

I, by desire, have sent two prisoners taken by his Lordship; no doubt but his Lordship has sent their accusations. Two other prisoners taken by Captain Montagu, the one Captain Dean, whose accusation I here enclose, the other a Captain Porter, for bringing powder and shot for the Rebels, and in sight of the King's tenders throwing it overboard. Enclosed I send you the state and condition of His Majesty's sloops Otter and Kingfisher, with the demands for stores from the officers of the said sloops.

I am well convinced that had we a few more troops, and one or two more ships, that the Rebels in these parts would be very soon quieted.

I am also to acquaint you, that from the boatswain of the Otter's frequently behaving in a tyrannical manner to the ship's company, often insolent to the officers, as well as neglecting his duty, I have thought proper to suspend him, and have given an acting order to one of my seamen. Enclosed I send you three letters, which I received from St. Augustine, to be forwarded to you; and am, sir, with assurances that all that can be done for the good of the King's service shall be done by, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

W. C. SQUIRE.

DOCTOR FRANKLIN TO M. DUMAS.

Philadelphia, December 19, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I received your several favours of May 18th, June 30th, and July 8th, by Messrs. Vaillant and Pochard, whom if I could serve upon your recommendation, it would give me great pleasure. Their total want of English is at present an obstruction to their getting any employment among us, but I hope they will soon obtain some knowledge of it. This is a good country for artificers or farmers, but gentlemen of mere science in les belles lettres, cannot so easily subsist here, there being little demand for their assistance among an industrious people, who, as yet, have not much leisure for studies of that kind.

I am much obliged by the kind present you have made us of your edition of Vattel. It came to us in good season, when the circumstances of a rising State make it necessary frequently to consult the law of nations. Accordingly, that copy which I kept (after depositing one in our own publick library here, and sending the other to the College of Massachusetts-Bay, as you directed) has been continually in the hands of the members of our Congress now sitting, who are much pleased with your notes and preface, and have entertained a high and just esteem for their author. Your manuscript "Idée sur le Gouvernement et la Royauté," is also well relished, and may, in time, have its effect. I thank you, likewise, for the other smaller pieces, which accompanied Vattel. "Le Court Expose de ce qui est passé entre la Cour Britanique et les Colonies," &c., being a very concise and clear statement of facts, will be reprinted here, for the use of our new friends in Canada. The translations of the proceedings of our Congress are very acceptable. I send you herewith what of them has been further published here, together with a few newspapers, containing accounts of some of the successes Providence has favoured us with.

We are threatened from England with a very powerful force, to come next year against us. We are making all the provision in our power here to prevent that force, and we hope we shall be able to defend ourselves. But as the events of war are always uncertain, possibly after another campaign, we may find it necessary to ask aid of some foreign power. It gives us great pleasure to learn from you, that "all Europe wishes us the best success in the maintenance of our liberty." But we wish to know whether any one of them, from principles of humanity, is disposed magnanimously to step in for the relief of an oppressed people; or whether if, as it seems likely to happen, we should be obliged to break off all connection with Britain, and declare ourselves an independent people, there is any state or power in Europe, who would be willing to enter into an alliance with us for the benefit of our commerce, which amounted, before the war, to nearly seven millions sterling per annum, and must continually increase, as our people increase most rapidly. Confiding, my dear friend, in your good will to us, and our cause, and in your sagacity and abilities for business, the Committee of Congress appointed for the purpose of establishing and conducting a correspondence with our friends in Europe, of which Committee I have the honour to be a member, have directed me to request of you, that as you are situated at the Hague, where ambassadors from all the courts reside, you would make use of the opportunity, which that situation affords you, of discovering if possible, the disposition of the several courts with respect to such assistance or alliance, if we should apply for the one, or propose for the other. As it may possibly be necessary, in particular instances, that you should, for this purpose, confer directly with some great Ministers, and show them this letter, as your credential, we only recommend it to your discretion, that you proceed therein with such caution, as to keep the same from the knowledge of the English Ambassador, and prevent any public appearance, at present, of your being employed in any such business, as thereby, we imagine, many inconveniences may be avoided, and your means of rendering us service increased.

That you may be better able to answer some questions, which will probably be put to you, concerning our present situation, we inform you, that the whole Continent is very firmly united, the party for the measures of the British Ministry, being very small, and much dispersed; that we have had on foot the last campaign an army of near twenty-five thousand men, wherewith we have been able, not only to block up the King's army in Boston, but to spare considerable detachments for the invasion of Canada, where we have met with great success, as the printed papers sent herewith will inform you, and have now reason to expect that whole Province may be soon in our possession; that we purpose greatly to increase our force for the ensuing year, and thereby, we hope, with the assistance of well disciplined militia, to be able to defend our coast, notwithstanding its great extent; that we have already a small squadron of armed vessels to protect our coasting trade, which have had some success in taking several of the enemy's cruisers, and some of their transport vessels and store-ships. This little naval force we are about to augment, and expect it may be more considerable in the next summer.

We have hitherto applied to no foreign power. We are using the utmost industry in endeavouring to made saltpetre, and with daily increasing success. Our artificers are also every where busy in fabricating small arms, casting cannon, &c. Yet both arms and ammunition are much wanted. Any merchants who would venture to send ships laden with those articles, might make great profit, such is the demand in every Colony, and such generous prices are and will be given; of which, and of the manner of conducting such a voyage, the bearer, Mr. Story, can more fully inform you. And whoever brings in those articles is allowed to carry off the value in provisions to our West-Indies, where they will fetch a very high price, the general exportation from North-America being stopped. This you will see more particularly in a printed resolution of the Congress.

We are in great want of good engineers, and wish you could engage and send us two able ones, in time for the next campaign, one acquainted with field service, sieges, &c., and the other with fortifying sea-ports. They will, if well recommended, be made very welcome, and have honourable appointments, besides the expenses of their voyage hither, in which Mr. Story can also advise them. As what we now request of you, besides taking up your time, may put you to some expense, we send you, for the present, enclosed, a bill for one hundred pounds sterling, to defray such expenses, and desire you to be assured, that your services will be considered, and honourably rewarded by the Congress.

We desire, also, that you would take the trouble of receiving from Arthur Lee, agent for the Congress in England, such letters as may be sent by him to your care, and of forwarding them to us with your despatches. When you have occasion to write to him, to inform him of any thing, which it may be of importance our friends there should be acquainted with, please to send your letters to him under cover, directed to Mr. Alderman Lee, merchant on Tower-Hill, London, and do not send it by post, but by some trusty shipper, or other prudent person, who will deliver it with his own hands. And when you send to us, if you have not a direct safe opportunity, we recommend sending by way of St. Eustatia, to the care of Messrs. Robert and Cornelius Stephens, merchants there, who will forward your despatches to me.

With sincere and great esteem, and respect, I am, &c.,
B. FRANKLIN.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON TO LORD STIRLING.

Philadelphia, December 19, 1775.

MY LORD: I enclose you Dr. Barnet's commission, as Surgeon of the First Jersey Battalion. The pay is twenty-five dollars per month; and I am satisfied the Congress mean to allow for the chest of medicine; but I intend to reduce it to a certainty, as there is an opening to-day on such a subject.

Mr. Halsted is unanimously voted Quartermaster of your battalion, by the Committee for receiving the recommendations to offices, and reported this day; but he must first be confirmed by Congress, which I will push as soon as possible, and then transmit you his commission.

I cannot imagine that Congress would give any directions respecting the arms you mention, though I really believe if they be got without much disturbance, it would be concurred in by that Assembly, from the principle of necessity; and last night I took the opinion of the above Committee, who were unanimous in that sentiment. But I would not choose to be mentioned in the case, nor to have it done under colour of that Committee, unless you should be complained of to Congress for the trespass; and then, as far as this letter would be your instructor, I give you free liberty to make use of it for that purpose.

I am, my lord, your most humble servant,

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

LORD STIRLING TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 23, 1775.]

Elizabethtown, December 19, 1775.

SIR: In consequence of the new orders published by Captain Parker, of the Phenix, since his arrival at New-York, all vessels coming from foreign countries to that port receive, on the coast, orders to come into this Province, and if possible to this place; several are already arrived in Prince's Bay, and in the Sound between this and Amboy. Some of the owners of them being apprehensive that the men-of-war at New-York may send their cutters and boats to seize and carry them off, have applied to me for protection. The saving a vast useful property from falling into the hands of our enemies must be right. And, although I have no orders for it, I shall give them every protection in my power, until I receive orders to the contrary from the Congress.

His Honour will most probably draw some of the tenders and smallest ships of war to the avenues of New-Jersey, on this side. It will therefore be highly necessary to have an immediate supply of ammunition at this place, and, if possible, half a dozen field-pieces, with some round, grape, and canister shot; we might then hope to make them quit any station in harbour, and the season of the year will soon make them quit every other station.

This new order of Captain Parker's is in direct violation of act of Parliament, alarms and rouses the moderate, and sorely vexes the Tories of New-York; their being obliged to seek protection here, and in proportion as their property will be lodged among us, their pulses will beat, and their conduct will be regulated. If this circumstance be properly managed, I am in hopes it will turn out a very fortunate one.

It just occurs to me that it may be very proper that there be an order of Congress to receive, for the Continental use, all the ammunition imported in the vessels that may arrive in this Province, on paying a moderate price for it; some small quantity may be in each, and every little helps.

This moment the party I sent out at the request of the Committee of this County, are, after a march of above fifty miles, returned with their prisoners, whom I shall keep for the examination of the Committee.

With the highest regard and esteem, I have the honour to be your very humble servant,

STIRLING.

To the Hon. John Hancock.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the General Committee for the City and County of New-York, on Tuesday, December 19, 1775, Present: John Broome, Chairman,

Mr. P.P. Van Zandt,	Mr. Abrahams,	Mr. Totten,
Colonel Lasher,	Mr. Blecker,	Mr. Brinkerhoff,
Mr. Moore,	Mr. Van Voorhies,	Mr. Berrien,
Mr. Abeel,	Mr. Denning,	Mr. Phenix,
Captain Pell,	Colonel Lott,	Mr. Anthony,
Mr. Burling,	Captain Johnson,	Mr. Dennis,
Mr. Ramsay,	Colonel Hyer,	Mr. Robert Ray,
Mr. Sharpe,	Mr. Ray, Jun.,	Mr. Bassett,
Mr. Roosevelt,	Maj. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Banker,
Mr. Breasted,	Mr. Clopper,	Mr. Mulligan,
Mr. Gilbert,	Mr. Duyckinck,	Mr. Roome,
Captain Anthony,	Captain Janeway,

The Chairman having informed the Committee that there were several demands upon this Board, which have been due some considerable time, requesting they would take them under consideration, and concert some means for discharging the same,

Ordered, That the Chairman be authorized to apply to the Provincial Congress for the loan of one thousand Pounds, subject to no interest, and to give a receipt for the same, and to engage that the same shall be repaid out of the first moneys that shall be raised by way of a tax in this City and County, for defraying the necessary charges incurred for the publick services, in defending our rights and privileges.

Resolved, That Mr. Robert Ray be, and hereby is appointed Treasurer to this Board.

Resolved, That Daniel Phenix, Anthony L. Blecker, and William Denning, or any two of them, be, and they are hereby appointed Auditors, for the adjusting and settling such accounts as now are, or hereafter may become due from this Board; and that the Treasurer pay no accounts but such as are allowed of by the said Auditors, or any two of them.

It being suggested to the Committee that a sloop, the property of Messrs. Mercer & Schenck, was loading with Provisions, &c.,

Ordered, That Mr. Brinkerhoff and Mr. Dennis be a sub-Committee to wait on Messrs. Mercer & Schenck, and know the purpose for which the said sloop is loading, and report the same immediately.

The sub-Committee appointed for the above purpose returned, and reported, that Mr. Mercer, one of the owners of the said sloop, informed them that she was bound to Brunswick, and from thence to sea; and that he had obtained a Permit from the New-Jersey Provincial Congress for that purpose.

Ordered, That Mr. Mercer, within a convenient time, produce to this Committee a Certificate from the New-Jersey Provincial Congress, of his having exported the said Provisions by virtue of a Permit from the said Congress.

Whereas sundry persons have been taken and confined for a considerable time, for want of an immediate hearing: To the intent, therefore, that no person may be taken and detained in custody without a just cause,

Ordered, That Mr. Totten, Mr. Gilbert, John Anthony, Captain Pell, and Theophilus Anthony, or any two of them, be a sub-Committee to inquire into the offence of such person or persons that may hereafter be taken and confined, who are hereby authorized to discharge him or them, unless such circumstances shall appear as may render their further confinement necessary.

Michael Albert, being charged before this Committee of having enlisted men for the Ministerial army, was brought before the Committee; and upon his examination, says he was intoxicated when he made the declaration for which he was apprehended.

Edward White and John Moore, charged of the like offence, were also brought before the Committee, who declared their innocence in the facts alledged against them.

No sufficient proof appearing to the Committee to convict the above persons of the facts laid to their charge, Ordered, That they be discharged.

John Blackler having been confined for some time at the Upper Barracks, was this evening examined before this Board. It appeared, by his confession, that he had been several weeks on board the Asia, man-of-war; that his intention was to procure a passage to Boston, and from thence to England, and for that purpose requested the assistance of Governour Tryon; that he did not intend to enter into the Ministerial army, unless he could get the office he formerly had, (a Lieutenant,) which was a thousand to one against him; that, upon the whole, it was his intention to go to England by the way of Boston, as he could not readily get a passage from this place; that he did not desire a commission in the army, (meaning the Ministerial army;) that he took refuge on board the man-of-war to avoid being taken and confined for debt.

The Committee, taking into consideration Mr. Blackler's case, are of opinion that the law passed by the late Provincial Congress for this Colony, does not authorize this Board to determine thereon.

The question being then put, whether Blackler be remanded to the Guard-House, and a state of his case be represented to the Provincial Congress? carried unanimously in the affirmative.

Ordered, therefore, That the Chairman represent a state of Mr. Blackler's case to the Provincial Congress.

Ordered, That this Committee, for the future, be warned to meet at five o'clock.

GOVERNOUR COOKE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Providence, December 19, 1775.

SIR: I have your Excellency's letter of the 17th, which I have laid before the General Committee. Should the force sailed from Boston be destined for Rhode-Island, I tremble for the consequences, as the Colony, in its present exhausted state, cannot, without assistance, defend the island. At their unanimous request, I apply to your Excellency for a detachment from the Continental Army of one regiment, to be stationed upon Rhode-Island, and that you would please to appoint a General officer to take the command of the whole force there. They also desired me to inform you that General Lee will be very acceptable to the Colony, and to request that the General officer who may be appointed, may set out immediately to take the command of the troops upon the island, and put it in the best posture of defence. We have at Head-quarters about two hundred and fifty men, and shall immediately place on there about four hundred more, and hold as many more in readiness as possible. I need not point out to you the importance of the island, and the inability of the Colony.

I am, in great haste, your very humble servant,
NICHOLAS COOKE.

His Excellency General Washington.

Captain Wallace hath hinted to some of his friends that he expects a reinforcement daily.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Cambridge, December 19, 1775.

SIR: Since writing you of this date, the letter herewith enclosed was put into my hands by Mr. Eustace, who is in part the subject of it. Thinking it necessary that you should be acquainted with the contents, and a safe opportunity offering by Mr. Irwin, I do myself the honour of enclosing it, to show more fully to Congress the views of Lord Dunmore.

I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the President of Congress.

LORD DUNMORE TO GENERAL HOWE.

On board the Dunmore, off Norfolk, Virginia, }
December 2, 1775. }

DEAR GENERAL: The bearer of this, whose name is John Eustace, is the son of an unfortunate widow gentleman in this country. I have had the charge of him for these three years past, and have given him the best education this country could afford. He is a very good Latin scholar; of exceeding good spirit and quick parts; of excellent temper and good disposition; has conceived a great desire to go into the army. I have therefore to entreat you when an opportunity offers, to give him a commission, and I think he will do me no discredit, and you much service. If you are kind enough to employ him, I should be much obliged to you if you would recommend him to some prudent officer, who would take the trouble now and then to give him a little good advice; for the only fault I know in him (if fault it can be called in a boy) is that he is a little too volatile.

Pray spare us some troops, if you can possibly do it consistent with your orders; even the recruits of the Fourteenth Regiment would be of service to us. Those ordered from St. Augustine are not yet arrived, though hourly expected. Was the whole regiment here, I think we should be able to do some good. I have sent you a sloop with some Indian corn, oats, and a few Irish potatoes, all of which he told me (I mean Major Connolly) were much wanted. I could have sent you any quantity of oats, such as they are, if I could have got a larger vessel. I wish to God I had some of your Light-Horse here. This is a fine country for them to act in, and food of all kinds in great abundance, for both men and horses. A winter campaign would reduce, without the smallest doubt, the whole of this Southern Continent to a perfect state of obedience. One essential service it would render you, which is, that I could supply your army and navy with every necessary of life, and that in the greatest abundance, which is more than any other Colony on the Continent could do.

I ever am, dear General, most sincerely yours,

DUNMORE.

To General Howe, Boston.

MEMORANDUM BY GENERAL WASHINGTON'S SECRETARY.

Cambridge, December 19, 1775.

To Jonathan Glover, Esq., Marblehead:

Ordered to deliver up the vessels sent into Marblehead by Broughton and Selman to their owners.

MAJOR-GENERAL HOWE TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

Boston, December 19, 1775.

MY LORD: I embrace the opportunity of an officer who has my leave to go to Britain in a private ship, suddenly ordered there, to acquaint your Lordship that I have advice of Colonel Eyre Massey being arrived at Halifax with his regiment, and that I have been induced, on this occasion, to countermand my orders for six companies of the Sixty-Fifth Regiment, now lying in Nantasket-Road, to proceed to that place.

There have not arrived any troops since my last by the Tartar frigate, leaving this the 16th instant; but the store-ships, (Thames, Laird; Friendship, Miller; Britannia, White; Generous Planter, Colse,) as per margin, have got in with most seasonable supplies, although the live stock met with worse fate than could have been suspected, from the great care that had been taken. As their cargoes are not yet landed, I cannot render a more particular account; but from all the reports received, the merchants employed have been most attentive to their engagements. I am concerned to inform your Lordship that I have the authority of the Rebel commander to believe Brigadier Prescott has fallen into the hands of the enemy; and report says that General Carleton, with the whole Province of Canada, has shared the same fate. Having no communication with Canada at present, I cannot determine upon the degree of credit this intelligence deserves, but am hopeful that the latter is not true. However, Mr. Washington, commanding the Rebel army, presuming upon the number and rank of the prisoners in his possession, has threatened retaliation in point of treatment to any prisoners of theirs in our power, and proposes an exchange, which is a circumstance I shall not answer in positive terms, nor shall I enter upon such a measure without the King's orders. Your Lordship has enclosed a publication, extracted from the minutes of the Continental Congress, in reference to His Majesty's Proclamation of 23d August last, on the principles of which Mr. Washington seems to have founded his threats.

The small quantity of salt provisions in store here has induced me to send an armed transport to St. Eustatia, for a supply of that article, understanding the markets there are glutted with provisions; by which means I flatter myself, should the vicuallers ordered here be disappointed in making their voyages in time, that we shall secure a sufficient resource until some of them do arrive.

I have also, on consultation with the Admiral, ordered two transports to be fitted out with the utmost despatch, to sail under convoy of the Scarborough, man-of-war, and two armed schooners, with directions to have them loaded with rice at Savannah, by the assistance of Sir James Wright; and if, in going or returning, they should fall in with any ships having a quantity of this article on board, the Captain of the Scarborough will have orders to seize and send them here for the use of the garrison, navy, and inhabitants. In these ships I propose sending two hundred marines, under the command of a field-officer; and in the whole of this proceeding, I trust I shall have your Lordship's sanction, being guided by motives arising from my regard to the interest and necessity of His Majesty's service. I have communicated to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, in a letter of this date, an exact account of all the steps I have taken relative to the aforementioned purposes.

I have the honour to be, &c.,

W. Howe.

To Lord Dunmore.

TO THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

Maryland, December 20, 1775.

MY LORD: If constitutional allegiance to my King, a warm attachment to my country,* and the most sanguine emotions for peace and permanent union between the parent State and her Colonies, will sufficiently expiate for epistolatory freedom, permit a Minister of the King of Kings to address a Minister of the King of Great Britain, France, Ireland, and North-America; for it is the language of my soul, that the precious American jewel may speedily and immovably be set in the most effulgent diadem.

Your Lordship sustains a two-fold character: a soldier of the Lord of Lords, and Secretary of State for the Northern Department, under our rightful Sovereign. High and honourable offices, indeed. But every soldier is not an intrepid warrior; or, as a noble lord once expressed it, "there are many professors, but few possessors;" nor is every servant of the Crown infallible. In both these, every man at best is but a fallible being. This doctrine your Lordship once loved, being then a real follower of the Lamb; for I well remember several opportunities, and the happy and precious moments of each, when we bowed together at the sacred altar; * at which, when I beheld a right honourable communicant, with his livery servants on his right hand and left, my soul was raised almost to the third heaven, and my spirits filled with evangelical love; for not many mighty, not many noble, are truly godly. As your Lordship's condescension was so laudable, honourable, and scriptural, as to appear a professor of christianity, a witness for God, and the truly humble soul, I trust and firmly believe that "the most fine gold is not yet become dim." To whom, then, shall I write or speak, in behalf of the miserable convulsed empire; for your Lordship, hath, I trust, eternal life at heart, and everlasting felicity, by faith, in full view.

* Born in the city of Oxford.

The Parliament of Great Britain say, that they have a right to tax or bind the Americans in all cases whatsoever; to which they answer, "As they were born free, free they will be or die." And upon many of their hats there is this motto: "Freedom or death;" upon others, "God and our rights."

Since the battle of Lexington, I have been in eight of the thirteen United Colonies, namely: Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Newcastle, &c.,† and Maryland; all which, except New-York, are almost unanimous in the voice of liberty. Indeed, none (save a few officers under the Crown) are willing to be bound by the British Parliament in all cases whatsoever. The Americans declare, a master can lay no greater burden on a slave than to bind him in all cases whatsoever. These things the United Colonies have imbibed, and before this can reach your Lordship, Canada will, in all human probability, be added to the thirteen; for St. John's and Montreal have, upon capitulation, surrendered, and the rest of the Province, in every other respect, bids fair for a general surrender, or subjection to the American side. In New-York City and Province, although there are, I verily believe, more friends to Government, as they call themselves, than all the rest of the Colonies together can produce, yet in the City and Province there is on the other side of the question a majority large enough to subdue them at any time; for instance, a few weeks ago, some of these friends appeared in the Province in opposition to the American voice, whereon a small party went out immediately, who subdued and disarmed them. These friends, my Lord, are not worthy of the appellation; they are only sycophants. They flatter with their lips and pens, and deceive, I fear, your Lordship and others in Administration, from packet to packet. They have repeatedly insinuated that the New-England Governments have nothing else in view but independence. It is totally repugnant to truth. Before the sword was drawn, there could not possibly be greater loyalists. In the year 1769, I arrived first in America, and they daily manifested what loving subjects they were; and the dissenting clergy, also, in every opportunity, were particularly anxious to invoke the great Jehovah in behalf of their dread sovereign, of whom they speak in terms the most pathetic; also for all Governours and officers, as well as for others, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety, might still be and flourish under his sceptre. Add to this, I justly may, the several conversations I have had with, and the private prayers I have heard by those gentlemen, concerning His Majesty, his crown and dignity; with all which every loyalist could but be perfectly well pleased. To these facts, my Lord, I have not only been an ear-witness in one Colony, but in many; nay, even in Massachusetts-Bay and her capital.

Now, my Lord, for Christ's sake attend faithfully.

About two months ago, I viewed the camps, Roxbury and Cambridge. The lines of both are impregnable; with forts (many of which are bomb-proof) and redoubts, supposing them to be all in a direction, are about twenty miles; the breastworks of a proper height, and in many places seventeen feet in thickness; the trenches wide and deep in proportion, before which lay forked impediments; and many of the forts, in every respect, are perfectly ready for battle. The whole, in a word, an admiration to every spectator; for verily their fortifications appear to be the works of seven years, instead of about as many months. At these camps are about twenty thousand men, well disciplined.

* Of the Lock-Chapel.

† Although Newcastle, &c., belong to Pennsylvania, yet as they in Assembly are distinctly represented, and also in the Congress, those Counties therefor are viewed as and called one of the United Colonies.

The Generals and other officers, in all their military undertakings, solid, discreet, and courageous; the men daily raving for action, and seemingly void of fear. There are many floating batteries, and also bateaus in abundance; besides this strength, ten thousand militia are ordered in that Government to appear on the first summons. Provisions and money there are very plenty, and the soldiers faithfully paid. The army in great order, and very healthy, and about six weeks ago lodged in comfortable barracks. Chaplains constantly attend the camps, morning and night; prayers as often offered up for peace and reconciliation, and the soldiers very attentive. The roads, at the time I viewed the camps, were almost lined with spectators, and thousands with me can declare the above, respecting the camps, to be a just description. But, my Lord, I have more facts to mention.

A Continental and Provincial currencies, to facilitate this great undertaking, are emitted, which circulate freely, and are daily exchanged for silver and gold. Their harbours by the spring will swarm with privateers. An Admiral is appointed, a court established, and the 3d instant, the Continental flag on board the Black Prince, opposite Philadelphia, was hoisted. Many of the Captains of those vessels, in the last war, proved their intrepidity to the world by their prizes, and some of them have already taken many valuable prizes which Government had ordered to Boston, and thereby must have much distressed the troops; all which the prints will particularize.

The appointment of the Continental and Provincial Congresses and Committees, your Lordship, without doubt, before now must be fully acquainted with. These sets of gentlemen, by virtue of the great privileges with which the Colonies have entrusted them, claim now the following prerogatives over the United Colonies: The Continental Congress is over all, under the King; the Provincials over the Committees, and the Committees over the Counties. The Congresses and Committees have so raised and regulated the militia and minute-men, whom they have raised almost in every County, that they make in every city and town the most warlike appearance. Saltpetre is made in abundance, and powder-mills constantly employed in many Provinces, and many believe that there is now in the possession of the Americans powder enough for three years. This, to me, is very obvious. Soon after General Gage collected the troops from the several Provinces into one body at Boston, the Congresses ordered all the shopkeepers not to sell their powder to fowlers and hunters, but to keep the same for the use of the Colonies; which, in general, was faithfully observed. Before this, a person might get a large quantity of powder almost at every large store or merchant's shop, in every city, town, and county, on the Continent. Now, all this collected together, and what the mills have made, together with the great quantities taken at St. John's, Montreal, other forts, and on the seas, must make an immense quantity; add to this, the constant employment of the mills, and a great number of privateers faithfully looking out for yours. And, my Lord, how is it possible for all store-ships to escape a fleet so large, which at this time, I firmly believe, is composed of fifty sail, and by next spring I shall not marvel if their fleet be doubled.

Iron guns of the best quality have been made in America; and as they have plenty of iron and lead mines, they can make what quantity of cannon, shot, and bullets they please. But Administration have lately supplied them with a very valuable assortment of such stores.* Rifles, infinitely better than those imported, are daily made in many places in Pennsylvania, and all the gunsmiths every where constantly employed. In this country, my Lord, the boys, as soon as they can discharge a gun, frequently exercise themselves therewith, some a fowling, and others a hunting. The great quantities of game, the many kinds, and the great privileges of killing, make the Americans the best marksmen in the world, and thousands support their families principally by the same, particularly riflemen on the frontiers, whose objects are deer and turkeys. In marching through woods, one thousand of these riflemen would cut to pieces ten thousand of your best troops. I don't, my Lord, speak at random, or write partially. I have travelled too much among these men to be insensible of their abilities.

* Store-vessels bound to Boston, taken by the Continental Captains.

ties. O, my Lord! if your Lordship knew but one half what I know of America, your Lordship would not persist, but be instantly for peace, or resign. But, my Lord, construe this epistle as you please; nevertheless, my meaning is that it should not in the least convey, or even hint any thing about the legality or illegality of the unhappy dispute. Many great and celebrated writers have moved every nerve, but hitherto in vain. What then can I do, who am but a babe? Not much, truly. But when a house is in flames, all run without distinction, some with buckets, some with grappings, and others with engines, wishing they providentially may extinguish the fire. Now, my Lord, the British empire is really in flames. I cannot, therefore, be inactive. Suffer, then, the insignificant with the most significant, to help forward with something. I present, therefore, for your Lordship's acceptance, an engine of facts. The carved works are but homely; but the essential parts are sound and substantial. Try them lawfully and faithfully, and I, by God's permission, will pledge my life they will stand the test. Facts are at all times proof against the most inveterate foes. By way of appurtenances, I must add: Up the North river, in the Province of New-York; there is erected an impregnable fort, against which vessels cannot possibly, many minutes, survive. In the New-England Governments, batteries are already made before most of the sea-ports. The minute-men before mentioned, like firemen, have all things proper and ready to attend on the first alarm. The American coast, long as it is, both by land and sea, is faithfully watched, and posts are every where established. Whether, therefore, Administration have in view the east or west of the continent, it matters not. Set but a foot ashore to execute their plan, and the same will instantly find enemies. Nay, let thousands be landed, and they will immediately find swarms of foes; for the electrical posts, riding day and night, will soon make them sensible thereof. My Lord, Administration have not one friend they can call theirs, in every respect, that is a resident among the Americans. They have several, it is true, who for sordid gain act under the rose; but woe to them if they should be discovered. Many examples have been already made, and this may be relied on, that in a few months, as ways and means are now under consideration, Administration will, in every respect, in America, be friendless. The destroying of Falmouth, and Lord Dunmore's Proclamation, proclaiming a jubilee to the slaves and convicts in Virginia, provided they repair to the royal standard in due time, have exasperated the Americans beyond description, and made the breach infinitely wider. A few days ago, his Lordship's party was repulsed with great loss. His Lordship, my Lord, can do nothing but cause the men and treasure, now under his command, to be sacrificed and expended in vain; for he is surrounded by hundreds of the best riflemen, who have driven his troops out of their intrenchments, &c. Most, if not all, by this time, of His Majesty's Governors are afloat, and rendered incapable of fulfilling your Lordship's commands.*

The most celebrated military authors are reprinted for the use of the young officers, that they may be furnished with every prerequisite against spring. The ship-carpenters are very busy in getting the rest of the privateers ready, and also other hands to equip them wholly for sailing.

Now, right honourable sir, what will you do? Where will your Lordship look? Where can Administration fix their ideas with the least view of success? Say, my Lord, that their troops are good; the Americans have again and again repulsed them. Not one plan of Administration hath had the wished-for success; in general they have turned out abortive. Say, further, that twenty or thirty thousand, nay, double the numbers, shall be sent to subdue the Americans. Twenty thousand (descending to the camp phrase) may nearly serve for a breakfast, or rather do for a relish, and so from time to time British troops may be transported for the American sacrifice. But Administration can destroy all their sea-ports. I reply, a few months ago they might have wrought such devastation, but now they will find it impracticable. Some harbours are blocked up, batteries before others erected as above-mentioned, and when the icy impediments are dissolved in their harbours, no marvel,

*Each riding at anchor before his Government, or as near as convenience will admit.

my Lord, if some of the British armament, as well as transports or store-ships, be taken. About an hundred privateers, with the most intrepid marines, and those persons who last natural war immortalized their names, again chosen for captains, are, touching their schemes, no contemptible enemy by sea. Convinced I am fully, that an hundred thousand of the best troops Europe can raise will not subdue the Americans, nor make them acquiesce in the Parliamentary claims. Let Government say what they please in favour of their forces, remember, my Lord, the Americans have just such blood, the like courage, the same spirits, and are equal in colour and stature, and as well disciplined. Some of their fathers, grandfathers, and great-grandfathers, are to British dust returned, and in silent repose, while their sons and grandsons are struggling for their birth-rights; for they traditionally or constitutionally retain the idea of liberty, and with him of old say, "God forbid that we should sell the inheritance of our fathers."

Whether this will be believed or not, I don't know; but one thing I know, albeit the King requesteth, nevertheless, like Naboth, they will resist even unto death. Blessed be God, we have no Jezebel to stir up His Majesty; for his consort is the best of queens, and as such the Americans extol Her Majesty daily. Perhaps, my Lord, this may be viewed as partiality; but I can assure your Lordship I write from conviction, and not from a partial spirit. If I am charged any where herein with partiality, (as it is most natural and also very fashionable now to act the sycophant, where one's interest is,) I certainly flatter your Lordship, as I fear too many have; for I have no interest nor kindred here, nor hopes of interest for, or reward for any thing of this nature that I have done or can do. But I have immense hopes and views. My time here is very short; and ere long I shall be in a world of spirits, where the most noble, the right honourable, and reverend, persons must all appear. I know not, therefore, how to give flattering titles unto man; for in so doing, my Maker would soon take me away.

If figuratively two persons may represent both parties in dispute, there is a striking similarity in sacred writ, with which your Lordship is perfectly acquainted, and by which I beg permission to mention the following things:

I view both sides, as to their precious blood, as good old Jacob viewed his sons, Joseph and Benjamin, and am equally with him unwilling that either should be slain. If the British troops must be represented by the elder brother, grieved to my very heart I must be to hear that he is sacrificed; and if the American forces may be compared to the younger, I shall equally lament his death. May God of his infinite mercy save both by a speedy accommodation. Benjamin hath repeatedly petitioned Joseph for redress of grievances; but Joseph would not receive his petitions, but made himself strange, and spake roughly unto him, charging him with having and holding unjustly Pharaoh's cup,* of which the poor lad is perfectly innocent. O! that Joseph would take Benjamin in his arms, and embrace him, for they are brothers. If Benjamin have erred, let the age and wisdom of Joseph overlook and obliterate all. Let him no longer refrain, but fall on his neck and kiss him, and let love and virtue reunite them. As Joseph embraced and owned Benjamin as his brother, and returned his money, so let the parent State embrace and own the Colonies without fee or reward, and instantly the sword on both sides will be sheathed; and then Benjamin as usual will go and carry corn and money to Joseph, and take his superb clothing in exchange. But if Joseph will yet refrain, and not be reconciled, Benjamin is determined to clothe himself with his own wool, and keep his money, and send his corn to other merchantmen. Let facts, my Lord, apologize for prolixity. I will conclude now with a few lines.

The Americans may be led with a hair; but they have too much English blood in them, are too well disciplined and too numerous, to be driven even by an hundred thousand of the best forces Government can raise. Where Government can produce one thousand on the Continent, America, with as much ease and expense, can produce ten thousand in opposition; for men, women, and children, are against the proceedings of Administration throughout the

* Not rendering unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's.

United Colonies, to a wonderful majority. The women, both old and young, being greatly irritated at the inflexibility of Administration, are not only willing their sons and brothers should turn out in the field, but also declare that they will give them up, and themselves likewise, as a sacrifice, before they will bow to Pharaoh's task-masters. This makes the raising of troops on the Continent very easy. Let a person go into any province, city, town, or county, and ask the females, "Are you willing your sons or brothers should go for soldiers, and defend their liberties?" they would severally answer, "Yes, with all my soul; and if they won't go, I won't own them as my sons or brothers; for I'll help myself, if there should be any need of mine. If I can't stand in the ranks, I can help forward with powder, balls, and provisions;" and presently this will appear more pellucid. Last summer, I saw in Philadelphia a company of school-boys called the Academy Company, in their uniforms, with real arms and colours. Upon this I asked how many such companies were in the city, and for what they were designed; to which I was answered by a gentlewoman, the mother of two of this company, "There are three companies; and as to the design, they are to learn the art or theory of war; and if there should be any occasion for them in the field of battle, they will go, for they are all volunteers. But I, for my part, am, I do aver, sir, heartily willing to sacrifice my sons, believing that with such sacrifice God is well pleased; for he has hitherto marvellously blessed our arms, and conquered our enemies for us; and he who, in the days of his flesh, spoiled principalities and powers, and made a show of them openly, will in the end, I doubt not, evince the world that he is conqueror." This, my Lord, is the language of the American women. Your Lordship knows it is generally the reverse with the English; the mothers' and sisters' lives are bound up in the boys.

But I am afraid I shall trespass on your Lordship's patience; therefore, in the great name, and for the sake of the ever-blessed Trinity, I now beseech your Lordship to weigh thoroughly, and with patience, impartiality, and love, this narrative of facts; and may that ever-blessed, adorable person, Jesus Christ, the wonderful counsellor and prince of peace, give your Lordship a right judgment and understanding in all things, and counsel and influence Administration to act wisely, and repeal the acts in dispute, and so make peace.

I am, my Lord, your Lordship's ready and willing servant, for Christ's sake. B. P.

P. S. Some months ago I fully intended to see your Lordship before now, but the prohibition of exportation taking place before I could finish my business here, hath rendered it very difficult for me to embark at present. The first eligible opportunity in the spring, if any should offer, I intend to embrace and embark for Europe.

CORTLANDT SKINNER TO LIEUTENANT-COLONEL WILLIAM SKINNER.

December, 1775.

DEAR BROTHER: I have not had the pleasure of receiving a letter from you for a long time; whether you have written and they have miscarried, or what has happened, I know not; only this I know, that I have not had the happiness of a line from you this troublesome summer. I have always fondly, I may say foolishly hoped, that the unnatural dispute now subsisting, would have an amicable conclusion. I find myself sadly disappointed. The tea duty began the controversy; it has branched out into divers others, and now the contest is for dominion. For the rise of the dispute we are indebted to smugglers; for the present state of it, to the pride, ambition, and interest of those who, enemies to the ecclesiastical establishment of their country, have long plotted, and to others who have become of consequence in the struggle. They who began had their interest in view, and feared the ruin of their smuggling; here they, I believe, were willing to leave the dispute. The others, with deeper views, keep it up, and building on the foundation, are attempting a superstructure (a republick) that will deluge this country in blood. This is not new. All history, as well as our own, shows great convulsions, rebellions, and revolutions from mad enthusiasm and designing men; and the last spring up like mushrooms. We are now upon the eve, I may say, have actually begun a revolution. The Congress are our King, Lords, and Commons. They have taken Canada, with the consent of its grateful inhabitants; they block up the Royal army in Boston; they say they have secured the Indians; have appointed an Admiral, are fitting out a fleet, and are universally obeyed. Is this, or is it not independency? They say it is not; and we must believe even against our senses. An edict, manifesto, or what you please to call it, has been issued from the Congress; in which they say, We have taken into consideration a proclamation issued by the Court of St. James's; meaning the late Royal Proclamation. You will soon see it. I fear bad consequences will attend the mistaken people who are so obstinately loyal as to favour the Royal cause. Where or what will be the end, I know not. The mistakes of Generals and Admirals, and the strange security in sending succours, ammunition, &c., to this country, amazes me, while success here in every mad measure vexes me.* The saints say Heaven is on their side; I rather think the old saying more applicable, "The devil is kind to young beginners." We must have in every war a campaign, at least, of blunders. This may be called so, from the ill-timed march to Lexington to the losing of Canada. Another year may set us right; but not, if we only succour Boston. A few regiments and fleets to different Provinces will set us right; at least bring us to our senses, and support the friends of Government. But I have said enough on this disagreeable subject; you will know every thing from the papers; though now Rivington is suppressed, you can hear only one side of the question.

I informed you in my last that I had another son, and that I had called him James. I can now only tell you that all my family, with your other friends and connexions, are well, except my wife, whose present weakness alarms me. She is now tolerably well, but so often otherwise, that I cannot say she has any thing like established health. She presents her love to you and your little girl, with the warmest wishes for both your happiness. I have not received a letter for a long time from Will, though I have heard of him, and that very pleasingly. I beg you will direct him to write to me, but caution him against political matters; few letters come to us unopened, and it may be of fatal consequence to me. † . . . wrote lately; it came safe, but had it fallen into the hands of the Committee, I should, as well as his brother, have felt, before we heard of it. Give my love and their mother's to them both, and as much as I long to hear from them and you, write cautiously, and in a way that can do me no harm. I fear a letter from Captain Kearny; I know how he will write; if, therefore, you see him, tell him of my fears. I wish to hear from you and all my friends, but they must avoid politics, unless some very safe person, not an officer, or in the least connected with Government, and above all a man of honour should be the bearer. Make my compliments to Mr. Watts, to whom I am much obliged for his kind mentioning of my children. Remember me to Captain Skinner, who I think writes to nobody here, but now and then to his wife. Give my love to my children.

I am, with the greatest affection, your brother,

CORTLANDT SKINNER.

To Lieut. Colonel William Skinner, Westbury, Hants.

* MORRIS COUNTY, NEW-JERSEY, September 28, 1775.—The Committee met by notice from the Chairman. Present, all but Doctor James Campfield and Ebenezer Condict.

A complaint exhibited against Cortlandt Skinner, for speaking disrespectfully of the Continental Congress, reproaching the minute-men, and charging them and the County with protecting a supposed criminal from justice.

Said Skinner attended the Board, and the evidences, viz: Paul Day, Joseph Wood, Stephen Conklin, Isaac Cary, and George Bachoven, were sworn and heard; and after said Skinner had made his defence, the question being put, "Whether said Skinner be guilty or not?" it was voted unanimously that he is guilty of the charge brought against him.

Said Skinner again appeared before the Committee, and acknowledged he was very sorry he had spoken that which was accepted to be unfriendly to his country, and declared that he would conduct himself as a sincere friend to the liberties of his country, and that it ever had been his intention and wish, &c., which, with several other like declarations of his being a sincere friend to the LIBERTY of his country, the Committee accepted as satisfactory, &c.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-Haven, December 20, 1775.

SIR: It is absolutely necessary that the treasury of this Colony receive an immediate supply of money for the purpose of paying off our troops, and the other expenses incurred by this Colony in the general service of the United Colonies. The forty-eight thousand pounds received by this Colony in Continental bills, have been long since expended; not in discharge of any former debt, but by much the greatest part thereof in payment of the troops raised by this Colony under the direction of the General, to facilitate their future enlistment, and of expenses incurred in the common cause, since it was received.

I am therefore directed by the General Assembly of this Colony to entreat the honourable Continental Congress to be so good, as soon as possible, to order a further sum to be issued out of the Continental treasury on account of this Colony, and paid into the hands of our Delegates, to the amount, if possible, of sixty thousand pounds, or at least such part thereof as can, by any means, at present, be spared. It is of the greatest consequence to us that the utmost despatch be made in this affair; I, therefore, in behalf of the Colony, beg the favour of you to lay this request immediately before the Congress, and to give it all the facilities in your power.

And am, with the greatest respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable President Hancock.

At a General Assembly of the Governour and Company of the English Colony of Connecticut, in America, holden at New-Haven, by special order of the Governour, on the 14th day of December, A. D. 1775:

Resolved by this Assembly, That his Honour the Governour be, and he is hereby desired forthwith to make application to the honourable Continental Congress for the sum of sixty thousand Pounds, or such part thereof as can, at present, be obtained for the supply of the treasury of this Colony; and that his Honour take the necessary steps to receive and lodge the same with the Treasurer of the Colony, with all convenient despatch.

A true copy of record, examined by GEORGE WYLLYS, Sec'y.

THOMAS GREENOUGH TO MESSRS. DEANE, ADAMS, AND WYTHE.

New-Haven, December 22, 1775.

GENTLEMAN: I was an inhabitant of Boston, and by the oppressive measures exercised there, was obliged to leave my pleasant habitation with all my furniture, (excepting my plate and one bed,) and came here for refuge, and since being here, have been informed that the Provincials burnt all the houses, stores, and barns on Noddle-Island, and seeing an advertisement in the newspapers that persons who sustained any losses were desired to send to you, gentlemen, the particulars, with the valuation, I having had the more immediate care of said island, many years before it came into our possession, therefore am more knowing as to the buildings and their value than my brethren; accordingly I have enclosed an estimate of what I think and believe to be as just a one as any person can give of the premises. All the stock, household furniture, &c., belonging unto the tenant, Mr. Henry Howell Williams, . . . * said island on a lease,) who I suppose has, or will send you . . . * thereof. You may inquire of my character, if you please, of the Honourable John Hancock, Thomas Cushing, and Samuel Adams, Esquires.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servant,

THOMAS GREENOUGH.

To Messrs. Deane, Wythe, and Adams, a Committee of the Congress, in Philadelphia.

New-Haven, December 20, 1775.

An account of the loss we sustained in June last, viz: On Noddle-Island, burnt by the Provincials, the large mansion-house, cost about nine hundred pounds sterling, about twenty years old, - - £750

[* Original manuscript torn.]

One large barn, for which I paid about,	- - -	130
One barn, cost about one hundred pounds, about twenty-five years old, new shingled, oak sills, all good,	- - - - -	65
One large warehouse or store, cost about two hundred pounds sterling, chambers ceiled,	- - -	150
Three frame houses, one story, gambrel roof, with lutheran lights, cost about three hundred pounds,	- - - - -	225
Three large barns, one for each house, will cost about three hundred pounds,	- - - - -	200

The whole value, sterling, - - - - £1,520

Besides fences, corn-houses, &c., one year's rent, one hundred and thirty pounds sterling. The island contains about seven hundred acres. Every article to build with must be boated over, being an island.

Gentlemen, I believe the above valuation is about the truth. I have talked with the tenant, Mr. Henry Howell Williams, and he says it will cost two thousand pounds sterling to replace the buildings, &c., on the island. The above was owned by Doctor Charles Chauncy, William Hystop, and your very humble servant,

THOMAS GREENOUGH.

Connecticut, ss. New-Haven, in the County of New-Haven, on the twenty-first day of December, A. D. 1775:

Personally appeared Mr. Thomas Greenough, late of Boston, now resident in said New-Haven, and made oath to the truth of the within estimate. Before me,

JOHN WHITING, Justice of Peace,

For the County of New-Haven.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR COOKE.

Cambridge, December 20, 1775.

SIR: The letter accompanying this was written before your favour of the 19th, per express, came to hand. Under my present instructions, and in my present situation, I could not justify the sending a regiment from these lines to you, unless there was an apparent design of landing a body of Ministerial troops on Rhode-Island. At present, I do not think this is to be apprehended, as a deserter out of Boston, since my last, is particular in declaring that only four companies, amounting to little more than four hundred men, embarked, as was said, for Halifax; agreeing with others that invalids, and the officers of the Eighteenth and Fifty-Ninth Regiments, who are going home to recruit, had sailed for England.

The intention of my last, containing the information as it was received, was only designed to put you upon your guard, not that I expected a visit was intended you. If any small body of troops move from hence southerly I have no expectation of their stopping short of Virginia, unless it should be on a pillaging party. To conclude, sir, when I inform you that I have been obliged to call in five thousand militia to supply the deficiency of the Connecticut regiments and those absent upon furlough, you will do me the justice to believe that not a want of inclination but of ability, prevents me from complying with your request; unless, as is before observed, I had some obvious reasons to believe the visit of more men than we are well assured are embarked, was intended for your Government.

I am, with very great esteem and regard, sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Cooke, Rhode-Island.

GENERAL WASHINGTON'S SECRETARY TO COLONEL BALDWIN.

Cambridge, December 20, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to inform you that from the letter and proceedings of the Committee at Point-Shirley, respecting Mr. Wiber, he stands in a suspicious and unfriendly light. However, as he does not wish to put any one under rigorous confinement who does not deserve it, you and the Committee may consult together, and if it shall appear that he is a friend and can be trusted, you may permit his return to bring his family and others.

To Colonel Loammi Baldwin, Chelsea.

WILLIAM BARTLETT TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Beverly, December 20, 1775.

SIR: I hereby acknowledge the receipt of yours, per Colonel Glover, together with the two thousand dollars; also sundry letters since, concerning giving to the prisoners their private property; which orders, your Excellency may depend on, shall be punctually obeyed, with pleasure, for it always has been very disagreeable to me that any thing should be taken from them, and have done my utmost to prevent it; but it has been impracticable; which I hope your Excellency has heard, from different hands, to your satisfaction. Also your order with regard to the corn and oats on board the sloop Betsy, together with Thomas Mifflin, Esquire's, order for the same. Colonel Glover has since arrived here; who informs me that Mr. Mifflin will not give so much as the cargo will sell for here; and that your Excellency is willing I should dispose of it at this place. I shall therefore wait your Excellency's orders.

I have unloaded the brigantine Hannah, and stowed her cargo at Salem bridge. The coals out of the Concord go off very slow, on account of the price of teams. The butter taken out of her would sell exceeding well here, if your Excellency would think proper to give me orders to dispose of it. The porter on board the ship Jenny is of an inferior quality. I desire your Excellency's orders concerning it.

Am in haste, with the greatest respect, your Excellency's most obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM BARTLETT.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL GREENE TO JACOB GREENE.

Prospect-Hill, December 20, 1775.

Wallace, I hear, continues a thorn in your side; burning and destroying wherever he can get an opportunity. It is to me a most astonishing thing that the Committee of Newport are desirous of nourishing such a serpent in the bosom of the country. If his depredations were to cease in all parts of the country, there might be some small reason for listening to his propositions. But, for him to obtain his supplies, and grant an indemnity only to the town of Newport, is sacrificing the rest of the Province to the benefit of that town only; for he will be continually committing piracies upon all the islands and shores that he can get footing upon. I think Wallace's conduct has been such, from the insults and abuses he has offered to Government, that it is highly dishonourable to have any further intercourse or commerce with him. Besides, these separate treaties weaken the chain of connection and injure the general interests of the Continent. We must expect to make partial sacrifices for the publick good. I love the Colony of Rhode-Island, and have ever had a very great affection for the town of Newport; but I am not so attached to either as to be willing to injure the common cause for their particular benefit.

It is a very great unhappiness that such a division of sentiment in political matters prevails in the Colony; it distracts her councils and weakens her exertions. The Committee in the town of Newport, you say, seem inclined to counteract the prevailing sentiment in the Government. It is astonishing that ancient prejudices and selfish motives should prevail, at a time when every thing that is dear and valuable is at stake. I hear some of the inhabitants of Newport are very jealous of the views of the town of Providence; fearing that the latter has in view the destruction of Newport, for their own private advantage. I cannot harbour a thought so derogatory to the patriotism of the people of Newport, as to suppose that such a fear can have any real existence. Can the inhabitants of Newport suppose that the Legislature of the Colony acts upon such absurd principles as to make a sacrifice of one town for the benefit of another?

George the Third's last speech has shut the door of hope for reconciliation between the Colonies and Great Britain. There are great preparations going on in England, to prosecute the war in the spring. We have no reason to doubt the King's intentions. We must submit unconditionally, or defend ourselves. The calamities of war are very distressing, but slavery is dreadful. I have no reason to doubt the success of the Colonies, when I consider their union, strength, and resources. But we must expect to feel the common calamities which attend even a successful war.

We are now driven to the necessity of making a declaration of independence. We can no longer preserve our freedom and continue the connection with her. With safety we can appeal to Heaven for the necessity, propriety, and rectitude of such a measure.

I flatter myself the King's speech will induce the Congress to raise one large Continental army proportionable to the extent of our undertaking; to be under one command, and by him directed to the security and preservation of the several united Governments. This will unite and cement the whole strength of the several Colonies. If this method is not adopted, some Governments, from their natural situation, will be subject to fourfold the expense of others, for their own particular security. As we have one common interest in the opposition, and it is merely accidental and uncertain where the enemy may exert their greatest force, I think the Continent ought to provide for the security of every Colony.

Letters were received this day from General Montgomery, near Quebeck. He says he expects to be master of the place in a very little time. He has powder and all kinds of military stores to facilitate the reduction. He and his troops are in good health, and he speaks very highly of Colonel Arnold and his party. Many officers, and a large number of the privates, belong to our Government.

The regiments fill up very slowly here. It is really discouraging. I fear the advantages proposed from so large an armament as our establishment was to consist of, will be defeated by the length of time it takes to fill the army. However, I still hope for better things, and pray God my expectations may not be defeated. If the Congress had given a large bounty, and engaged the soldiery during the war, the Continent would be much securer, and the measures cheaper in the end. The wisest may sometimes err. To profit rightly by past evils is the only right use that can be made of former misfortunes. God grant that our future measures may be so taken as to render our success equal to our wishes.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN VIRGINIA,
DATED LONDON, DECEMBER 21, 1775.

I have always been of opinion that our connection with this country ought not to be dissolved. It made me happy to see, by the proceedings of the General Congress, that it was their sentiment; but the bill which has now passed both Houses of Parliament, and will, in a few days, receive the Royal assent, has, by treating the Colonies as enemies, put an end to that question. They cannot be enemies and subjects at the same time. The moment that bill passes, it puts the two countries asunder. It is better so unnatural a measure should move from those Ministers who have been the cause of all the calamities we lament.

America has nothing now to do but to provide for herself. The hostilities the same Ministers are meditating against her, you know, I conceive, will be as ineffectual as they are unwise. If the Ministry can collect twenty thousand men, for the next campaign, they will perform wonders. If they succeed with that number, it will be still more miraculous. If they do not succeed, they will not be able to attempt another campaign.

During the whole of last summer they have offered as high premiums as in the utmost exigency of the last war, and without the least success. The few boys they obtained were a ridicule upon recruiting. It is certain Russia will not furnish them the assistance they solicited; nor the Irish Roman Catholics be tempted into the service.

Without a miracle, then, they have no chance of ever seeing such an army as that which has found such difficulty in acquiring a single hill in America. Under such difficulties, and with such an army, they are to contend against a numerous American army, trained in one campaign of uncommon activity and vigilance, and against the whole Continent in arms, and actuated by every motive that can make the timorous terrible, and the brave irresistible. Besides this, the scene of war must be in a country impracticable to those who do not know it, and abounding with such advantages to the natives, that, with common prudence, it is impossible for an enemy to advance fifty miles. It is unnecessary to enumerate the thousand other obvious and insuperable difficulties they must encounter. What I have already mentioned is enough to brand their measures with madness. In my opinion the mischief of them will be felt here within half a year, so as to produce the most dangerous internal commotions. An attack from France, too, is exceedingly probable. It is certain that her interposition, by the means of Sweden, prevented the Russian auxiliaries.

The ostensible reason, on the part of Russia, was, that there was no cartel settled between Great Britain and America. The want of this will certainly make every power reluctant in lending their troops; especially for a service so distant and desperate. So that I think there is not the least probability of their obtaining foreign troops, now or hereafter. Upon this view of things, you will think, with me, that our countrymen have the game in their own hands. I trust they will play it so as to establish the dignity and renown of the American name, and the constitutional liberties of America, upon an immortal basis. The addresses which were moved by the Ministry, against the advice of Lord Mansfield, have decided the popular opinion to be against the measures. With the immense influence of a Government that has more than fifty thousand places and pensions in its disposal, with all Scotland at its heels, and all the Jacobites and Tories, supporting it as the old cause, they have not been able to enrol a tenth part of the nation in the list of addresses. In London, Middlesex, Southwark, Coventry, Leeds, Newcastle, Bristol, Bradford, Berkshire, or wherever it has come to a decided question, the petitioners have out-numbered the addressers. In this situation, they trust to the chapter of accidents; they hope that some dissension in America will give them an opportunity of exerting the influence of corruption, which they find so essential at Westminster. Lord Bute's pupil bids them go on, and they do it more willingly, because, by furnishing a pretence for increasing taxes, it augments the means of plunder, and they hold themselves secure at least of his protection. They will, however, be fortunate if they escape the effects of a treachery that has hitherto known no exceptions. Such is the sum of our political situation, than which nothing can be more desperate.

The publick begins to conceive that these measures will sever America forever from this country. The Ministry are so conscious of it, that they have hired Dean Tucker to soften the business, by persuading the people that it will be no loss. A piratical war they think they can maintain with decided advantage, from the superiority of their navy; and even in this I believe they are governed more by the hopes of plunder than of conquest. Upon this principle Lord North's last bill is founded, to render all American property and vessels confiscate and prize. Spain tried exactly the same experiment with the Dutch; and it ended then, as I hope it will now, in the prosperity and independence of the commerce of the States. Upon the whole, I think we may be satisfied that neither the evil spirit of Lord Bute and his pupil, nor the machinations of their Ministers, will ever prevail against the unanimity and spirit of our countrymen.

The piratical war they are planning must operate against them, exactly in proportion as their commerce exceeds that of America. Their bill authorizes, and must necessarily produce, retaliation. They have much at stake upon the seas, and America little. The consequence is inevitable. In this line, therefore, they are as little likely to succeed, or persevere. Happily for the rights of mankind, experience does not teach them wisdom, and the weakness of their heads defeats the wickedness of their hearts. As little do I conceive will they succeed in corrupting of the Congress, and dividing the Colonies. A people who have every thing at stake will be too watchful. A Congress so highly trusted, and so conspicuous, will be too wise and too virtuous to be seduced. When I think of the men who are thus attempting to reduce near three millions of brave, wise, united freemen, to the most abject slavery, the means with which they are to accomplish it, the distance, the disadvantages under which they are to act, I do not know in what words to express my contempt. But knowing too, as I do, that France will certainly interfere, I am much more inclined to think that they will reduce Great Britain under the dominion of France, than America under that of Great Britain. It is, indeed, highly probable that the ultimate object of Lord Bute, Lord Mansfield, and the Scotch, who are the sole and secret movers of all these measures, is to restore the expelled race, and what Dr. Johnson, in the definition of a tory, calls the ancient constitution in Church and State. Once more I wish you happy; and, cut off as we shall be from all accidental communication, I shall rest satisfied that the union, firmness, and spirit of our countrymen, will preserve our liberties against all invaders.

HENRY WISNER TO B. TOWNE.

Philadelphia, December 21, 1775.

Having for many months been sensibly affected with the great disadvantage the Colonies labour under for want of ammunition, I thought it my duty to apply myself to the attainment of those necessary arts of making saltpetre and gunpowder; and having far exceeded my expectations in both manufactures, I think myself still further obliged to communicate the so much needed knowledge to my country at large. My first trial was on saltpetre, two pounds of which my son has extracted from about six bushels of stable dirt, perfectly fit for making gunpowder. This was done by the method of Doctor Young and Mr. Rubsaman, lately published by the former, for which, and many other useful informations, I take this opportunity to return those gentlemen my publick thanks.

I have lately erected a powder-mill in the south end of Ulster County, in the Colony of New-York, at which I have made as good powder as I ever have seen, and will bear the inspection of good judges, in the following manner: Gunpowder is composed of nothing more than the four plain simple articles, saltpetre, brimstone, charcoal, and water. The three first of which are to be made as fine as possible, so as to be sifted through a gauze sieve, or fine bolt, as fine as for common flour. But it being difficult to make the saltpetre all fine, those parts that will not be easily got through the sieve, must be dissolved in soft warm water, then let the sulphur, saltpetre, and charcoal, be each separately weighed. Take of the saltpetre an hundred weight, of the sulphur fifteen pounds, and charcoal eighteen pounds, and in that proportion for any greater or smaller quantity. This being done, mix them all well together in some large vessel, such as a potash or any other kettle, and when well mixed, moisten the whole with the aforesaid nitrous water till it is as moist as dough for making bread. Then put an equal quantity in each mortar, and pound it well for at least twenty hours; and if the mill runs slowly, let it run twenty-four hours; and as the paste, by pounding, will naturally grow dry, it must be kept moist by putting in a little of said water, and when pounded sufficiently take it out of the mortar, and put it in some tub or any other proper vessel. As to the graining, it must be done in the following manner, viz: have a box made about five feet square, the sides eighteen inches deep, the bottom tight, and top entirely open; fix across the box two rods or laths near the middle, about four inches below the top, and about ten inches apart, then have six sieves made of wooden splits in the same manner as a wheat riddle, but much finer, the coarsest should be about as fine as a cockle sieve, or a little finer, and so each sieve to increase in fineness till the last is as fine as possible; I believe it were best to make the two coarsest of wire. Then take about a quart of the paste, put it into the coarsest sieve, set the sieves on the two rods that are fixed across the box, then work the sieve with a circular motion, which will press the paste through the sieve in large and unshapely grains; and when a considerable quantity is passed through, then sift it over again in the next coarsest sieve, and so till the grains are fine enough; the last sieve must be so fine that whatever passes through it will be too fine for powder, and is to be worked over the next batch. As the paste will naturally roll together in large round balls, when worked in the sieve, a board must be made near as large in circumference as a common pewter plate, and about one inch thick, on the centre, declining to the edge, of some hard wood turned in a lathe, and made as smooth as possible. This board must be put into the sieve among the paste, which breaks the lumps in pieces, and forces the paste through the sieve.

When the powder is well grained in the manner directed, it must be rolled in a barrel, the inside of which is to be made as smooth as conveniently may be, with a small door cut in one side capable of being shut tight, and the barrel to be fixed so as to be turned by the shaft of the mill. Put in a few pounds at a time, and let it be rolled as above, which will make the powder smooth; then sift it in the finest sieve, till the fine parts that work off in the barrel pass through the sieve, which is to be returned again into the mortars. The powder must be put in flat trays or dishes, and set by to dry either in a small room kept warm with a large stove, or, if the weather be dry, in the shining of the sun.

I, therefore, most heartily recommend to the good people of this Continent to enter into these necessary businesses with spirit, being well assured that a greater quantity may, with ease, be made than will be needed for our consumption, even admitting the times to be worse than the threats of the British Administration would lead us to expect.

Any person inclining to build a powder-mill will be shown a plan, with directions for the construction of all its parts and utensils, by applying to their very humble servant,

HENRY WISNER.

LANCASTER (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE TO THE PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 27, 1775.]

Lancaster, December 21, 1775.

SIR: The Committee of Correspondence of this County have received your letter of the 18th instant, enclosing certain resolutions of the honourable Congress, respecting the disposition of the officers and privates, who are prisoners here.

We beg leave to mention to you, that in consequence of the directions transmitted to us, the officers met us this morning, and having perused your resolve, requesting some time to determine on their respective places of residence, this indulgence we thought ourselves bound to grant upon their entreaty. We have taken their parole for the present, and now enclose the same to you.

They complain greatly of a separation from their soldiers, as a breach of General Schuyler's solemn engagement, and that they cannot remove from hence until their baggage, with the men's clothing, and the pay of the troops, come up. They say that justice cannot be done to the privates, with respect to their pay in arrear, unless the officers are upon the spot to make the proper settlements. The soldiers also express great uneasiness about their clothing and pay, if their officers are removed from them. Of these matters we conceive it our duty not to judge, but strictly to conform to your orders. The want of warm clothing for the soldiers (of which they are in great need) is still one of the objects of their complaint, but on this head we referred them to Major Preston. The gentlemen of the Seventh Regiment tell us, they have reason to believe that the Major is to furnish clothing for the Twenty-Sixth Regiment alone.

The letter we had the favour of receiving from Messrs. Lynch and Lewis informed us, that Mr. David Franks had engaged to supply the troops with provisions. We are at a loss to know to what fund our barrackmaster must apply for the payment of the articles of wood, candles, bedding, and blankets, and the implements of the cooking, absolutely necessary for the prisoners here.

We request your directions, whether in case any of the officers should incline to draw bills for any money necessary for their accommodation and subsistence, the inhabitants shall be at liberty to advance their cash, and take their bills; or whether this shall be considered as an infraction of the former resolution of Congress. The officers have requested to be informed by us, whether any provision is to be made for their future subsistence. We look up to you for an answer.

The general outlines of the duties of our department being made known unto us, we shall endeavour to conform minutely to them. In such matters, wherein circumstances may make it necessary to exercise our own judgment, we hoped in no instance to deviate essentially from the system of the honourable Congress.

By order of the Committee:

EDWARD SHIPPEN, Chairman.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

DISAFFECTED PERSONS IN QUEEN'S COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
December 21, 1775.

Whereas on the 13th instant, on information that a number of disaffected persons in Queen's County, had been supplied with Arms and Ammunition on board the Asia ship-of-war, and had been arraying themselves in military manner, to oppose the measures taking by the United Colonies for the defence of their just rights and privileges, and thrown out many threatening expressions against sundry persons residing in that and the neighbouring Counties,

It was resolved by this Congress as their opinion, That such conduct is inimical to the common cause of the United Colonies, and ought not by any means to be suffered; but that measures should be immediately taken to put a stop to it.

And it was therefore ordered, That the inhabitants of the said County should appear by a Committee before this Congress, on Wednesday then next, at ten o'clock in the morning, to give satisfaction in the premises; with which order the said inhabitants of Queen's County have not complied. And whereas the persons above-mentioned and their adherents have opposed the election of Representatives for that County in this Congress, on a poll opened for that purpose, whereby that County remains unrepresented in this Congress: And whereas a prevailing party prevented the election of Delegates for the County of Richmond, at a late poll there opened for that purpose; by means whereof the said County is not represented in this Congress: And whereas the poll list for Queen's County has been returned to this Congress, whereby the persons opposing such representation as aforesaid, and appearing to this Congress to be inimical to the interest of the United Colonies, may be ascertained:

Resolved, first, That such inimical persons as aforesaid have been guilty of a breach of the General Association, and of an open contempt of the authority of this Congress, as effectually representing the majority of the inhabitants of this Colony.

Resolved, secondly, That the inhabitants of the County of Richmond, by neglecting to elect Representatives in this Congress, have been guilty of a breach of the General Association.

Resolved, thirdly, That the Committee of the said County of Richmond, do and shall, within fifteen days after the publication hereof, return to this Congress, or the Committee of Safety, a list of the names of those who oppose a representation of the said County in this Congress, to the end that the delinquents against the common cause in that County may be ascertained, and that in default thereof the whole County of Richmond be deemed delinquent.

Resolved, fourthly, That the said delinquents, in the said Counties respectively, and each and every of them, be and hereby are entirely put out of the protection of this Congress.

Resolved, fifthly, That all friendly and commercial intercourse between the said persons so put respectively out of the protection of this Congress, and the other inhabitants of this Colony, ought to be, and the same, as far as can be effected by the recommendation of this Congress, hereby is and shall continue to be totally interdicted, until further orders of this Congress, or the Committee of Public Safety.

And to the end that no persons may plead ignorance of the aforesaid Resolves and this Order,

It is ordered, That the same, together with a list of such delinquents as aforesaid, in each of the said Counties respectively, be, without delay, printed and dispersed in handbills, and inserted in all the newspapers of this Colony.

A true copy from the minutes:

ROBERT BENSON, Secretary.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 30, 1775.]

Albany, December 21, 1775.

SIR: I do myself the honour to enclose you a return of the military stores that were at Ticonderoga Landing and Crown-Point on the 2d instant. The cannon, mortars, and other stores sent for by General Washington, are happily arrived at Fort George, from whence they will be moved to the place of their destination as soon as we are favoured with a fall of snow, and that the ice in the river will be strong enough to bear the heavy cannon.

A post, which arrived here on the 18th, and who left Montreal on the 4th, brought me no letters, either from General Montgomery or General Wooster. I inquired of the man, who could inform me nothing of the former, but that he was gone towards Quebeck. The frost here is so intense, that the river is frozen over, and I expect will be passable with horses in a day or two.

A quantity of baggage belonging to the prisoners, and which was embarked in a sloop, is caught in the ice, about five miles below this. The greatest part of it belongs to those who are now in Pennsylvania, and how to get it to them I do not know.

Should there be a necessity in the ensuing campaign to keep up a force to the eastward, equal to what there has been in this, I fear there will be a scarcity of flour in that quarter. Should my apprehension be well founded, would it not be prudent to transport a quantity of flour from the eastern parts of this Colony, to the eastern side of the Green Mountains? which, though passable in winter with sleds, are scarcely so at any other season of the year for any kind of carriages.

I have not yet received any pay-rolls from the Colony of Connecticut. I fear that unless great attention is paid, the publick will suffer considerably by overcharges. What measures shall I pursue with such officers as return me false pay-rolls? The time for which they were engaged is expired, and no military punishment can be inflicted on them.

The conference with the Six Nations has had a happy issue; they have delivered up the war-belt which was given them with much ceremony by Colonel Johnson, at Montreal. The proceedings will be transmitted to the Congress in a few days.

The Commissary-General has this moment waited upon me, with a letter from Mr. Lewis, containing in substance an order that the clothing sent here for the army in this department should, if not moved from Albany, be sent to Cambridge. As I have ordered four companies to be raised in this quarter, of which I acquainted Congress some time ago, and promised that they should be supplied with clothing, I have ordered the Commissary-General to detain as much here as will be sufficient for these men; and as the remainder cannot be immediately sent, it is more than probable that before it can leave this, Congress will, in consequence of my last letters, countermand Mr. Lewis's orders.

I am, sir, with much respect, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

[GENERAL WASHINGTON] TO GENERAL WARD.

Cambridge, December 21, 1775.

SIR: His Excellency has commanded me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, and to inform you that if the persons mentioned in Mr. Champion's letter, are enlisted to serve in the new army, that they must not be permitted to go to him, but if they are not, that you may grant them a discharge.

I wrote you the 11th inst., respecting the prisoners to be sent to Simsbury, and enclosed a letter for the Committee of that place; to these I beg leave to refer you. In case you did not receive them, his Excellency desires that you will send them off under a proper guard, unless there should be any of the Connecticut troops going home, who will take the charge of them to the Committee. You will please certify the Committee of the atrociousness of their crime, and of the court's sentence.

I am, &c.

To Major-General Ward, Roxbury.

[GENERAL WASHINGTON] TO GENERAL SPENCER.

Cambridge, December 21, 1775.

SIR: I am commanded by his Excellency to acknowledge yours of the 18th instant, and to inform you that he has no objection to Mr. Peck's being appointed Adjutant to Colonel Huntington's regiment.

I am, &c.

To Brigadier-General Spencer, Roxbury.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN ENGLAND, FROM AN OFFICER AT BOSTON, DATED DECEMBER 21, 1775.

The Rebels, for some days past, have been erecting a battery at Phipp's Farm, which, it is said, will be soon opened. The new constructed mortar, taken on board the ordnance brig, we are told, will be mounted upon it; and we expect a warm salute from the shells, another part of that vessel's cargo; so that, in spite of her capture, we are likely to be complimented with the contents of her lading: for all this we will be indebted to our worthy Admiral. This vigilant officer, instead of sending his squadron to protect the store-ships and transports from England, has, with the utmost prudence, ordered the ships-of-war in this harbour to be secured with booms all round, to prevent their being boarded and taken by the rebel whale-boats; and for some time past he has never sent a single ship to cruise off Cape Ann, because the Rebels have had some cannon mounted upon it. No doubt the Parliament will thank him on his glorious return for so effectually preserving His Majesty's ships. In town, the General acts in quite a different manner; he seems to think it his duty to annoy the enemy. When we discovered the Rebels at work on their new battery, another was immediately raised against them of twenty-four pounders and some mortars, at Barton's Point. From this battery we have fired upon them for some days incessantly, apparently with good effect, though not sufficiently to make them discontinue their work. The news with us is not propitious. Quebeck is taken, and General Carleton, and all the King's troops under him, prisoners of war. You may guess the truth of all this from the person who has favoured us with the information. Mr. George Erving is the man; he had it from his brother-in-law, Mr. Bowdoin, one of the Rebel Counsellors. By this you may discover that the Rebels without, and the nominal friends of Government within, have a very good understanding together. This may be no news to you, though it may be to many in England. We know that till General Howe had the command, all our former Governours and commanders were gulled by Government. These good friends were always grasping at profitable places, and we are certain many obtained them; but still they had a warm feeling for American independency, and we have invariably found them, after their large salaries were fixed, taking every method to convince their Rebel countrymen that they were their best friends; I need only mention a Postmaster-General, a Surveyor-General, and our Admiralty Judges.

If the Rebels can complete their battery, this town will be on fire about our ears a few hours after; all our buildings being of wood, or a mixture of brick and wood-work. Had the Rebels erected their battery on the other side of the town, at Dorchester, the Admiral and all his booms would have made the first blaze, and the burning of the town would have followed. If we cannot destroy the Rebel battery by our guns, we must march out and take it sword in hand.

BY THE KING.—A PROCLAMATION,

Appointing the distribution of Prizes taken during the continuance of the Rebellion now subsisting in divers parts of the Continent of NORTH-AMERICA.

GEORGE R.

Whereas by an act made in this present session of Parliament, intituled "An act to prohibit all trade and intercourse with the Colonies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, the three lower Counties on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North-Carolina, South-Carolina, and Georgia, during the continuance of the present rebellion within the said Colonies respectively; for repealing an act made in the fourteenth year of the reign of His present Majesty, to discontinue the landing and discharging, lading or shipping of goods, wares and merchandise, at the town and within the harbour of Boston, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay; and also two acts made in the last session of Parliament, for restraining the trade and commerce of the Colonies in the said acts respectively mentioned; and to enable any person or persons appointed and authorized by His Majesty to grant pardons, and to issue proclamations, in the cases and for the purposes therein mentioned;" it is, amongst other things, enacted, that all ships and vessels of or belonging to the inhabitants of the said Colonies, together with their cargoes, apparel, and furniture, except as in the said act are excepted, and all other ships and vessels whatsoever, together with their cargoes, apparel, and furniture, which shall be found trading in any port or place of the said Colonies, or going to trade, or coming from trading in any such port or place, except as are therein also excepted, shall become forfeited to His Majesty, as if the same were the ships and effects of open enemies, and shall be so adjudged, deemed, and taken, in all courts of admiralty, and all other courts whatsoever: And, for the encouragement of the officers and seamen of His Majesty's ships-of-war, it is thereby also further enacted, That the flag-officers, captains, commanders, and other commissioned officers in His Majesty's pay, and also the seamen, marines, and soldiers on board, shall have the sole interest and property of and in all and every such ship, vessel, goods, and merchandise, which they shall seize and take (being first adjudged lawful prize in any of His Majesty's courts of admiralty) to be divided in such proportions, and after such manner, as His Majesty shall think fit to order and direct by proclamation or proclamations, hereafter to be issued for those purposes:

We, taking the premises into consideration, do, pursuant to the said act of Parliament, (with the advice of our Privy Council,) by this our proclamation, order, direct, and appoint, that the nett produce of all prizes taken, in pursuance of the said act, by our ships-of-war, be divided into eight equal parts, and be distributed in manner following, that is to say: To the captain or captains of any of our ships-of-war who shall be actually on board at the taking of any prize, three-eighths parts; but in case any such prize shall be taken by any of our ship or ships-of-war under the command of a flag or flags, the flag-officer or officers being actually on board, or directing and assisting in the capture, shall have one of the said three-eighths parts, the said one-eighth part to be paid to such flag or flag-officers, in such proportions, and subject to such regulations as are hereinafter for that purpose mentioned: To the captains of marines and land forces, sea lieutenants and master on board any such ships, one-eighth part, to be equally divided amongst them: To the lieutenants and quartermasters of marines, and lieutenants, ensigns, and quartermasters, of land forces, boatswain, gunner, purser, carpenter, master's mate, chirurgeon, pilot, and chaplain, on board any such ship, one-eighth part, to be equally divided amongst them: To the midshipmen, secretary to flag-officers, captain's clerk, master sail-maker, carpenter's mates, master-at-arms, corporals, yeomen of the sheets, coxswain, quartermasters, quartermaster's mates, chirurgeon's mates, yeomen of the powder-room, and sergeants of marines or land forces, on any such ships, one-eighth part, to be equally divided amongst them: To the trumpeters, quarter-gunners, carpenter's crew, steward, cook, armourer, steward's mate, cook's mate, gunsmith, cooper, swabber, ordinary trumpeter, barber, able seamen, ordinary seamen, and marine or other soldiers, and all other persons doing duty or assisting on board any such ships, two-eighths parts, to be equally divided amongst them. And in case any sea-captain, inferior commission, or warrant sea-officers, belonging to any ship-of-war, for whom any shares of prizes are hereby allowed, be absent at the time of the capture of any prize, the share of such sea-captain, inferior commission, or warrant sea-officer, shall be cast into the share hereby allowed to the trumpeters, quarter-gunners, carpenter's crew, steward, cook, armourer, steward's mate, cook's mate, gunsmith, cooper, swabber, ordinary trumpeter, barber, able seamen, ordinary seamen, and marine or other soldiers, and other persons doing duty or assisting on board any such ships, to be equally divided amongst them. Provided, That if any officer or officers on board any of our ships-of-war, at the time of taking any such prizes, shall have more commissions or offices than one, he or they shall be entitled only to the share or shares of the said prizes, which, according to the above mentioned distribution, shall belong to his or their respective superior commissions or offices. And we do hereby strictly enjoin all and every commander and commanders of any ships-of-war, taking any prize, as soon as may be, to transmit or cause to be transmitted to the commissioners of our navy, a true list of the names of all the officers, seamen, marines, soldiers or others who were actually on board our ships-of-war, under his or their command, at the taking such prize; which list shall contain the quality of the service of each person on board, and be subscribed by the captain or commanding officer, and three or more of the chief officers on board. And we do hereby require and direct the Commissioners of our navy, or any three or more of them, to examine or cause to be examined such lists by the muster-books of such ships-of-war, and lists annexed thereto, to see that such lists do agree with the said muster-book, and annexed lists, as to the names, qualities, or ratings of the officers, seamen, marines, soldiers, and others belonging to such ships-of-war; and, upon request, forthwith to grant a certificate of the truth of any list transmitted to them, to the agents nominated and appointed by the captors, pursuant to the said act, to take care or dispose of such prize; and also upon application to them, to give, or cause to be given, unto the agents, who shall at any time or times be appointed as aforesaid by the captors, all such lists from the muster-books of any such ships-of-war, and annexed lists, as the said agents shall find requisite for their direction in paying the produce of such prizes, and to be otherwise aiding and assisting to the said agents, as shall be necessary.

And as touching the said one-eighth part, herein before mentioned to be granted to the flag-officer or officers, who shall be actually on board at the taking of any prize, or shall be directing and assisting therein, we have thought fit, and do by these presents publish, order, and declare, that the following regulations be observed:

First. That a flag-officer commanding in chief, where there is but one flag-officer upon service, shall have to his own use the said one-eighth part of the prizes taken by ships under his command.

Secondly. That a flag-officer sent to command at Jamaica, or elsewhere, shall have no right to any share of the prizes at the place to which he is sent, and actually takes upon him the command.

Thirdly. That when an inferior flag-officer is sent out to reinforce a superior flag-officer at Jamaica, or elsewhere, the said superior flag-officer shall have no right to any share in the prizes taken by them before they arrive within the limits of his command, and actually receive some orders from him.

Fourthly. That a chief flag-officer returning home from Jamaica, or elsewhere, shall have no share of the prizes taken by the ships left behind to act under another command.

Fifthly. That if a flag-officer is sent to command in the out-ports of this Kingdom, he shall have no share of the prizes taken by ships that sailed from that port by order from the Admiralty.

Sixthly. That when more flag-officers than one serve together, the eighth part of the prizes taken by any ships of the fleet, or squadron, shall be divided in the following proportions, videlicet : If there be but two flag-officers, the chief shall have two-third parts of the said one-eighth part, and the other shall have the remaining third part; but if the number of flag-officers be more than two, the chief shall have only one-half, and the other half shall be divided equally among the other flag-officers.

Seventhly. That Commodores, with Captains under them, shall be esteemed as flag-officers, with respect to their right to an eighth part of prizes taken, whether commanding in chief or serving under command.

Given at our Court, at St. James's, the twenty-second day of December, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, in the sixteenth year of our reign.

God save the King.

JOHN HANCOCK TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia, December 22, 1775.

SIR: Your letters of the 30th of November, and of the 4th, 7th, and 11th of December, being duly received, were laid before Congress. To prevent the ill consequences that might ensue from the backwardness of the men, in the present service, to reinlist, the Congress, as I informed you in my last, have written to the Governours of Connecticut and Rhode-Island, the Council of Massachusetts-Bay, and the President of the Convention of New-Hampshire. In consequence of which letters they have strong hopes and confidence that measures will be taken to complete your army. As to the article of butter, the Congress, desirous to obviate whatever may have a "tendency to give the soldiery room for complaint," have instructed me to inform you that the same may be continued until further order.

The Congress receive, with great satisfaction, your congratulations on the success of Captain Manly. By the enclosed resolves, you will perceive their determination on the captures already made, as well as those which may be made hereafter. It is expected the several Colonies will erect courts of admiralty, and that the judges in those courts will regulate their decisions by the law of nations, except where it is relaxed by the enclosed resolutions.

I am further directed to inform you that the Congress approve your taking such of the articles, found on board the Concord, as are necessary for the army. The necessity of the case will, they apprehend, justify the measure, even though the vessel upon trial should, contrary to their expectation, be acquitted.

I am authorized to inform you that it is the pleasure of Congress that Mr. Mifflin, the Quartermaster-General, hold the rank of Colonel in the army of the United Colonies, and that you establish his rank accordingly.

I must beg leave to refer you to the enclosed resolutions of Congress for your future proceedings, which I am directed to transmit to you. You will notice the last resolution relative to an attack upon Boston. This passed after a most serious debate in a committee of the whole House, and the execution referred to you; and may God crown your attempt with success. I most heartily wish it, though individually I may be the greatest sufferer.

I have paid Mr. Fessenden, the express, in full for his three journeys as express to Philadelphia, deducting only sixty dollars, which he says you ordered him; so that there will be no pay due to him for services performed heretofore, only for his expenses now from this place to you. If this adjustment be not right, please to inform me.

I have the honour to be, with sincere sentiments of esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To His Excellency General Washington.

P. S. Fessenden being indisposed, I have sent a special express, as Congress were anxious their resolves should reach you as quick as possible.

In Congress, December 22, 1775.

Agreeably to the Order of the Day, the Congress resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, to take into consideration the report of the Committee of Conference relative to an attack on Boston; and after debate, the President resumed the chair, and Mr. Ward reported, that the Committee had taken into their further consideration the matter to them referred, and come to a Resolution, which he was ready to report.

The report of the Committee being read, the same was agreed to, and is as follows:

Resolved, That if General Washington and his Council of War should be of opinion that a successful attack may be made on the troops in Boston, he do it in any manner he may think expedient, notwithstanding the town and the property in it may thereby be destroyed.

Extract from the minutes.

CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

By order of the Congress.

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

CAPTAIN LIVINGSTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read December 22, 1775.]

December, 1775.

SIR: The polite letter you was yesterday pleased to honour me with, I received from Mr. Duane. The compliment paid me by the Congress does me great honour. Their present is amazingly genteel, and their promise very flattering to a young man who wishes to acquire reputation.

These distinguished marks of their approbation deserve my warmest acknowledgments and most cordial thanks. These I would beg leave to present in person, did not my affection for my late father render me unfit to appear before them. This lays me under the necessity of requesting you, sir, to increase the obligation I already owe you for the part you have taken in my favour, by presenting my most unfeigned thanks to that august assembly for the unexpected honour done.

Your most obedient, humble servant,

HENRY R. LIVINGSTON, Captain.

The Honourable John Hancock, Esq.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, Friday, December 22, 1775.

The following members met, viz: John Broome, Chairman,

Mr. P. P. Van Zandt,	Mr. Theop. Anthony,	Colonel Lasher.
Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Duyckinck,	Colonel Lott,
Mr. De Peyster,	Mr. Phenix,	Mr. Burling,
Mr. Abel,	Mr. Templeton,	Mr. Low,
Captain Johnson,	Mr. Bancker,	Mr. Denning,
Mr. Ramsey,	Mr. Totten,	Mr. Miller,
Mr. Dunscomb,	Mr. Wickham,	Mr. Brinckerhoff—23.
Mr. Ray,

Committee Chamber, Tuesday, December 26, 1775.

Thirteen members met.

At a meeting of the General Committee for the City and County of New-York, on Friday, December 29, 1775. Present: John Broome, Chairman pro tem.,

Mr. J. Ray, Sen.,	Captain Dennis,	Mr. Denning,
Mr. Duyckinck,	Mr. J. Anthony,	Mr. Bloeker,
Captain Pell,	Mr. T. Anthony,	Mr. Sands,
Mr. Roome,	Mr. Dunscomb,	Mr. Janeway,
Mr. Bancker,	Mr. Ramsey,	Mr. Ivers,
Mr. Van Cortlandt,	Mr. Stoutenburgh,	Mr. Low,
Mr. Templeton,	Mr. Breasted,	Mr. Brinckerhoff,
Mr. Beekman,	Mr. Abrahams,	Mr. Norwood,
Mr. Burling,	Mr. Berrien,	Mr. De Peyster,
Captain Johnson,	Mr. Bassett,	Colonel Lott,
Mr. Abel,	Mr. J. Ray, Jun.,	Mr. Phenix.
Colonel Hyer,	Mr. Totten,

Moses Taylor applied for leave to hire a person to enter on board the Asia as a seaman, in the place of James Bowen, who was impressed on board the said ship.

Ordered, That leave be given accordingly.

Benjamin Garretson requesting a Certificate from this Committee, that he has hitherto acted friendly to the American cause; the matter being debated,

Ordered, That Mr. Garretson be called in, and the two following questions-proposed to him, viz :

1. Whether he professes himself a friend to the American cause?

2. Whether he approved of the measures pursued by the American Colonies, in the present contest with the British Administration?

The first question was answered in the affirmative.

The second, Mr. Garretson begged to be excused from answering.

The question then being put, whether Mr. Garretson should receive a Certificate from this Committee, carried in the negative.

John Warner, Captain of the Twenty-Fourth Beat, informed the Committee that one Joseph Brady had abused and damned the Congress and Committee; denied their authority; said they were a pack of damned traitors, and that he would pay no regard to any of them.

Isaac Piper's evidence corresponds with the above.

The question being put, whether Joseph Brady be apprehended immediately by an order from this Committee; carried in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Chairman issue his order to the officer on guard, directing him to cause the said Joseph Brady to be taken and kept in custody, until further orders from this Committee.

Committee adjourned until Thursday, January 4, 1776

COMMITTEE OF MAMACOTING PRECINCT TO THE DELEGATES IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Mamacoting Precinct, December 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Whereas there have been commissions granted by the Committee of Safety for the Province of New-York, for officers for the northeast division of the Precinct of Mamacoting, which officers were not legally chosen; and in order to have that affair rectified, we apply to you, being both of our delegates in Provincial Congress.

In a letter directed to us by Colonel Jacob Hornbeck, dated October the 19th, 1775, we were informed that there was a return made to Congress the 19th of August last, signed John Young, Chairman, of John Crage, Captain, John Graham, First Lieutenant, John McKinster, Second Lieutenant, and John McCrery, Ensign; which return we testify to be a counterfeit, and was countermanded in a letter by us directed to Colonel Hornbeck, who was then one of our delegates, dated October the 26th, 1775; and the officers legally elected or chosen were returned in said letter, viz : John Crage, Captain, Manuel Gunsalis, First Lieutenant, William Rose, Second Lieutenant, and Isaac Rosa, Ensign.

Whereas this mistake creates a great uneasiness in the company, we request the favour of you, or either of you, to explain the affair to Congress, and have it rectified.

As for John Crage, as he was legally chosen Captain, he has signed the Declaration; so we conclude there will be no need of another commission for him; but refer it entirely to your better judgment.

Gentlemen, your speedy compliance with our request will greatly oblige your humble servant.

By order of the Committee :

JOHN YOUNG, Chairman.

To Andreas De Witt, Esq., and Mr. Samuel Brewster, Delegates in Provincial Congress.

P. S. Whereas there is a return made to us of the officers elected for the Coshocton Company, we return them to you, in order to grant them commissions, viz : Bezaleel Tyler, Jun., Captain; Nathaniel Reves, First Lieutenant; Moses Thomas, Second Lieutenant; Nathan Mitchell, Ensign.

TO GENERAL MONTGOMERY.

Montreal, December 22, 1775.

SIR: Although we have not the honour to be known to you, we find it very necessary to acquaint you with what passes here, to the end that you may not in future fall a victim to the humanity which has been your chief guide since your arrival at this city. Humanity and generosity are qualities inestimable to men, but in certain circumstances the situation of the person ought to be considered, to the end, that care may be taken that such generosity may not be used to serve other purposes. Many of the citizens are surprised that all the place-men that were made prisoners in the eleven vessels near Sorel, have not been sent down to the neighbouring Colonies, as these persons go in and out of almost every house in the city, holding conversations big with the most inhuman sentiments, and the most disadvantageous to the cause of liberty. There are also in town those who hold commissions under Government, who hold very indecent and very indiscreet conversations, and who grow insolent and insupportable. It is therefore to be hoped that as soon as the rivers are frozen, and that the roads are passable, that you will send all those who were taken in the eleven vessels, down to the other Colonies on the Continent. It is the only method to silence those who have any bad designs, and to procure peace and tranquillity to those who have nothing more at heart than your welfare and success; and who desire to assure you that they are, with true sincerity and respect, sir, your most humble and most obedient servant.

THE FAITHFUL UNION WITH LIBERTY.

The above is a translation of an original letter sent from Montreal to General Montgomery, at the camp before Quebeck, by some friends to the cause.

CONNECTICUT COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

At a meeting of the Governour, &c., at New-Haven, Friday, December 22, 1775, present :

His Honour the Governour, Hon. Deputy-Governour Griswold, Jabez Huntington, Samuel Huntington, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, and Benjamin Huntington, Esquires.

On motion, &c., Voted, That an order be drawn on the Pay-Table in favour of Captain Robert Niles, of the armed schooner Spy, for the sum of one hundred Pounds, to be by him accounted for on settlement of his accounts, and in so far payment of the wages, &c., of his hands on board said schooner.

An Order drawn and delivered him next morning.

Messrs. Greenough, Fitch, and Austin, Committee for building field and other carriages for the cannon at New-Haven, by order laid in their account to be adjusted, and there is on examination allowed thereon the sum of one hundred and fifteen Pounds, eight Shillings, six and three-quarter Pence, for carriages, &c., built by order, and exclusive of the expense of building several of their own notion, before they had any directions about it.

An Order for the sum allowed, drawn, and delivered to Colonel Jonathan Fitch.

Captain Joseph Thompson, of the Company raised for the defence of New-Haven, moves that the season is so far advanced, and the weather so severe, that they can be little or no service in carrying on the works of defence at Black-Rock, or for any other purpose, &c.

And on consideration, Voted, That said Captain Thompson and Company be discharged from further service on their present establishment; said dismission to take place on the morrow, being the 23d.

On motion, Voted and granted, That Captain Thompson be allowed for extra service while on the works at Black-Rock, in cold, severe weather, &c., the sum of forty Shillings per month, for one and a half months; is three Pounds in the whole.

Allowed several small bills and accounts laid in by Benjamin Huntington, Esq., for Captain John Lester, for building ship-carriages, &c., the sum of eight Pounds, fifteen Shillings, and five Pence, in the whole; and 3d of January, 1776, gave Captain Lester an order, and dismissed.

Met again at New-Haven next evening, and did several things; consulted Captain Sears, &c., about Todd's brig, &c.; and desired him to take care of the brig bought of Captain Grigg, and coming into New-Haven, &c., and prepare an estimate of stores, &c., for the same, &c.

NEW-YORK PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

At a Provincial Congress held for the Colony of New-York, on Wednesday morning, December 6, 1775:

The Deputies chosen to represent the Counties of New-York, Albany, Dutchess, Westchester, and Suffolk, in Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York, having met frequently since the 14th day of November last past, that being the day appointed by the dissolution of the late Provincial Congress for the meeting of this Congress, but a representation of a majority of the Counties not having sooner attended, they could not proceed to business until this day, when the Deputies from a majority of the Counties appeared, and the gentlemen hereafter named were present, to wit:

For the City and County of NEW-YORK: Alexander McDougall, James Beekman, Abraham Brasher, John Van Cortlandt, John Ray, Anthony Rutgers, Comfort Sands, Jacobus Van Zandt, Isaac Roosevelt.

For the City and County of ALBANY: Robert Van Rensselaer, Jacob Cuyler, Francis Nicoll, Leonard Gansevoort, John I. Bleeker.

DUTCHESS County: Gilbert Livingston, Cornelius Humphreys, Jun., Henry Schenck.

For the County of ULSTER: Thomas Palmer, Matthew Cantine.

WESTCHESTER County: Lewis Graham, Gilbert Drake, Joseph Drake.

SUFFOLK County: Nathaniel Woodhull, John Sloss Hobart, Ezra L'Hommédieu.

KING'S County: John Leffertse.

GOSHEN Precinct, in ORANGE County: Peter Clowes.

The Congress then proceeded to the choice of the following Officers, who were unanimously elected, viz: Colonel Nathaniel Woodhull, President.

John McKesson, Esq., Mr. Robert Benson, Secretaries. Thomas Pettit, Doorkeeper and Messenger.

The Deputies for the City and County of New-York produced a Certificate from the General Committee of the said City and County, dated November 10, 1775, and signed by John Broome, Chairman pro tempore,* whereby it appears that Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Cornelius Clopper, Alexander McDougall, Joseph Hallett, Thomas Smith, Abraham Brasher, Isaac Roosevelt, James Beekman, Benjamin Kissam, John Morin Scott, John Van Cortlandt, Jacobus Van Zandt, John Morton, Isaac Sears, John Ray, Theodorus Van Wyck, Anthony Rutgers, John Imlay, Gabriel W. Ludlow, Benjamin Helme, and Comfort Sands, were, by a great majority of voices, elected Deputies for the City and County of New-York; and that they, or any seven of them, do represent the City and County of New-York, in Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

The Deputies for the City and County of Albany produced a Certificate from the Committee of the County of Albany, dated November 11th, 1775, signed Matthew Visscher, Secretary,† certifying that Abraham Ten Broeck, Abraham Yates, Jun., Jacob Cuyler, Francis Nicoll, Ro-

* Pursuant to an order of the General Committee, we, the subscribers, superintended the poll taken to-day, at the City Hall, for the election of Deputies to represent this City and County in the ensuing Provincial Congress, and do hereby certify that the following twenty-one gentlemen were chosen by a great majority, viz:

Peter V. B. Livingston, Joseph Hallett, Isaac Roosevelt, John M. Scott, John Morton, Theodorus Van Wyck, Gabriel W. Ludlow, Cornelius Clopper, Thomas Smith, James Beekman, John Van Cortlandt, Isaac Sears, Anthony Rutgers, Benjamin Helme, Alexander McDougall, Abraham Brasher, Benjamin Kissam, Jacobus Van Zandt, John Ray, John Imlay, Comfort Sands.

And we do further certify, that the electors at the same time did constitute any seven of the forementioned persons to be a quorum.

JOHN IMLAY, DANIEL PHENIX,
ROBERT RAY, JOHN BROOME,
EV. BANKER,

NEW-YORK, November 7, 1775.

At a meeting of the General Committee of the City and County of New-York, on Friday evening, November 10, 1775: Present, John Broome, Esq., Chairman pro tempore, and thirty-five members.

The sub-Committee appointed to superintend the election for Deputies to represent the City and County of New-York, in Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York, delivered in their Report, which being read, was unanimously approved of.

Ordered, That the Chairman of this Committee deliver a certified copy of the foregoing Report to one of the Deputies chosen to represent this City and County in the ensuing Provincial Congress.

JOHN BROOME, Chair'n pro tem.

† ALBANY COMMITTEE CHAMBER, November 11, 1775.—Pursuant to the resolves of this Committee entered into on the 30th ultimo, yesterday bert Yates, Henry Glen, Peter Silvester, Peter R. Livingston, John James Bleeker, Leonard Gansevoort, Henry Oothoudt, and Robert Van Rensselaer, were, by a majority of votes, elected Deputies for the said City and County; and that they, or any five of them, represent the said City and County in Provincial Congress. And, by another Certificate from the said Committee, dated November 23, 1775, and signed by Matthew Visscher, Secretary,* a Resolution appears that the above-mentioned gentlemen, or any four of them, do attend and represent the said City and County in Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

The Deputies of the County of Dutchess produced a Certificate from the Committee of the said County, dated November 8, 1775, and signed by Egbert Benson, Chairman,† whereby it appears that Petrus Ten Broeck, Beverly Robinson, Cornelius Humphreys, Henry Schenck, Gilbert Livingston, John Kaine, Jacob Everson, Morris Graham, and Robert G. Livingston, Esquires, were elected Deputies for the said County, with power to them, or any three of them, to represent the said County in Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

The Deputies for the County of Ulster produced a Certificate from the Committee of the said County, dated the 7th November, 1775, and signed by Johannes Sleight, Chairman pro tempore,‡ whereby it appears that Henry the polls of the several elections held in the respective Districts in this County, for Deputies to represent this City and County in Provincial Congress, and the names of the several voters, and the Deputies they had voted for, being carefully counted, a majority of votes appeared for Abraham Ten Broeck, Abraham Yates, Jun., Jacob Cuyler, Francis Nicoll, Robert Yates, Henry Glen, Peter Silvester, Peter R. Livingston, John James Bleeker, Leonard Gansevoort, Henry Oothoudt, and Robert Van Rensselaer.

This Committee do thereupon hereby declare the said persons to be duly elected; and that they, or any five of them, represent this City and County in Provincial Congress during the time mentioned in the resolves of the Provincial Congress.

A true copy from the minutes.

MATTHEW VISSCHER, Sec'y.

* ALBANY COMMITTEE CHAMBER, November 23, 1775.—Whereas this Committee, on the 11th instant, from the return of the polls of the several elections held in the respective Districts in this County, for Deputies to represent this City and County in Provincial Congress, did declare Abraham Ten Broeck, Abraham Yates, Jun., Jacob Cuyler, Francis Nicoll, Robert Yates, Henry Glen, Peter Silvester, Peter R. Livingston, John James Bleeker, Leonard Gansevoort, Henry Oothoudt, and Robert Van Rensselaer, to be duly elected; and that they, or any five of them, represent this City and County in Provincial Congress during the time mentioned in the resolves of the Provincial Congress. But, by reason of the inconvenience attending the attendance of that number, it is

Resolved, That the said persons, or any four of them, attend said Congress, and represent this City and County during the time aforesaid. A true copy from the minutes. MATTHEW VISSCHER, Sec'y.

† This is to certify, that at an election held at Poughkeepsie, in the County of Dutchess, in pursuance of a resolution of the Provincial Congress of this Colony, of the 27th of October last, under the inspection of the General Committee of the said County, on the 7th and 8th days of November, 1775, Petrus Ten Broeck, Beverly Robinson, Cornelius Humphreys, Henry Schenck, Gilbert Livingston, John Kaine, Jacob Everson, Morris Graham, and Robert G. Livingston, Jun., Esq's., were elected Delegates for the County of Dutchess, with power to them, or any three of them, to represent the said County in a Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York, appointed to meet at the City of New-York on the 14th instant.

By order of the Committee: EGERT BENSON, Chair'n.

DUTCHESS COUNTY COMMITTEE, November 8, 1775.

‡ At a meeting of the Committee for the County of Ulster, on Tuesday, the 7th of November, 1775, at the house of Mr. Roelofs Eltinge, in the New-Paltz, the following persons appeared:

For KINGSTON: Johannes Sleight, Esq., Johannes Beekman, Tobias Van Buren.

For HURLY: Charles De Witt, Adrian Wynkoop, Esquires.

For MARLBOROUGH: David Bevier.

ROCHESTER: Andreas De Witt, Esq., Hendricus Hornbeck.

NEW-PALTZ: Johannes A. Hardenbergh, Joseph Hasbroeck.

SHAWANGUNK: Johannes Janse, Esq.

NEUBUCH: Abel Belknap.

NEW-WINDSOR: Samuel Brewster.

NEW-MARLBOROUGH: Bordenwyn Teerpenning.

WALLEILL: Philip Swartwout, John McInster, Andrew McCord.

HANOVER: James McBride, Alexander Trimble.

The Committee then appointed Johannes Sleight, Esq., to sit as Chairman pro tem., and Johannes Bruin and Israel Smith to serve as clerks. A considerable number of freeholders of the County of Ulster being then assembled, pursuant to the resolves of the Congress, in order to choose eight Deputies to represent this County; and then, under the inspection of the above Committee, did, by the major voice, choose and elect Henry Wisner, Matthew Rea, Dirck Wynkoop, Matthew Cantine, Andreas De Witt and Andrews Lefever, Esquires, Messrs. Thomas Palmer and Samuel Brewster, for the purpose aforesaid.

The Committee then resolved, that three of the above Deputies appearing in Congress at one time, shall be entitled to act and give their votes for said County. A true copy from the minutes.

By order of the Committee:

JOHANNES SLEIGHT, Chair'n pro tem.

Wisner, Matthew Rea, Dirk Wynkoop, Jun., Matthew Cantine, Andreas Dewitt, and Andreas Lefever, Esqrs., Messrs. Thomas Palmer and Samuel Brewster, were elected Deputies to represent the said County; and by a resolution of the said Committee, that they, or any three of them, be entitled to act and give their votes for the said County.

The Deputies of the County of Westchester produced a Certificate from the Committee of the said County, dated 7th November 1775, and signed by *Gilbert Drake, Chairman, whereby it appears that Colonel Lewis Graham, Stephen Ward, Esq., Colonel Joseph Drake, Robert Graham, Esq., John Thomas, Jun., Esq., Mr. William Paulding, Major Ebenezer Lockwood, Colonel Pierre Van Cortlandt, and Colonel Gilbert Drake, were duly elected Delegates to represent the said County in Provincial Congress, with power to any three of them to act for the said County.

The Deputies for the County of Suffolk, produced a Certificate from the Committee of the said County, dated November 7, 1775, and signed by William Smith, Chairman,† whereby it appears that John Sloss Hobart, Thomas Tredwell, Selah Strong, Nathaniel Woodhull, Ezra L'Homedieu, David Gelston, Thomas Wickham, and Daniel Brown, Esquires, were unanimously elected Deputies to represent the said County in Provincial Congress, with power for any three of them to be a quorum, and give the vote of the said County.

Peter Clowes, Esq., a Deputy for Orange County, produced a Certificate of Benjamin Tusteen, Benjamin Gale, and Daniel Everett, Esquires,‡ three of the Committee of Goshen Precinct, who inspected the election, and also a Certificate from the said Committee of Goshen Precinct, signed by Daniel Everett, Chairman,§ each dated 27th November last, whereby it appeared, that a meeting of the freeholders and tenants in Goshen Precinct, entitled to vote for Deputies, Peter Clowes and William Allison, Esquires,

* To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York: We the Committee for the County of Westchester, do humbly certify, that at the election for Delegates to represent the said County in the next Provincial Congress, to be held at New-York, the 14th instant, which was this day held at the Court-House of the said County, Colonel Lewis Graham, Stephen Ward, Esq., Colonel Joseph Drake, Robert Graham, Esq., John Thomas, Jun., Esq., Mr. William Paulding, Major Ebenezer Lockwood, Colonel Pierre Van Cortlandt, and Colonel Gilbert Drake, were duly elected, agreeably to the resolves of the Provincial Congress, to represent this County until the second Tuesday in May next; and that it was voted by the people that any three of the said Deputies should act for this County.

By order of the Committee: GILBERT DRAKE, Chair'n.

Dated the 7th day of November, 1775.

A true copy from the Minutes, taken by Micah Townsend, Clerk of the Committee.

† At a meeting of the freeholders of Suffolk County, in the Colony of New-York, held at the County Hall, on the 7th day of November, 1775, duly warned for the purpose of electing Deputies to represent this County in Provincial Congress, until the second Tuesday in May next:

Voted, unanimously, That John Sloss Hobart, Thomas Tredwell, Selah Strong, Nathaniel Woodhull, Ezra L'Homedieu, David Gelston, Thomas Wickham, and Daniel Brown, Esquires, be the Deputies to represent this County at the ensuing Provincial Congress, to meet at New-York, the fourteenth day of this instant, and that any three of them be a quorum, and empowered to give the vote of this County in the said Congress. By order of the County Committee:

Attest: EZRA L'HOMEDIEU, Clerk. WILLIAM SMITH, Chairman.

‡ GENTLEMEN: We received your favour of the 23d inst., and, agreeably to your request, have immediately summoned our Precinct together, which, through some unhappy mistake of the County Committee, has not been notified to meet before, and have unanimously elected Peter Clowes and William Allison, Esqrs., as part of the Deputies for this County, and which was left by the other Precincts as our proportion of representation. We hope, gentlemen, that you will not refuse the gentlemen above-mentioned, their seats, since our County has fallen into the method of choosing their Deputies in the respective Precincts. Signed by the Inspectors of the election. By order of the Committee:

BENJAMIN TUSTEEN,
BENJAMIN GALE,
DANIEL EVERETT.

To Mr. Robert Benson.

GOSHEN, November 27, 1775.

§ These are to certify, that at a meeting of the freeholders and tenants of Goshen Precinct, entitled to vote for Deputies to represent them in Provincial Congress,

Voted, unanimously, That Peter Clowes and William Allison, Esqrs., be Deputies for said Precinct, in order to complete the number allotted to the County of Orange. And at the same meeting, unanimously agreed, that any two of the Deputies for said County, represent them in said Congress, viz: one on the south, and one on the north side of the mountains. Signed by order:

DANIEL EVERETT, Clerk.

GOSHEN, November 27, 1775.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

were unanimously elected Deputies for the said Precinct, as their proportion of the representation of the said County, and to complete the number of Deputies allotted to the said County of Orange; and that at the same meeting it was unanimously agreed, that any two of the Deputies for said County, represent them in said Congress, viz: one on the south, and one on the north side of the mountains.

The same two Certificates were approved, and ordered to be filed with the Secretaries;

But it is agreed and understood, That Mr. Clowes cannot have a vote for Orange County, until one or more Deputies arrive from Orange County.

Agreed and Ordered, That the sense of this Congress upon every Question be taken and determined by a majority of the Counties then having Deputies in Congress. And that for the present the City and County of New-York be considered as four, the City and County of Albany as three, and that of each of the other Counties respectively as two; but that this arrangement shall continue only till some other arrangement shall be made and agreed on by this Congress.

The following Rules are agreed to, and resolved to be the Rules of this Congress, viz:

1st. That the President, and in his absence, a President to be appointed pro tem., shall preside at every meeting, and keep order and decorum, and that it shall be his duty to sign all letters from this Congress.

2d. That all motions and addresses be made to the Chair, and standing.

3d. That if more than one shall rise to speak at the same time, the President shall determine who shall first be heard.

4th. That the substance of every motion made and seconded, shall be entered on the minutes.

5th. That no interruption shall be suffered while a Member is delivering his sentiments.

6th. That every question shall be determined by a majority of voices; and after the determination of any matter or thing, the same question shall not be reassumed, but with the consent of a majority of this Congress, at a subsequent meeting, and that upon notice having been given of the motion for reassuming such matter, at least one day before such motion be made, and notice thereof given to the Members representing each County, who shall then be in the City of New-York.

7th. That when any question shall be determined upon a division, the names of the respective Counties shall be entered as they shall vote on each side; but any Member for any County may be at liberty to have his name and dissent from the vote of his County entered on the Minutes.

8th. That this Congress shall from time to time, meet on their own adjournments for the present.

9th. That for the despatch of business, and to prevent interruptions, the doors at our meetings shall be shut, and that none but Members be permitted to take copies of the proceedings of this Congress.

10th. That no Question shall be determined on the day that it is agitated, if three Counties shall request that it be deferred to the next day.

11th. That no Member shall be at liberty to speak more than twice to the same point, without leave of the President for the time then being.

12th. That no Member shall absent himself from the Congress; that no Member shall depart from the Chamber until the Congress be adjourned; and that no Member shall depart from the City of New-York during an adjournment of this Congress, without leave first obtained.

13th. That every Member of this Congress shall keep secret all such matters, proceedings, and things in this Congress, as shall be enjoined from the Chair to be kept secret.

14th. That whenever the proceedings of this Congress shall be published at the close of this session, all the Minutes shall be published, and no part concealed, unless such as the unanimous voice of the Counties shall declare to be of a secret or unimportant nature; but that extracts of the proceedings may nevertheless be published from time to time as the Congress shall think fit.

Resolved, That this Congress will meet every morning,

Sundays excepted, at ten o'clock; that the Congress shall adjourn at one o'clock, and meet again at three o'clock.

Ordered, That Mr. Hobart, Mr. Palmer, and Mr. Bleecker, be a Committee to examine and liquidate the Accounts of the Treasurer of this Congress, and prepare a state of them to be laid before the Continental Congress, and that they report thereon with all convenient speed.

Ordered, That Mr. L'Hommedieu, Mr. Brasher, Mr. Gansevoort, and Mr. Schenck, be a Committee to examine the Letters and Papers received since the dissolution of the last Provincial Congress, and to report the steps necessary to be taken thereon.

Resolved and Ordered, That Messrs. Jacobus Van Zandt, James Beekman, Abraham Brasher, John Ray, and Comfort Sands, or any majority of them, be a Committee to audit all Accounts which are or shall be payable, or produced for payment, in this Colony, for any charges or disbursements accrued, or that may accrue on account of the United Colonies, or by means, or on account of, any order of this Congress, and that they, or a majority of them, do certify on every Account by them audited, how much shall be paid on, or for such Account; and Resolved and Ordered, further, That the Treasurer appointed by this Congress be authorized to pay and discharge on all such Accounts so audited, such sum or sums as shall be certified by the said Committee, or a major part of them, to be due and payable on or for such Accounts.

Resolved and Ordered, That Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq., be Treasurer for this Congress, of all money received, or to be received, or that shall be issued in this Colony, for the general defence of America, or the Continental service, or the particular defence or service of this Colony.

The Congress then adjourned till three o'clock, this afternoon.

Wednesday, December 6, P. M.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Colonel Woodhull, President.

For the City and County of New-York.—Mr. Cortlandt, Mr. Ray, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Sands, Colonel Brasher, Colonel McDougall.
Suffolk.—Mr. L'Hommedieu, Mr. Hobart.

Albany.—Mr. Gansevoort, Colonel Nicoll, Captain Cuyler, Mr. Bleecker, Colonel Rensselaer.

Westchester.—Colonel Graham, Colonel Joseph Drake, Colonel Gilbert Drake.

King's.—Mr. Leffertse.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Gilbert Livingston, Mr. Schenck.

Ulster.—Mr. Palmer, Mr. Cantine, Mr. Wynkoop.

For Goshen Precinct, Orange County.—Mr. Clowes.

Mr. Palmer delivered in the Returns of the Officers of three Companies of Minute-Men in Ulster County, which were read, approved of, and ordered to be filed.

Ordered, That the Commissions issue to the Officers of the said three Companies as elected and returned.

Agreed, unanimously, That Captain John Grenell be recommended to the Continental Congress to be released from his present duty, and recommended for Captain of a Company of Matrosses, and that a Letter be wrote to the Continental Congress for that purpose.

Ordered, That Mr. Palmer and Mr. Schenck be a Committee to view the Arms at Allen's, the Gunsmith's, wanted to be purchased for Lord Sterling, and that they agree for them, or such of them as they think proper, and at such price as they think reasonable.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Congress, that additional Barracks be immediately built at the Fortifications on the banks of the Hudson's river, in the Highlands, which, with those already built, will be capable of quartering one thousand men; and also a Magazine sufficient to contain provisions for the like number of men for one month.

Ordered, That the Commissioners appointed to superintend the building of the said Fortifications do provide the materials necessary for building the said Barracks and Magazine, and they do cause the same to be built and completely finished as soon as possible.

The Congress then proceeded to hear all the Papers and Letters between the Commissioners at the Fortifications and Bernard Romans, Engineer; and thereupon Ordered, That Messrs. Nicoll, Palmer, and Joseph Drake, be a Committee to repair to the Fortifications in the Highlands, and endeavour to accommodate the difference subsisting between the Commissioners for erecting the said Fortifications and the Engineer; and in case they shall not be able to accommodate the said difference, to give such directions as they may think necessary for expediting the work of the said Fortifications, in such manner as they shall judge best for the publick service; and make report as well of the true causes of such difference, with all necessary facts relating to the same, as of such directions as they shall have given for expediting the said work.

Ordered, That Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq., as Treasurer of this Congress, do advance and pay to Mr. John Berrien, as Commissary for the Commissioners for erecting the Fortifications on the banks of Hudson's River, in the Highlands, and one of the said Commissioners, the sum of one thousand Pounds on account, to enable him to discharge the like sum lately borrowed in the recess of the Provincial Congress of this Colony, by Mr. Berrien and two other gentlemen, to discharge debts necessarily contracted for necessities for the said Fortifications.

Whereas, great inconveniences may arise if any Sutors or Retailers of Liquor should be permitted to suttle or retail Liquors among the Artificers and Labourers at the Fortifications in the Highlands,

Resolved and Ordered, That the Commissioners at the Fortifications in the Highlands do not permit or suffer any Sutor or Retailer of Liquor of any kind, or under any denomination whatever, to remain at or near the said Fortifications, amongst the Mechanicks, Labourers, or other persons at or about the said Fortifications, except such as are specially appointed by the commanding Officer of the Continental Troops, for the time being, among his own Troops only, under his direction, and subject to military law.

The Congress adjourned till ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Thursday A. M., December 7, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Colonel Nathaniel Woodhull, President.

For New-York.—Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Brasher, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Ray, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Sands, Colonel McDougall, Mr. Cortlandt, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Scott.
Albany.—Colonel Rensselaer, Captain Cuyler, Colonel Nicoll, Mr. Bleecker, Mr. Gansevoort.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Gilbert Livingston, Mr. Schenck.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine, Mr. Wynkoop, Mr. Palmer.

Suffolk.—Mr. Hobart, Mr. L'Hommedieu, Mr. Strong.

King's.—Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Leffertse.

Westchester.—Colonel Joseph Drake, Colonel Graham, Colonel Gilbert Drake.

For Goshen Precinct, Orange County.—Mr. Clowes.

A Letter from Egbert Benson, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Dutchess County, informing the Congress of a new Committee's being chosen for the said County; that they had again honoured him with the Chair; that, as he resides in the extreme part of the County, many inconveniences might arise, if all matters respecting the said County should be directed to him, and therefore, at a meeting of the said Committee, they had appointed Col. Freer, Capt. Platt, and Messrs. John Child, Paul Schenck, and Peter Tappan, (all residing at Poughkeepsie), a Committee of Correspondence, and requesting that all Letters, &c., from this Congress respecting their County, be directed in future to those gentlemen, was read and filed.

Another Letter from Egbert Benson, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Dutchess County, dated November 28, 1775, was read and filed, and is in the words following:

“Red Hook, Dutchess County, November 28, 1775.

“SIR: I am now to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from some individual members of our late Congress, enclosing copies of certain resolutions of the Continental Congress, of the 8th inst., respecting a number of men to be furnished by this County for the use of the fortress in the Highlands.

"The letter came to hand the 18th inst., and I would immediately have called the County Committee together, but found it would be the saving only of a few days, the stated meeting being the 27th, and therefore, with the unanimous advice of the friends of the cause in the neighbourhood, I thought proper to defer the matter till that time, especially as the calling a special meeting, the members being dispersed through the County, is attended with considerable expense. There was a circumstance, also, of which I supposed the Congress ignorant, that induced me to think that the business did not require such immediate despatch, namely, that Captain Havens with fifty men, belonging to the Continental forces (the party that escorted the Chambly garrison to Connecticut) were on their march to garrison the fortification.

"I laid the letter before our General Committee on Monday last, who ordered me to write to the Colonels of the two Minute regiments in the County, desiring them each to hold a company in readiness to march at a minute's warning, with a request also, that those gentlemen would immediately write to the commanding officer at the fortress, informing him of the places of rendezvous of their respective regiments.

"This measure was advised by three members of the Continental Congress, whom I saw as they passed through this County in their way to the northward. They informed me that they had been at the fort where they had left part of two companies, and that when Mr. Havens arrived with his party there would be men sufficient for its present defence, or at least as many as could conveniently be accommodated, and therefore proposed that we should only hold a company or two ready to march upon an emergency.

"I have the pleasure to inform the Congress, that several companies have not only turned out as volunteers, but have, both men and officers, solicited the service.

"I remain, by order of the Committee, your very humble servant,

"EOBERT BENSON, Chairman.

"Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress, New-York."

Ordered, That Messrs. Roosevelt and John Van Cortlandt wait on the Speaker of the General Assembly of this Colony, and inform him that the Provincial Congress, finding it inconvenient to meet in the Exchange, intend to remove to the Assembly Chamber, and request him to direct the Clerks of the Assembly to take proper care of the Books and Papers of the General Assembly in such manner as he shall direct.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Van Cortlandt returned, and informed the Congress that the Speaker of the General Assembly has ordered Mr. Bancker to take care of the Books and Papers of the General Assembly, and that the Congress may use the said room immediately.

The Letter or Note of Lieutenants Borough and Richardson of yesterday was read, and is in the words following, viz:

"New-York, December 6, 1775.

"Lieutenants Borough and Richardson, of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment, now upon their parole in this town, request to be informed by the Provincial Congress of New-York what route the garrison of St. John's has taken, and also request that they would lengthen the enclosed papers fourteen days, with permission to remain a few days at Perth-Amboy. Their answer to the above, sent to Mrs. Airy's, will much oblige those gentlemen."

The Certificates of General Schuyler of the parole of those gentlemen, enclosed in the note or card above copied, were also read.

An answer to Lieutenants Borough and Richardson was read and approved, and is in the words following, to wit:

The Provincial Congress informs Lieutenants Borough and Richardson, that they are not apprized of the route the garrison of St. John's have taken; that they conceive it out of their province to lengthen the parole of General Schuyler, and that the Congress conceive Colonel McDougall, as commanding officer in this city, to be the proper person to be applied to with respect to their going to the westward.

Ordered, That the said answer, with the Certificates of the General, be sent to Lieutenants Borough and Richardson, by the Doorkeeper.

Colonel McDougall moved (seconded by Captain Cuyler) in the words following, viz:

I move that Jacobus Oostrum, Johannes Medlar, and Barnt Lewis, be kept in close confinement in the jail of Dutchess County, at their respective expense, until the further order of this or some future Congress; and that such of them who have not means to support themselves, be maintained at the publick expense; provided the want of such means shall appear to the satisfaction of the Committee of that County.

Debates arose on the said motion; and the question being put thereon, it was carried in the affirmative, in manner following, to wit:

For the Affirmative.	For the Negative.
3 Albany.	2 King's.
2 Suffolk.	—
2 Westchester.	2 votes.
2 Ulster.
4 New-York.
2 Dutchess.
15 votes.

Resolved, therefore, That Jacobus Oostrum, Johannes Medlar, and Barnt Lewis, be kept in close confinement in the Jail of Dutchess County, at their respective expense, until the further order of this or some future Congress; and that such of them who have not means to support themselves, be maintained at the publick expense; provided the want of such means shall appear to the satisfaction of the Committee of that County.

Ordered, That a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Committee of that County.

Messrs. Palmer and Schenck, the Committee appointed for purchasing one hundred stand of Arms for the Jersey Forces, reported that they have agreed with Jacamah Allen for sixty three-quarter bore, and forty of five-eighth bore Muskets, with double-bridle Locks, Bayonets, and Scabbards, complete, at four pounds each; to be complete in ten days.

Mr. Hobart, from the Committee appointed to examine the Accounts of the Treasurer, delivered in their Report, which was read, and is in the words following, to wit:

Your Committee report, that they have examined the Treasurer's Account, and find that the money has been regularly paid in consequence of orders from the Committee of Accounts, but that no separation has been made between the Continental charges and those which are merely Provincial, which your Committee are of opinion ought to be done.

Ordered, That Mr. Pettit, the Doorkeeper of this Congress, do wait upon Messrs. Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Joseph Hallett, Thomas Smith, Benjamin Kissam, John Morton, Isaac Sears, Gabriel W. Ludlow, and Benjamin Helme, Deputies with others chosen to represent the City and County of New-York, in this Congress, and desire them to take their seats in Congress, or assign their reasons for their non-attendance, without delay; and that the Secretaries do furnish the said Deputies with a copy of this order.

The Congress adjourned till three o'clock, this afternoon.

Thursday, P. M., December 7, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Colonel Woodhull, President.

For New-York.—Col. Brasher, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Ray, Colonel McDougall, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Scott, Mr. Sands.

Albany.—Captain Bleecker, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Nicoll, Captain Cuyler, Colonel Rensselaer.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Gilbert Livingston, Mr. Schenck.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine, Mr. Palmer.

Westchester.—Colonel Joseph Drake, Colonel Graham, Colonel Gilbert Drake.

Suffolk.—Mr. Hobart, Mr. Strong, Mr. L'Honniedieu.

King's.—Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Leffertse.

Ordered, That Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq., as Treasurer of this Congress, do advance to John Berrien, as Commissary of the Commissioners for erecting the Fortifications on the banks of Hudson's river, in the Highlands, and one of the said Commissioners, the sum of one thousand pounds, for the necessary purposes of erecting the said Fortifications, and defraying the debts contracted on account thereof; that Mr. Berrien send up such part thereof to the other Commissioners as he may think proper or necessary, and retain the residue thereof in his own hands, to discharge the debts already contracted, or that may necessarily be contracted by him as Commissary for the said Commissioners, and one of the said Commissioners.

Friday Morning, December 8, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Colonel Woodhull, President.

For New-York.—Captain Rutgers, Mr. Smith, Colonel Brasher, Colonel McDougall, Mr. Sands, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Ray, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Van Zandt.

Albany.—Colonel Rensselaer, Colonel Nicoll, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Bleecker, Captain Cuyler.

Dutchess.—Mr. Gilbert Livingston, Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Schenck.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine, Mr. Palmer.

Goshen Precinct, Orange County.—Mr. Clowes.

Westchester.—Colonel Graham, Colonel Gilbert Drake, Colonel Joseph Drake.

Suffolk.—Mr. Strong, Mr. Hobart.

King's.—Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Leffertse.

A draft of a Letter to the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress, was read and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

In Provincial Congress, New-York, December 8, 1775.

SIR: We are honoured with your favour of November the 3d, enclosing resolves of Congress respecting the exportation of the produce of the United Colonies; the conduct to be observed by the Colonies, which are not included in the Restraining Act, &c.; of the 9th, by express, enclosing resolves of Congress touching the fortresses on Hudson's river, in the Highlands; of the 10th, concerning the clothing of the army in the Northern department; and of the 27th, requesting us to furnish Lord Stirling with what fire-arms we could conveniently spare.

It gives us pain that letters of such great importance should remain so long unanswered; but the late Provincial Congress having broke up without appointing a Committee of Safety, and the present Congress not meeting till yesterday, has prevented their being properly noticed. However, a considerable number of the members who were in town, took upon themselves to give directions for the executing such parts of the resolves, respecting the fortresses in the Highlands, as would not admit of delay, and for expediting the clothing of the army, which we hope is, before this, safely arrived in Albany.

Not having any fire-arms belonging to the Colony which could be spared, a Committee has been appointed to purchase them in the city, who have engaged one hundred stand, to be ready in ten days.

We shall use the utmost despatch to complete every thing committed to our care respecting the fortifications on Hudson's river. The delay in our meeting has prevented the raising the artillery company directed by Congress. We have nominated Captain John Grenell, of Colonel Clinton's regiment, as the most proper person we can meet with for the command of an artillery company. He now commands a detachment of that regiment at the post in the Highlands, from whence we cannot call him without leave of the Congress. As his company is at present incomplete, and the time of inlistment is nearly expired, we beg leave to suggest whether it would not be proper to leave the company under the command of his first lieutenant for the present.

We pray the sense of Congress on this matter as soon as possible; and at the same time to be informed what is the establishment of the artillery with respect to pay, clothing, and arms.

We doubt not but the resolves of Congress, of November 1, will be most religiously observed by the inhabitants of this Colony.

It gives us the highest satisfaction to find that our conduct, respecting the commerce of this Colony, meets with the approbation of the Congress; and the polite manner in which you are pleased to communicate their vote of thanks, demands our most grateful acknowledgments.

We have the honour to be, with the highest respect and esteem, sir, your most obedient, humble servants.

To the Hon. John Hancock, President of the Congress.

P. S. We beg leave to inform the Congress, that in obedience to their order, three companies of minute-men they directed, with their proper officers, are stationed in the Highlands, near the fortifications, and under the command of Captain John Grenell, the present commanding officer of the Continental forces at the fortress.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

A draft of a Letter to the Delegates of this Colony at Continental Congress, was read and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

In Provincial Congress, New-York, December 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: At this late date we acknowledge the receipt of your favours of 3d, 9th, and 29th November last, having been, till the 6th inst., in the unhappy predicament of not having members sufficient to make a Congress.

We are much obliged to you for putting it in our power to recommend, through you, an officer to command at the fortress in the Highlands. We are fully of opinion with you, gentlemen, that the person to fill that important office should be not only of the strictest honesty and fidelity, but also well acquainted with the pass he must defend. We therefore recommend Gilbert Livingston, Esq., Mr. William Bedlow, Mr. Thomas Grenell, and Mr. Jonathan Lawrence, as persons qualified for that service.

We are pleased to find there has been an order passed in our favour for fifty thousand dollars, and heartily wish the money here, as we have many pressing calls, and not a farthing to satisfy them. We earnestly entreat your utmost endeavours to have it forwarded to us as soon as possible.

The five hundred pounds of powder sent to the fort in the Highlands, was a very seasonable supply, as that pass would have remained in an almost defenceless state without it. This Colony is so destitute of powder, that we are obliged to take the liberty of desiring you to be extremely pressing in Congress for the repayment of the debt due to us in that article.

Yours of the 3d instant we shall duly notice as soon as we have expedited the many very pressing matters which have grown on our hands by occasion of our not being a body sufficient to do business for so long a time.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants.

To the New-York Delegates in Continental Congress.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

Captain John McNachten, who arrived last evening from London, being requested by Congress to attend, and attending at the door, was called in and examined; and his examination being reduced to writing, and read to him, he declared it was truly taken, and was thereupon filed.

A Certificate from the Committee of the City of New-York, was read and filed, and is in the words following, to wit:

"Committee Chamber, New-York, December 5, 1775.

"The General Committee hereby recommend William Leary as a suitable person for a Town-Major, and request he may be commissioned accordingly.

"JOHN BROOME, Chairman pro tem.

"To the Honourable the Provincial Congress, in New-York."

Ordered, That a Commission be issued to the said William Leary, as Town-Major of the City of New-York, agreeably to the said recommendation.

A Certificate from the Committee of the City of New-York, was read and filed, and is in the words following, to wit:

"Committee Chamber, New-York, December 5, 1775.

"The General Committee hereby recommend Peter Pra Van Zandt for first Major, and Patrick Welsch Adjutant to the said regiment of militia, and request they may be commissioned accordingly.

"JOHN BROOME, Chairman pro tem.

"To the Honourable the Provincial Congress in New-York."

Ordered, That Commissions be issued to those gentlemen accordingly.

Colonel McDougall informed the Congress that one Speight, a druggist, who formerly lived in this city, and returned here last evening from London, and had in many instances shown himself inimical to the interest and liberties of the American Colonies, was last evening apprehended by some of the militia officers; that he had thought it his duty to have him confined at the Guard-house, until he should have the orders of this Congress; that a number of letters which had been taken in custody of the said Speight, had been sealed up in a wrapper in presence of the said Speight, and were now delivered into the Congress for their order.

Thereupon, Ordered, That Mr. Scott, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Gilbert Livingston, be a Committee to open, examine, and inspect all the said Letters, and report such of them to this Congress as they shall find relating to publick matters, or necessary to be read by this Congress.

A Petition of the General Committee of the City and County of New-York, was read and filed, and is in the words following, to wit:

"To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Province of NEW-YORK.

"The Petition of the General Committee for the City and County of NEW-YORK humbly sheweth:

"That your Petitioners having been informed that a body of troops, from a neighbouring Colony, did lately make their publick entry into this city at noon-day, and did seize and carry off the types belonging to one of the publick printers of this Colony, without any authority from the Continental or this Congress, your Petitioners, or any other body having power to grant such authority; and being apprehensive that such incursions, should they be repeated, will be productive of many great and evil consequences to the inhabitants of such place into which they may be hereafter made, do therefore conceive it highly necessary, in the present situation of publick affairs, as well for the sake of the internal peace and harmony of each Colony, as for the maintenance of the general union of the Continent, now happily subsisting and so essential at this juncture, that each of the associated Colonies on the Continent should have the sole management and regulation of its publick matters by its Congress or Committee, unless otherwise directed by the honourable the Continental Congress.*

"Your Petitioners therefore do most humbly pray that this honourable House of Delegates would be pleased to take the premises into their consideration, and devise some expedient to prevent, for the future, the inhabitants of any of the neighbouring Colonies coming into this, to direct the publick affairs of it, or to destroy the property or invade the liberty of its inhabitants, without the direction of the Continental or this Congress, or the Committee of Safety, or the Committee of the County into which such inhabitants may come, or of the Continental Generals, unless there should be an invasion made into this Colony.

"And your Petitioners shall forever pray, &c.

"By order of the Committee:

"JOHN BROOME, Chairman pro tem."

The said Petition was taken into consideration, and debates arose thereon; and after some time spent thereon, Ordered, That Mr. Scott, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Thomas Smith, Mr. Gansevoort, and Mr. Brasher, be a Committee to take the said Petition into consideration, and report thereon with all convenient speed.

It being represented to the Congress that Mr. John Berrien, Commissary for the Commissioners for erecting the Fortifications in the Highlands, and one of the said Commissioners, is entirely disinterested in any controversies or difficulties that have arisen or subsisted between the other Commissioners and the Engineer, and at the same time well acquainted therewith; that the said John Berrien has also some influence with the other Commissioners, and with the Engineer, and is properly qualified to assist the Committee appointed to go up to the said Fortifications, to take examinations, and reduce them to writing if necessary. Therefore,

[* James Rivington.]

Ordered, That Mr. John Berrien be requested to proceed with the Committee of this Congress, appointed for that purpose, to the said Fortifications in the Highlands, to assist the said Committee in taking examinations, and in every other matter relating to the said Fortifications, in which they may need his aid and assistance, or find it useful.

Colonel McDougall informed the Congress, that Mr. Bernard Romans is in want of cash, and requests an order for a month's pay.

Ordered, That Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq., as Treasurer of this Congress, advance to Bernard Romans, the sum of fifty dollars, on account of his pay, and take his receipt for the same.

The Congress then adjourned to three o'clock, this afternoon.

Die Veneris, 3 ho. P. M., December 8, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President.

For New-York.—Col. McDougall, Mr. Thomas Smith, Colonel Brasher, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Scott, Mr. John Van Cortlandt, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Ray, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Sands.

Albany.—Colonel Van Rensselaer, Colonel Nicoll, Capt. Cuyler, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Bleeker.

Dutchess County.—Mr. Livingston, Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Schenck.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine.

Goshen Precinct, in Orange County.—Mr. Clowes.

Suffolk County.—Mr. L'Hommiedieu, Mr. Strong, Mr. Hobart.

Westchester.—Colonel L. Graham, Colonel Joseph Drake, Colonel Gilbert Drake.

King's County.—Mr. Leffertse, Mr. Vanderbilt.

Ordered, That Doctor John Jones and Doctor Treat be requested to make out with all convenient speed, a list or estimate of Instruments and Medicines necessary for the Colony in its present alarming state, and report the same to this Congress.

Mr. Hobart, from the Committee to examine the Treasurer's Accounts, and to state the sums paid to the Continental Troops by this Congress, that the Account may be sent to General Schuyler, proceeded to report the sums paid by this Congress to the Continental Troops. After having proceeded through a considerable part of the said Accounts, Ordered, That they be recommitted to the same Committee to state, and finish the same, and prepare a draft of a Letter to General Schuyler to attend the said Accounts.

Mr. Thomas Smith moved, and was seconded by Mr. James Beekman, that this Congress immediately take into consideration his Excellency Governor Tryon's Letter of the 4th instant, addressed to the inhabitants of this Colony, and express the sense of their constituents by the following Resolves, viz:

Resolved, first, That the disturbed state of this Colony owes its origin to the misconduct of the Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's Forces in America, in proceeding to acts of open hostility against the inhabitants of the Massachusetts-Bay, at a time when he and all the other Governors on the Continent were possessed of the Parliamentary Resolution of the 20th February last, and before the same had been tendered for the consideration of the Colonies; that as that resolution was designed "to compose the present ferment in the Provinces, and intended for the basis of an accommodation" it was but reasonable to expect that all hostilities would cease, till the result of their determinations were known; that the news of the attack at Lexington immediately threw this Colony into convulsions, inflamed the minds of the inhabitants, led them to distrust the justice and candour of Government, and filled them with alarming apprehensions, that it was the design of Administration to force their assent to a requisition of the last importance to them and their posterity, with the point of the bayonet; that the inhabitants of this Colony considered General Gage's conduct in this instance as not only reflecting the highest dishonour on Government, and injurious to the character of the British nation, but highly insulting and disgraceful to a free people, and, therefore, justly alarmed and incensed by the slaughter of their fellow-subjects, they naturally fled to arms for their defence.

Resolved, secondly, That the inhabitants of this Colony justly boast the most unshaken loyalty to their Sovereign, the warmest attachment to the succession of the Crown in the illustrious House of Hanover, the highest veneration for the principles of the Revolution, the most tender affection for their brethren in Great Britain and Ireland, and an ardent desire to maintain the ancient union of the two countries on constitutional principles, notwithstanding the unexampled severities of the present Administration; that, retaining the principle of their ancestors, that allegiance and protection are so inseparably connected that the former cannot exist where the latter is withheld, if any thing has appeared in the conduct of any that would countenance a charge of withholding their allegiance from their Sovereign, it must be attributed to an apprehension that all protection was withdrawn from them; that when the present unhappy controversy is settled on equitable principles, which is the sincere wish of every good man, His Majesty will find his American subjects as ready to afford him every mark of their affection and loyalty as they manifested before the commencement of the present troubles, unless, by the long continuance of this unnatural war, their affection should be stifled by acts of oppression, and drowned in blood.

Resolved, thirdly, That this Congress conceive it highly necessary and expedient that His Majesty should know the sense of this Colony on the Parliamentary Resolution of the 24th February, in such a way as his Excellency may conceive to be most constitutional, and they cannot but consider the Governour's address to the inhabitants, as a mark of his affection to them, and as proceeding from an anxious desire for a re-establishment of that harmony that has been so long interrupted by the misrepresentations and artifices of evil and designing men.

Resolved, fourthly, That this Congress cannot but express their concern that his Excellency has thought it expedient for his personal safety to withdraw for some time past from the usual place of his residence; that should he think proper to return to this city, which is the sincere wish of the people, this Congress conceive it to be the bounden duty of the inhabitants to protect him both in his person and property.

After many debates on the said motion, and the Resolutions thereto annexed, in pursuance of one of the rules of this Congress, at the request of the Members of Albany, Ulster, and Dutchess Counties, Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed till next Monday.

The Committee appointed to open and examine all the Letters taken from Speight, reported, that they had opened and examined all the said Letters; that they are of opinion, that only two of the said Letters contain any such publick intelligence as that they should be read in Congress, to wit: A Letter from Colonel Maunsell to Peter Van Schaack, and a Letter from Miles Cooper to Doctor Auchmuty. Each of the said Letters were accordingly read.

Ordered, That the Secretaries take a copy of the said Letter from Colonel Maunsell to Mr. Van Schaack, and a copy of the Letter from Miles Cooper to Doctor Auchmuty; and that all the other Letters be sealed by the said Committee who examined them, and put them in such way that they may be forwarded agreeably to their respective directions.

The Congress adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Die Sabbati, 10 ho. A. M., December 9, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President.

For New-York.—Colonel McDougall, Mr. Thomas Smith, Colonel Brasher, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ray, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Sands, Mr. Scott.

Albany.—Colonel Nicoll, Colonel Rensselaer, Captain Cuyler, Mr. Bleecker, Mr. Gansevoort.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Schenck, Mr. Gilbert Livingston.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine.

Goshen, Orange County.—Mr. Clowes.

Suffolk.—Mr. Woodhull, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Strong.

Westchester.—Colonel L. Graham, Colonel Joseph Drake, Colonel Gilbert Drake.

King's.—Mr. Leftertse, Mr. Vanderbilt.

Ordered, That Mr. Vanderbilt be added to the Committee for examining the Accounts of the Treasurer of this Congress, instead of Mr. Palmer, who is one of the Committee ordered to go up to the new Fortifications in the Highlands.

A draft of a Letter to General Schuyler was read, and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

"In Provincial Congress, New-York, December 9, 1775.

SIR: Your favours of the 7th, 18th, and 20th November, came duly to hand, but our not being able to form a Congress till the 6th inst., has occasioned their remaining so long unanswered.

Herewith you have enclosed an account of the moneys advanced by us for the payment of the Continental troops. We have frequent applications from discharged soldiers for arrears of pay. As nothing is mentioned about it in their discharges, we are at a loss how to conduct towards them. We beg you will please to give directions to the proper officers to prevent this inconvenience for the future.

We receive with very great satisfaction your congratulations on the glorious success of the Continental Army in Canada; and we can assure you, that it is much heightened by the consideration, that we recommended the Generals who have with so much activity and success conducted an expedition which was attended with difficulties thought to be insuperable by those who were acquainted with them.

We have the honour to be, with very great respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servants.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

Mr. Thomas Smith moved, and was seconded by Mr. Leffertse, in the words following to wit:

I move that a Committee be appointed to draft a Letter to our Delegates, stating the present situation of this Colony, and the sense of this Congress on the measures necessary to be taken in the present alarming state of our publick affairs.

And the same being agreed, nem. con.,

Ordered, That Mr. Scott, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Thomas Smith, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Brasher, and Mr. Gilbert Livingston, be a Committee for that purpose, and that they report with all convenient speed.

Mr. James Beekman has leave of absence for the residue of this day.

A draft of a Letter to the Delegates of this Colony at Continental Congress was read, and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

New-York, December 9, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It must appear very obvious to you, that this Colony will require a fund to defray such expenses as have arisen, or may be incurred on its particular account. The last Congress, attentive to this, resolved to emit the sum of forty-five thousand pounds for that purpose. The bills are now ready for signing, but this Congress are apprehensive that the great variety of paper emissions now in circulation with the addition of such others as may be emitted, may endanger a depreciation, or prevent so extensive a circulation as may be necessary to answer the ends for which they were intended.

Those evils, they think, will be prevented by making all paper money to be issued for the defence of America, whether general or particular, Continental currency. They, therefore, request you to take the sense of Congress, whether they will lend this Colony the sum above-mentioned, for the sinking of which they are ready to engage the Colony. As this money is immediately wanted, and as our bills are ready for signing, we beg you to obtain the determination of the Congress on this matter as speedily as possible, and transmit it to us.

We are, with great truth and regard, your very humble servants. By order of the Congress.

To the Delegates for the Colony of New-York in Congress, at Philadelphia.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

Resolved, That Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq., as Treasurer of the Congress of this Colony, be requested to enter in Bond to Nathaniel Woodhull, John Vanderbilt, Isaac Roosevelt, Jacob Cuyler, and Robert Van Rensselaer, Esqrs., in the sum of twenty thousand Pounds, New-York money, with such security as those gentleman shall approve of, with a condition faithfully to execute the said office of Treasurer, and to render accounts of all moneys by him received, when thereunto required.

And Resolved, That one hundred and fifty Pounds per annum, and at the same rate for any longer or shorter time, be allowed to him as a Salary for his trouble in executing the office of Treasurer, to be computed from the 8th day of July last, on which he was first appointed Treasurer.

A draft of a Letter to the Committee of Tryon County was read and approved of, and is in the words following, to wit:

In Provincial Congress, New-York, December 9, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Congress have this day entered into the consideration of your letter of 28th October, and are of opinion that your application to Sir John Johnson, requesting an answer from him whether he would allow his tenants to form themselves into companies and associate with their brethren of your County, according to the resolves of the Continental Congress, for the defence of our liberties, was improper with respect to him, and too condescending on your parts, as it was a matter that came properly within your province, and to which we doubt not but you are competent, as you have a line of conduct prescribed to you by Congress. With respect to your second question to him, whether he would take any active part in the controversy at present subsisting between Great Britain and her Colonies, we conceive to be very proper, and thank you for your information on that head. As to the third question, we conceive that he can claim no title to the Court-house and Jail in your County, as we are credibly told that his father, Sir William Johnson, did, in his life time, convey the same to two gentlemen in trust for the use of your County; however, as an attempt to use the same for the purpose of confining persons inimical to our country may be productive of bad consequences, we beg leave to recommend to you to procure some other place which may answer the end of a Jail, and give you our advice not to molest Sir John as long as he shall continue inactive, and not impede the measures necessary to be carried into execution from being completed.

We are extremely sorry that Mr. White has, by his imprudent conduct, rendered himself justly obnoxious to you. The best advice we can give you in this unhappy affair is, that if you are of opinion that his exercising his office will be dangerous to your liberties and security, that you permit the office to be exercised by his Deputy, and that you draw up a petition, get as many persons of your County to sign it as possible, and present it to the Governour of this Colony, setting forth that it is very disagreeable to the people in general that he should execute that office, and praying that he may be displaced, and his place supplied by a person who would be acceptable to the people of your County.

We are, most respectfully, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servants,

To Nicholas Herkimer, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Tryon County.

P. S. The credentials from your County for Mr. Moore are not yet arrived, though several letters have been forwarded to you for that purpose.

Ordered, That a copy thereof be engrossed, and signed by the President, and transmitted.

Resolved and ordered, That Messrs. Jacobus Van Zandt, John Vanderbilt, and Comfort Sands, be a Committee to plan a voyage or voyages for at least two or more Vessels, to be laded and sent out on account of the Congress of this Colony, and for the benefit of this Colony, to procure Ammunition, Arms, and such other articles as will be necessary for the general defence of this Colony; and to procure proper Vessels for that purpose; and that the said Committee report such plan or plans as they shall think proper or propose, with all convenient speed.

The day being far advanced, the Congress adjourned till Monday next, at ten o'clock, A. M.

Die Lunæ, 10 ho. A. M., December 11, 1775.

The following gentlemen met pursuant to adjournment:

Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President.

For New-York.—Colonel McDougall, Colonel Brasher, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hallett, Mr. Scott, Mr. Ray, Mr. Sands.

Albany.—Colonel Rensselaer, Mr. Cuyler, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Bleecker.

Dutchess.—Mr. G. Livingston.

Ulster.—Mr. Wynkoop, Mr. Cantine.

Westchester.—Colonel L. Graham, Colonel G. Drake.

Suffolk.—Colonel Woodhull, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Wickham,

Mr. David Gilston.

Tryon.—Mr. John Moore.

Benjamin Lindsay, attending at the door, in obedience to the Order of the late Provincial Congress, when he obtained permission to lade his last Cargo for Rhode-Island, sent in a Certificate of Governour Cooke, in the words and figures following, to wit:

"Providence, December 4, 1775.

"This may certify that Captain Benjamin Lindsay has imported and landed in Providence, one hundred and twelve barrels of Flour, it being the whole quantity that he brought from New-York in the sloop Fly.

"NICHOLAS COOKE, Governour."

Benjamin Lindsay also produced a Certificate from Governour Cooke, under the seal of the Colony of Rhode-Island, requesting a further supply of Provisions; and he was directed to apply therewith to the General Committee of the City of New-York.

The Members of King's County, and two Members of Dutchess County, being, by the violence of the wind, detained on Long-Island, and without them, or some of them, there is not a sufficient number of Members to form a Congress,

The Members present adjourned to three o'clock.

3 ho. P. M., December 11, 1775.

The gentlemen above named, who attended this morning, attended again this afternoon, together with Mr. Schenck, for Dutchess County; but for want of another Member for Dutchess, or a Representation for King's County, they could not proceed to any material business which required a full representation.

Mr. Elias Nixon, lately returned from Boston, by request attending at the door, was called in, and his information reduced to writing, and filed.

The gentlemen present then adjourned till ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Die Martis, 10 ho. A. M., December 12, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President.

For New-York.—Thomas Smith, Colonel Brasher, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ray, Mr. Rutgers, Mr. Sands, Mr. Scott, Colonel McDougall.

Albany.—Col. Rensselaer, Captain Cuyler, Mr. Bleecker, Mr. Gansevoort.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Schenck, Mr. G. Livingston.

Ulster.—Mr. Cantine, Mr. Wynkoop.

Orange.—Mr. Clowes, Mr. Herring.

Suffolk.—Mr. Woodhull, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Strong, Mr. Wickham.

Westchester.—Colonel L. Graham, Colonel G. Drake, Mr. Stephen Ward.

King's.—Mr. Leffertse, Mr. Vanderbilt.

Tryon.—Mr. Moore.

John Herring, Esq., one of the Deputies for Orange County, produced a Certificate of Thomas Outwater, Esq., Chairman of the County Committee;* whereby it is certified that at a meeting of the freeholders of the Town of Orange, in Orange County, at the house of Mr. Jost Mabee, on the 9th day of December, 1775, it was resolved, that John Herring, Peter Clowes, William Allison, Ann Hawke Hay, Theunis Cuyper, and Jeremiah Clarke, Esquires, or any two or more of them be, and are fully authorized to represent the said County of Orange in Provincial Congress of this Colony, now convened in the City of New-York.

The same being read and approved, was ordered to be filed; and ordered that Mr. Herring take his seat.

And the Congress being well informed that the two other Precincts in Orange County have elected the same Members, and agreed that any two Members shall represent the County, and that the returns will speedily be sent into Congress, Ordered and agreed, That Mr. Clowes and Mr. Herring represent Orange County, and be received to give the vote of the County.

Mr. John Moore, the Deputy for Tryon County, pro-

* These are to certify, that at a meeting of the freeholders of the Town of Orange, in Orange County, at the house of Mr. Joseph Mabee, the 9th day of December, 1775, it was resolved that John Herring, Peter Clowes, William Allison, Ann Hawke Hay, Theunis Cuyper, and Jeremiah Clarke, Esquires, or any two or more of them, be and are fully authorized and empowered to represent the said County of Orange in Provincial Congress of this Colony now convened in the City of New-York. By order:

THOMAS OUTWATER, Chairman.

duced a Letter from the Committee of Tryon County, bearing date the 7th November last, and signed by Ebenezer Cox, Chairman pro tempore,* whereby it appears that they had elected two Delegates to represent their County in this Congress; that by a majority of the votes of the freeholders assembled, the said John Moore and Isaac Paris were elected; and the said Letter also directs him to lay sundry matters before this Congress, whereby it appears to Congress that it is the design of the County that Mr. Moore should represent that County until another Member arrives.

Ordered, That the said Letter be filed, and that Mr. Moore take his seat and be received to represent Tryon County.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of the General Committee of the City and County of New-York, reported it as their opinion, that a Letter should be written to the Governour of the Colony of Connecticut on the subject-matter of the said Petition, and they reported a draft of such Letter; which was read.

And the question being asked, whether the Congress will receive the said report, in was agreed to be received, and by order was read a second time.

And many debates arose thereon, and amendments made and debated on, until the morning is so far elapsed, that the further consideration thereof is ordered to be deferred till the afternoon.

Mr. Van Zandt, from the Committee appointed to plan a voyage or voyages for two or more Vessels, in order to procure Ammunition and other necessities, reported a plan of a voyage for three Vessels to Europe.

The same was read, and after some debates thereon, the same was recommitted to the same Committee for reconsideration and amendments.

The Congress then adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Die Martis, 3 ho. P. M., December 12, 1775.

The Congress met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Colonel Nathaniel Woodhull, Esq., President.

For New-York.—Colonel McDougall, Colonel Brasher, Mr. Scott, Mr. Thomas Smith, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ray, Mr. Sands, Captain Rutgers, Mr. Van Zandt.

Albany.—Colonel Rensselaer, Captain Cuyler, Mr. Gansevoort, Mr. Bleecker.

Dutchess.—Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Schenck, Mr. Gilbert Livingston.

Suffolk.—Colonel Woodhull, Mr. Strong, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Wickham, Mr. Gilston.

Ulster.—Mr. Wynkoop, Mr. Cantine.

Westchester.—Colonel Gilbert Drake, Colonel Lewis Graham, Mr. Ward.

Orange.—Mr. Clowes, Mr. Herring.

Tryon.—Mr. John Moore.

King's.—Mr. Leffertse, Mr. Vanderbilt.

The Congress resumed the consideration of the draft of the Letter to the Governour of the Colony of Connecticut, which was reported in the morning by the Committee appointed to consider the Petition from the City of New-York.

* TRYON COUNTY COMMITTEE CHAMBER, November 7, 1775.—SIR: In conformity to your last letters, of the 18th and 19th of October last, we voted at this, our Assembly, two new Delegates for our Provincial Congress, thinking them sufficient in number to represent these our County; but by majority of the votes of the freeholders assembled, the choice fell again upon your person to remain in that office, being hitherto well contented with your service. And with you, Isaac Paris was chosen as another member on that purpose. We shall be not oblivious to satisfy your request in regard to your stay at New-York. Please to despatch us the commissions for our Militia, and to procure us answers from the Congress concerning our voting of a sheriff, and the dangerous crew in and about Johnstown, who, under the authority of Sir John Johnson, increase and behave actually in opposition, to make use of our County Jail for our wants. The Indian, William Johnson, is again here, in the Canajoharie castle, and brags very boldly of his hostile acts; publicly dameth the Committee, and threatened them to kill every member, and also to burn and destroy the settlements along the Mohawk river and its neighbourhood, yet before the fall. Pray lay these before the honourable Congress, and procure us with speed their opinions or orders about those dangerous circumstances. You will thereby oblige the whole County, and in particular, sir, your friends and humble servants. By order of the Committee:

EBENEZER COX, Chairman, P. T.

Mr. John Moore.

P. S. As the Congress is dissolved, we shall have soon a new election of Committee for our County. Please, therefore, immediately to send up your account of your demand against the Committee, if you have any, to settle and examine the same before our dissolution.

After some time spent therein, and many amendments made thereto, the same was again read, and is in the words following, to wit :

In Provincial Congress, New-York, Dec. 12, 1775.

SIR: It gives us concern that we are under the necessity of addressing you, on a subject that has given great discontent to the inhabitants of the City and County of New-York. We are informed by a petition from the General Committee, that a body of troops from your Colony, lately made a publick entry into this city at noonday, and seized and carried off the types belonging to one of the publick printers, without any authority from the Continental or this Congress, or their Committee. While we consider this conduct as an insult offered to this Colony, we are disposed to attribute it to an imprudent, though well intended, zeal for the publick cause, and cannot entertain the most distant thought that your Colony will approve of the measure. It is unnecessary to use arguments to show the impropriety of a proceeding that has a manifest tendency to interrupt that harmony and union which at present happily subsists throughout, and is so essential to the interest of the whole, Continent. It is our earnest desire, that you would take the most effectual steps to prevent any of the people of your Colony from entering into this for the like purposes, unless invited by our Provincial Congress, a Committee of Safety, or the General Committee of one of our Counties, as we cannot but consider such intrusions as an invasion of our essential rights as a distinct Colony; and common justice obliges us to request that you would give orders that all the types be returned to the Chairman of the General Committee of the City and County of New-York. We believe you will not consider this requisition as an attempt to justify the man from whom the types were taken. We are fully sensible of his demerits; but we earnestly wish that the glory of the present contest for liberty may not be sullied by an attempt to restrain the freedom of the Press.

The same body of troops, we are informed, seized the Mayor of the Borough of Westchester, the Rector of that Parish, and one of the Justices of the County, and carried them to your Colony. Mr. Seabury, we are informed, is still detained. If such should be the case, we must entreat your friendly interposition for his immediate discharge; the more especially as, considering his ecclesiastick character, (which, perhaps, is venerated by many friends to liberty,) the severity that has been used towards him may be subject to misconstructions prejudicial to the common cause.

And the more effectually to restrain such incursions, which, if repeated, may be productive of mischief of the most serious consequence, and as we would be exceedingly sorry to give room for jealousies among individuals in your Colony that we are desirous to damp the spirit of liberty, or countenance any of its enemies among us, we propose to apply to the Continental Congress, not by way of complaint, but for such a general regulation on this subject as may as well prevent such jealousies as any future incursions by the inhabitants of either Colony into the other for the apprehending or punishing any enemy or supposed enemy to the cause of liberty, without application to the Congress, the Committee of Safety, or the Committee of the County, within the jurisdiction of which such person shall reside, or command of the Continental Congress.

We are sir, with the utmost respect and esteem, your most obedient servants.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

And debates arising on the said Letter, as now amended, and the question being asked, whether the said Letter is approved of, and shall be ordered to be engrossed and sent, it was carried in the affirmative, in manner following :

For the Letter's being engrossed and sent to Governour Trumbull.

Ordered therefore, That the said Letter be engrossed
FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

and signed by the President, so as to be ready to be transmitted when directed.

Mr. Hobart informed the Congress, that the Chairman of the Committee of Huntington reported, that the Captain of the Second Company of the First Regiment, was promoted to a Majority, and that the following gentlemen were thereupon elected Officers of that Company, to wit: Jonathan Titus, Captain; Joshua Rogers, First Lieutenant; and Thomas Brush, Second Lieutenant: And that the Chairman of the said Committee of Huntington, reported, that the Captain of the Third Company of the said Third Regiment had resigned, and that the following gentlemen were elected, to wit: Joel Scudder, Captain; Nathaniel Buffett, First Lieutenant; Epenetus Smith, Second Lieutenant; John Hart, Ensign.

Ordered, That Commissions be issued to those gentlemen, in the order above named.

Colonel Hay, from Haverstraw Precinct, in Orange County, produced a Certificate of the Joint Committee of Orangetown and Haverstraw, signed by Thomas Outwater, their Chairman, and dated the 7th instant; which being read, is to the following effect :

"Orange County.

"At a meeting of the freeholders and inhabitants of the Precinct of Haverstraw, the 7th day of November, ultimo; and also at a meeting of the freeholders and inhabitants of Orangetown the same day, and by several adjournments after in Orangetown, the following persons were chosen to represent the South part of the said County in particular, and the said County in general, in Provincial Congress of this Colony: In the Precinct of Haverstraw, Colonel A. Hawkes Hay and Theunis Cuyper, Esqrs., and in Orange town, John Herring, Esq., and that any one of the said Deputies shall represent the south side of the mountains in the said County in particular; and that any two of the six Deputies chosen in the said County, to represent the said County in general. That in pursuance thereof, the Joint Committee of the towns of Orange and Haverstraw, do certify that Return to be a sufficient voucher for the said Deputies as they may severally attend at this Provincial Congress."

The same was read and approved of, and ordered to be filed; and ordered that Colonel Hay take his seat.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Thanks of this Congress be, and they are hereby given, to those of the inhabitants of the Colony of Connecticut? who so cheerfully gave their aid at the request of the Committee of Westchester County, in the late suppression of the Insurgents in that County, against the cause of liberty.

Mr. Scott then moved, and was seconded by Mr. Hobart, that the Congress enter into, and add a Resolution, in the words following, to wit:

And whereas, considering the situation of some of the Counties in this Colony, aid for the like purposes may often be most conveniently had from a neighbouring Colony, or a distant County within this Colony; that the power heretofore given to Committees, for calling in the assistance of a neighbouring County, be extended so far as to enable the County Committees respectively to apply for assistance from a neighbouring Colony, or any County within this Colony.

Debates arose on the said motion, and the question being put, whether the Congress will add such Resolution to the next preceding, it was carried in the affirmative, in the manner following, to wit:

For the Affirmative.

2 Westchester.
2 Dutchess.
3 Albany.
2 Suffolk.
2 Tryon.
4 New-York.—Mr. Thos. Smith and
2 Orange. Roosevelt, dissenting.
2 Ulster.

For the Negative.

2 King's County.

19 votes.

Ordered, therefore, That a Resolution be entered, in the words following, to wit: And whereas, considering the situation of some of the Counties in this Colony, aid for the like purposes may often most conveniently be had from a neighbouring Colony, or a distant County within this Colony:

Resolved, That the power heretofore given to Committees for calling in the assistance of a neighbouring County, be extended so far as to enable the County Committees, respectively, to apply for assistance to a neighbouring Colony, or any County within this Colony.

Major Brush, from Huntington, was admitted, and gave some information of reports of the disaffection of sundry people in Queen's County, and of a suspicion that they had about inlisting Negroes.

A Letter from the Committee of Dutchess County, dated the 5th instant, was read and filed, and is in the words following, to wit :

Poughkeepsie, December 5, 1775.

"GENTLEMEN : Some few days past three men were committed to jail, in consequence of an order from the General Committee of Dutchess County, on a charge of having aided and assisted Peter Harris in inlisting men for the Ministerial army. The Committee of Poughkeepsie Precinct having reason to believe that some further discovery might be made of the pernicious scheme carrying on in this County against the friends of American liberty, as well to procure further evidences against said prisoners, the Chairman issued citations for a number of persons to appear before said Committee the 4th instant, on which day most of them appeared, and Mr. Justice Ellis being called in to qualify them, three persons, whom the Committee deemed the most material witnesses, refused to be sworn, and contemned the authority of the Committee, saying they had taken good counsel so to do.

"And the Committee being of opinion that there are several very officious Ministerial agents in this County, who have corrupted the minds of many of the ignorant and baser sort of men among us, maliciously telling them the Whigs were in rebellion, the King would conquer them, and their estates be forfeited; and, if they take up arms against them, the King, for their services, will give them the Whigs' possessions : The Committee taking these matters into consideration, and being of opinion that the denial of their authority is of the last importance, and it not being clear that any particular rule is pointed out by Congress, think it expedient to solicit their advice in the premises.
